Council Reviewing Teachers' Program

Representatives of the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education visited the GSC campus on Dec. 11 and 12 for the purpose of reviewing the progress made in teacher education programs since 1964, the time of the last evaluation by the accrediting agency.

The representatives were Dr. Margaret Felsinger, Professor of Elementary Education at Ohio University, and Dr. Robert C. Gibson, Chairman, Department of Education, George Mason College of the University of Virginia. Both were members of the Committee which evaluated the GSC programs in 1964.

The visiting committee will report to the National Council which will consider the accreditation status of the Glenville State College teacher education programs in April. Several other colleges and universities in West Virginia as well as nationwide have been visited this year.

The visitation and evaluation of teacher education programs by the Council is a continuous process. The 1969-70 Report of the Council lists Glenville State College as being accredited. Dean Somerville commented, "I have very high hopes that this status will be continued."

Seniors Register For Professional Ed.

Seniors who have been admitted to the Professional Education Semester were to report to their respective advisers during the advising period, Jan. 5-9, for the purpose of planning a schedule.

The student, with the assistance of his adviser, was to plan his schedule and complete the pre-registration form. The adviser was to approve, sign, and keep the form. At the close of the advising period, Jan. 5-9, advisers of students who are enrolling in the Professional Education Semester will forward the trial schedule cards to divisional chairmen who will in turn forward it to Dr. Woodrow Morris. To complete registration, the student will report to Dr. Morris in Clark Hall, Room 102, between the hours of 8 and 11 a.m. on Feb. 6, and will complete the permanent registration form and have it approved by Dr. Morris. The final step is to report to the Registrar in the Ballroom to complete registration.

The Paul Winter Consort will perform Friday evening in concert in the GSC Auditorium.

National Teacher Exams To Be Administered Here

Glenville State College has been designated as a test center for administering the National Teacher Examinations on April 4, 1970, K.L. Kinder, Director of Guidance and Counseling, announced today.

College seniors preparing to teach and teachers applying for positions in school systems which encourage or require applicants to submit their scores on the National Teacher Examinations along with their other credentials are eligible to take the tests. Last year, more than 107,000 candidates took the examinations, which are prepared and administered by Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N. J.

The designation of Glenville State College as a test center for these examinations will give prospective teachers in this area an opportunity to compare their performance on the examinations with candidates throughout the country who take the tests, Mr. Kinder said.

At the one-day session a candidate may take the Common Examinations, which include tests in Professional Education and General Education, and one of the 17 Teaching Area Examinations, which are designed to evaluate his understanding of the subject matter and methods applicable to the area he may be assigned to teach.

Bulletins of Information describing registration procedures and containing Registration Forms may be obtained from K.L. Kinder, Glenville State College, Glenville, W. Va., or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, Box 911, Princeton, New Jersey 08540. Prospective teachers planning to take the tests should obtain their Bulletins of Information promptly, Mr. Kinder advised.

Booster influenza vaccine will be available at the clinic during the week of Jan. 12-16 between the hours of 10:30 a.m.-4 p.m.

Education Class Required For All Future Teachers

In the second semester of 1969-70, all freshmen at Glenville State College who are preparing to become teachers are to be enrolled in Education 100—Orientation to Teacher Education. This program will operate one time each week for fifty minutes for the first seven weeks of the semester. These group sessions will be directed by the members of the Division of Education and Psychology. Since this program is of such

Paul Winter Consort Slated For Jan. 15 In Auditorium

On Friday, Jan. 15, the Convocation-Lyceum series will present the Paul Winter Contemporary Consort in the college auditorium. This Consort is a group of young musicians who are developing an original idiom of music, a unique synthesis of symphonic orchestration, folk music, and jazz. The seven-piece Consort includes an alto saxophone, cello, an English horn, an alto flute, classical and 12-string guitar, bass, and a variety of folk percussion centering on a set of seven tuned Brazilian drums.

