Annual Folk Festival Marks 23rd Year

For the 23rd successive year the West Virginia Folk Festival was held in Glenville. Started by Dr. Patrick Gainer in the summer of 1950, it was a one-day event in connection with a course in Folk-Lore which he taught at Glenville State College. The Festival has become a regular event held each year during the third weekend in June.

The Festival was incorporated in 1960 as a permanent non-profit organization to 'preserve the remnants of pioneer life and culture in West Virginia in music, entertainment, education, and social and economic activities, to the end that citizens may appreciate and respect the achievements of their forebearers.' Activities throughout the year are planned and directed by the officers and directors. Mrs. E.G. Rollyson has been president and festival director since 1960.

The Festival was held this year from June 15-18. Special activities began at 3 p.m. Thursday, June 15, with the Shape Note Singing School in the Wesley Foundation Building. This activity was held also at 10 a.m. and 2:30 p.m., June 16 and 17 respectively.

Music and street dancing and variety folk program music and dancing was held each of the first three nights at 7 and 7:30 p.m. The country store was open each of the first three days as was the exhibits and demonstrations and horse traders' reunion.

A reception for the Belles, one each from 35 of the '55 counties, and friends was held at 9:30 p.m. at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Byron Turner. A Tea for the Belles was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Louis Manley beginning at 3 p.m. the second day. A luncheon and introduction of the Belles was held in the GSC Pioneer Center at 11 a.m. that day.

Other festivities held during the four days of the Folk Festival included a McGuffey Spelling Bee, Old-Time Fiddler and Banjo Pickin' contest, woodchopping demonstration, festival parade, muzzle-loading rifle shooting match and religious service at Job's Temple.

College Instructors Named Outstanding

Miss Bertha E. Olsen and Mrs. Virginia S. Hays have been chosen Outstanding Educators of America for 1972, according to a press release received here. Nominated earlier this year, they were selected for the honor on the basis of their civic and professional achievements.

Outstanding Educators of America is an annual awards program honoring distinguished men and women for their exceptional service, achievements, and leadership in the field of education. Each year those chosen outstanding educators are featured in a national awards volume, Outstanding Educators of America.

In praising the Outstanding Educators of America, U.S. Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) has said that they are "the men and women who by their actions in the classroom today mold the course of history. Our hope—the nation's youth—is in their hands."

Miss Olsen, recently retired, was associate professor of music here for 42 years. She holds a M.M. degree from the New England Conservatory of Music.

Mrs. Hays is an instructor in Business Administration. She holds B.S. and M.A. degrees from Marshall University.

Hardman Named Queen Aqua IV

Miss Debra Ann Hardman, 20, has won the title of Queen Aqua IV at the annual Water Regatta held at Sutton Lake, Sutton on June 15-18.

Miss Hardman is the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Robert O. Hardman of Mineral Road, Glenville. She is a senior at GSC majoring in math.

Miss Hardman competed in three categories: personality, swimsuit, and evening gown. Miss Hardman rated the highest in the swimsuit competition.

Among the festivities that went on Thursday through Saturday for the Queen and princesses were parades on water, ox roast, square dancing, fireworks, lunch with the Business and Professional Women in Sutton, a Queen's tour, and a Ball held at the armory.

As Queen Aqua IV, Miss Hardman won gift certificates and a huge trophy. She will be attending Festivals all over West Virginia during her reign.

The Xerox machine in the library is temporarily out of order. A new machine will be available as of July 1 for use by the faculty and students.

R.F.K. Summer Hours Given By R. Chapman

Mr. Ronald Chapman, the circulation director, has announced the hours the library will be observing for the summer term. They are 8 a.m. - 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. The library will not be open on Saturday morning or Sunday evening this summer, due to a reduction in student assistance.

Mr. Chapman also stated that there has been a change in checking out books on the reserve list. The books on reserve are now placed according to call number rather than by the old system of class number. Each student must complete a slip with the call number, the name of the book, the class title and number, and date and student's name. This slip, submitted to the worker will assure quick location of the book. Mr. Chapman feels that the new method will improve efficiency as well as be an economic point, a prime consideration, due to the cutdown of allocated funds to state schools.

A complete record of the reserve books is kept in a folder on the circulation desk for student references.

