Mr. Nelson Wells

Mr. Nelson Wells Retires After 20 Yrs. On Faculty

Mr. Nelson L. Wells, Associate Professor of Education, Glenville State College, has indicated his desire to seek retirement as of May 12, 1973, after having served in the student teaching program of the College for the past twenty years.

Mr. Wells, a native of Gilmer County, is married to the former Miss Starling Amick and they have made their home on the Sand Fork Road, Glenville, West Virginia.

Mr. Wells began his service to Glenville State College as a supervising teacher in the Summer Training School in 1948, and became a full-time staff member in the Division of Education during the 1950-51 academic school year. At this time, he also served in the Division of Social Studies. As an Assistant Professor of Education in 1954, Mr. Wells assumed the position in secondary education which he holds today.

He received his Master of Arts Degree from West Virginia University and completed additional graduate work at Northwestern University and George Peabody College for Teachers, specializing in student teaching programs.

His contribution to the teaching methods, and administration and leadership of student teacher education has been immeasurable. For a period of ten years, Mr. Wells was the only secondary education professor at Glenville State College. He helped to initiate the nine-weeks term for student teachers, an innovative program in teacher education in West Virginia, the first such program of its kind in the State. He estimates that he has given professional guidance to as many as twelve hundred student teachers during his career.

Mr. Wells has served as a resource person and consultant in various county

Miss West Virginia To MC Annual Glamour Competition

By Cathy Eye

The Miss GSC Pageant, sponsored by the Student Congress, will be held April 12 at 8 p.m. in the College auditorium. Miss West Virginia, Lynn Koper, will be the mistress of ceremonies and will stay at the Pioneer Motel during her visit to Glenville.

The theme of the pageant is "Sounds of the 70's" and will begin with the fifteen contestants doing a routine to "Let Me Entertain You". The girls will compete in evening gowns, accompanied by each giving a 15 second speech about herself. Following the gown competition there will be the bathing suit competition and a short intermission. The last phase of competition will be the talent presentation. The present Miss GSC, Rosie Young, will then give a farewell speech and entertain with a song while the judges are making their final decisions.

The judges are Robert C. Butler, Carolyn Allman, Ed Alfred, Elaine Leisue, and Donna Billingsley. Steven Nicely, executive director of the pageants in West Virginia, Terry Boso, the local director, and Rosie Young, the talent projectionist, are now helping the candidates prepare for the pageant.

Greg Badgett's combo and Mike Barnhouse will entertain the audience during the pageant while the girls are changing for the competitive events.

Student Congress is charging a one dollar admission fee for the pageant and all proceeds will go to the scholarship fund at GSC.

The fifteen candidates for Miss GSC are: Catherine DeGarmo, Terry Feaster, Pamela Greynolds, Sherry Helvy, Melanie Hess, Cayla Hunter, Gay Kincaid, Patti Sparks, Celia McCoy, Jackie Miller, Joyce Paugh, Phoebe Sunderland, Lori Tomey, Jo Ann Westfall and Dorothy Wright.

Dorothy Lynn Wright, a freshman at Glenville State College, is the 19 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wright of Beckley. She has black hair, brown eyes, weighs 120 lbs. and is 5'6" tall. She was granted a Board of Regents scholarship and won the citizenship award in high school. Miss Wright is presently active in community, church, and school affairs, and is the secretary of Blacks United Together at GSC. Her favorite hobbies are cheerleading and poetry and her favorite sport is basketball. She will be doing a dramatic interpretation of the poem "The Creation" in the pageant, and her sponsor is Blacks United Together. After graduating from GSC Miss Wright plans to teach and so some writing.

Terri Lee Feaster is the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Feaster from Elkins. She has dark blonde hair, green eyes, weighs 135 lbs. and is 5'5" tall. Miss Feaster is a freshman at GSC. She has placed second in the West Virginia Forest Festival in 1972, placed first and second in other local art exhibits, the third runner-up in the West Virginia Regatta Festival in 1972, was a contestant in Miss Independence Day Pageant in Elkins, in 1972. She is also a member of Delta Zeta sorority. Miss Feaster's hobbies are painting and sewing and her favorite sports are cliff repelling and mountain climbing. Her ambitions are to become a juvenile book illustrator. She has had special training in dramatics, dance, cliff repelling and spelunking. Miss Feaster will be sponsored by Glenville Motor Company in the pageant.

