"Miss W. Va." To Aid Contest

Linda Dianne Barnett, Miss West Virginia for 1970, will be a guest of this year's Miss GSC pageant which will be held April 6 at 8 p.m. in the auditorium.

Miss Barnett, a junior at Marshall University, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Barnett of Parkersburg. Mrs. Barnett, the former Helen Bailey, was originally from Cedarville in Gilmer County.

Two judges for the Miss GSC contest have been selected to date. They are Judge Fred L. Fox and Mr. Stanley N. Pickens. Another judge, selected from the Parkersburg Jaycees, will be named at a later date.

Judge Fox is a resident of Fairmont. He was graduated from Davis and Elkins College and West Virginia Law School. He is presently serving as a Judge of Criminal and Juvenile courts in Marion County.

Mr. Pickens is presently employed as a sales representative for Kyle and Company, school specialists, in Clarksburg. A graduate of Glenville State College with an A.B. degree in music, Mr. Pickens has been Director of Music at Jane Lew High School and Elkins Jr. High School.

Lyceum Comm. Announces Brian Bevelander Recital

The Convocation-Lyceum Committee announces that Mr. Brian Bevelander, instructor of Music at GSC, will present a piano concert on Thursday, April 13, at 8 p.m., in the College Auditorium.

Mr. Bevelander's concert will feature a composition of his own, as well as selections by Ernest Broch, Arnold Schoenberg, Dominico Paradisi, and Franz Liszt.

Mr. Bevelander studied piano at the New England Conservatory of Music, and Hartt College of Music which is an extension of the University of Hartford. His graduation work in Composition was done at Boston University. Mr. Bevelander has given a number of solo recitals and studied with such people as Bella Nagy, Joseph Block, and Jean Alderman. Before coming to GSC, Mr. Bevelander taught piano, theory and composition at Heidelberg College in Tiffin, Ohio.

Mr. Bevelander's concert replaces a scheduled concert by Joll Rosen which was cancelled at the artist's request. The Convocation-Lyceum Committee invited Mr. Bevelander to fill this open date and is pleased to sponsor his performance as a portion of the 1970-71 Lyceum Program. The concert is open to the public. Tickets will be available at the door and college students will be admitted by ID cards.

CCC To Sponsor Easter Assembly

Campus Christian Coalition is sponsoring its annual Easter Assembly at 9:45 a.m., Tuesday, April 6, in the College Auditorium. Mr. Bill Angel, pastor of Grace Gospel Church near Parkersburg will deliver the Easter message.

Music for the assembly will be presented by the Watchmen Quartet. Included in this group are three GSC students: Rick Butler, Ed Crawford, and Eric Minigh. Eric's younger brother, the fourth member, is a student at Gilmer County High School.

Everyone is welcome to come to this service. CCC also invites all who will attend a communion service at the Wesley Foundation at 6:30 a.m. on the same morning.

Miller, King Appointed For Special Committee

Dr. Daniel B. Taylor, state superintendent of schools, has appointed Dr. Espy Miller, chairman of the Division of Languages, and Mrs. Yvonne H. King, Director of News Service and Publications from Glenville State College as members of a special committee to review the West Virginia University self-study report, leading to approval of the teacher-education programs.

The campus visitation committee will evaluate all the teacher-education programs at West Virginia University.

Last May, a similar committee evaluated the teacher-education programs at Glenville State College. As a result of the visitation, the state superintendent of schools certified to the West Virginia Board of Education that the Glenville programs were all approved.

Dr. G. Scott Named Alumna-Of-The-Year

The Alumni Council has named Dr. Grace D. Scott, Classes of 1929, 1938 and 1939, as Glenville State College Alumna-of-the-Year. Dr. Scott will be honored at the Spring Alumni Banquet on Saturday, April 24.

A native of West Virginia, born at Cairo, Dr. Scott is now semi-retired and resides in Parkersburg. She served in numerous educational capacities before retirement and still serves as a consultant with the Department of State when needed.