The music of the Consort derives from the whole scope of the musical experience of Winter and his musicians: classical music known for symphonic playing; the jazz experience of the several years of Winter's first Sextet; folk music learned in 25 countries visited during State Department tours and from work with Peter, Paul and Mary; and from the music of Brazil, known from four trips to that country.

The group is a contemporary model of the Renaissance Consort, one of the earliest instrumental groups. The name "Consort" meant a "family" of instruments, and the ideal of the Renaissance Consorts was to achieve a homogeneous blend among all the instruments. Only the warm, human-sounding woodwind, strings, and percussion were used. The Winter Consort is based on this same ideal, using instruments of our day, making music for our times.

In this dedication to creating particular sounds, the group has found among various folk cultures vital sounds which work well with the Consort, and they use several auxiliary instruments including the African Thump-piano (Kalimba), the Israeli Jar-drum (Darbuka), and Chalil (folk flute), folk guitars, the Renaissance Racket (an ancient double-ended instrument), and many percussion instruments from Africa, Brazil, and India.

A major influence in the Consort's musical viewpoint has come from Bartok, Villa-Lobos, Charles Ives and Carl Orff and their concepts of integrating folk music with classical composing. Intense rhythm and emotion are primary elements in the Consort's new music. Improvising is highly important in the music, but the group is concerned to maintain a balance between order and spontaneity, between the writing and the improvisation.

The Consort's repertoire is broad, including Blues, Bach Cantatas, folk pieces (particularly from Africa, Brazil, Bulgaria, Israel, Spain, Russia, and

Variety Of Events Will Be Featured In Fine Arts Week

March 8-14 has been designated as Fine Arts Week at GSC. Among the events of this week of cultural activities will be concerts, plays, recitals, and a state art show.

The first performance will be on Monday, March 9, at 8 p.m. Featured will be Clarksburg-born operatic soprano, Phyllis Curtin, who is currently with the New York Metropolitan Opera. Admission to this performance will be by reservation only because of the limited seating in the auditorium. Tickets may be obtained at no cost from Mr. Robert Gainer, Director of Alumni. The Alumni Office is located across the hall from the bookstore in the Pioneer Center.

"The Marriage of Figaro" will be presented by the National Opera Company on Thursday, March 12, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium. Admission will be by student, faculty and staff identification cards or by paying $1 at the door.

Other attractions for the fourth annual observance of Fine Arts Week include a College Band Concert, faculty music recitals, student recitals, the tenth Annual Intercollegiate Art Exhibition, and a play.

WGSC transmitters have been installed in each of the three dormitories on campus.

Club Installs Transmitters

The dream of WGSC came into existence in the fall of 1967. The idea was mentioned by Mr. Ralph Bame, instructor of Physical Science, to a group of interested students. Progress was initiated by Buddy Griffin when he wrote the Communications Commission for information concerning the procedure of establishing a radio station. The idea became a reality when the GSC-Salem football game was broadcast in October, 1969.

Eventually the Radio Club hopes to establish a 10 watt FM radio station. Transmitters have already been installed in the three dormitories of GSC and programs may be tuned in on station 640. Radio Club members include: Ron Roth, Dave Britton, Richard Hill, George Dudding, Buddy Griffin, Ann Starcher and Wesley Snelgrove.

Programs similar to this are in institutions in the nation. Glenville's program was developed to help the students (1) to better understand teaching as a profession, (2) to gain insight into their own personal fitness for teaching and (3) to be given an opportunity to strengthen some of their weaknesses.

All freshmen students enrolled in teacher education who entered college after June 1, 1969, are required to satisfactorily complete Education 100. This activity is to be placed on the student's enrollment card.

