Glenville State College, Glenville, West Virginia

Sunday, August 18, 1974

Jim Peterik, song writer and performer, will appear Saturday night at 8:00 pm.

Saturday's Entertainment Stars Jim Peterik, Hustlers

In the past few years Glenville State College students have witnessed the performances of some "good" rock groups. But these performances have been few and far between. In 1970 the popular group "Steam" performed on the auditorium stage; two years later "Brainchild" entertained in the ballroom. And this spring, the very versatile "New Colony Six" provided an enjoyable evening for students and staff. Realizing the need for more popular music entertainment for our campus, the Student Congress has scheduled a well-rounded season of rock performances. On Saturday, August 24, 1974 at 8 pm in the auditorium, "Jim Peterik and the Chi-Town Hustlers" will perform, highlighting the Freshmen Week activities. The concert will be open to all college students and personnel, and the public will be admitted for a small fee.

The name Jim Peterik has been well-known to the Chicago music scene since "The Ides of March" released their first record in 1967. "You Wouldn't Listen", written by Jim at age twelve, made it to the number one spot in the Midwest, and Top Forty nationwide. Quickly becoming the Midwest's favorite group, "The Ides" attained national prominence with the million-seller "Vehicle," also written and sung by Jim. "L. A. Goodbye" the group's next hit with its intricate harmonies, established Jim and the group as more than just another rock and roll band.

Composing and singing aren't Jim's only qualities. He's also a fantastic lead guitarist and an extraordinary showman. With a natural ability to please, he feels out crowds and brings them to their feet with his own brand of rock or delicate ballads with catchy and often amusing lyrics.

During the four years of extensive touring, "The Ides of March" played every major university and concert hall in the nation, with a very good percentage of return engagements. From rock festivals to night clubs and even on television, the one person that everyone remembers for "The Ides of March" is Jim Peterik.

Finally, Jim decided he wasn't fulfilling his personal needs and left "The Ides" to form something new. After months of searching and hours of auditioning, a group emerged that is the epitome of Peterik: "Jim Peterik and the Chi-Town Hustlers."

The group is composed of some very talented individuals. Wally Drogos, the Chicago-born drummer, has played for such greats as Chubby Checkers, Del Shannon, and Lou Christie. Wally Pillich the only non-Chicago-born member of "The Hustlers," has played bass since the age of eight. Some of his credentials include "The New York Philharmonic," "The Stylistics," a Boston improvisational jazz theatre company, and Jackson Browne. Ira Kurt, the group's pianist, has been playing piano in bands since he was twelve. He studied at Chicago Musical College and went into a life of blues and jazz.

The group also has two very talented female vocalists, Jan Hruby and Vicki Hubly. Believing girls should not only look good but sound good, Jim spent a great deal of time searching for the right combination. He finally found, as he claims, the only two girls in the world that sound like three.

Individually, the members of "The Chi-Town Hustlers" are superb; it can only be expected that together with Jim Peterik in front, the group can be nothing but great.

Dr. Wilburn Addresses Parents Of Freshmen

Dr. D. Banks Wilburn, president of Glenville State College, will address parents of incoming freshmen this afternoon at a meeting to be held at 1:30 p.m. in the Ballroom of the Student Center. Following are some highlights from Wilburn's address:

"Education is something that each person must acquire for himself. It cannot be purchased, borrowed, or conferred. It cannot be imposed on a student. He cannot acquire it by some mysterious process resulting by merely living on a college campus for four years in contact with professors, classrooms and books."

"Glenville State College will offer to your sons and daughters the opportunity to achieve an education; but each student must through individual effort acquire that combination of knowledge and maturity of thought, wisdom, tolerance, curiosity, ambition, which distinguishes the truly educated."

The Price Is Right?

They say the mother is always the last to know, but it seems as if this time it is you and I.

I was helping proof read the faculty handbook this summer and stumbled over a page entitled, "PROPOSED USER FEE: Admission Fees for College Sponsored Activities." Not recalling any student vote on this particular topic I became somewhat disturbed and read on.