The "Primrose Path" May Contain Thorns

Here we are in a strange situation, somewhat familiar, yet somewhat foreign. It's called summer school. It means daily classes instead of classes on alternate days, it means sitting in classrooms on beautifully warm days, instead of on snowy, blustery days. It means a lot of new faces and similar faces seen on campus and a lot of old ones missed.

Yet, the classes are the same ones offered any other time, the classrooms only change bulletin boards and chalk - and often not even that - and let's face it, people come and go, and after a month or a year we won't miss those "old faces" so much. To my friends and contemporaries coming back after a month's rest, I want to ask you a question: do you ever wonder, as I do, what in the heck you are doing in summer school? My only hope is that this summer turns into a learning experience for us, not only from books of knowledge, but, to quote some important old somebody, from the Book of Life.

To the freshmen here for the first time, do not be overawed by finally getting into college. It isn't that great, friends. And do not be too critical either. It could be, and has been, worse. I only hope that you become somewhat like me, who can shout the praises of Glenville with one breath, and curse its problems and vices with the next. Glenville has a quality about it that will draw you and repulse you at the same time. It's an inexplicable quality, but I hope that for you, as for me, the loving quality is enough to keep you in school, and in school here, until your graduation.

To those commuting here for classes, and to those older people returning to school for one reason or another, I admire your courage. Your courage to return to school after all those years, your courage to get up in the morning and travel some distance to get here, are things to be admired in you. It's all some of us can do to come up the hill to classes every morning. Perhaps we, living in the dorms, do not have the incentive you have for college.

This is Glenville, for what it is worth. Not many people around here claim that it's a rose garden, although a few of the townsfolk will claim that the college is a "primrose path." Love it, hate it, or do what you please with it, but above all, learn from it.

Draft Induction Limit Is Lottery Number 50

The Selective Service System has announced that all prime draft candidates with lottery numbers one through 50 will be called for induction during July. Men attending summer school who receive induction orders may have their induction postponed until the end of the summer session in which they are enrolled, unless such sessions end before their scheduled induction date.

The July induction orders will be mailed beginning June 1. Men will be given at least 30 days notice of their induction. There were no draft calls in the first quarter of 1972; 15,000 men were called for April, May and June. The July call of 7,200 men will bring the total of men called thus far in 1972 to 22,200. The Department of Defense has announced that 50,000 men will be drafted in 1972. The August draft call anticipated at this time is to be approximately 9,000 and the lottery cutoff number for August will be announced in mid-June.

Today's instruction by Acting Director Byron Pepitone to State Headquarters and local boards primarily affects men who are members of the 1972 First Priority Selection Group, which is composed of registrants in classes 1-A, 1-A-O and 1-O who were born in 1952. A small number of older men also will be issued orders for July inductions. These are men who recently have lost deferments or whose initial postponements of induction expire during the month.

The July draft call covers the second series of inductions which have been handled on a Uniform National Call basis. Under this system, all eligible registrants with the same lottery numbers are issued induction orders to report in the same time period, regardless of their locations in the country.

They are: Pikeville-Inwood School, Northeast Martinsburg School, and Southeast Martinsburg School. Dr. Wilburn gave the dedication address. He served as assistant superintendent in the Berkeley County School system from 1937 to 1945.

Dr. Delmer Somerville offers a friendly hand to his replacement, Dr. Clarence Maze.

Marijuana Surveyed; Effects Considered

The Mercury is running a serial in the summer issues on the current topic of marijuana. The information below comes from the Federal Source Book, published by the National Clearinghouse For Drug Abuse Information.

Marijuana is Indian hemp (Cannabis sativa). The parts with the highest tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) content are the flowering tops of the plant. The leaves have a smaller amount. The stalks and seeds have little or none. THC is believed to be the active ingredient in marijuana. Many other compounds are present in marijuana, but they do not produce the mental effects of the drug.

Some marijuana may produce no effect whatsoever. A small amount of strong marijuana may produce marked effects. The THC content of the plant determines its mind-altering activity, and this varies from none to more than 2 percent THC. Because THC is somewhat unstable, its content in marijuana decreases as time passes.

The plant that grows wild in the United States is low in THC content compared to cultivated marijuana, or the Mexican, Lebanese, or Indian varieties. Climate, soil conditions, the time of harvesting and other factors determine the potency.