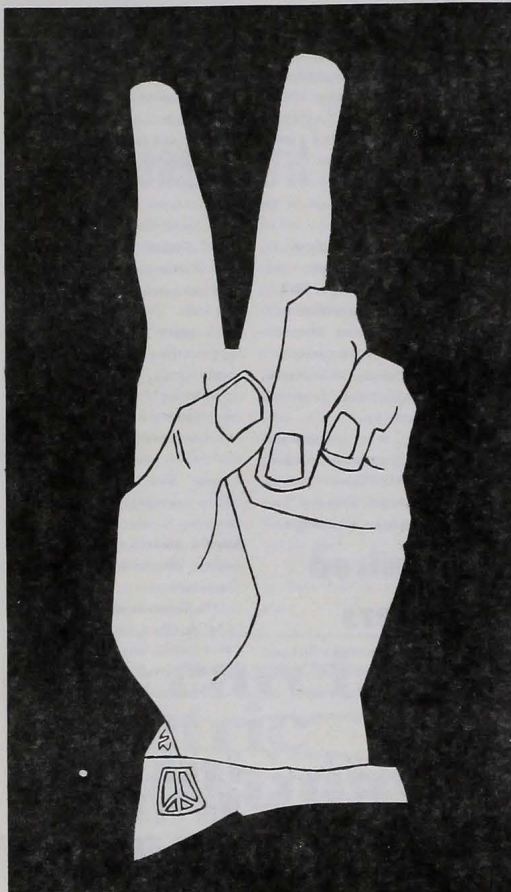

Organizations wishing to have pictures appear in the 1970-71 edition of the Kanawhachen should get in touch with Yearbook Editor, Anne Knapp, or adviser, James Rogers not later than Wednesday, Jan. 21.

Editor Utters Final Message

I've been thinking for some time about what I was going to put in my "farewell editorial." This is my last issue as editor of the Mercury. I didn't want to put in a lot of mushy bunk about how much fun I've had as editor, because it hasn't been fun. Neither has it been all hard work, worry and bother. The people who I want to thank already know who they are and I think they know how much I have appreciated their help. And, the people who haven't been so helpful know who they are, too.

So, for my last editorial, I would like to present a symbol which represents to me the ultimate in all human endeavor, whether it be in journalism, politics, or even everyday life.

My last editorial message? Simply:

That's all I have to say.

Performances of Under Milk Wood were rated "well done."

Under Milk Wood Termed 'Well Done'

by Jayne Beer

Captain Cat is alive and living in Llareggub under the shade of the trees of Milkwood! Under Milk Wood, a play finished by Dylan Thomas one month before his death, can be summarized in one word—Life. Thomas writes with an intimate knowledge of the human race and presents a unique view of each character. The play begins before dawn and moves through a day of everyday life and closes with "the rain of dusk which brings on the bawdy night." It is through the eyes of the salty blind sea-captain, Captain Cat, that we observe much of the life in the world of Llareggub. Though Thomas presents a play full of much bawdy humor, it is not a comedy. Probably a better phrase for the whole performance is "warmly reflective." What transpires on stage is merely a representation of life—and a life neither is happy nor sad. It is life—full of all the wonders available to man—brimming with love and hate, folly and achievement.

The most poignant scene was Captain Cat's dream of his lost love, Rosie Probert. Making her debut on the GSC stage, Anna Phillips portrayed Rosie Probert, a prostitute who had loved only Captain Cat, intensely portrayed by Bill Lewis. As Captain Cat dreams of Rosie, he longs to have her with him. But he will never be with his Rosie again because they are parted by the most irrevocable of forces—death. The desolation of death is shown as Rosie fades away, leaving Captain alone in the agony of a lost love.

In total opposition to this is the comic and delightful scene between Mr. and Mrs. Pugh. Betsy Wingfield, also making her debut on the GSC stage, splendidly portrayed the character of Mrs. Pugh and Ken Coleman, a veteran in the GSC theater, portrayed the henpecked Mr. Pugh, who was formulating a plot to do away with the troublesome Mrs. Pugh. Coleman played hilarious comic figures in all of his characterizations. His facial expressions and gestures were sources of unbounded amusement for the audience.

The most versatile performance of the evening was given by Trava Dotson. Her roles ranged from that of a child through a teenager to a middle-aged widow and culminated in her performance as an 85-year-old woman.