It seemed as if an Ad-Hoc committee, the Special Committee on Activity Fees, and representatives of the athletic and dramatic departments, the Convocation-Lyceum series and the Student Congress decided to levy additional fees to help the above mentioned groups with present inflationary trends. The insuing oversupply of "whos", "wheres", and "whys" took me through five interviews, a stack of catalogs, and finally finger drills on a calculator

The following should, however, provide plenty of information for you to formulate your own ideas on the now finalized "User Fee."

Miss Kobuszewski's drama department was the first to propose money-raising plans to the Student Congress and they were allowed to charge a 50 cent admission fee. The athletic department was next in line with the argument that they would have to cut their program seriously if more funds were not made available. Originally, an "across-the-board" proposal was submitted, but it was felt for many reasons, that it would not be appropriate to raise the activity fees again at this time.

The idea of the "User Fee" was considered a fair system since it would only affect those people that already support the program anyway.

The special committee, next, set the proposal before the student government. The Congress's main concern was the physical problems involved in obtaining the admission tickets." The SC returned the proposal with the stipulations that season passes and advance ticket sales for students be permitted. This would reduce the chances of longer lines at the gate waiting to get in. These considerations were approved and another session with the new student body representatives sent it on to the Faculty Welfare Committee and the College Council, both of which approved it and now the "User Fee" is policy.

Once we found out how the user fees were established we got to looking into the rationale of some of the claims.

Below, you will find a comparative chart of the present tuition and fees, athletic fees (generally included in the "college" fees) and the enrollment for each school for last fall. From this information a main budget item has been proposed. As anyone can plainly see Glenville's student contribution to athletics is a great deal lower than most and even with the inclusion of revenue from the "User Fee" (approximately $10,000)* it remains a modest figure.

At this point I could say I am for the money that the "User Fee" should produce, but then, of course who isn't for extra monies of any kind. I am, however, still sorting out some questions as to the strategies employed in this type of program.

Has this action set any precedents for other groups supported by the activity fee? What is to be said to the avid sports fan? And why did we have to find out by accident?

First consider the yearbook. They have had only 16 pages of color photographs in the past three years. Isn't that grounds for petitioning the committee? Why not let them require an additional fifty cents before a student can pick up his annual? The radio station WGSC, had UPI equipment cut from their budget for lack of funds. They are supported by the activity fee and faced the cut instead of promotion.

The sports fan now pays over a third more than he did last year but he does have the distinction of being in the class with the big schools. Now, only GSC and WVU charge their students additional gate fees for admission to games.

I feel real disappointment in the fact that an issue that affects as many constituents as this one does had to be "stumbled over."

Although we did recieve adequate cooperation during our research we would like to feel that we are at least part of the line of communication on this the "friendly campus."

In speaking of the next few weeks ahead, President Wilburn remarks, "Experience has taught us that the early months of college are a time of crisis for parents and students alike. Until now, most of you have been closely associated with the education of your sons and daughters. You have provided much of their instruction in your homes. Most of you have encouraged them to receive religious training. You have known your children's teachers and the members of the school board; you have participated in PTA activities and school events; you have had the chief responsibility for discipline, supervision of study, and control of non-academic activities outside of school. And now, you are turning your sons and daughters over to Glenville State College. It is understandable if you have some misgivings and apprehensions."

Selected first-year students receive by the way of certain courses designated as Foundation Studies Assistance in improving language skills reading and writing, and/or basic information in mathematics, and/or the sciences.

Students who have demonstrated that they have acquired those certain knowledges and skills which are presented in first-year college-level courses will be assigned appropriate credit in one or more courses, thus providing such students registration for advanced courses at the outset of their college careers. Recognizing achievement to the degree expected on completing a college-level course and assigning college credit is appropriately designated as Advanced Placement.

Parents will be given information concerning the size, location, service and regulations of the College, the manner of treatment of their sons and daughters, qualifications of the instructional staff and pertinent information about Glenville State College. They will also be given the opportunity to speak individually with present staff members concerning student welfare and College policy.