Dr. Scott graduated from Glenville State Normal School in 1929 and later received two A.B. degrees, 1938 and 1939, from Glenville State College. She received her Master of Arts degree from Teachers College, Columbia University, and her Doctorate in Education from the University of Maryland, where her major was "Human Growth and Development Education." After teaching twenty-two years in the elementary schools of Ritchie County, West Virginia, she became director of curriculum in Jefferson County. Then after having served as Associate Professor in the College of Education at Morgantown, in 1956 she became Teacher Education Administrator Advisor in U. S. AID Mission, Shiraz, Iran. From Iran she moved to the same position in Tegucigalpa, Honduras and later became Teacher Education Advisor and Deputy Director, Secondary Education, U.S. AID Mission in Saigon, Vietnam where Miss Scott has received much recognition for her assistance with saving the educational system of Saigon Schools. Her work with the U.S. AID

Missions, UNESCO, the U.S. Department of Education, Ministries of Education in various countries, and other Free World Agencies, as a Teacher Education Advisor, has brought her a number of awards and honors. She has received the AID Superior Honor Award from the Deputy Commissioner of Education. Miss Scott considers this her biggest honor. She has also been nominated for the highest honor that could be awarded an American woman, "Federal Women of the Year." This award is given to just one woman each year from among those employed in any way by the U.S. government.

Dr. Scott is a member of the National Education Association, Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, and the West Virginia Education Association. She is also a member of Kappa Delta Pi and Delta Kappa Gamma.

Dr. Grace D. Scott

Rabbi To Address Students At GSC

Rabbi Samuel Volkman of the Virginia Street Temple in Charleston will speak before several Social Science Division classes Wednesday, April 21. These informal presentations will be open to the entire student body.

He was ordained a rabbi from the Hebrew Union College in 1934, receiving his M.H.L. Degree. While serving Congregation B'nai Jehoshua in Chicago, Rabbi Volkman did post-graduate work in Oriental Languages and Literature at the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago.

Rabbi Volkman has been spiritual leader of the Virginia Street Temple in Charleston since 1952.

During World War II, the rabbi served as a chaplain in the United States Navy.

The rabbi lectures on college campuses under the auspices of the Jewish Chautauqua Society is sponsored by the National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods.

Rabbi Volkman's speaking schedule on the campus will be released in a later issue of the Mercury.

Land Survey Is Possibility

Another two-year technical program is being proposed for approval to the West Virginia Board of Regents by Glenville State College President, D. Banks Wilburn. This new program will be called "Land Surveying Technology" and is designed to educate and train a professional surveyor.

The objective of the program is to provide the academic background and field experience necessary for a graduate of the program to become a licensed land surveyor in accordance with the laws, rules and regulations promulgated by the West Virginia State Board of Examiners of Land Surveyors.

The two-year course will include lectures, laboratory and field demonstration, actual field surveys and individual study. There are provisions for elective subjects for students with specific interest. A summer work experience in a surveying-related field is required during the summer between the first and second year. Graduates of the curriculum will receive an Associate of Science Degree in Land Surveying Technology.

Freedman Judges Artists; Dailey Wins 'Best' Award

Mr. Ben Freedman, from the Creative Arts Center at West Virginia University, was the judge of the Eleventh Annual Art Exhibition being held until Friday in the multipurpose room.

The exhibition was open to all undergraduate art students of West Virginia colleges and universities; the entry deadline was March 19.

Cash awards were given to outstanding works regardless of classification. There were three entry classifications chosen by Mr. Freedman, best-of-show, merit awards, and honorable mention. A fourth classification, the students choice, was the award given to one student by other contestants in the show.

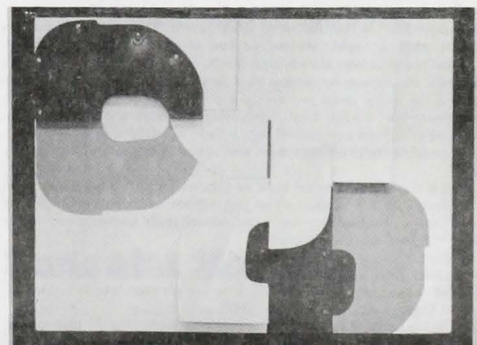

The students choice winner was John Altman, from the WVU branch at Parkersburg for his ceramic work entitled "Turtle."

