25th WV Folk Festival Held

It all started in the summer of 1950 when Dr. Patrick Gainer and other very interested area citizens endeavored to organize the first West Virginia State Folk Festival. Their efforts proved to be successful in establishing an annual West Virginia attraction, for many founding individuals witnessed the 25th Anniversary of this annual affair in Glenville, June 13-16, 1974.

Over the years many varied aspects of folk life and tradition have found their place at the festival. This year's festivities began on Thursday, with the opening of the Country Store. The Country Store, owned and operated by the Folk Festival Committee, served as the Headquarters for the Folk Festival. This "old timey" establishment is operated throughout the year as a museum and for the sale of many interesting items including books, glasswares, rugs, quilts, aprons, etc.

Some of the outstanding attractions of the Festival were the McGuffey Spelling Bee, Old-time Fiddler and Banjo Pickin' contests, the Festival parade, and Muzzle-loading Rifle shooting matches. Every night Main Street and the GSC auditorium were the settings for folk music and dancing. Daily activities consisted of craft exhibits and demonstrations, receptions for the Belles, and shaped note singing classes.

Over the period of four days, over 2,000 persons, from 31 different states and 2 foreign countries, walked upon the streets of Glenville to hear the music, to dance, and to examine the various folk arts and crafts on display in the various stores in town and in front of Bennet House on Main Street.

As a result of the mounting interest in Appalachian culture, a two hour college course entitled "Appalachian Folk Culture" was incorporated (con't on p. 4)

Miss Belita Jones Represents Gilmer

Miss Belita Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Jones of Tanner, has been selected the 1974 Braxton Regatta Princess to represent Gilmer County. The festival was held this past weekend, June 21-23.

Bathing suit competition and the selection of Queen Aqua IV took place Friday; Saturday, the Regatta Ball, and Sunday hosted the hydroplane races, the Regatta Parade and the Miss Water Nymph Contest.

Miss Jones is a 1973 graduate of Gilmer County High School where she served as editor of the yearbook and newspaper, was recipient of art and journalism awards, delegate to conservation camp, and a nine year 4-H member. She is presently a sophomore history major at Glenville State College where she works in the Computer Center. The Glenville Woman's Club sponsored Miss Jones in the festival.

Security Officers Excel In Training

West Virginia State College, in conjunction with the State Department of Education conducted a Security Officers' Training School on its campus from May 20 through May 31, 1974.

Participants from Glenville State College were Capt. Jerry Helmick, Lt. Tom Reaser, Sgt. Golden Jenkins, Corp. Jackie Moore, and Mr. Ralph Southall.

The curriculum was comprehensive and covered most areas of campus security. Some of the specific areas were: Arrest, Search and Seizure; Fingerprinting; Criminal Law, Motor Vehicle Law; Accident Investigation; Traffic Direction and Control; and Dangerous Drugs and Narcotics.

The training was conducted under the general supervision of J.R. Buckalew, Regional Coordinator, Public Service Training, Kanawha County Schools. An examination was given and Glenville State College is proud to have the valedictorian, Lt. Tom Reaser as well as the salutatorian, Capt. Jerry Helmick of the class. All of the GSC candidates passed and received certificates for 86 hours of training.

It was noted that GSC has one of the most advanced security units in the state system concerning organization, equipment, and qualified staff.

Corp. Jackie Moore, Ralph Southall, Capt. Jerry Helmick, Sgt. Golden Jenkins, and Lt. Tom Reaser.

"The Irony Of It All . . ."

There is a line in all old love stories which goes, "Oh the irony of it all." I would like to use that line in a W.C. Fields tone to describe my views of those who experienced difficulty in avoiding expected residence in the dormitory. This situation becomes smaller with each registration, but still some choose to embarrass themselves by being caught breaking the rules they do know when possibly their situation could be remedied if only they knew a few more rules.

For those people that have a genuine complaint such as a financial hardship, a medical problem, a need to reside with relatives or possibly to reside with an employer there are procedures outlined for just such a circumstance. Procedures for consideration and documentation of all the above reasons are specifically addressed on pages 27-29 in the college catalog.

Simply it works like this. If you feel you need to live off campus, determine the category in which you need falls and produce the substantiations needed with an official form from the Student Affairs Office, make your application by the proposed deadlines and return it to that same office. Whether you are ruled an exception or not, you will be notified by mail from the Dean or Associate Dean of Student Affairs.

Irony? Using the argument that your "right to an education" has been stifled extraneously, then it's you who have fallen short in the responsibility of pursuit. If education's what you want, use what you've got to read the catalog.