Dr. Wilburn pledges the cooperation of all of his staff personnel with these words:

"As parents of our entering freshman class, you are naturally favorably inclined toward higher education. You are hopeful of its value and are convinced that it is well worth the sacrifice many are making to send your sons and daughters to Glenville State. . .

"Finally, on the part of Glenville State College, I pledge to you that all who serve here will do their best to encourage your sons and daughters to become better men and women by reason of having studied here and by having associated with us. We appreciate your confidence in this college in giving us, for a time, your most precious possessions - your sons and daughters. We accept this trust with sincere responsibility."

SC President Greet's '78 Class

On behalf of myself and the Student Congress I would like to welcome you, the class of 1978, to GSC. I would also like to say that we've been waiting for you for quite some time but have been preparing for you even longer. At GSC the student's life of scholastic achievement and social enjoyment has been perfected over the years and is now ready to accomodate this year's freshmen. A recent poll taken by the American Council of Education found that this year's freshmen are of a more liberal type whose political stance is in the "middle of the road." The school policies and legislation of GSC are now amended so as to provide the liberal minded students with an atmosphere they can best enjoy. The political arguments in the classrooms are now highly charged and the new students may be encouraged to either cross or remain on that road depending on how well he or she is capable of arguing.

Events are now shaping up to provide you with a perfected social life as your Student Congress and Lyceum and Convocation Committee have prepared a worthwhile entertainment program for this year. Also the many campus organizations are now preparing to accept you as members. These organizations include the fraternities, sororities, the College Historical Society, the Drama Department, to mention a few. There are many other entertaining social organizations who are just as interested in you as you are in them.

Others who are of course ready to greet you are your particular instructors who have prepared for you over the summer. But relax, these instructors are not here to threaten you but are here to instruct and help you. They have been carefully and selectively chosen to prepare you for a career you may inspire to. Graduates and former students may attest to their quality but this is not necessary as you will soon find out.

GSC has served as a springboard of knowledge and career for many years, for many great people who still have a soft spot in their heart for GSC. An almost fraternal relationship exists among the graduates who many times return throughout the year. As a result a tradition of quality and reputation has been established & left for you to maintain. You must now devote yourselves to hard work and determination throughout this and every school year while you are here.

So welcome to GSC and good luck. Remember, you are an asset to us. Your new faces accent our appearance and your new ideas fertilize the very minds of those already here. Together we should compliment each other and avoid any problems because you wouldn't want your college to falter.

Jeff Garton
Student Congress President

President Welcomes Class

It is with much enthusiasm and high expectations of your future that I greet you as the class of 1978. You undoubtedly, are beginning what possibly will be the most rewarding four years of your lives. I hope that most of what happens to you will have a most positive effect on what you will become and what you will believe in terms of values which will guide you in relating yourselves to others.

Glenville State College must quickly become, in every sense, truly your Alma Mater. If this is to be, it must necessarily include the arriving at a degree of maturity which is exhibited in a sincere personal loyalty to yourselves, to your fellow students, to those who cause you to want to be creative, imaginative, and objective in all areas of daily living. Only when you measure what you do in terms of values which make actions positive, and only when you measure loyalty to yourselves as being identical with your loyalty to others will Glenville State College have the meaning that it should have as your Alma Mater.

Best wishes,
D. Banks Wilburn, President

The 1974-75 football coaching staff is comprised of Mr. Jim Riffle, Mr. Jerry Milliken, Mr. Bill Hanlin, head coach; Mr. Earl Adolfson and Mr. Bob Summers.

On The Bench

It seems silly, but I have been contemplating all summer about the writing of this column and the appropriate title for it. I have had many suggestions on the name, some printable, some unprintable, but through tedious research and many lost hours of sleep I decided on the title, "On the Bench", because this is where I have been found most of my athletic career.

Not to change the subject or nothing, but the GSC Pioneer football team is opening up against a very rough opponent in Hillsdale College of Michigan, a perennial power in small college football. The Michigan team will be looking to avenge a 15-14 loss inflicted by the national runner-up Pioneers last year. Coach Bill Hanlin feels that a good season depends on the outcome of the first few games and this game will be the real "tester."