Tom Dailey, a student at Glenville, won first place in the best-of-show. His work was a construction entitled "Machine." The second place winner in this category was Terry Johnson, from the WVU branch, for his acrylic "Dromolary Castle." Dave Berrett, of West Virginia University, won third place for "Untitled 2," a screen print.

Merit Awards went to three Glenville students, Robert Fetty for a ceramic work called "Decorative Jar," Benny Linn for "Essence of Life," done in oil, and Ken Brady for the acrylic of "Pilot's Dream."

Honorable Mention awards went to Ken Brady for a pen and ink drawing called "Nut," and Marjorie Ann Moses from WVU, for her untitled lithographic print.

OPEN MOUTH

INSERT FOOT

VP Opens Mouth, Inserts Foot Again

A conflict that has arisen on a national scope has become an intriguing situation. A couple of weeks ago the Columbia Broadcasting System aired a documentary entitled "The Selling of the Pentagon". It was concerned with exposing certain shady operations within the Pentagon with regard to public relations releases from that government complex. Since that time the Vice-President, Spiro T. (Who)?, has blasted the broadcast as stacked with falsehoods, biased to a high degree, and prejudiced against the government. He asserts that CBS implied false accusations and has cited that he felt the documentary couldn't be documented.

Tuesday night, March 23, CBS once again aired the film and followed it with taped comments by the V.P., and concluded with a curt statement from the head of CBS, Richard Salant. Mr. Salant enclosed proof of permission about those sections said to have been done illegally, and rebuked all of Spiro's charges. He ended by saying that CBS was proud of its contribution to the right of the people to know the truth and that CBS would stand by its documentary with confidence.

Spiro T. has once again attacked the mass media and, as always, has come out smelling like a skunk.

His inability to comprehend the power of the press will be his demise. We wonder, as was once the vogue of speculation, if Mr. Nixon has put Spiro T. up to these antics. Is this an expression of the President's opinion? After all, that is what mass communications is all about. We see that the public is censored and suppressed in communist countries but isn't America the epitome of democracy or does the Bill of Rights mean nothing to the second highest official in our government? A claim that Spiro T. would become a household word has been realized. Now we'd like to be able to forget it!

Ideals, Ideologies, Reach Climax For Students Of Apathetic Campus

Thursday afternoon, I was in the Student Union with some friends having a coke, when suddenly I noticed a great surge of people head for the door. I love a good fight, as long as I'm not in it, and so I followed the crowd to see what was going on.

I went outside and shoved my way through to the front of the crowd. There I saw two guys arguing. They were similar in some respects, for they were both rather short and had black curly hair. But there the similarity ended. One had long hair and a beard, and had on a military jacket. The other was clean-shaven and short-haired, and was stylishly but conservatively dressed.

The short-haired guy was trying to make the long-haired one take off his military jacket. Flaunting the government, it seemed, was against what he believed in. The long-haired guy said what the jacket originally stood for—by this he meant the government, the military, and the way they are run—are against what he believed in. An argument ensued, superficially about a jacket, but really about ideologies. The jacket came off, the arguers parted company, and the crowd, or should I say the audience, dispersed. The show was over.

The whole affair started me to thinking. These two guys had more in common than just similarities in features. They have something few people on this campus have, in fact, few in the world have it. What these two have is an idea of what is right, and the courage to stand up and fight for it.

These two guys have ideas in their minds, contrasting ideas, it is true, but they have the courage to express what they believe in. Many of those who watched the ordeal could not decide which side to be on, or even which direction to lean toward. Some were firmly convinced who was right, and though they may not have jumped right in there to defend their beliefs, they are nonetheless better off than those who cannot even decide which side they are on.

This is real apathy (popular topic on campus, isn't it?) It is not that someone can not make up their minds; it is that they will not make up their minds. They choose not to, because they figure that nothing really matters, except a few things that don't matter very much.

