How Can GSC Stretch A Dollar?

People around here, and especially those in the ad building are always complaining that we don't have enough money to do anything. But if they'd apply a little common sense to a few things, I think they'd stretch the dollar just a little further.

One way they could stretch the buck is to quit hiring outside consultants for everything. Take college publications for instance. Why is an out-of-state firm being paid $5,000 - $6,000 as consultants, when a committee of faculty and students could study and make suggestions for the publications?

Another suggestion for buck-stretching came to me from a student, who attended Tech, and it works there. Why not set a table in front of each cafeteria near the end of the year, where students could leave "borrowed" salt shakers, sugar containers, and dishes? It might not get everything back, but it'll get some of it back, and that'll be less they'll have to replace.

To those planning the renovation of Women's Hall, I don't want to hear anymore talk about how you can't afford anything, when you repeatedly deny the advantages of the key-card door over a guard. A guard must be paid some outrageous salary from now until the dorm falls down. But a key-card door only costs around $500 and can be paid for in a couple of years. The only recurring charge is that of making cards every year, and plastic cards are always cheaper than salaries. As for someone giving her card away, if she does that, she will give it to someone who wants to have it. If it is another girl that it is given to, where's the harm? If it is a guy, he'll know to be quiet and mind his own business and go straight to his girl's room, for fear of what'll happen to him if he's caught. (OH, HEAVEN FORBID THAT SUCH TERRIBLE UNTHINKABLE THINGS SHOULD HAPPEN ON OUR SINLESS, ISOLATED CAMPUS!) If a stranger gets in the dorm and comes to somebody's room, I'd really feel sorry for him. A scream is a handy and frightful weapon, and if that doesn't work, I don't know of any girl that would not fight off a molester. A lamp over the head does hurt!

Another thing I absolutely do not see is having four names for one building. One name, with references to wings a, b, and c, would be sufficient. Or, if propriety has it that the men's section and the women's section must be distinguished by name, then have only two names. But four names for one building only causes confusion and chaos in the records concerning the building.

One last short suggestion, this one is for the maintenance department. Would you please fix the light between the library and the ad building? Some night, someone is going to fall down those steps and break an arm or something, and then this school is going to have a lawsuit. The way the shadow falls on those steps at night, it is difficult to tell how many steps are where. A lightbulb costs money, but a lawsuit cost much more.

Sparks, Reed Make Plea

Dear Editor;

Last semester a junior art major, John Sparks, left school because he found he had leukemia. He was lucky enough to be admitted into the United States Public Health Service Cancer Research Center in Baltimore, Maryland. This hospital is funded by the United States government but President Nixon is on the verge of taking away the interns and in the long run shutting down the hospital entirely. This hospital serves literally thousands of people and without it most of the patients could not afford the treatments.

This is a small plea for you, the students and faculty of GSC to please write to your Congressman or to Mr. Nixon himself, telling them that this hospital should not be closed. It may be worth your while to write and let them know that you feel the hospital should remain open, for you never know when you might need these services yourself.

Judy Reed

Editor's note: Enclosed with Miss Reed's letter was an open letter written by John Sparks.

"When I returned to Baltimore last week, to undergo further chemotherapy for leukemia, I was told that the United States Public Health Service Research Hospital in Baltimore might be closed by President Richard M. Nixon, in July, 1973. However, I was also told that if enough people wrote to their Congressmen and to the President, there might be a chance that they would keep it open. I'm asking you, the people, to please help us by writing these letters. I'm asking that you do this not only for me, but also for the thousands of people who have Cancer. With this hospital, we have a chance — a hope that we can once again live as healthy, normal people. Without it, it is doubtful that many of us will survive.

The medicines and research done there have done wonders for me and for countless others. If we could still get the medication, which is not yet available to the public, it would be impossible to pay the high costs involved. So, please write to your Congressman, your Senators, and most important — to President Richard M. Nixon, so that we too, will have a chance to live!"

Thank You!

Letter To An Accomplished Thief

Man, I don't know how you did it, but I nearly fell over when I walked into the LMC last Tuesday and found three posters gone. You must be pretty proud of yourself for getting that stuff out of the library. Imagine - a six foot poster of Mick Jagger in concert, a three foot poster of Joe Cocker, and my little quotation from Santyana. Quite an accomplishment. By the way, when you're bragging to your friends about how you ripped off - it was me. I had bought those posters myself because I thought the students might enjoy something a little different from traditional library decor. Everyone told me I was crazy because they'd just be stolen. But I really couldn't believe that anyone would steal a lousy $2.00 poster. Wrong again.

You know, if you had wanted them that badly, I would have given them to you. It seems to me a terrible thing to sell your integrity for around $3.50 - hardly a fair price. But, of course, you know your own value better than I.

Just a word of warning now to your friends - if you have any. If any of you should happen to walk into a room or apartment and see one of these posters, and you know it wasn't there before, watch your wallet. The person living there has a real hang-up about the rights of others - they don't exist. He/she didn't hesitate about stealing from me; why should they feel differently about you?

Grad Is Unusual Teacher

Wirt County High School students in the ceramics section of the art classes really "start from scratch." They dig the clay they use right out of the ground at a location near the Elizabeth town limits and use it in jts original state.

The young instructor, Tom Dailey, is quite talented; he paints in both oil and water color, is an accomplished sculptor, has interesting exhibits of wood collage, and has done extensive work in clay and with the potter's wheel. In addition, he is a professional photographer and makes dulcimers. He has the ability to project his interest and ability to between 95-100 Wirt High students. Classes are available in ceramics, oil and watercolor, painting, sketching and sculpture.

