AWS To Sponsor Gala Masked Halloween Party

by Ruth Swatzyna

It was 7:00 by the tower clock. The doors to the ballroom opened and in rushed an odd and hideous assortment of beings. There were pirates, hippies, cats, princesses, gypsies, witches, ghosts, and animals of every description. In spite of the physical differences of such an assortment of beings, there was no conflict of goals; and such sights as swash-buckling pirates with foul mouths and unkempt beards holding the hands of meek little bunny rabbits with pink ears and little fluffy tails made for a most wonderful evening.

Indeed, the elite cluster of goddesses known collectively as the AWS had planned a marvelous way to pass the time until 9:30. Through such magic as cake walks, apple dunks, and kissing booths, the AWS brought closer together the unusual couples who had come to the party together.

The Halloween spirit was ever-present in the air that Thursday, the 29th day of October. The spirit, however, was not the awesome, thunder-struck spirit of Halloween's past; it was a cheerful, loving, only playfully spooky spirit. And it affected all, from the AWS goddesses to the lowliest costumed jack-o'-lantern who paid his fifty cent admission. It made all of the people feel as though Halloween were the best day of the year for a costume ball.

Then came 9:30, and the happy creatures began to file out of the ballroom. The AWS had decided that the party must end at this moment, for in exactly one half hour many of the creatures at the party would be obliged to return to the castle, into which they were locked nightly. In this castle, unusual things happened to the diverse creatures after the doors were locked. They changed from gypsies, witches, princesses and animals to college coeds, armed with make-up remover, curlers, and smiles of delight at remembering the happenings of the magical mysterious evening.

Wishing you could be a part of this wonderful, fun-filled evening will do no good, since you can be a part of it. Merely bring fifty cents, unless you have paid AWS dues, to the Pioneer Center ballroom on Thursday, Oct. 29, and wear a costume. It's a girl-ask-you affair, but if you haven't the courage, come stag. There will be booths and treats, and the Great Spirit of Halloween. Costumes will be judged at 8:00 p.m. Cider and doughnuts will be served; candy apples will be sold at twenty cents each.

Play Practice Is Now Underway

Steady practices for the two act play, A View from the Bridge, by Arthur Miller, are now underway. The play, under the direction of Mrs. Judy Curtis, will be presented in the GSC auditorium on the evenings on Nov. 18, 19, and 20 at 8 p.m.

The action of the play takes place in Red Hook, on the Bay Seward from the Brooklyn Bridge.

The theme of the play revolves around an uncle's love for his niece and his motives to prevent her from falling in love with a homosexual. The struggle of a low income family provides tension for the play and does not cease until the finale.

Play practice of "View from the Bridge" which is to be presented on Nov. 18, 19, and 20.

Dr. William Simmons

Dr. Wm. Simmons Named CET Pres.

Dr. William Simmons, professor of English at GSC, was elected president of the West Virginia Association of College English Teachers at their fall meeting at Jackson's Mill on Oct. 16-17.

This is the second time a GSC faculty member has been elected to this office. The only other president from Glenville was Dr. Espy Miller, presently head of the English department at GSC. He held this position in 1953-54.

At the conference, Dr. Simmons read his dissertation paper entitled "A Bibliographic Study of the Passing of Arthur from Idylls of the King."

Dr. Simmons, a graduate of Glenville State, received his master's degree from West Virginia University and his doctorate degree from Ohio University.

Other teachers from Glenville who attended this conference were Mrs. Genevieve McDaniel, Dr. Miller, Mrs. Diane Trimmer, Miss Jane Virgallito, Miss Virginia West and Mr. Frank Weightman.

Yearbook Distribution Is Thursday, Oct. 29

The 1970 Kanawhachen, Glenville State College annual, will be distributed Thursday, Oct. 29 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in front of the Old Cafeteria. Those students who were enrolled for both semesters last year may pick up their yearbook at this time. The remaining books will be sold. Students enrolled for only one semester last year may purchase a yearbook for $3. Other students, faculty members and other interested people may purchase yearbooks after the Thursday distribution for $6.