Hashish (hash) is the dark brown resin that is collected from the tops of potent Cannabis sativa. It is at least five times stronger than marijuana. Since it is stronger, the effect on the user is naturally more intense and the possibility of side effects is greater.

Marijuana does not lead to physical dependence. Therefore, it cannot be considered addicting. Chronic users become psychologically dependent upon the effects of marijuana.

Thus, it is classified as habituating.

The fact that a drug is not addicting has little relationship to its potential for harm, since dependence, whether psychological or physical, is a serious matter.

Because it affects the individual's self control, the effects of marijuana vary so widely that it can be either a stimulant or a depressant. THC is a strong hallucinogen with some sedative properties. Occasionally, a person intoxicated with marijuana will become stimulated and overactive.

In this country, it is generally smoked in self-rolled cigarettes called 'joints.' It is also smoked in ordinary pipes or water pipes. Marijuana and hashish can also be added to foods or drinks.

Reddening of the whites of the eyes, an increased heart rate, and a cough due to the irritating effect of the smoke on the lungs are the most frequent and consistent physical effects. Hunger or sleepiness are reported by some individuals.

Dr. J. Riddel Writes Books

Recently, Dr. Joseph N. Riddel, professor of English at the State University of New York at Buffalo, published a second book, this one on the poetry of the late C. Day Lewis, former poet laureate of Great Britain.

Dr. Riddel, a native of Grantsville, graduated from Glenville State College as an English major in the Class of 1953.

Dedication of the new book by Professor Hunter Whiting, former chairman of the Language Division at Glenville State College, and a former teacher of Dr. Riddel.

Dr. Riddel's first book, entitled, The Clairvoyant Eye: The Poetry and Poetics of Wallace Stevens, received favorable critical appraisal in the scholarly journals.

Upon graduating from Glenville State College in 1953, Professor Riddel became a graduate of the University of Wisconsin where he took both the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees.

Dr. Riddel has taught at Duke University, the University of California, at Riverside, and the State University of New York at Buffalo, where he is presently located.

Dr. Riddel has a third book in press on the poetry of William Carlos Williams.

'Between' Town Visited By Tourists

By Vickie Ratliff

The town of Glenville may be called a "between" town as it is always described as being "between" two more prominent points.

Perhaps because of its location it remains a little behind its sisters in both technology and moral pace.

The town is awakened annually from its stagnant dreams by a carefully planned Folk Festival that brings relief from the mundane norm and allows the "townsfolk to find their identity and forget that they are 'forgotten.'"

The festival's purpose is to draw tourists to this slumbering town where the old remain old and the young grow old in a like manner. Fiddles, laughter and hand clapping replace the normal splot of tobacco on pavement as the event begins.

As the festival opens the citizens come alive in a panorama of long dead youth. The ladies proudly display their crafts and wares, renew acquaintances and freely distribute gossip, while the men swap lies and seek to impress.

The festival becomes a cohesion of old thoughts and young ideas as the dulcimer wails into the night and the street dancing begins.

It is not the timeless wares displayed in freshly polished windows, not the handmade crafts that create the festival, it is the faces of its people—the animation reflected in the sweat of reeling partners under cloudy skies.

A tiny red-haired belle in a floor-length gown clutches the hand of her father and gazes wide-eyed as grandma 'cuts a hulk' and grandpa displays a long-dead lust for a grand-right.

The festival awakens and strengthens the self-respect of its people. They forget they reside in a 'between town' and lose themselves in the aroma of simmering saffron and slow roasting beef. For four nights they are the center of attention. Their town is an entity it is not 'between town'; it is theirs. And then it is over; and they soak their feet, and dream...

Jim "Doc" Garnett goes up for two points against Tim Cunningham during intramural action last week.

Have You Heard . . .

By Mike Rust

Now that the summer session is in full swing the intramural leagues have begun to move right along. Coaches Lilly and Carney have done excellent jobs of setting up both the softball and basketball leagues. Over sixty boys are taking part. The roundballers play on Tuesday and Thursday night and the glove and batsmen do battle on Monday and Wednesday night. If anyone is interested in playing in these leagues they can get in touch with one of the coaches or just sign up in the Physical Education building.

