New Profile Sheets Introduced In Fall

One of the latest data-gathering instruments initiated by the College is the Student Profile Sheet. To be completed by each student during the registration process, the Student Profile Sheet is designed to secure essential information about the student to provide cumulative numerical data for the West Virginia Board of Regents, state and federal governments, and appropriate accrediting agencies.

To expedite the registration process, each student is encouraged to obtain a Student Profile Sheet (including an illustration and a coding sheet) from his advisor and then complete it prior to entering the Ballroom of Pioneer Center. Upon submitting his form, the student then proceeds to enrolling his classes.

The Student Profile Sheets will then be processed by personnel in the Computer Center. More than three million keystrokes will be necessary to prepare the information for computer utilization and the eventual reports.

If the procedure progresses satisfactorily, there's a plus for the student! Instead of having to complete a new Profile Sheet each semester, the student will review a printout of his previous data to determine whether it is presently appropriate. The student will provide only new information or indicate changes since completing the last form.

Registration Times Given

Freshmen who did not register in July will register on Wednesday, August 22, beginning at 8:00 a.m. Seniors may also begin registering at 8:00 a.m. on the 22nd except for those who will be registering for the professional semester. They will report to Dr. Nuzum in Clark Hall sometime after 10:00 a.m. to begin the registration process.

Juniors and sophomores will register on Thursday, August 23, in alphabetical order in accordance with the following time schedule:

8:30	X, Y, Z
9:00	I, J, K, L
10:00	A, B, C, D
11:00	E, F, G, H
12:00	Q, R, S, T
1:00	M, N, O, P
2:00	U, V, W

Students who have not previously had an I.D. photo made for the 1973-74 academic year will report to Room 105 in the Pioneer Center thirty (30) minutes prior to the time they are scheduled to register.

Registration Aids To Help

For the first time at Glenville State College, registering students will find student advisers (peer advisers) available in the registration area to assist them in making schedule changes. If a student finds that the section which he has scheduled is closed out, he can go to the peer advising table for assistance in selecting a new time and professor.

It should be pointed out, however, that if a student needs to substitute one course for another (i.e., history for English), then he should ask for assistance from his faculty adviser.

The peer advisers have been selected on the basis of registration experience and have been thoroughly briefed on the new procedure.

Young and old alike enjoyed the music of the Osborne Brothers at the First Annual West Virginia Peace, Love, Blues, and Bluegrass Folk Music Festival.

Alpha Delta Epsilon Business Fraternity will sponsor a book exchange in the Student Congress Office beginning August 21-24 and August 27-28. The Fraternity will begin collecting books on August 21 and will continue doing so until August 27. The books will be on sale August 23, 24, 27, and 28.

The Exchange will be open during the following hours:

August 21, 22	11:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m.
August 23, 24	10:00 a.m.-5:30 p.m.
August 27, 28	10:00 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

Everyone who submits books to be sold may pick up their money or books on August 28 from 5:30-6:00 p.m. and August 29 from 9:00 a.m. until 2:00 p.m.

Dean Maze Announces Fall Schedule Changes

Dr. Clarence Maze, Academic Dean of Glenville State College, announced changes in class schedule for the fall semester today.

Schedule changes in English include Mr. DeCol's English 101-11 class, previously set at 6:30 p.m. on Monday, now scheduled for 10:00 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. All of Mrs. Trimmer's English classes will be taught by another instructor, for she has resigned and as of yet, has not been replaced.

In the field of Social Studies, all of Ed Smith's classes have been cancelled. Mr. Smith has resigned and, according to Dr. Maze, will not be replaced for the fall semester. Cancelled classes include Soc. 205-03, Soc. 205-06, Social Stratification 325-01, and Social Psychology 330-01.

Dr. Maze emphasized the addition of psychology classes to this fall's schedule. Psychology, which has not been offered at GSC for several years, may now be taken as a Social Science elective in the new General Studies Program which became effective June 11, 1973.

This new program includes 18 hours in the humanities, 11 hours in Natural Science and Mathematics, 12 hours in the Social Sciences, and 3 hours in Health and Physical Education for a total of 44 hours.