The 1970 edition of the Kanawhachen is dedicated to Mr. Nicholas Murin, a social studies instructor at Glenville State College. Mr. Murin is a GSC graduate who returned to GSC to coach football. His coaching years were very successful as he built up a wide spread reputation for the GSC athletics program.

Although Mr. Murin is an instructor of social science classes, he has worked for GSC in many other ways. Because of Mr. Murin's many contributions to GSC, it is only fitting that the Kanawhachen be dedicated to him.

"SAGA" To Come To GSC Nov. 10

The Brockport Resident Dance Company will present "SAGA," a full evening dance-theater piece based on themes of 20th Century Americans on Tuesday, Nov. 10, at Glenville State College. Admission will be by I.D. cards.

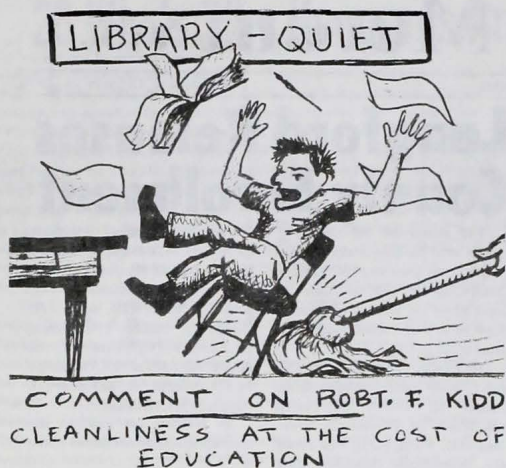

The company, a professional modern dance company, officially joined the State University of New York at Brockport in the fall of 1970. During the spring and summer 1970, the company rehearsed and performed at Brockport on an unofficial basis. The group was brought together by James Payton, the artistic director of the company and an associate professor of dance at the State University in Brockport.

Mr. Payton devised and choreographed the work, utilizing a stage with no wings or curtains, and with a live narrator. The narration, written by Mr. Payton and spoken by Jon Knudson of the University, incorporates selections by Joseph Heller, F. Scott Fitzgerald, and Alan Ginsburg. As the performance progresses, none of the performers leave the stage. All costume changes are made on stage.

The Brockport Resident Dance Company is one of only two professional modern dance companies on campuses in the United States, and the only one in the Eastern U.S. The Brockport Company is unique in that the Utah Company, the only other, was established via a Rockefeller Foundation grant, while the Brockport Resident Dance Company is not assisted by any outside agency. Their budget is based by the College and the dancers, all qualified instructors, are remunerated for their teaching in college's Dance Department with the rest of their income coming from salaries for performances.

Mr. Murin accepting the 1970 Kanawhachen from editor Anne Bordas.

Study In R. F. Kidd Library: A Subject Of Interruption

Is there truth to the rumor that a GSC student cannot study in his own library? Yes or no? We choose the former.

Last Thursday afternoon at approximately 2 p.m. John Doe went to the "local institution for the prevention of determined study" to read a rather long essay which he had extracted from the circulation desk. He then proceeded to the second floor and found an isolated table and began diligently reading and notetaking. Shortly, he noticed a strange looking object known as a dusting cloth surround his project as if it were ready to devour it. Alas, it strode around, gone but not forgotten. Doe resumed his work—a bit frustrated and annoyed.

Not five minutes later, another foreign adversary crept on the scene. This time it was not his papers but his very position before the table that was being challenged. Doe's chair was being attacked by a mop. It quickly swept under his feet—nudging the leg of the chair as if it were requesting his removal. With its passing, Doe again returned to his duties, further incited by the invasions.

As if peace were never meant to be his, Doe caught an awesome sight out of the corner of his eye. A dreaded fear arose inside him and climaxed with his fears being truly founded. A deep rushing sound surged forth out of a long pipe protruding from a cylinder-shaped machine on wheels. The supreme weapon, the vacuum-cleaner, had invaded. He was doomed. In resounding defeat, Doe collected his unfinished task and hurriedly made his retreat.

