

The Glenville Mercury

Number 22

Glenville State College, Glenville, W. Va.

Friday, February 25, 1977

Vincent Bugliosi, pictured above, will be on our campus on March 10.

Bugliosi To Appear Here

American Program Bureau presents Vincent Bugliosi, chief prosecutor of Charles Manson and author of the best selling 'Helter Skelter'. On Tuesday, March 10 from 8-10 p.m. Mr. Bugliosi will appear in the auditorium or gym, depending on the size of the crowd.

In his public appearance here, Mr. Bugliosi will reveal the fasinating and often misunderstood facts about the family's background, their bizarre philosophy, motives for the killings, and how Manson controlled his 'family'.

Bugliosi, considered one of the most outstanding prosecutors in Los Angeles criminal courts, is currently in private practice in Los Angeles. Admission is $1 per person.

Tryouts To Be Held For Children's Play

It's that time of year again when students of Glenville State College can be kids again and romp in fantasy and bring joy to thousands of children in Central West Virginia. Tryouts for Jack and The Beanstalk will be held in the Little Theatre (208 A), Tuesday and Wednesday, March 1 and 2 from 4:00 to 6:30 p.m.

The new version, written by Francis B. Roesner, projects Jack to be an ethical person, and portrays a hero rather than a bad man. Roesner has inserted some current themes in his play - the high cost of living, the rise of women in American life, and the concept of people living with their heads in the clouds. The father role is also inherent in the play. The father gets kidnapped because he owns the golden egg, chicken and harp - things the Giant wants. The Giant runs into problems when the chicken won't lay the golden egg and the harp won't play.

Meanwhile, back on earth, Jack and his mother discover their cow won't give milk. They can't figure out why, so they trade her to a magician for beans, and you know what that can lead to - - - A BEAN-STALK!

The dance of the cow is one of the play's highlights, as are the magician's magic tricks and the chase scene. Cast members needed: Mother, Bossy (A Cow: we need north and south ends!), Jack, Mack (a magician), Giant's wife, The Giant, Father, Harp, A calf and The Chicken. You do not need prior experience to be in Jack and The Beanstalk. Scripts are on reserve in the Library for reading prior to tryouts. For additional information see stage director, Jeanne Kobuszewski in the Speech Department. Don't forget 4 to 6:30 p.m. in the Little Theatre (208 A) March 1 and 2! The play will be performed in mid-April at Glenville State College and at the Charleston Cultural Center at the state capitol!

Those students scheduled to receive a second National Direct Student Loan disbursement will be able to pick up their checks on Tuesday, March 1, in the Financial Aid Office.

All women interested in the Women's Track and Field Team report to Room 209 Health & Physical Education building on Monday February 28 at 6 p.m.

Delta Zeta Sorority will be sponsoring a rummage sale on March 5 at the Delta Zeta Sorority House, 305 W. Main Street, Glenville, from 8:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.

Six Attend Conference

The West Virginia Library Association held its first of two conferences at WV Tech which was coordinated by the College and University Section of the West Virginia Library Association for 1976-77 on Feb. 10, 1977.

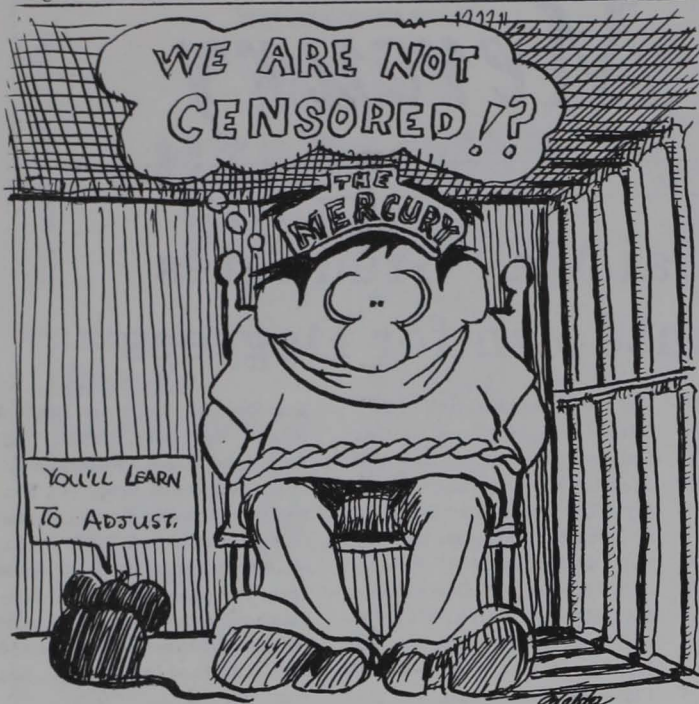

Seventy-two librarians representing 23 libraries attended the conference headed by David M. Gillespie, the Conference Chairperson.