Red Cross Collects 135 Pints of Blood

The Red Cross Bloodmobile was in the Glenville State College ballroom Tuesday and Wednesday to accept donations of blood. The bloodmobile was sponsored by the Greek organizations at GSC.

According to Miss Sandra Crutchfield, Glenville compares favorably to other campuses as the volunteer help and the donors are very cooperative. Miss Crutchfield stated, however, that there seemed to be little interest shown by industries and corporations.

The quota at Glenville is 350 pints per year, which runs from October to October. There were 107 pints taken Tuesday, and 28 pints donated by 1:00 p.m. Wednesday, as compared to 148 pints taken in one day the last time the bloodmobile was here. In order to meet the quota in Glenville, 20 per cent of the faculty and students must donate.

Mrs. Vasquez, R.N. from Calhoun County, heads the program in Glenville. She is quite optimistic about its continuation.

Pamela Dianne Greynolds is the 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry W. Greynolds of Burnsville. She is a senior music comprehensive major. With background in singing and piano, she plans to sing as her talent for the pageant. She is a Dean's List student, member of Kappa Delta Pi, Modern Music Masters, National Honor Society, 4-H pin wearers, All-State chorus, church secretary, Home Maker of Tomorrow, Strawberry Festival princess and runner up to Miss Water Nymph in the West Virginia Regatta. Her hobbies are reading and singing and her favorite sport is

Racism Exists On GSC Campus?

Racism is a touchy subject, especially in a place like this, where everyone knows everyone else's business and sometimes it becomes dangerous to state your opinion. The reason it is dangerous is because sometimes you hit on a bit of truth, and the truth hurts. So if I make some enemies by relating the truth, they won't be the first I ever made that way and probably won't be the last.

Let me state, first of all, that I can understand the racist point of view. I was born and bred in Beckley, where there are more sophisticated rednecks than any other place in the state. The first year our high school integrated, I was a junior. I had been told all my life that Blacks were mean, sneaky, inferior, about to take over the world, and love watermelon. That year, Martin Luther King was killed. The day after the assassination, our high school was so full of race consciousness that it could be felt in the air. Everyone was tense; hate and distrust abounded. Fights were everywhere that day. I myself nearly knocked the you-know-what out of one girl that deliberately shoved me. I watched with awe, and with fear, the procession of Blacks down the hall at noon singing "We Shall Overcome."

But something happened at fifth period that was the beginning of a change of belief for me. I had become fairly well acquainted with the two Black girls that sat behind me. We used to crack a lot of jokes and this particular day I was worried about what would happen when they came in. One came in singing "We Shall Overcome," and the other came right behind her complaining about how she couldn't sing, please shut up, people can't think with all that noise. It ended up with the teacher bringing Kleenex to the four of us, the girl beside me having heard it all, too. We had laughed ourselves to tears, and the tension, at least in that class, had disappeared.

Then I discovered, slowly, because I can be incredibly dumb at times, that there is a fallacy in racist beliefs. Most racists have a Black friend, or some Black friends, who are, to them, an exception to the rule. The belief is "all Blacks are bad except so-and-so who is as white as I am." This belief is based on the symbols of black representing evil and white representing good. Nobody is all good, and nobody is all bad; no race is all good or all bad; everybody is a little bit of both and anybody who claims differently is downright lying. Just as no person is entirely good or entirely bad, no race is entirely good or entirely bad, because races are composed of people. Why isn't that clear to everybody? Why do some whites still consider themselves superior to Blacks? I know why I did it. Because I was ignorant. A few Black friends and some college courses showed me that.

But there are "educated" seniors here who still hold bigoted ideas that equate ignorance. I see them; they're the ones who look down their noses at the white girls who date Black guys, the ones who play "Black and White" on the jukebox and move to the other side of the room when a Black person walks into the room. I see them, I know who they are. They may have long hair, but they're rednecks.

To them, I suggest taking a few history and sociology classes. If they have had them, then I suggest taking them over and listening this time. They will find out why some Blacks hate whites, and why some whites hate Blacks. They should learn about repression of Blacks and about ignorant and insecure whites. And if they still think they're better than somebody else, let me tell them something a friend of mine once said, He said:

"When those rednecks look down their noses at me because I've got my arm around a Black friend, they call me 'nigger lover.' But it's all going to come back on them. Someday, some Blacks that are sick of being scapegoats are going to lock them in their cars, and burn them. And maybe when those Blacks are standing around saying 'Burn, whitey, burn,' maybe they'll see me laughing at them, and wish they'd been a 'nigger lover' too."