Though this narrative may be a bit dramatic, we doubt there are many who cannot identify with the victim. As we have understood it, the library is for the use of the students as well as the maintenance department. Therefore, we cannot understand why such tasks have to be performed at 2 p.m. in the afternoon or, for that matter, at any hour when students are using the library. Classrooms aren't cleaned while classes are in session; why should such a similar situation be continually interrupted? A clean library is a great goal, but an even greater goal is the learning experience which the library can provide.

Charleston Civic Center Is Site Of Rock Concert

Blood, Sweat & Tears is the musical expression of the good taste that springs from professional maturity. This maturity has led the band away from excesses and into the domain of balance. The accompanying sense of good taste is expressed not only through their choice of a music which is able to bridge both sides of the so-called generation gap, but is also reflected in their relationships with each other. For these reasons, the nine pieces of the jigsaw puzzle, while basically dissimilar in form, are able to come together and create the beautiful design of Blood, Sweat & Tears.

They will appear at the Charleston Civic Center on November 6, 1970 at 8 o'clock. Tickets are $6.00 - $5.00 and may be purchased at the Civic Center, Turners, Sears, Gorbys, AAA Club in Kanawha City or Kay Jewelers in Huntington.

Down On The Corner

by Mike Smith

The Agony of defeat...

The Pioneers have lost all chances for the conference championship. With nothing else to win except getting a 6-3 record the Blue wave must try to come back and finish the season. What started out as a very good season has taken a complete turn about. What is the reason? We imagine only the players know. They have an abundance of talent; they have great coaching, yet something has been lacking. Our feelings are that the Pioneers, ability-wise, were better than both Bluefield State and West Liberty.

It Takes a Thief...

Surely one problem, especially in the West Liberty game, was that of pass interceptions. Pete McDermitt, the much heralded sophomore quarterback, had five passes stolen Saturday. Two of these gave West Liberty touchdowns. Sophomore Randy Jeffries, McDermitt's understudy, had one pass stolen. Now this is not to place the blame on the quarterbacking because many interceptions are not the fault of the thrower. The pass blocking and the pass receiver's routes are certainly factors in a pass interception. We do know that the interception problem must be corrected. All reason tells us that one cannot give up the ball six times during a game due to mistakes and expect to win.

Keep the Ball Rolling...

Another factor which hurt the Pioneers the past two games was that of kicking. Carl Williams has done a commendable job punting, but the Pioneers are hurting on kick-offs and extra points. The injured Raymond Swisher spoiled the Pioneers with his string of extra points, his threat as a field goal kicker with 45 yard range, and his booming kick-offs. However, the kicking specialist has a pulled groin muscle and is out of action indefinitely. Gary Ray is a capable kicker, but the big tackle has not kicked since the 1968 season when he did very little. Freshman Kent Stover can boom the ball, but he is often erratic. At any rate he is also injured as he hurt his shoulder in the freshman game with Fairmont. Mike Smith, freshman from Walton, is also working on kicking and, with practice, could be very effective. In the meantime, however, the Pioneers are giving their opponents perfect field position. We Could Have Won...

Despite the lackluster play of the Pioneers, they almost pulled the game out of the fire. Trailing only 26-20 with plenty of time remaining, the Pioneers looked as if they were going to pull their late game magic that had carried them over Salem, Fairmont, and Wesleyan. It was at this point that the Pioneer defensive unit broke down. The Blue Bandits, who are most usually reliable, allowed West Liberty to push them all over the field. The Hilltoppers took the ball in their own territory and rammed it down the throats of the Bandits. The result was field goal from the Pioneer 10 yard line to make the score West Liberty 29, Glenville 20, thus putting the game out of reach. Sweet Georgia Brown...

The Charleston Civic Center will be the place, Tuesday, Nov. 3, at 8 p.m.; the attraction will be the fabulous "Harlem Globetrotters," featuring Meadowlark Lemon, the clown prince, and dribbling wizard, Curly Neal.

Tickets for this spectacle can be purchased at Sears, Turners, and Gorbys in Charleston, at the AAA Club in Kanawha City, and at the ticket office at the Civic Center. Mail orders can be obtained at this address: National Shows, Inc., c/o Civic Center, Reynolds Street, Charleston. Tickets are priced at $3, $3.50, and $4. This presentation comes from the Brothers Lashinsky.