Dr. Maze added that, "any student may switch to this General Studies Program if they switch completely." This is to say, for example, that a student may not select his humanities studies from the new program and his science studies from the old one.

The only other change in schedule brought out by Dr. Maze was in the Professional Education Semester. Mrs. Campbell's Curr. & Meth. for Tch. the Mentally Retarded (Ed. 440-01), previously set for 1:00-2:30 has been re-scheduled to meet at 3:30-5:00 on the same days.

Bluegrass Festival: Peace, Love, Blues

Franklin Minney's 800 acre farm was the scene for the Peace, Love, Blues, and Bluegrass Festival held July 26-30. Those attending were estimated to reach 4,000. Young people with long hair were seen carrying sleeping bags, while the older generation toted lawn chairs.

Minney's farm is located along a narrow paved road south of the Gilmer County community of Stumptown. The farm's two stages were dominated mostly with bluegrass music, but old-fashioned country, blues, and rock added great variety to the performances. The main stage has full theatrical lights, banks of speakers, and insulation. It faces a huge sloping meadow. The second stage is smaller, has less speakers and lights, but faces a hillside surrounded by trees. Behind it is an artificial lake with an island, diving tower, and floating platform.

The four-day festival did not attract as many people to the large, flatwood campgrounds as the promoter, Jim Clark, estimated. However, both stages were crowded, the lunch stands were overloaded, and bodies kept diving from the lake's tower. All the while, jam sessions between gray-haired old men with fiddles and long-haired young men with banjos and guitars kept going strong.

Only a couple of minor scuffles resulted from the festival. After waiting a long evening, and being drenched with rain, the crowd grew hostile until the master of ceremonies brought on the Earl Scruggs Review for an encore. Scrugg's singer-instrumentalist-composer, John Hartford, helped to bring for the Review the warmest reception for any of the groups, with the crowd screaming and stomping for more.

Some talents performing were The Dillards, The Star-Spangled Washboard Band, Goose Creek Symphony, New Riders of the Purple Sage, Mother Mabelle and the Carter Family, Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, Tom T. Hall, The King Family, John Hartford, and Earl Scruggs and the Earl Scruggs Review.

At the request of the Education Department, the Robert F. Kidd Library purchased multi-media kits for use by education instructors and student teachers. The multi-media kits were designed by Science Research Associates, Inc. as a teaching aid in all subjects for all grades.

The library has acquired the Charleston Gazette in microfilm from the year 1960 to the present, with updating once a month. Also, the Glenville Democrat is available on microfilm from the year 1905 to the present.

People-Watching Favorite Hobby States Melancholy Philosopher

People-watching is one of my favorite hobbies. Sometimes in the evenings, I sit on my front porch, watch the cars go by, and wonder about the people in them.

An old red truck goes by, and driving it is a man with a scraggly beard and a hunting cap. Is he a miner, a farmer, or a welfare recipient? Behind him is a big Pontiac driven by a man with his hair combed and his beard shaved. Is he a teacher, a doctor, a lawyer, or what? Does he cheat on his wife; are his children snobbish?

Coming the other way is a green van with crazy colored curtains. In it are two people, a long-haired young man, and a young woman. Are they married, do they live together, or are they only dating? What do their parents think of them, and their choice of friends? Have their parents thrown them out for being "long-haired hippies," or do they love their children, regardless? Right behind the van are two old ladies, driving a sports car very slowly. Are they related, or are they friends? Have their children deserted them or do their children often bring the grandchildren over to see them?

Walking down the sidewalk is a blind man, who uses a cane to guide him. Does he turn the lights on when he goes into a room? How does he know if his shirt matches his trousers? How did he go blind? Does he remember what color red is? A group of high-school kids go walking by, laughing among themselves. What are they talking about? Where will they be in five years -- in college like me? married? dead? rich? famous? overseas? happy?

People-watching is a highly philosophical hobby, and one that is prone to melancholy. What if they aren't happy? Would they mind my speculating about them? Are they wondering about the life of the girl on the porch, who seems to have nothing to do but sit there and watch the cars go by?

She is shown wearing Valentino's couture design ensemble in the College's blue and white colors. These ensembles are being worn by all student assistants included in the registration process so that students can identify them easily for assistance if it is needed.