Despair Must Triumph

Dear Editor,

What is it about a person who knows that reason does not exist, that there are no exact values like good and evil, and that the only substance that is everlasting is an abstract one called change? The same individual may still have a deep compassion for other people and for the emotional relationships that sometimes occur between them. What is it about a person that knows without doubts that there has never been a god, that religion is only a crutch for the weak human mind to lean on might be more than a cliché, and that the only souls that do exist are restricted to the physical extremes of man's home? The same individual probably still hopes to go to hell, so he might have the small satisfaction of knowing so many were right after all, and that he was wrong.

Maybe it is the constant battle between hope and despair that keeps this kind of mind alert and away from attempts to escape. This person realizes that there is no retreat, no reverting to old beliefs, and no hope for those who hold this knowledge. The heart still feels for hope, though, for some idea or fact that can aid the individual.

Perhaps the person has consciously given up searching for a universal reason that everyone could see and comprehend. Now he can close his mind to the universe and open it to individual ambitions and desires. He may even find a love for other individuals, even though this emotion is most likely temporary and ever-changing. This love could even help him struggle through a life that is filled with mental insecurity that is often based on hypocrisy.

Even though the knowledge of the lack of universal reason controls this person's emotions, he does have that form of hope, not only for his finding of an eternal god, for himself, but for the chance of his philosophy being false, for others. This man holds the hope that he has erred, but he really knows that he has not. The knowledge is complete.

This is why despair must win over hope either, gradually, before the end or at the end itself. Compassion for others could still exist, but it is compassion for their ignorance, not for the chance that their belief might be right. The despair, like the knowledge, is finally complete, irreparable, and the hope that only partially existed before is now gone with all the ideals that held his existence together.

Customers will receive their merchandise the same week.

ASA sisters will be attending Radford College April 13-15 for Providence Day. Norma Rexroad was appointed President of Panhellenic. The ASA pledges will be initiated April 26.

Crusade Conducted Wed. Through Sat.

From Wednesday to Saturday, a new life evangelical crusade will be held in the GSC Amphitheatre. Some of the area's top Christian ministerial speakers will be present, along with some modern gospel groups of considerable talent.

Thursday and Friday evening, the Rev. Bill Angel of Grace Gospel Church of Pettyville will speak. Wednesday night's service will be under student and youth supervision. Saturday afternoon Rev. Ron James of Alderson-Broaddus College, and a brother of GSC's own John James will deliver the message. On Sunday, beginning at 9:30 a.m., a retreat will be held at the Gilmer County 4-H Camp. This will be a day of sharing, witness, faith, rededication, and fun. A communion service will be held at the camp and be presided by Rev. Charles S. Scott of the First Baptist Church of Glenville. Sunday morning's message will be given by David Bragg of Dupont, W.Va.

In case of rain, the weekday services will be held in the Ballroom of the Pioneer Center on Wednesday and Thursday, Friday night and Saturday afternoon, the auditorium will be used as an alternate. The evening services will begin each evening at 6:30. The Saturday service will begin at 2 p.m. Bible study sessions will be held at 10 p.m. Monday in Room 208-C Women's Hall and in Room 306 Louis Bennett Hall.

Dean Merits Nat'l Award

Each year the Delta Pi Epsilon National Business Fraternity honors the most outstanding research done by a doctoral student. Both the doctoral student and his adviser are honored nationally. The recipient for the 1972 award was Dr. Betty Jean Brown and her adviser Dr. Clarence Maze, Academic Dean of Glenville State College. They were honored at a national luncheon held February 24 in Chicago, Ill. The title of Dr. Brown's dissertation was "The Relationship Between Superior and Student Evaluations of Teaching Effectiveness of General Business Teachers."

Before taking his present position as Academic Dean of Glenville State, Dr. Maze held the position of Director of Doctoral Studies in Business Education at the University of Tennessee. Over his term of seven years there, he was adviser to ten completed doctoral students.

The play Impromptu will be given Tues., April 10 at 8 p.m. in the auditorium. The Cultural Affairs Committee (CAC) at GSC sponsored the play, which is under the direction of Miss Kathy Leisering.

The cast is Skip Kincaid, Dave Grapes, Steven Boilon, and Marjqueta Stephens.