The first conference's theme was Management Techniques: Working Conference; whereas the theme of the second conference which will be held at Bethany College, April 21, 1977, will be Bibliographic Instruction.

Some of those attending the first conference was GSC's Don Phillips, Bill Wartman, Mary Kennedy, Evelyn Hui, David Gillespie, and John Collins.

GSC Is Free Press

Contrary to the beliefs of many GSC students, the Mercury is not censored by the administration. While running the Mercury Poll this week our roving reporter discovered that many students believe that the Mercury is read thoroughly by some members of the administration before it goes to press. This is definitely untrue!

Of course, we on the staff prefer being as tactful as possible and we don't want to be sued for libel or slander, but we have as much right as any other newspaper to exercise our freedom of the press.

Some of our more liberal student readers wonder why we don't run more student opinions or questions. The answer is very simple. We have a limited staff whose member's have a lot of responsibility. Because of this it is very difficult for us to go looking for news. We print what is submitted if there is room and if the articles are legitimate.

We reserve the right to censor questionable articles but would like to encourage student opinions on our campus.

Campus 'Greeks' Are Planning Spring Activities

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

The Brothers of Beta Beta Zeta are busy with several activities this week.

The intramural basketball season is in full swing with Team One out to rebound from their controversial opening loss to the Loads.

The brothers have also been busy traveling back and forth to Charleston while supporting the Pioneers in the WVIAC championships and expect the G-Men to be in the semi-finals by the time of this printing.

The Brothers are also busy looking ahead to Spring Break with several making plans for a week-long stay in Florida.

Brother Randy Gilles has the distinction of winning both the AH and POW awards this week due mainly to his antics at conclave. Mark Elder is this week's recipient of the WINO award because of his exploits at Al Stewart's while Bill Rubin won the KCUF. Departed brother Scott Barkwell also received an honorary POW award.

Congratulations and good luck to the Pioneers in tournaments this week.

A Review

The Janet Griffin - Phil Williams Concert was excellently received and the professional attitude of the performers was shown in their handling of two broken strings. The voice qualities and harmony were outstanding. You could tell this pair were fantastic performers when after "A Time To Die" the audience was so spell bound they didn't know when to applaud. Yes, the performance was a Great Success and a credit to Phil and Janet.

4-H Club Meets

The GSC 4-H Club held its second meeting on Tuesday evening, Feb. 22. They discussed future activities which include: phone an elderly friend, a 4-H carnival, waller for a dollar, and a cupcake eating contest.

The cupcake eating contest will be held March 9 at 5:00 p.m. in the Multi-Purpose Room. Any interested organization or group of 6 people who are interested in entering the contest should contact Curt Coffman, Room 351 LBH ext. 303 before March 7. Awards will be given.

The Gilmer County Medical Center extended thanks to the chapter for decorating for Valentine's Day. The food drive held last week for needy families was also a success.

Student Congress elections are coming up next week. The sisters selected the following girls to be candidates in the election: Vice President - Lyn Bartges, Secretary - Susan Reale, Treasurer - Peggy Bauman, Parliamentarian - Marc McLaughlin, (Class Representatives) Senior-Debbie Nichols, Junior - Janet Kay James, Sophomore - Jane Bell, Senators-at-Large - Kathy Perrine, Debbie Wildman, Debbie Clark, Dawn Nicely, Tammy Chambers, Dawn Butler, and Cindy Mallory. Every student on campus is urged to take interest and vote in this election.

The sisters wish to thank the Delta Zetas for attending the tea last Sunday and sincerely hope they enjoyed themselves as much as their company was enjoyed.

Congratulations to Donna Cammarato on becoming a Sigma Sigma Sigma pledge. Donna was pinned at 3:30 p.m. on Wednesday, February 23, 1977.

MERCURY POLL

Do you feel that GSC students are able to freely voice their opinions to the administration?