One of the bawdiest of characters was that of Polly Garter, strongly portrayed by Julia Murin. Polly, a girl who just couldn't say no, elicited laughter from the audience because of the earthiness of her speeches, yet her life seemed tragic because her only love had been dead Wee Willy.

This performance, the first dramatic production of the year, was a beautiful contemporary work well presented. Congratulations to the director, Mrs. Judy Curtis, for a job well done.

Holding the assumption that all have been delivered from the holidays, and that each is aware of the advent of a new year that dissolved one decade and realizing, of course that NBC, CBS, ABC and every other "effete corps of impudent snobs," ad hoc S. T. Agnew, who by the way epitomized the "American Dream" in the 1960's by demonstrating that a "no-one" could become a "someone" and do it rather poorly, have evaluated, reviewed, and critiqued the era of the "forgotten American," I feel compelled to look at what we have just been through.

As we enter the "Winter of our Discontent" after emerging from the summer and fall of our discontent, surely the Spring of our Hope can certainly not be far afield.

Optimistically, we jumped head-long into the aura of the "Kennedy Dynasty," yet the Camelotian Theory of American History was abruptly deplored. And greatness sadly was realized only in death, and circumstances from San Francisco to Martha's Vineyard assailed every attempt for a revival of a 'newer world.'

In the midst of the rubble of a New Frontier that we never reached, the 'flock' invaded D.C. and for the benefit of a mighty mass, a Great Society was conceived, yet amid this age of legislative linguistics, two gaps, credibility and generation, rocked Established Establishments.

As the Society Great was mapped, strife again reared its ugly head, and the -Un War- ripped our nation and youth in Asia took its toll.

It was the age of rebellion, from civil disobedience to civil destruction, and the nation was polarized. As the length of hair increased, skirts didn't, and the 'New Morality' was no longer a theory in some book.

The country mourned a fallen King, shortly to be followed by a stricken Prince, irreversible, and blood again stained the apple pie.

A new language flowered from the mouths of children, and the march was "turned-on." You were a 'freak' if you told it like it was, so some people didn't. And we heard of a new people; they were catalogued "The Great Silent Majority," yet there were those whose contention was that the Majority wasn't silent, but the Administration was just hard of hearing.

We looked alive with a sparkle of hope to the Democratic Thing during the convulsion of Chicago, after being rightly disappointed and wrongly tricked during the snore of Miami.

And the nation decided it could stand pat for four and maybe eight years, and just to show that he wasn't a sore two-time loser, Richard Milhous Nixon drove his 1959 Edsel down the right hand side of Pennsylvania Avenue, just for 'kicks' i.e., Defeated Candidates press conference California 1962.

We lost Monroe, gained Mailer, the Mets, Jets, and the Moon and Lindsay lived. Wallace showed his snow white teeth and for once proved that his bark was worse than his bite.

And now to the unsure Seventies, and the reminder that one decade hence, 1984 is just one Presidential Election away.

The Great Speckled Bird flies under milkwood. PAX.

Concerned Student Realizes Sacrifice

Students of Glenville State College:

A library is an important factor in determining the level of academic prestige of any institution of higher learning. That alone is reason enough for conscientious students at Glenville to seriously consider the proposals intended to improve the college library.

To be sure, support will require additional monetary sacrifice. Students concerned about the quality of their work will, however, realize that such a sacrifice is a rewarding investment.

Jackie Robinson Receives Award

Jackie Joe Robinson waited three years until he was a senior to try out for the football team. As a reward for the 6' 2", 195 lb. senior from White Sulphur Springs received an Honorable Mention award on the N.A.I.A. All-American football team. The big tight end was a valuable asset to the Pioneer passing attack as well as a very fine blocker.

Receiving awards is nothing new to Robinson. He was named to the All-Conference Football team last fall as well as to the WVIAC all-conference baseball team last spring. Basketball may be Robinson's game after all. He has been a regular member of the WVIAC all-conference basketball team since he was a freshman in 1966.

