Parade & Dance Planned For Homecoming Activities

A parade, a dance, coronation of the Queen-Homecoming here at GSC is packed with activities and excitement. This year's theme for Homecoming is "Pioneer Spirit of '76."

To kick off Homecoming festivities, cheerleaders are holding a thuse Friday, Oct. 10, at 6:00 p.m. in the Amphitheatre.

Starting at 10:00 a.m. the Homecoming Parade, led by Parade Marshall, Mrs. Fern Rollyson, gives us a preview of Queen Becky Watson and her court. Judging the floats will be Andrew Edwards, Susan B. Fulton, and Earl "Rusty" Stalnaker, members of the Alumni Council.

An activity that alumni, faculty, staff, and friends will not want to miss is the Social Hour and Cocktail Party sponsored by the Alumni Association scheduled from 4 to 6 pm in the private dining room of the Conrad Restaurant.

The Homecoming Dance, which is formal this year, is slated from 9 p.m. 12:00 p.m. The Student Congress has engaged 'Shenandoah' and 'Brass, LTD' both of Parkersburg, for the event. ## Queen Becky I Reigns With Court Saturday

Miss Rebecca Watson is no stranger to the Homecoming game. Glenville's 1975 Homecoming Queen also served as "Miss Tiger," Wirt County High School's equivalent position, during her senior year there in 1972. This year at GSC she will be attended by Vickie McCracken, Senior Princess; Elizabeth Steidl, Junior Princess; Kimberly Casto, Sophomore Princess; and U-ticia, "Tish" Cummings, Freshman Princess.

Queen Becky is wearing a cream-colored gown featuring a fitted bodice and full skirt, with both the V-neckline and long sleeves accented with lace. Her escort is Perry Stovall, GSC's 1975 Pioneer.

A Library Science and English major, Becky is secretary of Sigma Sigma Sigma and a member of Kappa Delta Pi. She enjoys reading, swimming and playing piano. Upon graduation from GSC, Becky hopes "to get a job as a librarian and perhaps start working toward a Master's degree in a year or two."

Senior Princess Vickie McCracken is currently student teaching in Williamstown, across the river from her hometown of Marietta, Ohio. She is a Social Studies major with a minor in special education.

Ms. McCracken is being escorted by Curt Harper, a senior in Business Education who hails from Ripley. Her gown is high-waisted burgundy velvet, trimmed at the cuffs and neckline with gathered white lace.

A member of Delta Zeta sorority, Vickie loves to read and enjoys both watching and participating in sports. She has played Varsity Basketball, led the Social Studies Society, participated in the Student Congress and has been listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

The 1975 Junior Class Princess is Beth Steidl. A Board of Regents Piano Scholarship is enabling her to pursue a Music Education degree with a Piano major. She is secretary-treasurer of MENC and belongs to the chorus, band and Minnesingers. Apart from music, her interests include such sports as hockey, basketball, swimming and running.

Beth is wearing a powder blue sleeveless gown with a matching jacket accented with wide lapels. Escorting her is Russ Stump, a junior Business Education major.

A ready smile reveals Kim Casto's excitement at representing the Sophomore Class as this year's Homecoming Princess. Kim is a member of Christian Fellowship and a current pledge of Delta Zeta sorority. She likes music, swimming and tennis. Her interest in children has led her to major in Early Childhood Education.

Her escort, Jim Bob Brown, is a sophomore Physical Education major. Kim's attire is a crimson sleeveless velvet gown with an overjacket.

This is Freshman Princess "Tish" Cummings' second year in a row on a homecoming court. At Hurricane High School's 1974 Homecoming she was selected Senior Attendant. Also in her hometown of Hurricane, she has participated in several "Miss Christmas" pageants and in July 1974 she placed second runner-up in the "Miss

National Newspaper Week

Alas, National Newspaper Week (October 5-11) is here and once again the Mercury acknowledges its presence.

