The Mercury Staff extends its sympathy to the family of Rebecca S. Raymond, a recent GSC graduate and staff member, who was killed in a Thursday morning car wreck.

Dr. Gainer Offers Appalachian Class

Dr. Patrick Gainer, founder of the West Virginia State Folk Festival, and long time Professor of Folklore at West Virginia University, will teach a course in Appalachian Folk Music at Glenville State College this fall.

The course is a part of the new Appalachian Studies teaching field which will begin at Glenville with the fall semester. The class will meet on Tuesday evenings at 6:30 p.m. and will carry three credit hours. It is designed to familiarize students with the cultural background which produced Appalachian music; to teach the basic mechanics of music so that the students will be able to sing the songs; and to provide the students with a large repertoire of folk songs.

Dr. Gainer has just recently published a hardback book on Appalachian Folk Music and is in the process of publishing another book on Ghost Stories of the Appalachians. He enjoys a national reputation as a folklore authority.

Faculty, Staff See Changes

Sixteen new faculty members will begin their duties at Glenville State College on Monday, August 25, according to Dr. D. Banks Wilburn, president. Two others have received new appointments this year. Five resignations have been received, one leave of absence has been granted and three who had leaves of absence have returned. Four temporary faculty members have been given regular status.

Miss Sheryl Lynn Bode has been named assistant professor of Business Administration. Miss Bode holds a A.B. degree from Glenville State College ('68) and an M.A. from Marshall

Convocation Highlighted

Wilburn To Speak

Dr. D. Banks Wilburn, President of Glenville State College, will address parents of incoming freshmen this afternoon at 1:30 p.m. in the Ballroom (Pioneer Center). This Convocation will give the parents a greater understanding of GSC and its process of education.

Highlights of the convocation include the following:

"Glenville State College will offer to your sons and daughters the opportunity to achieve an education: but each student must, through individual effort, acquire that combination of knowledge and maturity of thought, wisdom, tolerance, curiosity, ambition, integrity, character, and attitude which distinguish the truly educated. The state of West Virginia supports Glenville State College and other colleges on the soul basis that all of us are better off by having our youth develop their native capacities to the fullest.

"All of the citizens of West Virginia who make it possible through the use of their tax dollars for this college to continue in operation, have a stake and an interest in the educational careers of your sons and daughters. You, as parents, pay hundreds of dollars to Glenville State College for room, board, tuition, and fees, but the taxpayers of West Va. contribute about $1,600., in addition, each year for each student at G.S.C. This contribution comes from taxes paid by the rich and poor alike, your neighbors, friends, and people with whom you will never be acquainted.

"This is why we feel that we are responsible to the people of West Va. in everything that we do. We feel that we have a right to demand that all students make good use of their time here and of the opportunity which is so generously provided for them. These are points that students—and parents, too—sometimes tend to overlook. Our incoming students qualify for this privilege by their records to date and their potential for development. Whether they will continue to earn this generous support depends alone on them."

The freshman's step towards self-management is discussed by Dr. Wilburn in the following fashion:

"This is a difficult time for students, for they are making a break with the past. Each young person who enters college this week or next, here or elsewhere, will find after a few weeks, that being in college is making a difference in his or her view of what he or she has most recently been a part. The family, the friends at home, and the community in which he or she has been reared will appear to be different than before leaving just a few weeks ago. Most freshmen are taking their first tentative steps toward adult responsibilities.

"In seeking to establish their own identities and assert their independence, your sons and daughters may express points of view that you find difficult to understand or accept. We ask that you be especially tolerant of them as they are trying to acclimate

Activities Are Listed For Freshman Week

Freshman Week activities begin this afternoon, Sunday, August 24, and officially continue through Saturday night. A number of orientation sessions, mixes, and meetings fill the week that is highlighted with registration on Tuesday and classes on Wednesday.