Not much better are those who have made up their minds but will not defend their decisions. They are confirmed in their beliefs, but they are afraid to defend them. They think that doing so will get them into some kind of trouble. They would rather "stay out of it."

My hat is off to those two guys, not for their beliefs, but for their courage to stick up for them. And it is off, too, for the two or three others who had the courage to put in their "two cents worth."

TKE

On Friday, March 26, at 4 p.m. the "TKE Bathub" left from the Student Union on its way to Parkersburg. There was a minor change in its planned route, again increasing the mileage. It now went through Calhoun and Wirt instead of the original route through Tanner and Burnhouse. The route change had hopefully increased the number of people contributing as well as increasing the mileage and by passing MacFarlan. Frater Rick Oyler informed the chapter that a representative from the Easter Seals will be paying the fraternity house a visit to get pictures and meet the fraters.

The pledges voted to have a "Hell Week" which started Monday, Mar. 29. They had a hot dog sale Wednesday night with the Order of Diana. Three hundred hot dogs were consumed. The fraters and pledges using the theme of "Walking Back" erupted into a mild conflict. Casualties of opposing factions were as follows: Pledges: Gary Samples, four stitches; Mike Miller, consumed numerous briars in the posterior; nine pledges received blisters while "Walking Back" and John Peters, swollen knuckles; actives: Dick Morris, swollen right eye, Merlin Trickett, surface clot on the right elbow, fraters Ron Smisek, Rick Miller, and David Hewitt also received blisters while walking back.

The pledges would like to announce the future vacation of John Westfall and Dennis Law will be a one way ticket. All pledges are eagerly awaiting the send off.

Tri-Sigma

From Sat., Mar. 27 to Sun., Apr. 3, Miss Janet Alkire, a junior home economics major from Walkersville, will represent West Virginia in the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D.C. Miss Alkire was chosen after she submitted an application to the review board for the festival. She is also participating as recording secretary for Sigma Sigma.

Barbara Rose, currently a pledge of Tri Sigma, has been chosen by the Delta Alpha chapter to go to the National Convention in Denver, Colorado in June. One pledge from each chapter will be sent to this convention but only one of those pledges will be chosen to be initiated by the National officers. Miss Rose is a junior elementary education major from Sutton.

A Sigma Sewtique Sale will be held on Apr. 28 from 8-11 p.m. in room 219 of Women's Hall, and on Apr. 29 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. in front of the Old Cafeteria. Various objects created and hand sewn by the sisters will be available at reasonable prices.

Delta Zeta

Wednesday was Turnabout Day for the sisters of Delta Zeta. The actives had to earn 100 merits from the pledges by helping them throughout the day.

Big sisters have been assigned to the pledges. They are: Jodi Athey, Marsha Monroe; Sherry Catalano, Linda Fox; Barbara Emerick, Sandi Suran; Kathy Fluharty, Elida Van Allen; Janet Finster, Mary Hickman; Tina Haney, Susan Stewart; Sally Hobensack, Mary Hickman; Pulette Jackson, Debbie Stump; Beth Kimble, Cheryl Chaddock; Connie Kuhl, Jenny Page; Susie Lynch, Sharon Fisher; Judy Meads, Roseanna Corathers; Patsy Reeves, Mary Cunningham; Susan Smith, Kay Coberly; Donna Wilt, Betsy Wingfield; Pam Wolford, Jackie Cummings; Kay Woody, Jeannie Rentschler.

Sandi Suran, a sophomore English major, was initiated Sunday. She received Best Scrapbook award in her pledge class and is now serving as press chairman.

This weekend the sisters of Delta Zeta Sorority will be attending State Day at West Liberty College. Many activities are planned including a formal banquet to be held Saturday night. Awards will be presented at the banquet.

Dr. Wilburn gives the initial send off for the TKE bathub to Parkersburg for Easter Seals.

Alpha Sig

Miss Paula Cyrus, Field Representative of Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority, will visit Gamma Kappa chapter April 4-9.