'Non-Folksy' Mar Folk Festival

Belles in their bonnets and long dresses, handsomely crafted dulcimers, leatherwork, square-dancers, all amidst the setting of the birthplace of the West Virginia Folk Festival, in it's 25th year. The show windows of the downtown department stores displayed nicely arranged relics of the olden days in Appalachia, not long forgotten by many of the people of this area. As I roamed around the streets of Glenville, looking at the rustics gathered in to play their music, tell their tales and exhibit their arts and crafts, I realized that there is certainly much work required in the planning of this affair. Someone had to organize the programs in the auditorium, and the square dancing on Main Street. There were many hours of preparation devoted to the endeavor of keeping our mountain heritage alive and in the limelight. I say thanks, in appreciation of this spirit and hope that it continues to grow positively.

Yet, there is another side of the Folk Festival that I observed in the streets and a faction of the people that gathered there to "carry on this Heritage" (supposedly.) I find nothing traditional or folksy about empty Stroh's cans lining the streets or the aroma of newly-smoked dope seeping out of the corners and crevices of our century-old birthplace of a folk festival—West Virginia style.

As I stated before, several of the exhibits were quite impressive and authentic. But I wonder how many 19th century matrons took time out from their spinning and butter-churning to tie-dye tee shirts and make plastic jewelry?

The music heard around the town over the period of four days was the highlight of my enjoyment. Many of the performers were quite expertise in their renditions of the old folk ballads and mountain tunes. Since this was my first visit to the Festival, I was really intrigued by the circles of players and listeners gathered on the street corners, and vacant lawns like the one behind the Kanawha Union Bank. It was entertaining to watch the people who had come all the way from North Carolina, New York, Virginia, and Tennessee pass a bottle around and sing about "My Old Mountain Home," and rip off the fiddle tune, "Boil the Cabbage Down." But the novelty of this facet of the weekend readily wore off about Friday night as I approached the crowded area behind the Bank, faintly detecting the melody of "Cripple Creek" being belted out by the bottle-passing folk-singers. But instead, I was greeted by a chorus expounding upon the ecstasies of cocaine snorting. To top that revelation off, I noticed a couple rolled up in a blanket near the back of the Bank, amidst the beer cans and cigarette butts, bedding down for the night beneath the stars and the stinge of perspiring unbathed bodies—a condition certainly not to be extracted from our past, but one that should preferably be forgotten or remedied.)

I'm sorry that a portion of my first impression of this annual affair that requires hours of planning and work of very competent engineers is a bit tinted with disgust and disappointment. Perhaps one has to reach out and above this conspicuously "non-folk" element of the Festival for the realization of the intrinsic value at the core of the affair. But the people who attend this Festival are actually the ones who affect the impressions the most.

Charles White Attends Lambda Chi Dedication

This past week Brother Chuck White attended the dedication of the new Lambda Chi Alpha Headquarters building. He also attended a meeting of the general fraternity's Student Advisory Committee to which he was recently appointed, in Indianapolis, Indiana.

Over one hundred participated in the dedication and tours of the structure only two doors away from the TKE national headquarters.

This committee is made up of 13 undergraduates from around the country to act as a legislative review board and a communication link between the general fraternity and the undergraduate chapter.

The group reviewed the proposed legislation that will go before the annual general assembly later in August. If "S.A.C." does not endorse a bill it must be admitted from the floor.

Brother White's comment on the appointment was, "Serving on S.A.C. is an experience with some of the best minds in the fraternity. I feel very secure for the future of Lambda Chi Alpha".

Kim Jones

Three Attend Convention For Sigma's In Missouri

Three members of the Delta Alpha chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma social sorority are attending their national convention in Kansas City, Missouri, June 21-26.

Kim Jones, Pam Sumpter, and Susie Cottrill are representatives to this triennial affair organized for the election of national officers, revision of the constitution and conduction of general business.

Kim Jones, is a senior early childhood major from Glenville. She was initiated into the sorority in the spring of 1972 and since that time has served as the vice-president for three semesters and is now acting president for the Delta Alpha Chapter on the Glenville campus.

Miss Pam Sumpter is a May 1974 elementary education graduate from Weston. Miss Sumpter is a past recording secretary and president of the chapter and received the distinguished chapter Delta Alpha award in April, 1974. She is presently serving as the N.C.C. for the Central East I region of Sigma Sigma Sigma.

Also participating in this sorority event is Miss Susie Cottrill, a senior math comprehensive major from Weston. She is presently serving as the chapter vice-president.

Dean Clarence Maze has announced withdrawal dates for courses during the 1974 summer session. June 26 is the final date for withdrawal for first term courses. Withdrawal for the nine-week term has been set for July 15; July 26 for second term classes.

Art Students Will Travel

Mr. Charles Scott, art instructor at GSC, along with fifteen art students, will be traveling to Nova Scotia during the second summer session. The purpose of the trip, which will begin July 15, is to provide an opportunity for the students to draw, paint, and do photography on location.