A meeting for parents will begin at 1:30 p.m. today in the Ballroom (Pioneer Center). The President and other administrative officers will

Tryouts Open For 'Comedy'

TRYOUTS! HILARIOUS COMEDY! Six males! Three Females! Produced during the 1975 Homecoming weekend, October 9, 10, and 11. Sumner Arthur Long's bubbling comedy, NEVER TOO LATE, is the Speech Department's No. 1 production choice of the season. Set in the typical "Archie Bunker" household, NEVER TOO LATE boasts a portrait of a married man in his fifties who suddenly learns that he is to become a father AGAIN: His last child was born 24 years prior. Considering the blooming idiot she turned out to be, Harry does not relish the thought at all! He does have a point. His daughter and meathead son-in-law are still living with him. The dense son-in-law is addicted to solitaire and his lazy but sexy daughter never gets up to eat breakfast BEFORE lunch. On Broadway, Paul Ford dazed audiences as he faced his meek wife's new proposal of a new nursery, a new bath, her own checking account and a general turnover of household affairs.

At points in the play the household is so topsy-turvy an audience member, as well as an actor will think they are on the local fair's scrambler. The New York Times said it best, "If you have wondered what Broadway needs to dispel gloom and spread joy, NEVER TOO LATE has the answer." And it certainly does. Start out this year at Glenville State College getting a shoe in the door of involvement. The Speech department welcomes everyone to tryout for their hit comedy. You don't need experience in theatre. Acting and technical positions are both needing to be filled.

Tryouts will be held September 3, and 4, Wednesday and Thursday in the Large Auditorium from 4:00-9:00 p.m. Six males! Three Females! Scripts are in the library from August 26 through September 4 for your reading pleasure. If you have any questions, see Ms. K in the Speech Department, call 318 or contact a member of Ohningohow.

At a meeting on August 5, the Committee on Academic Affairs approved the following policy: "During the regular academic year, the last day for dropping a class with a 'W' will be exactly five weeks from the first day of classes."

provide for parents an orientation to the college and a question-answer session from 6:00-7:00 p.m. A Freshman Women meeting will be headed by Jean S. Wright, Associate Dean of Student Affairs, in the auditorium (Administration Building).

The Men's meeting is scheduled from 6:45-7:30 p.m. in the concrete upper level bleachers in the gymnasium (Health and P.E. Building). Dr. A.T. Billips, Dean of Students will preside. Immediately following these, the President's Reception for Freshmen in the ballroom will give Freshmen an opportunity to meet the Administrative staff, faculty, and local ministers in a social setting. A session at the individual residence halls is planned from 10:00-11:00 p.m. Information will be posted in the halls.

Freshman Testing

On Monday, August 25th, the day is involved with freshman testing. Below is a time schedule according to the alphabetical listing of last names. Each freshman must report to the gymnasium, or make up the test at a later date. When not testing, students may have their I.D. photographs taken in Room 105 in the Pioneer Center, from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. (same time on Tuesday). This must be completed before registration.

From 7:00-9:00 p.m., two sessions will be held in the auditorium. A film called "I Wish I'd Known That Before I Went To College" will precede a presentation of "Study Habits with note taking lecture and Foundation Studies" by James H. Meads, Chairman, Division of Foundation Studies and Bob Belcastro, Instructor of Reading. Following this a ballroom mix (dance) sponsored by the Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic will feature "Shenandoah". Admission is $1.50.

Registration/Pinning

Registration of students is scheduled from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Tuesday, August 26, in the Ballroom. At 4:00 p.m., President D. Banks Wilburn will address the freshman class in the auditorium. Local ministers and the president of the Student Congress, Mr. Joseph L. Mills, will be introduced.

A pinning ceremony will begin at 7:00 p.m. in the amphitheater. At this time officially recognizing the freshman class, the Student Congress will hold an election of class officers. GSC's Pioneer (Perry Stovall), the cheerleaders, and the football team will be introduced at this time. A free mix in the ballroom will feature Morgantown's "Angel" from 9:00-12:00 midnight.

Classes Begin

Classes begin at 8:00 a.m. Wednesday, August 27th, but activities continue in the evening.