Miss Cyrus, a resident of St. Albans, received her A.B. in Early Childhood Education from Marshall University in May, 1970. As a member of Rho Rho chapter on that campus, she served her chapter as membership director, rush chairman, Panhellenic delegate, and standards chairman. This past year Miss Cyrus received the nomination of her chapter for the Elizabeth Bird Small Award. On campus she was active in student government as Student Senate Secretary and Election Coordinator. On the yearbook staff, she served for two years as Greek Editor and Class Editor.

Her visit is for inspection purposes and is annually done by the sorority's national council.

Big sisters have also been assigned. Janet Posey is a big sister for Sarah Fowler and Brenda Meek; Gayla Deitz is Linda Meek's big sister; Francis Spiker is Linda Glass's; Jane Barnes is Nancy France's; Vicky Smith is Sandy Sutphin's and Barbara Southers; Mona Wilson is Patricia Sturm's, Sharon Sturm's, and Germaine Cox's; Carol Blake is Sharron Hughes'; Ruth Ann Hopkins is Annalee Conley's; and Ann Starcher is Janelle Grey-nold's and Jo Ellen Conley's.

Pledges and actives spent the weekend in Huntington and enjoyed their 1971 State Day with chapters from Marshall University and Concord College. The chapter was awarded the state trophy for the best scrap book entry.

Theta Xi

The Kappa Eta chapter of Theta Xi will hold its spring weekend this week. Friday night there will be a dance in the ballroom open to the members of Theta Xi. Saturday night the members are sponsoring a Spring Fling Dance. The dance will be in the College Ballroom from 9-12 p.m. Admission to the dance is $1 per person and the dress is gub.

Mr. Ralph Kornegay, advisor, was given the Outstanding Young Men of America award. This award is given to twelve young men from every state who have made a contribution to education or the community they serve. Mr. Kornegay was recommended for this award by the University of North Carolina in Wilmington.

The brothers will attend a spaghetti dinner Sunday night. The dinner is being given by Theta Girls, auxiliary to Theta Xi.

Plans are now underway for Closed Ball which will be held May 1. Tentative plans are for Closed Ball to be held at Parkersburg.

The current pledge project is to make a picnic table and barbecue pit.

Actives and pledges will participate in a spring clean-up as soon as the weather improves. They will clean their property as well as the surrounding neighborhood.

Pioneers To Travel To West Va. Tech

The 1971 edition of the Glenville Pioneer baseball team will travel to Montgomery Saturday where they will face the W. Va. Tech Golden Bears in a double header.

Coach Milliken has high hopes for the Pioneers this season and feels that they will be a much improved ball club. Milliken also feels that the conference on the whole will be much better than in the past years. He said that the baseball teams in the WVAC get stronger every year.

W. Va. Tech has played one game thus far this season defeating W. Va. State 7-2.

Milliken is expected to start Mike Wentzel and Bill Rice as pitchers in the games at Tech. Wentzel has been a mainstay on the Pioneer pitching staff for the past two years and will be relied on heavily again. Bill Rice is a sophomore from Pt. Pleasant and has a tremendous pitching talent. Rice starred for the Pioneers last year as a freshman. Much of the team's success this year will depend on the big sophomore's right arm.

Down On The Corner

by Mike Smith

We're Proud of our Team...

Although our bowling team tasted defeat in the roll-off with W. Va. State Saturday at Parkersburg, we are still very proud of them. The bowlers should hold their heads high as they proved over the long season that they are the best bowling team in the WVAC. Intramural Action...

The Horses will face STS for the intramural championship Monday night. The Horses consist of Jim (Peck) Dorsey, Steve Stoffel, Carl Williams, Ernie Williams, John Pratt, Kenny Morrison, and Dave Potter. STS is led by Steve Jordan, Les Cummings, Mike Seams, Doug Lee, Jim Carter, Rich Richmond, and Jeff Jackson. The Horses advanced to the finals by beating Claude Blankenships, "Good Guys." STS was victor over the "Winners in their semi-final game, the Winners pulled off two upsets in the tournament first defeating Faculty 1, and then beating Red Devils 1. Yes, I know Boogerhole is not in the finals. They were edged 62-20. College VS. Professional...