In a day and time when a television or radio is available to practically every U.S. citizen, the newspaper remains to be considered one of our major forms of news media. For years the average American has begun his day by consuming the morning paper with that first cup of coffee and ending a hard day with a pipe, slippers, and the evening edition. Although TV news programs are quite popular, the newspaper is one concrete form of communication which can be read, re-read, clipped for referral, and saved for wrapping the garbage.

Perhaps due to its concreteness, the newspaper is the focus of merciless criticism. Journalists are criticized for getting the facts and all the gory details, yet Americans have the right to know the ugly facts which are uncovered in news items. They have the right to be informed of happenings in government and society, but quite the contrary, complaints are constantly being made and suits are filed against newspaper corporations for revealing such points.

Everyone has heard the old quote, "No rest for the wicked," and I am sure that "wicked" is one term that has been used repeatedly for both modern day and the pioneer journalist, but a world without newspapers would certainly be a deficient one.

ART FORMS ENHANCE KIDD LIBRARY

What began as a class assignment on good design for Dr. Puskas' Art Education Class has ended up as an added attraction for the Homecoming weekend.

Using the basic theme of Glenville State College as a functional educational institution, the class attempted to inform those who know little about GSC of how the college sends teachers to all parts of the country and blazes new trails in education.

Four different art forms were used in the making of the displays—montage, collage, applique, and fro-tage. The display is hanging from the second story of the library.

White Represents GSC At Council

Mr. John White, a GSC math instructor, attended the National Teacher's Retirement Council held in Houston, Texas, during the week of Sept. 28 to Oct. 2. Mr. White was accompanied by his wife and the Executive Secretary of the Board, Mr. Williard Ansel, and his wife. Approximately 500 members attended, including representatives from each state and some from the larger cities.

Composing the W.Va. State Teacher's Retirement Board are the Gov. Mr. Arch Moore, Mr. Donald Brown, the state Insurance Commissioner, the Director of Finance and Budget, Mr. Cleveland Benedict, the State Superintendent of Schools, Daniel Taylor, and three elected members—Lloyd G. Farinash, an instructor at Parkersburg High School, Mrs. Velma Allen, a Phillippi Elem. teacher, and Mr. White. The 3 elected members are chosen every six years by the entire membership of the state. This year approx. 40,000 people elected the W.Va. Board, not including the 13,000 retired teachers who also cast their vote.

During their week long stay in Houston, Mr. White and the other members of the Board discussed such problems as the Board structures, teacher's benefits, the specific problems facing retired teachers, and the investment of funds.

The Board meets annually, with the next meeting being held in Honolulu, Hawaii.

MRS. ANN HALBERT

Ann Halbert, a Tri Sigma national representative, was on the GSC campus this week to visit Delta Alpha.

Homecoming Welcome

As Student Body President of Glenville State College, I would like to extend a very special welcome to the returning alumni and guests of GSC. Homecoming weekend has traditionally been a pleasant occasion when alumni can return and reminisce of their own college days. Glenville represents an area which remains unchanged, in that the people remain friendly.

I hope that this homecoming is an enjoyable occasion for everyone and that each can reacquaint themselves with Glenville's friendly campus.

Joe Mills
Student Body President

Local Chapter Wins Award

Sigma Sigma Sigma national social sorority annually evaluates their seventy five chapters and presents awards for Chapter Excellence, Pledge Education, and Sorority Education. In 1973, the Delta Alpha chapter, located at Glenville State College won Chapter Excellence. At a final meeting Tuesday night with national representative Ann Halbert, the 1975 national awards were announced and Delta Alpha was proclaimed the recipient of the Sorority Education award, an award based on chapter grade point average and general knowledge of the national organization.

Mrs. Halbert visited Delta Alpha from Sunday-Wednesday holding meetings with officers, chairmen, pledges, and the sorority as a whole. Hailing from Detroit, Michigan, she has been an active member of Tri-Sigma for approximately 20 years, and she was one of the national representatives present for the installation of Delta Alpha, April 2-5, 1975.