After a picnic at 5:00 p.m. on the Verona Mapel lawn there will be a CARNIVAL: "Organizations on Campus" orientation sponsored by the GSC Student Congress. From 8:00-9:30 p.m., film viewing in the auditorium will include "Journey In Time" and "Marijuana." Freshmen are invited to attend a Coffee House in the Wesley Foundation Building from 8:30-10:30 p.m.

A Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity sponsored mix is listed for 9:00-12:00 midnight on Friday, August 29, in the Ballroom. Admission is $1.50.

On Saturday night at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. William K. Simmons, newly appointed Dean of Academic Affairs.

President Extends Welcome

It is with much enthusiasm and high expectations of your future that I greet you as the Class of 1979. You, undoubtedly, are beginning what possibly will be the most rewarding four years of your lives. I hope that most of what happens to you will have a most positive effect upon what you will become and what you will believe in terms of values which will guide you in relating yourselves to others.

Glenville State College must quickly become, in every sense, truly your Alma Mater. If this is to be, it must necessarily include the arriving at a degree of maturity which is exhibited in a sincere personal loyalty to yourselves, to your fellow students, to those who cause you to want to be creative, imaginative and objective in all areas of daily living. Only when you measure what you do in terms of values which make actions positive, and only when you measure loyalty to yourselves as being identical with your loyalty to others will Glenville State College have the meaning that it should have as your Alma Mater.

With best wishes,

D. Banks Wilburn
President

Mr. Joseph L. Mills

SC President Greet Class

As President of your Student Congress here at Glenville State College, I would like to take an opportunity to extend a hearty welcome to the incoming Freshman Class, as well as the returning "veterans" to our campus.

As you will find, the campus of Glenville State College is quite unique in that it "extends itself" past its physical boundaries through the proponents of the college. People are the proponents of this campus. Here at Glenville you will discover people who are genuinely interested in you as an individual as well as in your educational aspirations. In the wake of today's systemized dehumanization of the individual, I honestly believe that GSC's concern for the individual student is one of the reasons why Glenville is the home of one of West Virginia's finest institutions.

The implementing of education is, of course, the immediate goal of college. However, education is composed of more than merely books, classrooms, and instructors. The social development of the student is as much a factor in one's success or failure as is classroom participation. Glenville State College is more than sufficient in social areas. Whether one's interests lie in chess, billiards, or practically any area, you will find the GSC campus offers productive outlets for your excess energies.

College life is an aggregation of many and varied forces. The end product of this college life will hopefully result in the successful forging of a college graduate who is capable of grasping a situation and, by using his or her training, arriving at a suitable result.

This learning experience on which you are about to embark will deliver you to a level of success which is highly dependent on your personal labors. You are now constructing the foundation for the remainder of your life. Even though many helping hands will be extended to you during your college career, the brunt of the effort must be provided by yourself.

With this in mind, I sincerely wish you the best in the continuance of your education.

Joseph Mills
Student Congress Pres.

Tuesday Planned For Registration

Registration for the 1975 Fall Semester will be conducted on Tuesday, August 26, 1975 between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. in the Ballroom of Pioneer Center.

Those who have not pre-registered should see their advisor sometime on the 25th or 26th. Then on the 26th, go on to the Ballroom and register, pick up their financial aid (if any), and finally, go to the Multi-Purpose Room and pay their fees.

Those who have pre-registered need to update their student profile sheet, pick up their financial aid (if any), and pay their fees in the MP Room. This can be done either on Monday, the 25th, or on Tuesday, the 26th. On Monday profiles may be updated in the Auditorium between 10:00-12:00 and 1:00-3:00, financial aid checks may be picked up in the new Financial Aid Office in Louis Bennett Hall, and fees may be paid in the Multi-Purpose Room.

If you pre-registered and need to make a change, go ahead and update your profile and pay your fees. Then on Wednesday, the 27th, see your advisor, fill out a drop-add card, and then go to the Ballroom and make the change.

Cultural Studies Approved Here

GSC will become the first college in the state and possibly the first in the area to offer a teaching field in Appalachian Studies. The program has been approved on a three year experimental basis. Students may enroll in the course now, and if there is enough interest, the Appalachian Studies program will become a minor teaching field at GSC.