The golfers of GSC are to be commended for their fine performance out in New Mexico. Even though the linksters failed to make the cut they shot one of their finest team scores of the year. Coach Carney's golfers shot a first round score of 299. The golfers were in fourteenth place after the first day but the hot sun and the rough experience of the long drive got to the linksters the second day. Wayne Mencer and Neil Christiansen ended their fine careers at Glenville. Both golfers had been named to the All-Conference team in the past year. Hopes are high for next year however with many good young golfers to take their place.

While on the subject of golf, Jack Nicklaus added the second gem of Grand Slam to his record by winning the United States Open. Nicklaus has already won the Masters. If he can hang on and win both the British Open and the PGA, Jack will be the first golfer in history to win the professional's grand slam.

The Charleston Charlies have begun to put it all together and are currently in first place in the International League. The Charlies pitching has started to jell with the addition now of former major leaguer Bob Veale and regular Gene Garber.

Coach Hanlin's football camp has been termed highly successful by the participating parties. Talking to several of the boys who took part, they stated that they have learned a great deal about football and have gained many new friends. The young men also stated about the first class treatment they received at GSC and the friendliness of the people in the Glenville area. John Pratt, Rich Richmond, and Steve Buffington worked as student assistants during the camp and did a very fine job of showing the boys how to play different positions.

With the Summer Olympics coming up, look for the United States to once again dominate the field. The American runners could sweep many of the dashes and also do quite well in the field events. One of the most exciting events could be the pole vault competition with many of vaulters breaking the 18 foot barrier.

Four competitors have cleared 18 feet those being Dave Roberts of Rice University, 18 feet  $\frac{1}{4}$  inch, Chris Papanicolaou of Greece, 18 feet  $\frac{1}{4}$  inch, Kjell Isaksson of Sweden and Bob Seagen of Los Angeles both 18- $\frac{1}{4}$  for the pending world record.

Look for the NBA-ABA war to end shortly. The long awaited merger will probably take place within the next few months. Bet that will put an ease on the owners' pocket books.

Bluefield State College basketball squad has slated a tour of Europe for the upcoming basketball season. The Big Blues are scheduled to play in France, Germany, Luxemburg, Holland, and Belgium, starting Dec. 29 and lasting until Jan. 17. This has to be one of the best recruiting ideas in the past years.

I agree with Howard Cosell that some sort of legislation to establish a federal commission to bring some order into professional sports. Cosell wants the commerce department to regulate professional sports in such areas as team franchises, player contracts, drafting procedures, and telecasts.

Four teams will now compete in each class of West Virginia's high schools playoff system. This will help many of the teams with good records to have a chance for the state title.

The baseball owners won a big battle last week as the Supreme Court ruled that baseball was immune from Anti-trust Laws. This ruling also killed Curt Flood's challenge of the controversial reserve clause.

In the just looking around department John Pratt has stated that he will average over a 100 yards a game in the upcoming football campaign. Look for the Lakers to romp over all the teams in the intramural basketball league. If anyone is wanting a good catcher for their softball team just ask Mark Reger. With the number and size of the football prospects coming in next season one can probably be in for some good GSC football teams in coming years.

Final Score . . .

It is interesting to note that the Pioneers golfers total of 299 would have tied them for first place in the NCAA tournament. Who says that the small colleges cannot compete with the larger universities?

Needed: One team is now being needed in the intramural softball league. If anyone is interested in playing, contact Coach Carney or Larry Lamb. The team should consist of 10 or more players. Games will be played on Monday and Wednesday nights.

Golfers Play In Tourney In Roswell, New Mexico

The golfers of Glenville State College recently made their first appearance ever in the national NAIA golf tournament held in Roswell, New Mexico. Coach Carney's linksters placed 20th out of 32 teams.

The first day of competition saw the Pioneers in 13th place with a team total of 299. All-Conference star Rich Sansburg led the way with three over par round of 73 followed by John Taylor with a 74, Neil Christiansen one stroke back at 75 Bobby Wilson had a 77, and Wayne Mencer toured the course in 82. The 299 total was the lowest team score recorded by the Pioneer golfers this year.

With the temperature ranging over 100 degrees and the effects of a long drive still with them, the Pioneers met their downfall in second round competition. Neil Christiansen had the low score of the day for the Pioneers as he repeated his 75 score of the day before. Rounding out the rest of the scores, John Taylor shot a 78, Rich Sansburg came through with a 79, Captain Wayne Mencer followed at 80, and Bobby Wilson had an 81 total.