Like the clay, he is using native materials which the students may collect at a great financial saving to the school. The pottery is fired in a portable five section gas kiln located outside the classroom in its own small building. It can be built up to almost the height of the building, or covered with only one section in use.

Examples in painting, both oil and watercolor and in sketching were equally amazing. Some students showed exceptional talent and originality, talents which are being developed under the interested guidance of their instructor. In addition to the school classes, he has a class of 13 adult from Elizabeth and the surrounding community. He does not permit the use of molds in any classes but insists that the students use their own creative powers. The results are as varied as the originators.

Wirt County is Dailey's first full time teaching position. He is a Wirt County native and he received his formal college education at Glenville. He served 18 months in the Army much of the time stationed in Georgia where he worked on ceramics every evening. He was then "on his own" and traveled extensively around the eastern part of the nation, visiting art exhibits, museums and collections of many of the Nation's outstanding artists, all the time expanding his own talents.

A surprising turnabout in the ninth and tenth frames put Team III on top. High game and high series went to Chuck White of Glenville, followed by Phil Reynolds.

In last weeks Intramural Championship action BUT I won its third basketball title, downing Lambda Chi Alpha 168-37.

Harvey Chester lead all scores with 15 points, Richard Richmond with 12, and Jerome Fruit with 10 for the winners.

Lambda Chi Alpha I also had two men in double figures: Bob Werry with 12 and Joe Mitchem with 14.

BUT ended their season with a 9-1 record while Lambda Chi Alpha I finished 8-2.

Have You Heard?

Work on the grid-iron will begin this weekend as Coach Hanlin and his staff prepare to run their crew through spring workout. The team will be drilled on plays and fundamentals to be used next year in addition to taking part in a few full-scale scrimmages.

Coach Hanlin has done a good job recruiting this year. I know of three real good boys he recruited from Herbert Hoover High School.

Coach Carney's golf team will be defending their golf championship next Monday and Tuesday when they compete in the state tournament to be held in Wheeling. The golfers will be playing the tough Oglebay golf course. Members of the golf team who will be competing include: Bob Wilson, Rich Sansbury, John Taylor, Guy Perry, and Denny Fitzpatrick. Sansbury will be trying to make the All-Conference team for the second straight year.

Coach Flack's young tennis team will also be competing along with the golfers in Wheeling. The team has performed really well this year and hopes are high that the squad might bring home some individual or doubles titles.

Track Team ...

Word is out that they might be a track team here at Glenville State next year. Coach Hanlin is to be in charge and with the material he has here at GSC I am sure that he can round together a good squad.

Bob MacAdoo of the Buffalo Braves has been named National Basketball Association's "Rookie of the Year." MacAdoo played his college ball at North Carolina. Lloyd Neal of Tennessee State was second. Neal plays for the Portland Trailblazers and competed against the Pioneers last year in the Golden Valley Tournament held in Wheeling.

West Virginia State's Curtis Price has been named "College Coach of the Year" by sportswriters here in West Virginia. Price guided the Yellow Jackets to a 20-12 record last season. Curt is already on the recruiting path this season snatching two real good one's from Charleston High School, they are Charlie Russell and Denny Harris.

Coach Milliken has done an excellent job of maneuvering his pitchers this season. Having only four pitchers, two sophomores and two freshmen. Coach Milliken and the entire squad desire a big congratulation for a job well done. The two freshman pitchers, Dave Adkins and Rick O'Reilly have performed great and sophomores Joe Mitchem and Kevin Place have performed steadily all season.

Final Score...

I would like to wish both the golf and tennis teams the best of luck next weekend. If any of the students are interested in what type of football squad we will have next season stop by the field and watch the workouts next week.

Dormitory Housing Policy Announced For Next Year

The same policy will hold for the year 1973-74 as before concerning the housing policy. All unmarried students (regardless of class rank) who are under 21 years of age and do not commute or reside with their immediate families, are required to make use of the residence halls provided by the college. Living in the dormitory also obligates residents to purchase a meal ticket from the school cafeteria. Any exception concerning housing or the purchasing of a meal ticket must be approved by the Dean of Women or the Dean of Men.

There are exceptions to this housing policy, which in order to be considered, must be presented on an official form to the Office of Student Affairs. These exceptions are only considered on the basis of each school semester or for a summer session, unless there are certain circumstances to alter this policy. If the student wishes to have his application considered for the following semester, a renewal request is desired. There are four exceptions which are considered when giving one the privilege to reside out of the dorm. They stem around one's financial obligations, medical reasons, residency with relatives, and residency with an employer.

If a person feels it to be a financial hardship to live in a college residence hall, and application for financial aid in the Financial Aids Office has been denied, then he may submit a request for exception. This request must be presented with documentation from the Financial Aid Office in order to be approved.

Medical reasons are also considered in granting a person the privilege to live outside the dormitory. For this exception, one must submit a written confirmation from a physician stating the following things: (1) a medical problem does exist; (2) how long the condition has existed; (3) the last date treated; and (4) the estimated duration of the condition.

To be granted permission to live out of the dorm with relatives, there must be a written statement submitted to the college from the relatives with whom you reside. The statement must include: 1) the relationship to the student; (2) the complete address; and (3) the relative's agreement to the housing of the student.

Residency outside of the dormitory may also be considered when an employed student is required to live with his employer. In order for this application to be considered, the employer must write a letter of confirmation to such an agreement.

Requests for exceptions as the above must be presented no later than May 1 for the summer term, Aug. 1 for the fall term, and Dec. 1 for the spring term.

After your application has been considered, a decision stating the approval or denial of the request will be sent to the student in writing by the Dean of Women or the Dean of Men.