Having received a national award, chapter president, Sherry Helvy will now be a member of the National Collegiate Advisory Board, a panel consisting of that year's award winning chapter presidents and the outstanding collegiate member, which advises the national president. Ms. Helvy will assume her responsibilities early in November when she will travel to Walton House, Woodstock, Va. for the Board's first meeting.

TAU KAPPA EPSILON

The Iota Omega chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon, held a regular meeting on Sunday, October 4th. Fraters were congratulated for their performance in the commodore bowl which resulted in a commanding victory of 30-8 over the Lambda Chi Alpha team.

At this time, we would like to congratulate the Rush committee on a job well done. Iota Omega chapter is proud to announce that it has 10 new pledges.

Unusual Gifts Are Available

by Joyce Aldridge

Looking for an unusual gift, for someone special or want something to brighten those 4 dull walls surrounding you? Whatever the case, go to the Country Store, located on Court Street. Here you will find a large array of handcrafted items, and many antiques on display. And for those who prefer making their own handicrafts, there are instruction books on such things as quilt patterns, gardening, and hand-made toys. Music and history books pertaining to the Appalachians are also stocked in the store.

The Country Store, besides being a popular gift shop, is the headquarters for the West Virginia State Folk Festival. The Folk Festival has been held annually for 16 years. Over this period of time many antiques have been accumulated, and the Country Store is the storing place for them.

The store is run by Mrs. Fern Rollyson, this year's Parade Marshal for the Homecoming Parade, and also the President of W.V. State Folk Festival, Inc. The organization's aim is to promote and preserve the old ways of living. Since the organization is non-profit, the store is run on a volunteer basis. The store is open year round at different times. During the festival, the fourth weekend in June, it is open every day from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. The festival is held on the streets of Glenville, and on the college campus. After the festival, Mrs. Rollyson and other volunteers take items to the Cedar Lakes Arts and Craft Fair.

The Country Store sells handcrafted items from around the country at a 20% commission. Foods such as home-made apple butter and molasses are also sold. If anyone is interested in buying or selling crafts, or wishes to discuss anything pertaining to the Festival or Country Store, feel free to contact Mrs. Rollyson at 462-7519, Myra Mick, 462-7567, or A.E. Casto, 462-7859.

PERRY STOVALL: the 1975-76 GSC Pioneer
Past PIONEERS Highlighted

Pioneer P. Stovall Spurs Enthusiasm

In the fall of 1933 the students of Glenville State College decided to elect a spirit leader for the college athletic teams. They decided that to qualify one must be a senior male in good academic standing and have never lettered in any sport. With this criteria in mind, an election was held in which Charles Bennett was chosen as GSC's first pioneer. His official duties were to attend the coronation of the Homecoming Queen, participate in the Homecoming parade, and fire up the student spirit for the Homecoming game.

In 1934, the Pioneer, Homer Blackhurst, had the distinction of becoming the first Pioneer to be admitted for membership in the G-Club, the college athletic club.

In 1954, GSC's Homecoming was a little dampened when the fields flooded and Homecoming was cancelled. William Rumbaugh was the pioneer that year.

Butch Hays, the 1965 Pioneer, had the unique experience of using three different types of muzzle loaders: a Kentucky Long Rifle, a double barrel muzzle loader, and a .69 caliber rifle. The first two of these exploded.

In the year of 75-76 we are proud to have senior Perry Stovall as our Pioneer. Perry is a Business Administration major from Beckley. Perry belongs to Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity. His opinion of the crowd's spirit—"Sometimes it's good and sometimes it's poor."

Like the preceding 43 pioneers, Perry will wear the traditional garb of buckskins, a coonskin cap, and will be sporting his own version of the Pioneer beard. His new costume was made by Mrs. Roma Adkins of the Home Economics Department at the request of the Student Congress.

Contest Slated

Glenville State College students are invited to participate in Glamour magazine's 1976 Top Ten College Women Contest. Young women from colleges and universities throughout the country will compete in Glamour's search for ten outstanding students. A panel of Glamour editors will select the winners on the basis of their solid records of achievement in academic studies and/or in extracurricular activities on campus or in the community.