A Little Bit Me...

We missed our first prediction of the year. We cannot win the conference. Our second piece of forecasting picks Bluefield to win the WVAC title edging out Salem and West Liberty. We are counting on Fairmont to knock off league-leading West Liberty and Bluefield to win it all in a close game at Wesleyan. Forget it Harve...

West Liberty Beats GSC By Score Of 29-20

West Liberty's Hilltoppers put an end to Glenville's dream of a conference championship Saturday as they defeated the Pioneers 29-20.

The Hilltoppers took the lead early and never lost it as they made things rough for Pioneer followers throughout the afternoon. The Pioneers got the ball on the opening kick-off and couldn't move the ball. A Carl Williams punt went nearly straight up and landed on the Pioneer 48-yard line. Three plays later, quarterback Jerry Fato hit split end Jim Borst in the end zone for a 13-yard touchdown. Terry Kidder then booted the extra point, making the score 7-0. Late in the first period, Glenville quarterback Pete McDermitt had a pass deflected and then intercepted. Mickey Sworden was the thief as he stole McDermitt's pass on the Pioneer 12-yard line and ran it in for the score. Kidder followed with the extra point and the Pioneers were down 14-0. Late in the second quarter, the Pioneer attack bogged down and was forced to punt deep in their own territory. The punt was returned to the Pioneer 23-yard line by West Liberty's Neal Mechling. Fato wasted no time as he hit Borst with a 23-yard scoring strike. Kidder's extra point attempt was wide as West Liberty raced into a 20-0 lead. The Pioneers got back in the game on the ensuing kick-off as freshman standout Jim Carter raced down the left sideline-95 yards for the touchdown. The Pioneers then tried for the two-point conversion, but they were stopped short of the goal line. The run was attempted by the sophomore halfback Carl Alloway. The half ended with the Pioneers down 20-6.

The third period saw no scoring as neither team could get moving. However, early in the final period West Liberty put points on the board again. Bob Harris intercepted a McDermitt pass and raced to the Pioneer one-yard line where he was shoved out of bounds. Lou Piccone crashed over on the next play for the score. The extra point try by Kidder was again wide as West Liberty held a commanding 26-6 lead. Glenville returned the kick-off to their 23-yard line. McDermitt then passed to Randy Modesitt for 19 yards. The big play came next as McDermitt connected with Mike Roscoe for 54 yards. Roscoe was downed on the Hilltopper four-yard line, and then on the next play, West Liberty jumped off sides and was penalized half the distance to the 2-yard stripe. John Pratt, freshman fullback then pulled over from the 2 for the touchdown. The Pioneers try for the two point conversion was good as Roscoe caught a McDermitt toss in the end zone. Seconds later the Hilltoppers fumbled and Pioneer linebacker Vic Watson recovered on the 38-yard line. McDermitt then passed for a score to Roscoe but a clipping penalty moved the ball back to the West Liberty 43-yard line. Undisturbed, McDermitt then hit Virgil (Pee Wee) Lacey on the 25-yard line. Lacey skipped his way through the Hilltoppers secondary for the score. The extra point kick failed and the Pioneers were down 26-20. With plenty of time remaining the Pioneers could not hold the Hilltoppers, who marched all the way to the Blue Bandit three-yard line. Kidder then calmly booted a 20-yard field goal to put West Liberty in the driver's seat 29-20. This was to be final as the Pioneers could not get anything going.

Next Saturday, the Pioneers host W.Va. State in their final home game of the 1970 season.

Little Pioneers Win In Fairmont Battle

Glenville State College freshmen team gave Fairmont's frosh a real shelling Monday night at Pt. Pleasant. Fairmont got on the board first in the contest in the first quarter and again in the second quarter before the Pioneers reached paydirt. With less than a minute to play in the first half, Bill Saul hit Jim Carter for a touchdown to make the score 12-7 at half.