Cuppett Questions Right To Vote

Dear Editor,

Do people have the right to vote? (or privilege, or whatever. I apologize to all of the professors of government for my deplorable use of words). Anyway, do people have the right to vote? If one goes along with the moral and social teachings of the United States today, the answer would have to be 'yes'. But, if one really looks at the qualifications of the individuals, the answer would have to be 'no', at least in numerous circumstances. According to what we have learned in the schools, from our parents, and on Saturday morning cartoons, men are created equal in the eyes of God and that we are all free by right of birth. We are supposed to choose how to live with those around us through the institution of voting. Okay, let us assume that people have the moral privilege to vote. All of this can be debated, of course, but most of us (according to the U. S. president, school teachers, and church officials) will agree that it is nice to vote (with integrity) for the best man, who, in turn, will govern the country to the best of his ability. Sure.

Are people smart enough, though, to choose according to what economic, social, and military changes (or status quos) they would like to see effected? Even in those schools that offer in-depth courses on political science, economics, etc., how many of these people retain enough of this knowledge to even begin to give them the basic understanding of our government and its organization? How can a person say that a vote is his to give when he cannot even begin to realize what that vote may be responsible for?

If a person is ignorant of the government itself, he may "naturally" cast his vote for a particular person or party. Why? Oftentimes the choice is the result of having a belief of the basic ideals of a party, but, more often, voters are ignorant of the fundamental doctrines of the party. This goes deeper than just the theory that Republicans are for big business and technical progress while Democrats are for the "average" person, which is often assumed when a vote is made. The above definitions for our two major parties may or may not be correct, but the voter should realize that the intricacies are far more complex than that. Further, it is a shame that, failing to know any of the individuals running for a particular office, many people vote for the one in their own party or the one with the more American name. The system would be better off if a person would abstain from committing his vote (& himself) to something he obviously knows nothing about. How many times are votes cast for an "inherited" party of person, who one's parent has supported in the past?

Apathy is another problem in the voting system, but for a dual reason. First, apathy for the real issues in a campaign could lead to an ignorant and irrational vote. This relates to what I have already proposed. The second reason runs along the lines of trying to urge people to vote. Don't knock this apathy in voting without hitting at the center of the problem: the apathy in human nature (It has to be replaced by interest, not vice versa). If a person is indifferent toward voting, chances are the same individual is indifferent toward other things as well, such as reading, listening to others' views, and being constructive for the use of someone besides himself. In other words, stupid. Do you believe that by impelling someone to vote, that their apathy will dispel their stupidity, and the good of their country will result from the intelligent choice? Since stupidity runs the course with indifference, we can be thankful for it where governing our lives are concerned.

So, people, you are the ones to be concerned with what I am saying. "The majority of the people in the U. S. are not qualified to have a say on how the whole are to be governed." For himself, yes, but for the total population, no.

-Donnie Cuppett

New Members Teach In Spec. Ed. Department

Two new staff members have been working this summer in the Special Education Department under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Campbell.

Shell Hinkley, Co-ordinator of the Student Teaching Program, is a supervising teacher in Education 444 (S). Mr. Hinkley is a 1970 graduate of Glenville State College, with a major in social studies and a minor in special education.

For the past two years, Mr. Hinkley has taught special education at Calhoun High School. He and his wife Linda have one son, Michael, and they are presently residing in Grantsville.

Dennis Myers, a 1968 graduate of GSC, is the instructor of Education 445, Practicum in Retardation. Mr. Myers received an M.A. Degree in special education from the University of Virginia, where he has also completed graduate work in psychiatric rehabilitation. In addition, Mr. Myers has completed a concentrated program in counseling at Virginia Commonwealth. Currently, Myers is in charge of the Gilmer County rural project of the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation.

Archer Named All-Star

Jane Archer, a senior at Glenville State College, has been chosen to be a representative of the Ohio All-State Fast Pitch Softball Team.