An attempt has been made to combine Appalachian crafts, music, and culture so that those taking the course will become acquainted with all aspects of Appalachian culture. Students will be instructed in such skills as weaving, pottery, candle making, chair bottom weaving, and spinning. They will attend lectures concerning the historical background of the Appalachian people. They will read the best that has been written by, for, and about the Appalachian people. And, they will be fully schooled in the area of Appalachian music by Dr. Patrick Gainer.

The intent of the course is to give people the necessary skills to transmit the culture. Teaching will be non-traditional and a large portion of class time will be spent in "doing" rather than listening and watching. For example, participants will not only learn folk songs but they will also receive instructions in folk guitar so that they might better transmit the songs. In the craft classes, resource people from the immediate area will be brought into the classroom so that students can observe the skill from a primary source. Square Dancing will be done to live music and using mountain calls rather than to a record player with a physical education teacher struggling with calls. In short, the Appalachian Studies curriculum will put the students into direct contact with mountain people and their culture.

In order to complete the teaching specialization in Appalachian Studies, the student must complete an 18 hour sequence of courses. The course outline is as follows: English 350, Appalachian Literature; Art 211, Heritage Crafts I; Art 212, Heritage Crafts II; Social Science 315, West Virginia and Appalachian Region; Music 300, Folk Music of the Appalachians; Music 156, Folk Guitar; and Physical Education 228, Appalachian Square Dancing.

Students will also be encouraged to take a special one week Appalachian course offered each year in cooperation with the West Virginia State Folk Festival. The one week course is a sort of condensation of the entire program, but there are many, many craftsmen and musicians in Glenville that week who are normally unavailable. Also, the festival is an invaluable experience for anyone who teaches Appalachian Studies.

The location of Glenville State College is in itself a plus for the program. The campus is located in the rural serenity of Central West Virginia. It is an area where the ways of the early Appalachians are still very much alive. Many people still raise nearly everything they eat, still farm with horses, still maintain some of the unique features of the language, still worship in the Appalachian tradition, and still find joy in the simple life. Students will find themselves surrounded with what they are learning.

Those who complete the program will be certified to teach Appalachian Studies in grades 4-8 or 7-12 in the West Virginia public schools. The program should also be very helpful to those who conduct summer camps or coordinate any sort of youth programs. Most importantly, the Appalachian Studies program will be a delightful experience, whether or not a person ever plans to use it for professional reasons.

1974-75 KANAWHACHEN Cover

A Game Of Monotony

"KICKED OUT OF SCHOOL, Lose 15 hours, ADVANCE TO GO, Lose 2 Rolls, DO NOT COLLECT 6 Hours." No, this is not another freshman welcome speech but just one of many options offered in the "Spirit of the Game."

Using the game of Monopoly as a background, a creative rendition of the ole "College life" has been sandwiched between the covers of the 1974-75 Kanawhachen. A playing layout, option cards, the players rules, and an all encompassing display of the participants from the best to the beginning.

The little mustached man of monopoly fame guides us through many encounters such as homecoming, sports, organizations, and candid "student life" creations with a humor and continuity to rival many past editions.

The "Glenville in Autumn" setting reproduced in the colored section portrays a GSC homecoming in the atmosphere it has come to be known best. The blending of parade floats in the morning sunlight, the patchwork appearance of the football crowd, and the flurry of blue and gold uniforms in stop-action play makes this vignette one if not the strongest features of the book.

Another standard which many, I am sure, are glad to see is the mug shots. In past years the lack of student interest was the key factor in dropping the regular attraction. It's really a shame too, because this part of remembering will probably be of more value than all the rest, some day.

On the whole I think this annual is one of the finer in recent years, Carol Hillary and the yearbook staff are to be commended for their use of talent and contribution to the spirit of the game.

Television Course Offered Via PBS

A unique college course to be given on television will be offered this fall by Glenville State College. The course, "The Ascent of Man," is built around the 13 part weekly, award-winning television series produced by the late Jacob Bronowski.