Previous winners have been: 1965 Merrill Gainer, Bluefield; 1966 - Joe Michael, Buckhannon; 1967 - Carl Ward, Ceredo-Kenova; and 1968 - Earl Keiner, Monogah.

Education Program Expanded At GSC

A new field is now open to students at Glenville State College in the area of Special Education. Students in education can specialize in teaching the mentally retarded. The program was open to elementary students during the 1968-69 school year with two students participating. The program has expanded, and now includes approximately 30 students. Glenville is the first college in this area to have such a program.

Mr. Nicholas Radeka is coordinator of the Special Education program. Mr. Radeka and Mrs. Rosemary Elswick teach the classes in this area.

Two decades ago, there was little demand for teachers trained in Special Education except for the blind, deaf, or physically handicapped children. The demand for specially trained teachers grew as educators discovered that with proper teaching methods and materials the mentally retarded could be helped greatly.

The demand for teachers of Special Education classes is great today. The President's Committee on mental retardation indicated that more than 6000 teachers are needed immediately in order to take care of children who, because of their special needs, have been neglected in normal classroom situations. As an example, to meet the needs for special education in the 13 counties surrounding Glenville, approximately 160 teachers would be needed. There are only 40 classes being taught at the present.

Mr. Radeka has pointed out that the purpose of the Special Educa-

Ski Club Now A Reality As Students Plan Trips

With weather as it has been recently, a ski club is a perfect organization to try to start. That is exactly what is happening here at GSC. According to Dr. Cones, all people are welcome to join and participate in the outings. The latest outing taken by the group was to Deep Creek Lake, Md., where they skied at the Wisp ski area. About eight people were expected to participate in the adventure.

Future trips are being planned. Meeting will be announced in advance. Dr. Cones stresses that beginners, as well as experienced skiers, are welcome to attend.

Nu Lambda Psi has been a local sorority for a year and a half. In the spring of 1968 a group of girls became interested in organizing a new sorority on the Glenville State College campus. The first official meeting was held the last week of the regular school year with 24 charter members and two advisors.

The purpose of this organization is to challenge young women to broaden their horizons by preparing them to accept responsibility, leadership, and friendship. Nu Lambda Psi now has pledged three groups of new members and included approximately 45 members.

Nu Lambda Psi petitioned Sigma Sigma in October and Miss Judy Arnold, President, received official notification from national headquarters of acceptance on November 21. Nu Lambda Psi was officially ended with a Tri Sigma ribboning ceremony on Dec. 15.

Sigma Sigma Sigma was founded at the State Normal School of Farmville, Va.; now Longwood College on April 20, 1898. Its membership has now expanded to include more than 34,000 young women, with 71 active chapters across the United States. There are 5 chapters in West Virginia; at Concord College, Marshall University, Fairmont State College, Shepherd College, and W. Va. Institute of Technology.

The sisters began their pledge period on January 10. The ceremony was conducted by Tri-Sigma sisters from the Fairmont Chapter. The pledge period will last approximately three months.

The pledges will now observe the traditions of the royal purple and white colors, the official jewel, the the pearl, and the official flower, the purple violet.

The last pledge class of Nu Lambda Psi Sorority was initiated Monday, Dec. 15. The girls included: Janet Alkire, Debbie Blair, Melanie DeVol, Lois Gill, Janice Judy, Susan Morrison, Sharon Neely, and Vicky Shanklin.

The Tri-Sigma Colony also elected new officers for next semester. Joyce Savage, a home economics major from Hazelton, was elected pledge master. Elected to the position of assistant pledge master was Jayne Beer. She is a junior language arts major from Buckhannon. Annie Smith is the newly-elected recording secretary. She is a junior elementary education major from Clendenin.

Two sisters, Susan Wolford and Mary Ann Osborne will be doing their student teaching next semester. Miss Wolford is a language arts major and Miss Osborne is an elementary education major.

Campus Planning Committee Initiates Plans For Parking Subscription Fees

The Campus Planning Committee is currently considering a proposal to organize subscription parking at $20 per semester. By paying the $20 each semester, one would be guaranteed a specific numbered space in which to park his automobile for the semester. Unauthorized cars parking in the reserved space would be towed away.