Glamour's Top Ten College Women Contest has evolved over the past twenty years along with the changing interests and concerns of college women. Ten years ago, this was a contest to select the best-dressed on campus, but since 1969 the emphasis has been on what college women have achieved.

The 1976 Top Ten College Women will be photographed by leading New York photographers and featured in Glamour's August College Issue. During April, May or June the ten winners will be invited to New York to meet the Glamour staff and will receive a $500 cash prize.

Anyone who is interested in entering the search should contact the Mercury for more information.

On The Bench

by John Lilly

Last week's game against arch-rival Fairmont State was a disappointing loss to the Glenville Pioneers and their fans. But one cannot look on the negative side of the loss; one has to think positively.

In all honesty, thinking only about league standings, the Falcon loss did not hurt the Pioneer's chances of winning the Southern Division of the WVIAC one bit. Unless they finish in a tie for the division title and then the team with the best conference rating and record wins the division.

As it stands right now the Pioneers and the Concord Mountain Lions will battle it out for the top spot in the division. Glenville has a 1-0 division record, but will face three division teams in the next five weeks.

The division title could very well come down to the last game of the season when the Pioneers face the Mountain Lions of Concord.

So the Fairmont loss did not hurt as much as everyone thought it did, when one knows the Pioneers still have a good shot at the division title.

Sputtering Offense
Glenville's offense has sputtered badly this year and looking at their seasonal stats, it shows that the G-Men have yet to score in the first half, but if the Pioneers only had to play in the third quarter, they would not have lost a game yet.

I predict Coach Whitey Adolfson and his staff will have the Pioneers roaring and ready to go tomorrow afternoon and that the G-Men will score in the first half.

Cage Practice
Although its only in the middle of football season, Coach Jesse Lilly and his assistant, Tim Carney, will start their 1975-76 basketball practice on October 15.

The G-Men only have three players returning from last year's squad, but they are very optimistic about the upcoming season.

It seems that Mr. Sooth, like the Pioneers, did not have what you call a very productive week. Predicting correctly only four of eight games did not do anything good for "Soothie's" confidence.

It seems the only consolation "Mr. Sooth" had was nearly predicting the WVU-SMU score right on the nose. If SMU would have made the two extra points they missed "Soothie" would have picked the score exactly.

Mr. Sooth's record now stands at 23-12-2 for a correct guessing percentage of 65.7%.

Here goes another week's guessing:

Penn State 19, WVU 17. Hope I'm wrong.

WV State 17, West Liberty 13. The Yellow Jackets bounce back.

Shepherd 18, WV Tech 6. The Golden Bears aren't that golden.

Salem 20, Fairmont 14. The game of the year.

Concord 28, Emory and Henry 17. The Mt. Lions get back on the winning track;

Elon 48, Bluefield 0. Elon steps on the Big Blues.

Glenville 13, WV Wesleyan 9. The G-Men get the Homecoming edge.

Some Final Quotes

Southern Cal coach John McKay talking about the talent available to his Trojans and UCLA: "The California schools in Los Angeles will always have the best teams in the Pac-8. Face it. We're closer to most of the top players than Oregon and Washington schools. The only way to get us even with the others is to move us to Butte, Montana . . . and we're not going."

Billy Martin, now manager of the New York Yankees "The secret of managing is to keep the five guys who hate you away from the four who are undecided."

Glenvillians Share Montrose Award

by Debbie Wildman

For the first time in Glenville State College history, the 23rd annual Frank Montrose Award will be presented to co-recipients, Mr. Thomas "Tom" Lilly and Mr. Robert "Bob" O. Hardman III.

Tom Lilly was a Physical Education major and a Chemistry minor. His athletic accomplishments at Glenville included 4 years of baseball in which he was 4-lettered and 4 years of basketball where he lettered 3 times.

Tom's cumulative grade point average was a 3.5507 as he was a Dean's list student.

Tom is now a graduate student in dentistry at WVU.

Bob Hardman was a mathematics major and had a physical education minor. His athletic doings at GSC included 4 years of football where he lettered all four years, and 3 years of basketball where he earned one letter.