On the way to Nova Scotia the group plans to visit Niagra Falls. They will be spending the first night at the Falls and the following day will see a craft exhibition at the Ontario Science Centre.

The second night will be spent in Montreal, Quebec with a visit planned to a museum or an art colony.

Woodstock, New Brunswick will be the third and final stop before the group reaches Nova Scotia on July 18.

The students will be doing on location art work of lighthouses and the famous "Evangeline" country with some side trips to Halifax and Yarmouth.

On the return trip the group will be making a 5-hour voyage on a Canadian ferry from Yarmouth to Bar Harbor, Maine, or a 10-hour voyage from Yarmouth to Portland, Maine. If time allows, a visit will be made to Old Sturbridge Village, a re-created New England farming village of the early 19th century where craftsmen work in period costumes.

Sherry Helvy

Miss GSC Named Swimsuit Winner

Sherry Helvy, who recently captured the title of Miss GSC, was named preliminary swimsuit winner on the opening night of the West Virginia Scholarship Pageant held at Parkersburg South High School, June 14.

The 5'4" brunette, who is a junior mathematics major, performed a self-choreographed dance, "Evil Ways" in the talent competition.

On the following evening, eight girls were chosen as semifinalists to vie for the title of Miss West Virginia. Beth McVey, Miss West Virginia 1973, crowned Mary Beth Derry from WVU, who will represent our state in the Miss America Pageant held in October.

Football Camp and Staff, First Session

Football Camp Held

Every summer for the past four years GSC has been the center of football training for many high school players.

The camp is open to boys in grades 7-12 at a cost of $60, the most inexpensive experience of its kind in West Virginia. There are two-one week sessions involving boys as far north as Oak Glen and south as Wyoming Co., from Charleston to Keyser. This week's enrollment was 75 and the projected number for next week is 85. Coach Bill Hanlin director of the camp, said that this was the largest number in the history of the camp and with such good results, it was definitely slated as an annual affair.

Coach Hanlin and the college football coaching staff, Jim Riffle, Jerry Milliken, Earl "Whitey" Adolphson, and Bob Summers, have enlisted the aid of other visiting coaches.

Frank Elwood was a quarterback at Ohio State and now holds the position of defensive coordinator at Ohio University.

Dale Evans lettered as a quarterback and safety man for the Mountaineers in 1960-61 and now coaches the defensive backfield at Texas Tech University.

Marietta College's head football coach Joe McDaniel was a MVP player twice for Muskingum College in his undergraduate days. He also serves in the capacity of Athletic Director for Marietta.

Coach Cecil Perkins is a George Washington University graduate and has been associated with Naval training and prep schools. Coach Perkins is presently head football coach at Potomac State College.

As quoted from the camp brochure..."The purpose of this camp is to teach junior and senior high school boys who are ambitious to play better football, the finer points in mastering the fundamentals and techniques of the sport. Individual and group instruction by coaches and specialists with ample practice and drills should produce surprising results in future competition."

During next week's camp, profiles of the visiting high school coaches and interviews with some of the campers will be printed.

Football Camp Staff

Coach Tim Carney has announced that this summer there will be basketball intramurals during the summer sessions. Games will be played on Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Also this summer there will be a league established for boys in the seventh grade and below to play on Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Any one interested in playing should see Coach Carney or Coach Jesse Lilly sometime Monday, June 24, so he can put you on a roster.

Swimming classes for children 6 years of age and above are being offered at the GSC pool located in the P. E. building. The two class periods are from 9:00-10:00 a.m. and 10:00-11:00 a.m. There are openings for 6 children in the 9:00 class, and 4 openings in the 10:00 class. Enrollment is free of charge. If interested, contact Mrs. Marilyn Barnes at the P. E. Office, 462-7361, Ext. 281.

Instructors Added

There are two new faces in the Education Department this summer. Mrs. Patricia Donaldson and Mrs. Phyllis Starkey are teaching four of the special education classes, while Mrs. Margaret Campbell is doing graduate work at West Virginia University.

Mrs. Patricia Donaldson is teaching Ed. 425 and Ed. 430. She is a 1970 graduate of Glenville State College and teaches the special education classes at the Sutton Junior High in Braxton County.

Mrs. Donaldson felt there was not a great deal of difference between teaching junior high level and college level. "My classes are made up of very good students, and really, this is just as much a learning experience to me as it is to them."

Mrs. Phyllis Starkey is teaching Ed. 444 and 440 this term. She received her degree from Glenville State College in 1959. Mrs. Starkey has taught for sixteen years. When asked of the difference in teaching public school and college Mrs. Starkey replied, "My job was made easy, because the students were well prepared by Mrs. Campbell. I received excellent cooperation from many people, especially Dr. Dollgener while setting up the Special School for Education 444. I know this will be an excellent experience for me, but I am sure that my niche in life is the public school system or what I fondly refer to as teaching "kids."