Questionnaires have been sent out to the students on campus concerning the proposal. Their responses were returned to the Resident Hall Offices or the Office of Student Affairs on Monday, Jan. 12. The students commuting may acquire the questionnaires from the Placement Office or the Office of Student Affairs and will return their responses to one of these offices by Jan. 19.

Pending their next meeting, the Campus Planning Committee will also consider revising the present procedures for violations of parking. After receiving two violations, a student would be called before the Campus Parking Committee.

For the first appearance, a warning would be issued by the committee. A student would be subject to loss of the parking permit registration for the second appearance before the committee. The vehicle could be re-registered by paying a fee of $2 (within 24 hours) at the Business Office and by bringing the receipt to the secretary of the Office of Student Affairs.

For a third appearance, a student would be subject to cancellation of his registration. Re-registration would cost $5. With the fourth appearance, re-registration of the car could not occur before 10 days with a cost of $10.

The bumper sticker must be removed and returned to the Office of Student Affairs with 24 hours for the fifth appearance. The vehicle could not be registered until the next fall semester. After the sixth appearance, a student would be referred to the Committee on Student Life and Welfare until either the recommendation of social probation or suspension from the college be decided upon.

On Dec. 18, the Campus Parking Committee passed the proposal that a motor vehicle registration card is required to purchase a parking permit.

Lottery Discussed At Jan. 6 Meeting

On the night of Jan. 6, a meeting was held in the Little Theater concerning "What You Should Know About the Draft Lottery," sponsored by the Cosmopolitan Club. The guest speakers were Mr. Brown, head of West Virginia's Selective Service System in Charleston, and his cohort, Mrs. Gainer, who is in charge of the local Selective Service Board in Glenville.

A brief history of conscription was given to start the meeting on a substantial background. Mr. Brown then took charge of the meeting and explained more thoroughly the new draft lottery. Following the explanation of the lottery system, the meeting was opened to questions from the audience.

Pamphlet Prepared By LMC At Library

The Learning Materials Center of the Robert F. Kidd Library has prepared a pamphlet about the center, according to Mr. Donald Phillips, director of learning materials. This pamphlet which was compiled mainly for the use of faculty members and student teachers, presents concrete examples concerning the utilization of the center, the kinds of media and other services which are available to teachers.

The value of the Learning Materials Center is stated in the pamphlet in this way: "An effective Learning Materials Center may, therefore, not only systematize certain operations within the college but also acts as a cohesive agent in promoting better instruction throughout the learning program." The hours during which the center is open are: School days, 8-12, 1-4; Saturdays, 9-12, 1-4; Sundays, 2-5, 6-9.

Teach-In Date Is Announced

A nationwide environmental teach-in is being planned for April 22. The Teach-in is a day designated for students, as well as interested citizens, to present information, draw the issues, simulate plans for action, and demonstrate the strength and concern for a livable world. The purpose of the teach-in is to bring to light the grave crisis facing the quality of the environment and life in America today. The nationwide teach-in will encourage students across the country to take the initiative in organizing associated efforts in their own communities.

These teach-ins are intended to be effective as an educational effort in arousing public opinion concerning necessary steps to protect Americans from their environment. Many colleges across the country are already preparing comprehensive inventories of environmental problems in their particular areas for the April 22 teach-in. Local students interested in organizing an environmental teach-in may contact the National Teach-in Headquarters for further information. The address is as follows:

Apathy Vs. Appreciation

Maybe I was wrong. Maybe I have been too rash in my judgement of GSC. Could I have been so deluded as to think of Glenville State as apathetic? Heavens!! Where, oh where has this humble wayfaring stranger gone astray?

I'll dispense with the melodrama now and get to the point. And don't be misled by the satirical tone of the first paragraph. A strong satirical introduction is the only "in" way to begin—even when one is writing an appreciation editorial such as this one. (Oh, by the way, this is an editorial of appreciation; it's kind of hard to tell so far, isn't it?)