I would like to speak of a problem facing our colleges today. Some of you will agree and of course others will disagree. I am speaking of the signing of college athletic stars by the professional leagues. To be more exact, the signing of Spencer Haywood and Johnny Neuman by the American Basketball Association. This to me is very disgusting. Everyone knows that Haywood and Neuman still had two years left in their college careers when they signed with the Pros. I am pleased by the fact that the National Basketball association has promised no raids on college undergraduates. The NBA is a high classed organization and this proves it. The ABA, which is trying its very best to establish itself, has proven that they are at best, "A Bush League." One thing that really disturbs me is that people defend the college signees. I don't defend them and here is my reason. Johnny Neuman made an obligation to the University of Mississippi when he signed a scholarship to play basketball and attend there. By signing with the college Neuman obligated himself and many people depended on him. I can sympathize with his family situation, but I feel that something else could have been worked out. In my opinion ABA and Johnny Neuman were very unethical in what they did. The NCAA president expressed his regret over this happening when he said that the worst thing was a lot of undergraduates might follow Neuman's path, and a lot of them would not make professional ball. He said that this would cost them their chance to get a college education. Other underclassmen were drafted by the ABA. Here's hoping that they don't sign.

GSC Defeated By State In Bowling Tournament

This past weekend the GSC bowling men were defeated by W. Va. State in the State Bowling tournament entitling State to be district 28 representatives. This means that GSC is still conference champ and W. Va. State is tournament champ. This coming weekend, W. Va. State will compete for area 7 champion. If they win they will continue on to Kansas City.

GSC team average was 190 with State bowling 202 average. High man for GSC was Ron Sams with a 1159 for six games. High game man was Wally Kesling.

GSC represented the state tournament last year in Kansas City.

Organization's Constitution Is Ratified; Veteran's Club Meets, Elects Officers

Five officers were elected and a constitution was ratified at a meeting of the Veteran's club held Tuesday, March 23.

The officers are Larry Derenberger, president; John Downs, vice-president; William Gallagher, secretary; Tom Miller, treasurer; and Bruce Lambert, master-at-arms.

A committee was formed last fall to draft a constitution for the organization based on the constitution for the Veteran's club at West Virginia Tech.

According to the constitution, the purpose of the club is to encourage and help veterans to attend college, and to assist any way possible any Veteran at Glenville State College. A committee to formulate a plan of action was formed at the meeting.

The club will be a fraternal organization, and will be independent of the state organization for a while. A committee of three has been formed to check into sponsors for the club. There will be four faculty sponsors for the club.

It was decided at the meeting to continue to use the temporary emblem. The emblem depicts a figure which is half-soldier and half-student, holding a pencil like a gun.

Dr. Smith Is Head Of Forestry Dept.

by Steve Frame

Dr. David W. Smith is the man who holds the position of chairman of the Department of Forest Technology at Glenville State College. Dr. Smith who has his office in the new forestry building located on Mineral Road is a native of Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., and obtained his education at Iowa State University. Dr. Smith is married and the father of two children, Laurie Ann, age 13 and Kristen Elizabeth, age 5. His wife, Beverly Joan Smith, is an elementary teacher.

Dr. Smith obtained his B.S. degree in Forest Management from Iowa State University in 1960 and entered the United States Navy that same year.

Dr. Smith received his M.S. degree from Iowa State University in Silviculture Forestry in Aug. 1968.

From March 1, 1969 to May 31 Dr. Smith taught courses in Silvics and Silviculture to forestry students in their junior year of university work. Course description is: "Silvics-effects of genetic and environmental factors on tree processes underlying principals of Silvicultural practices on tree development and growth."

From June of 1969 until November of 1970, Dr. Smith held the position of Graduate Research Assistant at Iowa State University Dept. of Forestry while completing all requirements for a Ph.D. degree.

During this time he planned, conducted, and analyzed research in the area of Forest Biology. Specifically he conducted controlled environment research with Scotch Pine seedlings. The major independent variables are soil moisture and texture.