CAC plans to enter the Pulitzer Prize winning play in the W. Va. Intercollegiate Speech and Drama festival April 26-28 at Jackson's Mill.

M.U. Defeats GSC In Baseball Game

Marshall University spoiled the home opener for the GSC baseball team by posting a 5-0 victory over the Pioneers.

Mark Doboney, a freshman from Warton, NJ allowed the Pioneers only two hits in posting his second win of the campaign. Marshall also raised its record to 5-0 for the year.

Marshall scored three runs in the second off Pioneer starter Rick O'Reilly. Daren Woody and Steve Gwinn got back to back base hits leading off the second. Tim Murphy was then safe on a fielder's choice to load the bases. Mark Doboney was hit by a pitch to force in one run while Steve Gwinn and Tim Murphy scored on Pedriot Estrill's sacrifice fly and Tom Majher's ground out.

Marshall also added two runs in the seventh inning off Kevin Place who pitched the last four innings for the Pioneers.

Glenville threatened in the fourth when, with one out, Roger Bonnett walked and stole second. Rudy King then looped a base hit to center field but Bonnette was cut down at the plate from Steve Gwinn to Tim Murphy. King took second on the throw to the plate and went to third on a wild pitch. With two out Rob Church and Dallas Wallen walked to load the bases but King was caught off third base and cut down for the third out.

Bonnette got the second hit for the Pioneers in the ninth as GSC posed a mild threat with two on and one out but Doboney was equal to the occasion and put out the fire.

The Saturday double header with Marshall was postponed due to rain.

The 1973 golf team consists of Guy Perry, John Taylor, Dennis Fitzpatrick, Richard Sansbury, Bob Wilson, and Coach Tim Carney.

Summer Football Sessions Scheduled For June 17, 24

Coach Bill Hanlin has announced the Glenville State College football camp will be at two different dates; June 17 - 22 and June 24-29.

The purpose of this camp is to teach junior and senior high school boys who are ambitious to play better football, the finer points in mastering the fundamentals and techniques of the sport. Individual and group instruction by competent coaches and specialists with ample practice and drills should produce surprising results in future competition.

The camp is for boys from grades 7 - 12 and the cost is $55.00. Each session's cost includes meals (15), housing, use of college recreation facilities, linens, pillows, blankets, and camp tee-shirt. A $25.00 deposit is requested when registering. The remainder is payable on opening day.

Each boy should provide his own transportation to and from camp. The college is located on Rt. 33-119, 40 miles east of Spencer, 63 miles east of Parkersburg on Rt. 47-5, 27 miles west on Weston on U.S. 33-119, and 70 miles from New Martinsville and Routes 18-47 and 33-119.

Twenty-four hour supervision will be provided by Counselors and Coaches under the direction of Bill Hanlin, Glenville's Head Football Coach, and Assistant, Whitey Adolphson, Bob Summers, and Jerry Milliken.

A medical examination will be required of all campers. A form will be provided upon proper application. A doctor and nurse will be available at all times during camps.

The Camp is totally sponsored by the college and with the specific aim of improving the individual quality of football in our area. Since the camp will take place on the campus and with college facilities, it should provide each individual with a helpful experience. The camp is sanctioned by the West Virginia Secondary School Activities Commission.

Tennis Team Loses Match

The GSC Tennis Team traveled to Morris Harvey on Tues., April 3 for its season's opener against two strong opponents, in Morris Harvey and W.Va. Tech. The Dual Match ended with the Pioneers going down to two defeats early in the season, as Morris Harvey downed the Pioneers 6-3, and Tech gained a 7-2 victory.

The defending champions M.H. Team had little or no trouble handling the much inexperienced Pioneer Squad capturing 4 of 6 singles and 2 of 3 in doubles competition. In singles the first four Pioneers fell to the hands of M.H. players, before senior Dave Wright captured his match over M.H.'s Furillo, with scores of 7-5 and 6-1. The sixth singles match went to the Pioneer's Gary Dobson by a forfeit. The Pioneer's lone victory in the doubles came in the third match to Ken Pritt and Mike Kerns, also by forfeit.

Against the tough W.Va. Tech team, the Pioneers managed to score victories only once in the singles and in the doubles. In the first match Chris Anderson went down to the hands of Tech's Chavez after forcing a third match, as the scores were 6-1, 5-7, and 6-0. In the second position Pioneers senior Scotty Hamilton captured the solitary win in singles for the Pioneers, his opponent by scores of 3-6, 6-3, and 6-4. Ken Pritt put up a good fight but dropped two straight matches to Tech's Givens, 6-3 and 6-4. In the doubles competition Scott Hamilton again came out victorious for the Pioneers, as he and Dave Wright defeated Coles and Givens by scores of 7-6, 1-6, and 7-6.