I was, in short, pleased as punch and livid with appreciation toward some 500 people who turned out to view my one-man art show a few weeks ago. Even the adverse criticism I received was a joy! (Anything but apathy!) I relished every derogatory word. Just think—people actually commented on my art work!

It was this, I think, that made my show worthwhile to me—that so many people were sensitive to art (no matter if it was art of such low grade). They cared! Whether they thought it bad or good, they cared enough to tell me. Perhaps apathy toward the more cultural aspects of GSC life is not thriving as affluently as I imagined after all.

I hope I'm not too quick in presuming—in hoping this. Would I; could I be so brazen to say it again? Yes, I think I will. (Oh, I should have been an actor!)

Mediocrity is alive and residing at GSC but is slowly being trodden into the fudgemire of concern—there to be suffocated at last!

Literary Society Holds First Discussion Of 1970

The first meeting of the Literary Society for 1970 was held Sunday, Jan. 11, at 3 p.m. in the old Louis Bennett Lounge.

The meeting, under the direction of faculty advisor, Dr. Espy Miller, was held for the discussion of the short stories "The Overcoat" by Nikolai Gogol, a Russian novelist; and "The Dead" by James Joyce, an Irish writer. "The Dead" is considered by many to be the best short story ever written by Joyce.

Consort Performers Visit GSC Campus

England) and original compositions based on folk modes, ethnic rhythms, and Gregorian Chant. They play interpretations of music by contemporary writers for whom they have great respect—Pete Seeger, Bob Dylan, and the Beatles.

Paul Winter organized his first group, a jazz Sextet, while a student at Northwestern University. This group won the 1961 Intercollegiate Jazz Festival and was signed to a recording contract by Columbia Records. The State Department sent the group on a six-month tour of 23 countries in Latin America, and the success of this tour resulted in an invitation from the Kennedys to play at the White House, the first jazz concert ever held there.

The Sextet played the Newport Jazz Festival, toured the major jazz clubs of the country, and made numerous network television appearances. They made a second State Department tour in 1965, through 13 cities of Brazil, and Winter returned to Brazil himself on two additional trips to study and record with Brazilian musicians.

In tours of the United States and Canada, Winter has played several hundred concerts in cities and universities, and the group has gradually evolved into the present Contemporary Consort.

GSC Student Surveys Campus To Determine Cause Of 'Exodus'

Recently a survey was taken on the campus of Glenville State College by Danny Franco. The survey included 40 people, five males and five females from each of the four classes. Questions were asked concerning the exodus every Friday on the Glenville State campus. The five questions that were asked are as follows: Reasons for going home on weekends: (1) Dating partner; (2) Hobbies; (3) Lack of Campus Activities; (4) Use of car at home; (5) Family activities.

Of these possible responses of reasons for leaving the campus, lack of campus activities received 47.5 per cent of the total votes. The ratio for this question was almost two females to every male. The second response to show any significance was the dating partner. This time, of 30 per cent who voted this way, the males outnumbered the females by the ratio of two to one. The other responses were widely varied and proved to be of no statistical significance.

Of course this really only confirms the basic knowledge that most of us knew already, but many other things can be inferred from a close study of these findings. Maybe a psychologist or sociologist could study these findings and have a basis for his thesis. Whatever the hidden sociological or psychological reason may be, a solution can always be found somewhere. Look again closely at these statistics and see if you can solve the problem.

Lib. Borrows Receiver For Language Students

According to Mr. David Gillespie, librarian, the library has borrowed an army surplus radio receiver from the physics lab. The receiver will be placed in one of the listening rooms on the ground floor for the use of the students. There will be a silt of frequencies for various significant stations, such as the BBC, Voice of America, and Armed Forces Radio. Radio stations from Montreal, Canada and France will be of interest to French students and can help them increase their French knowledge. Mr. Gillespie feels that this is another way for the library to help broaden the experiences of GSC students.