Bob is married to the former Holly Sturm, a December, '74 graduate. A Dean's list student, his cumulative was 3.7664.

A captain of the Glenville State Pioneers, Bob was also the "Defensive Back of the Week" during the week of October 4, 1974.

Both Tom Lilly and Bob Hardman are Gilmer County High School graduates.

The Frank Montrose Award that is being presented at half-time at the Homecoming Game is given annually to the most prolific senior GSC athlete(s). The committee searched to find a man of athletic merit, outstanding scholastic average and unimpeachable moral character. In 1952, when this award was initiated, the mere suggestion of Frank Montrose ended their search.

In the year of 1939, Frank Montrose came to the GSC campus as a promising football prospect. By the second week of the regular season, Montrose had proved himself as a college grinder. Against rival Fairmont, Montrose scored two six-pointers while passing for a third. His first collegiate score came on a dazzling 63 yard punt return.

Against Shepherd, Montrose "did it all," setting up the Pioneers' first score on a 17 yard sweep. GSC's next score belonged to Montrose on a 12 yard scamper. A 59 yard open field jaunt was the next Montrose score which he followed up with a 46 yard interception return enabling the Pioneers to score again.

This stardom was short-lived as Montrose began to play less and less. The spring of 1940 brought him stricken with nephritis, causing him to lose his eyesight and to withdraw from school.

Shortly before Montrose left school, Mercury sports editor, Earl McDonald, shook his hand and said, "See you in September at training camp." But September never arrived as Frank Montrose died from his fight with nephritis on June 21.

WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS

After the meeting you will be given the opportunity to practice. The Volleyball games will begin Monday, October 20 at 6:30 p.m.

GSC Pioneers Fall

Via Flying Falcons

The Fairmont Falcons flew by the Glenville Pioneers last Saturday afternoon in Fairmont by the score of 48-6. It was the Falcons' homecoming and it proved to be a very enjoyable one for them.

Fairmont, who now stands with a record of 5-1, jumped on the G-Men early and dominated play the rest of the game. Fairmont scored the first five touchdowns.

The Falcons scored the only points in the first quarter on a two yard run by Mike Maximin, but they broke loose in the second period, scoring three touchdowns. The first TD coming on a 31 yard pass play from Terry Galambus to Larry Goodine and then defensive back Tony Monday picked off a Pioneer pass and raced 88 yards for another TD. Their final touchdown of the first half came on a one yard plunge by Galambus.

SECOND HALF

With the score being 27-0 at the half the Falcons came back out and scored their fifth touchdown of the day when Maximin scored his second of three touchdowns in the game from six yards out.

The Pioneers got on the board in the third stanza when senior tailback Rick Lemley scampered three yards for the touchdown. The Pioneers missed the PAT.

The Falcons were not through scoring until they scored two more touchdowns in the fourth quarter. The first came on a five yard run by Maximin and their final score came on a 51 yard pass play from Rod Lambert to Clayton.

STATISTICS

The Pioneers had 221 yards total compared to the Falcons' 448. Lemley was the leading ball carrier for the Pioneers with 25 yards in six carries and quarterback Tom Cowen connected for 121 yards. Chris Andersen connected on 3 of 4 passes for 36 yards.

The Pioneers, who are now 1-2-1, will play the WV Wesleyan Bobcats tomorrow at Rohrbough Field in the annual Homecoming game.

Internships Are Offered

Application forms will be available immediately on campuses of state colleges and universities for the Board of Regents public service-learning internship program.

Students interested in receiving 12 to 15 credit hours by participating in the internship program for one semester should contact the person who has been designated a liaison officer at the institutions in which they are enrolled.

Completed applications are to be returned to campus liaison officers by November 1, 1975. Students will be notified of their acceptance on November 15, 1975.

Dr. John Callebs is the statewide coordinator of the new study plan and also is professor of educational administration at West Virginia College of Graduate Studies.