The Pioneers' second day total was 312 which gave them a two day total of 611. Glenville had to have a total of 607 to make the cut.

Coach Tim Carney said he felt the golf team played well and made a very respectable showing. Many of the golfers who competed in the tournament were to turn professional as soon as the school term ended. Coach Carney also feels that the golfers could make a return trip next year for he has three golfers returning and many young good golfers to replace the holes caused by graduation. The Blue Wave finished the season with a 40-8 record which is the best in the school's history.

United States International of San Diego, California won the NAIA national tournament as they dominated the field shooting under par round each day.

Coach Jesse Lilly Named Top Coach

Coach Jesse Lilly has added another award to his ever growing collection. He has been unanimously named by state sports writers, athletic directors, and college presidents as the WVIAC Basketball Coach of the Year for 1971-72. Earlier in the year he was named Coach of the Year in all state colleges and universities.

Lilly guided the Pioneers to an outstanding 26-7 record and the District 28 championship. His cagers won the district title by capturing the WVIAC Tourney title then dealing Joe Retton's Fairmont Falcons their first playoff setback in history.

Lilly attended Woodrow Wilson High School in Beckley where he was coached by the renowned Jerome Van Meter. Upon graduation from high school he enrolled at GSC and participated in football, basketball, and baseball. At one time or another he was an all-conference selection in each of these sports, showing that he was an outstanding athlete.

Beginning his coaching at Elkview High School, Kanawha county, Lilly coached all sports from 1948 through 1960. He then returned to Glenville, again coaching all sports from time to time. His Glenville basketball teams have won 116 games including 64 in the last 3 years.

Commenting on his most current award, Lilly said, "I feel honored, but to be honest, my players and Coach Carney should be equally recognized. We all worked together."

GSC Football Camp Termed Successful

The annual Glenville State College football camp is now under way and once again there is a full house on deck. The camp has been divided into two sections, June 18-23 and June 25-30 and is under the supervision of Head Coach Bill Hanlin and his assistants Coach Adolphson, Coach Summers, and Coach Milliken.

Coach Hanlin and his crew have been putting the boys through some rough drills during the week. The camps are for boys from grades 8-12. The coaches have been teaching the boys the finer points of mastering the fundamentals and techniques of football. Such things as passing, blocking, tackling, pass defense, and different offenses and defenses are some of the subjects the boys are being taught. One of the primary purposes of camp is to train the ambitious junior and high school players into being not only a good football player but to be better individuals on and off the field.

There will be seven visiting football coaches to help conduct the camp. They are Ron Rice, University of Maryland Paul Tanham, University of Arkansas Cecil Perkins, Potomac State College Frank Elwood, Ohio State University Don Arthur, East Bank High School, Carroll Bumgarner, Collins High School, and Marty Flannery, River High School.

Doctor Frank Jenio Conducts Research

Scientific research is being conducted by Dr. Frank Jenio, assistant professor of biology at Glenville State College. His study of fresh-water crustaceans is made possible by the use of a scanning electron microscope, which was developed in the mid sixties.

Dr. Jenio's three and one-half year research was started at the Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, Ill., where he was writing his doctoral thesis on the ecology of fresh-water amphipods. He gathered specimens of the amphipods (sometimes called freshwater shrimp, scuds, or sideswimmers) in a small stream near the Mississippi River.

Earlier research has shown that their chief value in the food chain is their being a source of food for spring cave-fish. This fish depends upon these crustaceans for a major part of its diet.

At this point the research is limited because of the lack of facilities and the expense of the instrument. The scanning electron microscope is presently valued at approximately $85,000 - $120,000. The specialized processes require laboratory work with an extremely thin coating of gold. The cell tissue is made visible by the use of gold leaf for study under the microscope.

Besides the study of crustaceans, Dr. Jenio has given his attention to research on arachnids, mostly spiders.

Biology Department Attempts Changes

The biology department has undergone change. Studies are directed toward processes, physiology, structure, genetics, evolution, and ecology, rather than the classical teaching and nomenclature.

Four professors are now teaching Man and His Environment in Biology 101 and 102. They are: Dr. Robert Deal, Dr. Frank Jenio, Mr. Byrl Law, and Dr. John Chisler. There are lectures, lab sessions, and discussion sessions. Students now enjoy more freedom to do studies and follow scientific research.