The Pioneers skill on the outdoor courts will again be tested on Sat. as they take on the Salem Tigers. Rescheduled for Tues., 10 is the match against Wesleyan, and following that, the Pioneers will invade tennis courts of the Falcons, in a match against Fairmont on the 12th.

GSC Bowlers Finish 6th In WVIAC State Tourney

The WVIAC State Bowling Tournament was held this past weekend in Charleston to determine the District 28 representative to the National Finals, to be held in Kansas City.

The GSC Keglers, who were edged out in the tournament last year, after several years of domination over the WVIAC Conference, again made an impressive showing. Only 641 pins separated the top six teams, with Alderson-Broadus taking high honors with 14,971 total team pins. Fairmont State and West Liberty took second and third place finished with scores of 14,797 and 14,682, respectively. Morris Harvey, with 14,620, West Virginia State, with 14,501 and the Pioneers with 14,330 finished out the top six sports.

The tournament was set with four separate matches. Each match carried four individual games. All six members on each squad then bowled a total of 16 games. High Series for the 16 games went to Roger Meadows of West Virginia State with 3095 total pins. D. Smith of Concord had the high game, 267.

The All-Conference Bowling team and "Bowler of the Year" award were also announced at the tournament. The "Bowler of the Year" award is based on the highest average for 48 games, and sent to Glen Epting of Alderson-Broadus with a 190.4 average. The All-Conference team, also based on 48 games, was awarded to the bowlers with the top five averages in the Conference. Tom Newberry, the GSC freshman Kegler, was honored on this team, along with Glen Epting, Bill Bowers and Doug Schrefelbien, all of Alderson-Broadus, and John Blaylock of W.Va. State.

To add to his All-Conference honor Newberry was also the leading Pioneer Kegler in tournament, with a series of 3007, and an average of 187.9. Other averages for the Pioneers in the tournament are Dave Grapes, 178.6 ave.; Tom Mattox, 174.8 ave.; and Humphries, 168.3 ave.

Golfers Defeat Harvey In Season's 1st Match

The Glenville State golfers opened up their season on an impressive note with a victory in their first match. Morris Harvey hosted the tournament which was held at Edgewood Country Club in Charleston.

Glenville's John Taylor was medalist for the match shooting an 82. Other scores for the Pioneers included: Bob Wilson, 83; Rick Sansbury, 87; Dennis Fitzpatrick, 89; and Guy Perry, 90.

The Pioneers had a team total of 341, followed closely by West Virginia State with 344, Morris Harvey totaled 361 and Rio Grande had 423.

Coach Carney's linksters will travel to Phillippi tomorrow to do battle against Alderson-Broadus.

Mr. Wells Retires After 20 Years

 workshops in Central West Virginia, and developed the basic plan for the establishment of student teacher programs in off-campus student teaching centers in Braxton, Calhoun, Harrison, Lewis, Boone, and Wood counties.

Over the past years, Mr. Wells has been a member and contributed to various professional organizations. He was a long-time member of the Association for Student Teaching during the years when it was a vital force in student teaching in the State. He served as a college representative for the State Textbook Committee, is a member of the Association of Higher Education, West Virginia Education Association, and the National Education Association. He has contributed to various campus endeavors during his career at Glenville State College. He was a member of the committee which developed the constitution for the Faculty Administrative Organization.

Another of Mr. Wells' special interests is the preservation of American heritage. He is a member of the Gilmer County Historical Society, a director of the West Virginia State Folk Festival, Inc., and joint operator of the "Country Store." He is a member of the Trinity United Methodist Church.

Miss Rose Marie Young, Miss Glenville State College 1972, will crown her successor Thursday night.

There will be a Retirement Banquet April 13, in the Ballroom of the Pioneer Center honoring three GSC employees.

The three being honored are: Mr. Nelson L. Wells, assistant professor of education retiring May 12; Miss Erma Edwards, assistant registrar retiring Sept. 30; and Mr. Byrl L. Langford, registrar and director of admissions.

Faculty members and their wives are invited to attend. The cost will be $3 per person and the deadline for making reservations at the switchboard is April 10.