He said 20 or 30 students will be selected for the internships which will start January 9, 1976 in Charleston with agencies in state government.

"Each student will receive an educational stipend of $85 per week for 16 weeks for a total of $1,360. The payment will be provided by the government agency," Dr. Callebs said.

Dr. Ben L. Morton, Chancellor of the Board of Regents, said the Board desired to implement a program which makes a public service experience available to West Virginia students.

"The service-learning experience is an opportunity to bring together college and university students and government in a relationship designed to yield optimum benefits to the public," Dr. Morton said.

The decision to implement the internship program was made following a study as to whether such a plan should be developed. The Southern Regional Education Board provided $3,500 for the study.

"Never Too Late" Now Showing

Homecoming weekend 1975 has arrived in full color with the usual excitement and flavor of Fall. The Drama Department proudly offers an additional gift to this year's nostalgic weekend. Never Too Late by Sumner Arthur Long provides chuckles, chortles, tummy tickles and just an over all good feeling inside.

Never Too Late was first produced November 27, 1962 on Broadway and was an instant success.

"The unsung hero of the piece is 41 yr. old playwright Sumner Arthur Long who's Broadway debut has left him slightly shell shocked from the force of a direct hit. As unassuming as his play, Long, a father of two, admits he was even less prepared for a flop: "I wouldn't have dared to go home to Los Angeles.

The children-they give you such a send off-you hate to sneak back tarred and feathered." A long time TV writer, Long joshes about his labor pains with Never Too Late: "Eight weeks to write, six years to retype." He got the idea for the play from watching "a pretty grev-haired woman walking down Wilshire Boulevard. She had the only happy face in sight, and was obviously pregnant. I wondered what happened when she first told her husband, what happened when her marringable children heard of it."

Long took this curiosity and from a genuine wit and humor gave us Never Too Late.

The play itself is based upon a woman in her middle forties, who for 30 years has washed clothes, cooked, cleaned and in all actuality been a slave to her husband and king of the household, Harry. Then after visiting Dr. James Kimbro, she makes her entrance to the family bedecked as a new Edith, with the words, "I'm going to have a baby." She turns a once happy, and quiet residential home into utter chaos.

Harry, the once overly-proud and very obviously overly-bearing head of the household, has been somewhat de-throned by his wife's growing courage as a new mother. Through Edith's whimpering fainting spells, Harry melts into a puddle of apologies. "In the face of his astounding prospective fatherhood, when the child gets out of college, I'll be 83," he groans.

CHARACTERS PORTRAYED

Steve Deem, who will be portraying Harry Lambert, has an astute ability for revealing the comedy involved in such a play as Never Too Late, with his booming voice and facial expressions that could kill an audience with laughter. Mr. Deem portrays Harry to the hilt.

As Edith, Peggy Collins brings out the warm and yet subtle comedy that Long wants to get across to his audience. The excitement that Ms. Collins puts into the role will be conveyed to the audience as sheer enjoyment.

Harry's attitude toward the whole situation is a little understandable. With his daughter Kate and son-in-law Charlie living under the same roof, there always seems to be tension. His attitude toward youth as a whole is summed up in "Their whole generation is just plain lazy...won't think for themselves, won't do for themselves..."

Charlie, the meathead son-in-law, is forever doing the wrong thing at the right time. Throughout the play he and Harry tangle in words and finally meet their show-down. One of the funniest scenes in the play is the uproariously hilarious drunk scene. This scene, "seems like a creative inspiration of mischief."

Bob Hays, a new-comer to GSC's stage, comes across as the perfect meathead. Between the clashes with Harry and the sugar-sweet attitude toward Edith, his abilities are unquestionable. Charlie's sexy wife, Kate, who doesn't want to break her fingernails, is perfectly expressed by the feminine Janet Eriksen. In the total chaos of the household, after Edith makes her little announcement, she goes from riches to rags. Harry is still definitely dominant. Although she has never cooked a meal in her life and has not "actually been domesticated. Kate must now accept full responsibility of the household. Fixing breakfast, lunch, and dinner for Harry Lambert is definitely not the ideal situation for the most experienced cook.