The weekly series is scheduled on Tuesday evenings from 9 to 10 p.m. from September 23 to December 16 over the Public Broadcast System channel, WWVU-TV, Morgantown. The program is repeated on Sunday evenings at 10 p.m. Please check local TV listings for showings on other PBS stations.

Students may enroll in "The Ascent of Man" course, History 399, for 3 or 4 hours credit. In addition to viewing the series, students will use Dr. Bronowski's book, "The Ascent of Man," an anthology and a study guide. Students may complete all requirements for the class at home. For those who do not have access to PBS telecasts, the television program will be shown on the Glenville campus.

Students may enroll in the class from August 26 to September 15 on the Glenville campus. In addition, the Admissions office is also open from 6:30 to 8:00 p.m., August 26-28.

PREDICTIONS

I'm back again after a hot summer layoff, ready and anxious to write about the upcoming sports year for the Pioneers.

I'd like to welcome all the incoming freshmen to the campus of Glenville State and the town of Glenville. I know the first month or so of college here at Glenville is a very different and difficult experience for most first year students, but once you get to know the people and places on campus and in the town it could become very enjoyable.

For the first time in ten years there is a new head football coach leading the Pioneers this season. Coach Earl "Whitey" Adolfsen takes over the helm for Bill Hanlin who moved up to Assistant Athletic Activities Commissioner for the state high schools.

I know Coach Adolfsen and his staff will get their GSC troops in top condition for their home opening game against Madison College of Virginia on September 13.

A former GSC football player, Eugene Davis, was added to the Glenville coaching staff this summer to fill the vacant coaching position left by Hanlin. Coach Davis will be an assistant football coach and head women's basketball coach this fall.

Dr. Robert Dollgener recently announced the appointment of Mr. Bob Belcastro as the new head baseball coach. Belcastro takes over the team from coach Bob Summers who stepped aside so he could concentrate on his football coaching responsibilities.

It's too early in the school year to start predicting on who will win what on the gridiron so I've made some other predictions concerning athletics on this campus.

Here they are:

I predict the new GSC athletic field will be completed by at least the year 1980.

I predict the GSC baseball team will at least double their wins this season.

I predict that new coach Gene Davis will have some awkward situations with his women's basketball team.

I predict that Coach Jim Riffle will never run out of any of his "corny" jokes this season.

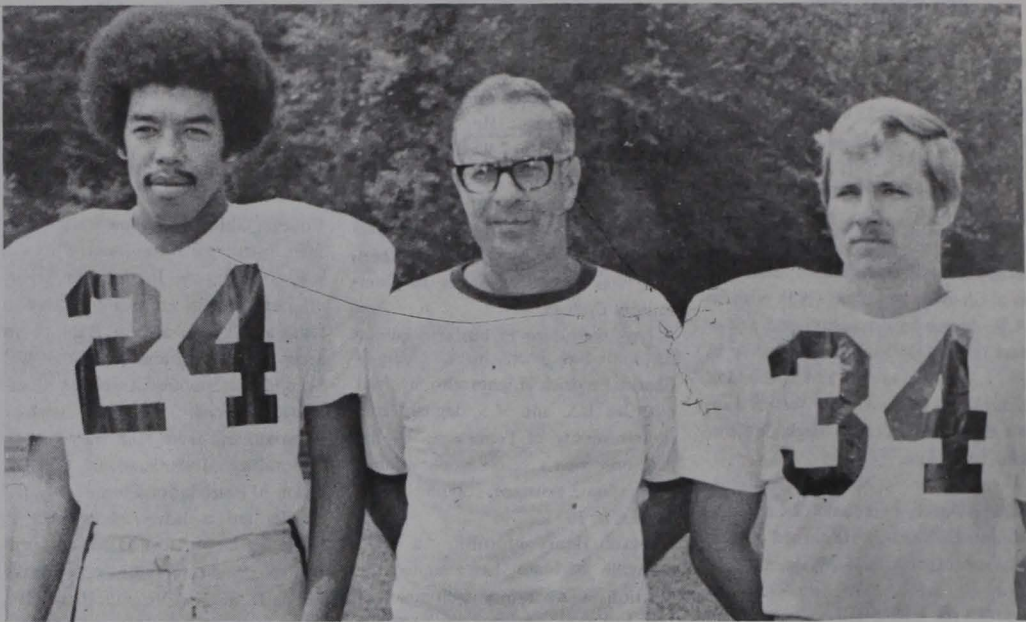

I predict that I better quit before I put my foot in my mouth any further.