The second half began and it was Jim Carter's night from then on out. Carter rambled for three more touchdowns before the game was over. The defense played an outstanding game also rapping the Fairmont quarterback a number of times and intercepting three passes and recovering two fumbles. The Pioneers went ahead in the third quarter when Carter rambled for two in that period making the score 29-12.

This makes the frosh 1-1-1 for the year. Plans are being made for a game with Marietta frosh, but a date has not been settled at the present time.

Pioneers To Host State In Final Home Game

The W.Va. State Yellow Jackets will appear here Saturday in the final home game of the year for the Pioneers. Both teams are out of the running for the conference championship, but the game will be a display of "rock-em-sock-em" football. The Yellow Jackets will be trying to end a four-game losing streak while the Pioneers will be trying to get back in the win column after two consecutive defeats. The Yellow Jackets are led by the running of speedy Edward Lee and Powerful Malcom Cathoun. Defensively, the Yellow Jackets were sparked by hard-hitting middle linebacker Jack Summers. The Yellow Jackets were defeated 30-13 at the hands of Central State of Ohio Saturday in their latest game. State has beaten W.Va. Tech, and Concord, while losing to Bluefield State, Howard University, West Liberty, and Central State.

The Theta Xi's are well represented on the football team for the 1970 season. This year's squad includes 12 brothers who range from players to coach and trainers. The eight brothers on the offensive unit include: Guards Harlin (Tarzan) Spencer, Gary Moore, and Ron Duncan. Tackles, Craig Lipscomb and Gary (Tiny) Ray, and end Mike Roscoe. Duncan, Ray, and Roscoe are also serving as captains for this year's team. Rounding out the offensive team are halfback flanker Virgil (Pee Wee) Lacey and fullback Clyde Stepp. The lone defensive Blue Bandit is junior, Gary Jones, who holds down the tackle spot. Steve Ash helps keep the team together, with his tape. He serves as a team trainer and has held this position for four years. Johnnie Noland coaches the defensive backs this year. He played four years and is adding his knowledge of the game. Ed Suddath helps coach the backs and quarterbacks and spends much of his time on the road doing the scouting for the Pioneers. The fraters of Theta Xi feel this is a real contribution to the football team and we salute the men representing Theta Xi fraternity.

Loss Of Valuable Materials Deprives Many Students

"I find it incredible that one student would be so self-centered as to deprive as many as 100 other students from possible use of a magazine or reference book." This was the comment made by Dr. Espy Miller on the destruction of library material by students who clip articles from periodicals and reference books.

What is the motive behind such "thoughtless, inconsiderate, unforgivable actions," as Dr. Miller called them? Why would a person ruin an expensive encyclopedia, destroy the only available copy of a magazine, or steal a valuable copy of a book? No one seems to know.

Perhaps the reason some students clip articles or take books is because time is running short and they feel that if they clip the article or take the reference book with them now, they can use it when it is more convenient for them. But why can they not just leave it intact, and come back to the library later? The library is not that far away, and it is usually open when one finds a need for it.

Taking things that belong to others is a sign of apathy to the needs of other people. To take articles from a magazine or book, or steal a book from the library is to deprive fellow students and faculty members the use of this material. It is to waste money set aside for our library, money that comes from tax dollars, alumni contributions, and every student's tuition.

Right now 2000 books are missing from the Robert F. Kidd library. Approximately 750 new books are bought every year. Considering libraries do not stock $1.50 paperbacks, the cost of these books is enormous.

Where are these books? Has someone started their own little library, complete with Dewey Decimal numbers on the spines? And where are all the clipped magazine articles and missing pages from books? Perhaps they have gone into the incinerator after one student has used them and twenty have missed them.

If this pilfering of library resources does not stop, the library may have to be closed; it may have to change to a system whereby students do not have free access to materials. Or the college may have to suspend research papers as a requirement or passing certain classes, in order to stop the destruction of research materials.

Students who destroy library materials are weakening the efficiency of the library. They are wasting the money spent for the things they stole, and they are lowering the grades of students who might have needed the stolen materials. They are hurting others, all of the college students, faculty and friends.