Ms. Eriksen, another new comer to Glenville's stage comes across as the defiant and yet submissive daughter. She should take a stand against her father and yet knowing this is impossible, she portrays perfectly the sexy to doudy Kate.

Edith's closest friend and trouble maker for Harry is Grace Kimbrough. As a super sophisticated wife of doctor Jim, she fills Edith's head with all sorts of expensive ideas which Harry terms "female nonsense." Grace will be portrayed by the veteran to Glenville's stage, Ms. Barbara Stemple.

Her husband the doctor is the easy going type who attempts to use logic on Harry. This easy-going member of the cast is being successfully portrayed by Joe Boggs.

Mayor Crane is a typical small town politician. Being quite sure of himself, he attempts to ridicule Harry with subtle satire, when he finds out about the new member to Harry's old life-style. Gilbert Valdez plays the perfect small town mayor with his quick wit and authoritative air. The policeman will be portrayed by Kent Lowther, another rookie to Glenville. His temper is almost always under control as he attempts to talk to the drunk Charlie and Harry.

DIRECTOR COMMENDED

Ms. Jeanne Kobuszewski is to be commended on her insight in directing this comedy. By working with these characters she has brought about a witty and uproariously hilarious Never Too Late by Sumner Arthur Long.

Here we have Harry contemplating the idea of being a father once again...

Obviously, son-in-law Charlie is researching some of Harry's thinking!!!

AAUP Holds Fall Meeting

The West Virginia Conference of the American Association of University Professors held their fall meeting at Jackson's Mill September 26th and 27th.

According to Dr. Lowell Fredin, President of the Glenville Chapter of AAUP, three resolutions were passed, the most important of which was a "request for the national office of AAUP to undertake an investigation of the W.Va. Board of Regents' policies that may violate established AAUP standards of college governance and academic due process." Specifically, the state conference is grieved about Policy Bulletin number 40, in which the Board of Regents outlines its policy giving the President of each state institution complete power over certain campus policies not governed by the Board of Regents. Dr. Fredin said this "effectually removes the faculty from the governing process of the institution."

No Wonder Unemployment's So High

Perhaps one of the most unusual people on campus comes from a large city west of Cleveland—large compared to the quiet nest of Glenville. She is Brenda Henthorn, a junior language arts major from Elyria, Ohio.

Her hometown is a diversified community and one which has offered her many opportunities to learn about herself and the world around her. In her 22 years of life she has held 21 jobs, ranging from Gal Friday to plastic machine operator. The length of her employment has varied between two years and one day. Few people can claim this distinction of having so little experience in so many areas.

Employment has always been easy for her to find. Interviews with prospective employers were always filled with easy, comfortable conversation. Often times she interviews the interviewer without his ever knowing it. As a sensitive person, she is always quick to detect exactly what the employer is looking for and to convince him of her numerous talents, regardless of her numerous talents, regardless of her true ability.

One of the most bizarre interviews occurred with a successful business man looking for a secretary. This girl could type fairly well, took no shorthand, but convinced this man that shorthand was not important. This was quite an accomplishment considering that every secretary he had ever hired took excellent shorthand.

Recovering from the disastrous experience of being a Gal Friday, she donned her blue jeans and became a blue collar worker. This job consisted of removing plastic molding from a gigantic mass of monstrous machinery. The noise of all these machines became almost unbearable, so she began to sing her favorite show tunes which she learned while working at a local theatre. This worked quite well until her rhythm became too fast and the machine grabbed her. Ten minutes later she was unemployed with a very sore arm.

Upon arrival at Glenville, she was faced with the problem of finding employment (job 22) But to her this was no problem. She landed a job as a forensic assistant where she can finally put her innumerable talents to work. Her first duty was to call throughout the United States in search of an 8mm film of a moving tornado.

In two years she'll be ready to seriously search for a permanent position in the working world—how permanent? Who knows.....

Men are urgently needed for the Appalachian Folk Dancing class.