Dr. Smith also inspected the differences in nutrients uptake under the different combinations of treatment. In a closely related study, he analyzed the differences in growth response to different forms of nitrogen fertilizer.

Dr. Smith was awarded his Ph.D. degree from Iowa State University in Nov. 1970. As one might guess by his chosen field of endeavor, Dr. Smith is an outdoor man. His hobbies include: team sports, auto mechanics, surfing, and traveling.

The Kappa Delta Pi-SEA annual banquet will be held tonight at 7 p.m. in the new cafeteria. Kappa Delta Pi members are requested to attend the initiation of new members at 6:30 p.m. in the Multi-Purpose Room.

Notice:
Due to printing difficulties The Mercury will not publish this coming week. There will, however, be an issue available Wed., Apr. 14.

Home Furnishings Class Project Is Program On Redoing Chairs

The Problems in Home Furnishings Class, under the direction of Mrs. Lillian Chaddock, has as its project the refinishing of old chairs. These old chairs are brought from home by the girls and in this class they learn to evaluate the chair, what it needs, and then select the fabric according to the color scheme and what is best suited.

When refinishing the chair the girls retie the springs in an eight-way tie, repad when it is needed, and refinish the wood. The fabric is cut according to matching designs after a layout diagram for each piece is made.

This class, which ends at midterm, is taught through demonstration workshop techniques. The techniques are later used for teaching adult education and tenth graders for Home Furnishings Class. These girls also learn to make draperies and learn the methods and styles for them.

This class is taught once a year, and is not restricted to home economics majors. Men and women, professors and their wives, and townspeople, if they are interested, may enroll for this class.

Mrs. Chaddock stated that she generally has larger classes in the summer due to the fact that there is more available space.

The girls enrolled in this class were Rebecca Lothes, Susan Morrison, Judy Jordan, Draunta Mullens, and Debbi Hampton. Miss Lothes refinished a lounge chair, which is approximately 25 years old, in rust and green fabric for her father. Miss Morrison did a swivel chair in orange and green fabric with a beige background. Miss Jordan reupholstered a chair in green and brown fabric. The chair was purchased second handed by her parents when they were first married. A Chippendale chair was redone by Miss Mullens in a green and blue tweed fabric. Miss Hampton refinished a Sherton occasional chair in a two-tone blue cut velvet.

Mrs. Chaddock stated that these girls have worked very hard on these chairs and that she could give each girl more attention because the class was so small, thus providing a better quality of work. She also stated that this was a good vocational course and a major course in any vocational school.

Some students who have completed this class have opened their own upholstery shops to supplement their income from a teaching job.

A hindrance toward more upholstery work done at home is due to the fact that specially-purchased tools and equipment are needed to perform this service.

Mrs. Chaddock stated that there is a need for an added laboratory work hour so those who enroll may have time in class or lab to complete the project and will not have to work extra hours.

The tools used were a tack hammer, screwdriver, webbing stretcher, scissors, small electric drill, and homemade sawhorses used to elevate the chairs to work at eye level. These tools are the minimum equipment used. Regular sewing machines were used for the sewing of this fabric. Mrs. Chaddock stated that one heavy duty sewing machine for sewing extra heavy material should be available.

Susan Morrison displays her newly-upholstered swivel chair in green and orange upholstery.

Numerous Types Of Aid Are Put To Use At GSC

A very substantial number of Glenville State College students are presently receiving some type of financial aid. Forty two percent of the students now attending GSC are benefitting from at least one of ten different programs.

These programs and the percentage of the student body engaged in them are as follows: Workshop 8 per cent; Work-study 6 per cent; Educational opportunity grant: Initial 6 per cent; renewal 9 per cent; National Defense Student Loan 14 per cent; Guaranteed Student Loan 17 per cent; Scholarships, Benedum 3 per cent; John C. Show 1 per cent; WV Board of Education, elementary 13 per cent; secondary 33 per cent; General 1 per cent.

These programs combined represent a total of $516,950. It seems financial aid is available to practically any student wishing to obtain higher education.