John Reaves, the Philadelphia Eagles' seldom-used quarterback, after being traded to the Cincinnati Bengals for two players: "It looks like I finally helped the team."

Winston Hill, New York Jets tackle, on staying in condition: "I'm on a seafood diet. I eat anything I see."

Mickey Mantle, on his new job with a Dallas firm: "I'm vice-president in charge of special marketing. That mean I play golf and go to cocktail parties. I'm pretty good at my job."

Rocky Graziano, after making his singing debut in a New York City nightclub: "The singin's easy. Memorizin' the words is hard."

22 Lettermen To Return;
New Coach Sparks Season

Glenville State College will begin the 1975 football season with a new head coach. Earl "Whitey" Adolfsen has been named the head coach to succeed Bill Hanlin who resigned to accept a position as the Assistant Executive Secretary of the West Virginia Secondary Schools Activities Commission.

Coach Adolfsen is no stranger to Glenville State College. He served the Pioneers as the defensive coordinator for 9 years and moves up to the head position with excellent credentials.

The 1975 football team will be returning 22 lettermen. There are several key positions to be filled offensively and defensively if Glenville is to be a conference contender. The Pioneers will be a very young ball club and should mature as the season progresses.

The defensive lettermen returning will be linebacker Art Ausberry, All-Conference tackle Dan Clevenger. All-Conference safety Jerome Fruit, linebacker Rick Reidl and halfback Ted Williams.

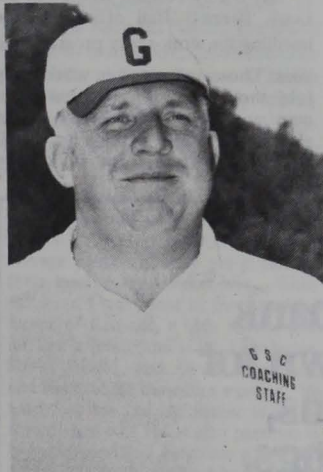

The offensive lettermen returning will be tailback Don Brady, tackle John Caldwell, guard Don Evans, tailback Leandis Hodges, center Greg Huffman, guard Pat Joyce, tailback Rick Lemley, guard Joe McIntyre, fullback Keith Murdock, split end Bob Shaffer and center Mitch Valentine. All-Conference punter Bob Casto will be back for his second year.

Only 8 of the 22 lettermen are seniors. There are 9 juniors and 5 sophomores that have earned letters.

The football team hard at work days before the arrival of other students.

themselves to their new environment. Furthermore, we ask that you not automatically attribute all the changes you observe or think have occurred to their being in college.

"All of this means that both the college and the parents must be understanding, tolerant of honest mistakes, and anxious to help them become responsible young men and women. At the same time, there must be insistence upon reasonable faithful adherence to rules of propriety and upon diligent attention to matters of first importance--and those are academic matters."