Jane has been playing fast pitch softball all summer for Hadley's Softball Team, from Marietta, Ohio. Her team was runner-up in the Fast Pitch Ohio Softball Tournament held at Ashland, Ohio. At this time Jane was chosen with ten other players for the All-State Team. She was picked as Utility Outfielder to represent the state of Ohio. Jane was awarded a trophy and will have the honor of playing with the Ohio All-State Team.

Consumers: Discriminate

Society, as consumers, depends on a certain amount of goods and services which must be provided by others. Sometimes the ones who provide these services take advantage of their positions. An example of some false solicitors is perhaps door-to-door salesmen. Usually magazines are the big item sold falsely from door-to-door.

A WVU graduate student describes an incident with a well-dressed young salesman who knocked at his door selling magazines. The salesman claimed to be a public relations major and he seemed interested in the student's major, plans for the future, and the way his apartment was decorated. In the end the student wrote a check for a magazine he did not want. His neighbor, who had also bought a magazine, brought out his receipt which displayed a different signature. The receipts had been folded to expose the magazine company's toll free number, which no one answered when called, and to cover a line saying "do not pay salesman in full." Within a few days the fraudulent salesman had swept the dormitories, apartment buildings, sorority and fraternity houses.

Incidents like this are common and can happen to anyone. When they do, wise action is to call the city Chamber of Commerce, therefore checking on the legitimacy of the company; or the city government can be called to see if the salesman is properly licensed. If fraud is suspected the police should be located. A home salesman should never be paid in cash because a check not only serves as a receipt, but can be stopped later at the bank. Last of all, the wise consumer will be wary of door-to-door salesmen.

Tennis Intramurals Won By Lewis; Tourney Next

Winners of the regular season tennis intramurals were announced Monday by Ken Pritt.

Leading in the singles events was Terry Lewis with 7 wins and no losses followed by Dave Wright with 7 wins, 1 loss and Ken Pritt with 6 wins and 3 losses.

Doubles matches were dominated by the Pritt-Wright team with a record of 8-0. The teams of Flack-McCreary and Canterbury-Lewis both followed with 6-3 records.

The next tennis event to be held on the GSC campus will be a tournament beginning Monday, July 30 and concluding Thursday, Aug. 9.

There will be 11 singles entries of 20 matches and 8 doubles team entries of 14 matches. All matches will be held on the basis of double elimination.

First seeded in the tournament are Terry Lewis in singles competition and the Pritt-Wright team in doubles.

Tournament trophies will be awarded to 1st place winners and runner-ups.

The next tournament will be held during the fall semester near the end of September. Anyone interested in competing should contact either Dr. Flack or Ken Pritt.

A double elimination tennis tournament began Monday, July 30. By virtue of winning matches players are awarded seats. Holding the first four seats for the single tournament are: Terry Lewis, Dave Wright, Ken Pritt, and Bruce Flack.

Competing in the tennis intramural program this summer is Randy Hunt. The netters will be in tournament play this week.

Have You Heard?

This year's summer basketball league looks like one of the most evenly divided ever. Almost all of the games have gone down to the wire. The last two games involving the Zits and the Knicks had been decided by last second shots.

Coach Lilly has recruited two very good looking freshmen, both are playing in the summer league. They are John Russell of Winfield and Mike Carson of Braxton County. Both are big men and competition will be keen for positions underneath the boards next season. Five of the top six players have graduated and anyone could come in and take over control of the basketball squad next season.

My pre-season's predictions for the baseball season seem to be batting 50%. Chicago is up in the National League East and New York is ahead in the American League East. Looking over both leagues, starting with the National League East, I look for the Cubs to finally hold on and win their division. St. Louis and Pittsburgh should make it a real dogfight though, and look for Philadelphia to surprise a few people. The Phillies in past seasons always seem to play better late in the year.

In the National League West I do not foresee anyone catching the Dodgers. Walt Alton seems to have put it all together this season. San Francisco, Houston, and Cincinnati should put up a big battle for second place.

In the American League, New York should take the East and Oakland winning in the West.

Odds seem to be against Hank Aaron to break Babe Ruth's home run mark. In a study made by professors at Georgia State University, findings showed that the odds are 3 to 1 against Aaron. The predicted day for number 75 is September 30th.