INTERNSHIP (cont'd from p.7)

istering the internship program. Academic deans requested that the program be centrally coordinated as many of the state colleges are located a great distance from Charleston, the seat of state government.

In its endeavor, the Board of Regents will seek to eliminate inequity in compensation paid to interns performing the same function and to provide for an equitable and consistent internship experience.

The GSC Alumni Association is sponsoring a movie, "Dollars" Thursday Oct. 16 in the Auditorium.

A fast and funny caper thriller about the robbery of a Hamburg band, "Dollars" stars Warren Beatty as the brains and Goldie Hawn as his brainless accomplice. Together they stage a phony bomb scare that enables Beatty to get into a safe deposit vault long enough to switch money from the boxes of several criminals to Miss Hawn's. With comic suspense and amusing plot twist, it is a thriller that provides humor as well as excitement. Admission to the movie is $1.00 per person.

Gov. Figures Visit Pol. Science Class

Various state and area governmental figures are making appearances on the Glenville State College campus in collaboration with assignments for Dr. Joe Darnall's State and Local government class. Students were assigned studies to be done on various aspects of state and local government and, thus far, the class has hosted Mr. James P. McCartney, Secretary of State, and Mr. Bill Burke, Chairman of the House Finance Committee. Also invited as guest speakers are Mr. James Sprouse, past State Supreme Court Judge and a present candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, Mr. John Hutchinson, Mayor of the city of Charleston, and Mr. Harold Long, member of the House of Delegates, to mention a few.

This endeavor provides the students with the opportunity to examine government from the human aspect by meeting the persons involved. It also provides the chance to talk with state and local officials about their governmental duties and political views.

'Social Worker' Is Real Music Man

From Glenville to Nashville . . . That may be where Dave Douglas, a junior Social Work major at GSC, is headed next with his banjo—right down to the 'Grand Ol' Opry, Nashville, Tennessee.

Two weeks ago Douglas appeared with the Morris Brothers at the Friendship annual Bluegrass Festival in Indiana. Among the top performers there were Ralph Stanley and Bill Monroe, who told the group, "You all would drive 'em crazy at the Grand Ol' Opry."

The Morris Brothers are known in the area for their bluegrass tunes and old-time country music. The group stays "mostly around Appalachia" according to Douglas, but has appeared in six states: West Va., Kentucky, Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, and Indiana. Their most recent performance was last Saturday at the Coal Miners' Rally in Camden Park at Huntington.

When Roger Morris turned him on to banjo, Douglas bought a Gibson Mastertone "with hard-earned money." This is the same instrument used by no less notables than Earl Scruggs and Ralph Stanley. Back at his home in Ivydale, last year Douglas began plugging away at it. On coming to Glenville, he practiced on his free time, and now, less than two years later, is picking with the Morris group. He says he is working up to doing a banjo solo at a live performance.

At home on weekends, Dave frequently duets with his brother, Art, another banjo picker in the Douglas family; while cousin Wilson Douglas fiddles nearby. He also plays the guitar and for the past two months has been learning fiddle.

Dave's next appearance with the Morris Brothers will be next weekend, October 17, 18, 19, at Chloe in the Morris Family Old Time Festival. After that, the group is scheduled to appear with the Carter Family at Clinch Mountain, Va., November 22nd.

LYCEUM EVENTS

According to Dr. Gary Gillespie, chairman of the Lyceum-Convocation Committee, three events have been currently scheduled for the school year.

On November 10, the North Carolina Players will be on campus to perform Tennessee Williams' drama, "Streetcar Named Desire."

During the second semester, the North Carolina Dance Company will be on campus Tuesday, February 24 and Thursday, February 26, to hold dance workshop sessions.

Tuesday, March 9, the Norman Luboff Choir will be performing in an 8:00 p.m. concert for students, faculty, administration, and the general public.

All Lyceum-Convocation events may be attended by students upon presentation of I.D.

Dave Douglas, a social work major at GSC, is shown here practicing his favorite hobby—music. He may very well be on his way to fame in the field of country music.