1974 FOOTBALL PROSPECTS

The Pioneer coaching staff is expecting close to 95 players, strong with the nucleus of the 1973 championship team, will be turning out to open the '74 season. Although twelve valuable seniors were lost to graduation, the coaching staff remains optimistic with the returning of 23 lettermen.

Heading up the offensive unit, which Coach Hanlin says should be quicker, although some key positions are still questionable, is the battle for the quarterback position with Chris

Anderson and Joe Mitchem, both seniors. Other key players in this unit are running back, Don Brady, wide receiver, Steve Buffington, and guard Bob Maynard.

On the other side of the line, Hanlin feels that the defense should be as strong as last year. Heading up this unit is three-time letterman, Bob Hardman, followed by other tough "cookies:" Willie Marshall, Roger Bonnette, Jerome Fruit, and Dave Harsh, just to name a few.

As a first year soothsayer, I am going to make a stab in-the-dark and say that the Pioneers will have a 7-2 won-lost record and play in the Conference Championship. Let's hope the Pioneers do better than my prediction and prove me wrong.

GOLF

I know it's almost football season but this summer the Pioneer golf team traveled to Aberdeen, S.D., to participate in the NAIA National Championships and although they did not fare as well as they had hoped, 27th place, there will always be next year and a little more experience. One GSC linkster did finish 33rd in individual play and that was long ball hitter, Terry Crislip, a Parkersburg native.

School physician hours for fall are: weekdays - 9-12, and nurses hours are 1-4 on weekdays. Their office is located on the first floor of the PE building.

New Athletic Facilities Completion Is Delayed

The new athletic facilities to be constructed on Mineral Road has yet to get "off" the ground.

The blame has been laid on excessive rains, equipment breakdown, and unforeseen circumstances, (i.e., slippage, excessive run off problems, and the soft clay soil).

When the facilities are completed they will include a football field, an eight-lane, all-weather track, baseball and softball diamonds, four tennis courts and locker rooms for both men and women.

The new athletic field will share the old "college farm" property with the Forestry Building.

Food Service Program Set

The West Virginia Board of Regents has approved a new two year program in Food Service Management for Glenville State College.

Combining formal course work and internship experiences, the program is designed to prepare competent food service managers for large restaurants and cafeterias in both the public and private sector.

Very few formal programs are offered in food service management across the country, and yet some estimates go as high as 60,000 persons needed with backgrounds such as those to be developed in this program over the next five years. The Marriott Chain estimates that this company alone will need approximately 5,000 food service managers in the next five years.

A food service manager is not a cook or a chef. He is the person responsible for maintaining the quality of food and service appropriate for the management of the food service establishment.

Enrollment will be limited to approximately twenty students per year. Students must meet the requirements for entrance into the college, which means that they must be high school graduates or equivalent.

Car Repair Class On New Schedule

Has your car ever failed to start-stopped running while waiting for a stoplight-or have you been stranded in a most unlikely location with a tire that's flat on one side or has your boyfriend's car quit running on some secluded lane--well, Glenville State College may be able to assist you.

The Department of Forest Technology of Glenville State College will offer a new course "Elementary Auto Trouble Shooting" this fall for persons who may need to be an ar instant, "on-the-spot," non-professional auto mechanic.

This course is designed to teach basic auto maintenance and repair to individuals who know little or nothing about cars but wish to learn. No prerequisites are required for the course. This course is not for persons who are presently working as auto mechanics or have considerable knowledge in this field. Some of the topics to be covered are elementary maintenance, proper methods and tools for changing tires, the basic electrical and mechanical systems, troubleshooting, and elementary tune-ups.

The course will be taught on Wednesday evenings from 6:30 pm to 8:30 pm for eight weeks. One hour credit will be given for the course which can be taken for audit or credit. Persons wishing to enroll in the course should contact the Office of Academic Affairs, Glenville State College or Mr. C. R. "Rick" Sybolt of the Department of Forest Technology.