Tom Weiskopf is the heavy favorite to win the Westchester Golf Classic. Weiskopf has won five of his last eight starts, finished second, third, and fifth in the other three and has picked off national titles in the British and Canadian Opens.

He has won more than $175,000 in that string and now ranks second on the season's money winning list with more than $200,000.

Ground Breaking Held

Ground breaking ceremonies were held Friday, July 27 at 1:15 p.m. for Glenville State College's new athletic complex located on Mineral Road. Construction of the new facility will start August 6.

Dr. D. Banks Wilburn, president of Glenville State College, removed the first shovel of dirt at the construction site. Assisting Dr. Wilburn in the ground breaking were: Dr. Robert Dollgener, athletic director of Glenville State College; Mr. Bill O'Brein, landscape architect for Alpha Associates of Morgantown and architect and engineer of the facility design; Mr. E.K. Fresa, vice-president of Fresa Construction Co., Bridgeport, who was awarded the contract, and Mr. Billy Burke, delegate to the House of Representatives representing the 7th district.

Stage I of the construction, which includes the base for the track, the football field, the baseball field, parking area for the Forestry Building and all excavation and drainage for the entire complex must be completed on or before January 31, 1974.

Stage II of the construction will be dependent on Capital Improvements Budget of the Board of Regents.

Football Recruits To Play For Pioneer Pigskin Team

Pigskin season is almost here! In just two weeks football practice will begin taking place for another excitement-packed season for the mighty Pioneers.

This year Coach Bill Hanlin feels they have the finest group of freshman recruits ever, both in number and size. Totalling 46 in number, there are 31 in-state recruits and 13 out-of-state; coming from the states of Ohio, Kentucky, and Virginia.

GSC Hosts Camp For Cheerleaders; Forty-Three West Virginia Girls Attend

Glenville State College was host to the second annual cheerleading camp, July 29 - August 3.

The American Cheerleading Association has sponsored this camp for the purpose of teaching basic fundamentals of cheerleading. It is opened to all junior and senior high school girls.

This week 43 girls from the state are participating in cheers, jumps, swing chants, gymnastics, mounts, and pom-pom routines. Mornings and afternoons are usually spent working on cheers and jumps while evenings are for special functions.

The girls are staying at Women's Hall and eating at the school cafeteria. The staff includes five members, two of which are field directors and the other three are field staff directors.

Thursday night a graduation ceremony will be held for the girls, at which time they will be qualifying for the ACA Cheerleading Sorority. In order to qualify the girls must take a physical and mental test, plus presenting certain cheers.

Women's Dorm Renamed For Pickens; Wings Named Wagner, Williams, Scott

"Women's Hall," which previously housed only women, will be renamed "Pickens Hall" in honor of Miss Pearl Pickens, retired dean of women at Glenville State College.

Miss Pickens was graduated from Glenville Normal School in 1920, from West Virginia University with a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1925 and a Master of Arts in 1933. She did graduate work at West Virginia University and The Ohio State University.

Miss Pickens became the first Dean of Women at Glenville State College in 1947, a position she held for 17 years, from 1947 until 1964. She was also an instructor in English at the College during that period.

A member of the American Association of University Women, Miss Pickens has served as a member of the Glenville State College Alumni Association Council since 1964. With the renaming of "Women's Hall" to "Pickens Hall" the wing designations of A, B, and C are to be changed. "A"-wing is to be Wagner Wing, "B"-wing is to be the Williams Wing, and "C"-wing, the Scott Wing.

John R. Wagner holds the distinction of being the only male to be honored in the renaming of the dormitory.

Mr. Wagner was graduated from East Stroudsburg Normal School in 1911, from Gettysburg College in 1915 with a Bachelor of Arts degree, from Cornell University with a Masters of Science degree in 1926, and did graduate work at Sorbonne University and Columbia University.

Mr. Wagner served in the Armed Forces in 1918 and is a member of the Trinity United Methodist Church, Glenville; SEA National Education Association, Association of Higher Education, State Academy of Science and Rotary Club.

Miss Williams was graduated from the American Gymnastics University of Indianapolis, Ind. and received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Marshall University in 1928. She holds a master of science degree from Columbia University (1933), and has done graduate work at Miami University and the University of Iowa.