1974 GSC Golf Team

Golf Team Participates In NAIA Final Playoffs

A tough course, wind, and bad luck plagued the GSC golf team this year at Aberdeen, S.D. when they participated in the NAIA playoffs and finished a high 27th out of a field of 32 teams.

On the first day of competition, senior Bob Wilson was disqualified for going out of bounds and from there on the lowest scores were two 76's by Terry Crislip. Crislip qualified for two extra days of play and finished with an individual score of 310 which was good for 32nd of 180 individual golfers. The team total for two days was a 655.

First place in the tourney was captured by United States International College of San Diego, Cal., while second and third went to St. Bernard College in Alabama and Eastern New Mexico, respectively. Top individual honors went to Dan Fricky of Washburn University, Washburn, Kansas.

Coach Tim Carney was disappointed with the results but projects an even stronger team for next year. With the now experienced sophomores and three promising prospects coming in, it will surely be the team that's tough and not the course next season.

Participants in the Appalachian Culture class were seen in the gym learning square-dance steps.

Summer Hours

Hours for campus services for the 1974 Summer Session are: the swimming pool will be open from 2:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday thru Thursday and from 7-8 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Library hours will be from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday thru Friday.

The Audio-Visual Self-Instruction Lab in Clark Hall will be open from 11 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., Monday thru Friday. If unable to meet these hours, talk to your instructor, who will then make the necessary arrangements for the lab to be open at another time.

The cafeteria will be serving breakfast from 7-8, lunch from 11:30-12:30 and dinner from 4:45-5:45 Monday thru Friday.

Hours for the game room are 5:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. Sunday thru Thursday.

The hours for the Student Union are 7:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Monday thru Friday.

BOOK CONTRIBUTED

Recently the Robert F. Kidd Library along with 119 other libraries in the state of West Virginia, received a complimentary copy of William H. Harbaugh's biography, Lawyer's Lawyer: The Life of John W. Davis. The book, which is a portrait of a distinguished native of West Virginia, was presented by Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kennedy, who are former residents of West Virginia.

John W. Davis has been described as the "most renowned corporate and constitutional attorney of this century." Library Journal has said of Davis's life story, "This timely biography covers the life of a distinguished 20th century American lawyer whose legal life covered a broad spectrum of experiences: country lawyer, congressman, ambassador to the Court of St. James, 1924 Presidential candidate, and recognized international and constitutional lawyer."

Appalachian Class Held

Under the direction of Dean Mack Samples, the class (June 10-15), encompassed three particular facets of this particular culture. Dr. Patrick Gainer, local expert of folklore, instructed the sessions on literature and history, while Mr. Franklin George studied the various folk instruments of the area. The arts and crafts of Appalachia were discussed and demonstrated by Mr. Charles Scott, instructor of art at GSC. Also offered for study and appreciation was a class in folk dancing, under the direction of Mrs. Sandra Piercy. Several interested persons, (many from other states, for ex. New York, New Mexico, Missouri, New Jersey, and North Carolina) participated in this educational endeavor. One such "out-of-stater" who enrolled in the course was Mr. John Stein of Babylon, New York, who read about the Festival and course in The New York Times.

Despite the rainy weather over the weekend, the cooperative planning of many very competent people proved to be instrumental in a successful, enjoyable Festival for many people. Assuredly, hopes and plans for the 26th Annual Folk Festival are already in the making.

The doors of Glenville State College are hardly bursting with students this summer. The enrollment for the first session is 446. Last year the enrollment was 457, but is expected to be surpassed by registration for the second session.

The Placement Office has announced that all graduates must have their credentials in before August in order to be processed.

Come and enjoy the savory sounds and smells during the twelfth annual Mountain State Art and Craft Fair, July 3 through July 7 at Cedar Lakes, Ripley, West Virginia.

The air is filled with the succulent smells of West Virginia's finest cooking. The sounds of fiddles, banjos, guitars and the winsome strains of the dulcimer typifies the real old time mountain music. Walk along the streets of the fair and watch artisans and handcrafters of the Mountain State apply their abilities.

Cedar Lakes is easily reached from I-77. Situated in a beautiful pastoral setting, the fair is 38 miles north of Charleston and 38 miles south of Parkersburg. There is plenty of free parking and picnic facilities.

All the excitement of the fair is yours for one small admission fee—$2.00 for adults, $.50 for children of high school age or younger.

Special rates are available for groups of 10 or more, by writing Mountain State Art and Craft Fair, Cedar Lakes, Ripley, West Virginia, 25271.