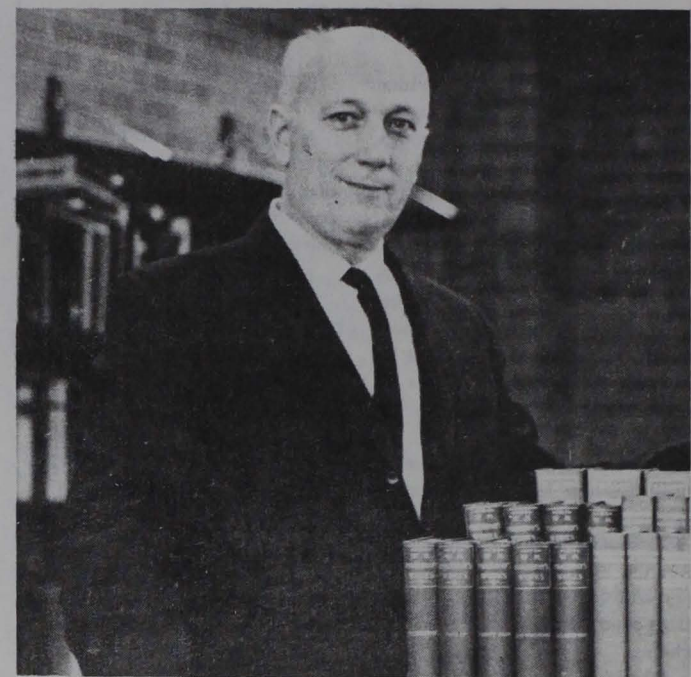

Specific situations at the college are included in the address. One section includes:

"We want you to understand and support the college's position on social controls and personal discipline. We most assuredly would like you to understand that an automobile is not essential to an education and often proves to be a severe handicap. That is one reason freshmen and sophomores are not permitted to have cars on the campus. The second reason is that there is just not enough parking space on campus for all who would like to have cars with them."

"State laws prohibit drinking in residence halls or in any building controlled by the college. Bringing liquor onto the campus, or into a building controlled by the college, is regarded in the same manner as drinking it there. Violations of this regulation are handled by the residence governing boards or the committee on student Life and Welfare."

Dr. Wilburn ends the Parent's Convocation with the following pledge: "Finally, on the part of Glenville State College, I pledge to you that all who serve here will do their best to encourage your sons and daughters to become better men and women by reason of having studied here and by having associated with us. We appreciate your confidence in this college and in giving us, for a time, your most precious possessions--your sons and daughters. We accept this trust with sincere responsibility."

Dr. Espy Miller, Chairman, Division of Languages, was recently elected President of the W. Va. Board of Regents Faculty Advisory Council.

Dr. Miller Elected

Dr. Espy W. Miller, Chairman, Division of Language, was elected the faculty representative of the W.Va. Board of Regents Faculty Advisory Council, at a recent meeting of the Faculty Administration Organization at Glenville State College. In the July reorganization meeting of the council, Dr. Miller was elected to the one-year position of President. Vice President/Recorder honors went to I.D. Peters, a professor of mathematics at West Virginia University.

The retiring president of several years was Dr. Sam Clagg, professor of geology at Marshall University.

As president, Dr. Miller will attend Board of Regents meetings as a non-voting faculty representative. Recent GSC graduate Phillip Reale served as the student representative for the W.Va. college system two years ago.

Five main issues are scheduled for consideration in the upcoming September 11th meeting. Discussion subjects include sabbatical leaves for faculty, a consideration of the guidelines for funding summer sessions, and an examination of the relationship between two-year and four year institutions. An evaluation of the membership in the council will be made, as to whom exactly are councilors. Chancellor Ben L. Morten will present a report of the role and function of the council.

The 14 members of the faculty advisory council include representatives of the two universities and the junior, community, and state colleges that are under the W.Va. education system.

Dr. Miller received his B.A. at Concord College in 1937, and he earned his M.A. in 1940 at Northwestern University. Awarded his Ph.D. at the Ohio State University in 1959, his doctoral dissertation subject was "Explication de Texte as An Approach to Literary Criticism."

Financial Aid Office Moves To LB Hall

The office of Financial Aid, which has been located in the basement of the Administration Building, has been moved to the first floor of the Louis Bennett Hall. The office will remain under the guidance of Mack Samples, Associate Academic Dean. Students who have major financial aid problems should see Mr. Samples who is located in the Dean's office. Routine questions can be handled in the Financial Aid office itself.

Mr. Danny Perkins, located in the Louis Bennett Hall office, will be handling the work-study program this year. Those interested in work-study jobs should see him. Division chairmen and department heads should also contact Mr. Perkins to see if students qualify for the work-study program.