Yes 15%

No 85%

Thirty nine GSC students were asked the above question. Some of those who responded "yes" said that they could speak to the administration, but got "no response." One student said that their presentation of grievances to the administration "doesn't mean that anything will be done." Another said, "It depends on who it is-some yes, and some no." Eighty-five percent, however, said there is a definite communication gap between the students and administration.

A Tale of a College

Once upon a time there was a small college. It was a friendly school, and everybody loved it. At this school, there were a lot of different students. There were fat ones and skinny ones, short ones and tall ones, smart ones and not so smart ones, but they were all happy together and very proud of their school. Altogether, there were more than 1700 students at the small college.

Time passed on and as it did, things changed-but not the small college, it stayed the same. That was all right, though, for a while. Then, the times really changed. By law, most of these students became something that the students before them had never been-adults. Being adults, the students were allowed to do many things they had never been allowed to do before, but because the small school was bigger than the law, the small school could tell its students that they really were not adults at all. This is what they did.

It worked for a while, but many of the students that came to the small college came from places where the law prevailed. The small college's abolishment of the law bothered these students' sense of justice, their democratic upbringing-they didn't understand why their small college was doing this. The small college let this unrest continue, it did not try to make its students understand why their small college was doing this. The small college let this unrest continue, it did not try to make its students understand why it had to do the things it did. As a result, the unrest continued, there was dissention between the classes. Many students left the small college to go someplace else. Some went ahead to complete their programs but went home to tell their brothers, sisters and friends not to go to the small college. There were a few who remained at the small college but they bucked the rules-they did not remain long. And then, there were a few who became angry and struck out in a different way-they did not last.

When at last, the small college only had some 900 students left, the few asked, "Why?" but no one would take the blame.

It wasn't long before the small college became so small that the law was bigger than it. The law became angry with the small school and gobbled it up.

And all the other colleges and universities lived happily ever after. Why am I telling you this fairy tale? Because, if I told it as the truth, you would not listen.

Halftime Talk

BY DOUG MARTIN

Who would have thunk it? Who'd have thought that our Pioneers would end up in second place in the conference after being 1-7 at the semester break and holding down eleventh place in the conference. Well, they did! Our G-Men won 12 out of 13 games during the semester (All were conference games) to come from close to last in the conference to close to first.

The addition of Ralph Ledbetter had to be a big cause for the upsurge, but I don't feel it's the only reason. Everyone is playing better ball, and the backing by the student body has helped propel the team immensely. Last Friday night's game is great evidence of that. The Student Body was fired up and it helped to get the Pioneers ready to play ball.

DOWN AT THE TOURNEY

By the time you read this, the tournament will be cut down to a four team field. In fact I hope that you're reading this while on the way to Charleston to see Glenville play in the semifinals.

There are two very interesting magazines available for interested students at the Placement Office and they're free! These are Business World Women and Business World Men. These magazines are called career magazines for college seniors but contain some very interesting articles for all career-minded students.

Since I'm writing this before the tournament gets underway, I have no hindsight into what is going to take place, but here are my predictions: Look for Fairmont to be playing Shepherd in the 7:00 semifinal, and Morris Harvey to be playing Glenville in the 9:00 game. Tomorrow night Morris Harvey will beat Shepherd in the consolation game and Glenville will upset Fairmont for the tournament championship...

I looked for W. Va. Tech to be a dark horse favorite, but since they have to play Fairmont on Thursday I had better withdraw this prediction. Fairmont seems to have the easiest route to the finals. They only have to beat Tech (probably) and either Shepherd or Wesleyan to reach the finals. The Pioneers, on the other hand, seem to have the roughest route. They will have to beat the likes of Bluefield (probably) and Morris Harvey (probably) to reach the finals. Nevertheless, I'm sure the Pioneers will prevail as usual.

P.S. Having a great time. Wish you all could be here!

First half dunk by Ralph Ledbetter brought crowd to its feet.

G-Men Close Season With Impressive Win

The Pioneers closed a successful season on a happy note last Friday night as they defeated Bluefield State in the last home game of the season, 89-83. This was probably the most exciting game of the year as both teams played well in one of the most evenly matched contests you could ask for.

It seemed that the Big Blues were going to blow us out in the early going as they opened up a 12-2 lead by way of a menacing press that had the G-Men turning the ball over time and time again. But after a timeout Glenville got things rolling and were able to cut the lead to 45-44 at halftime. The highlight of the first half was a wide open dunk by Ralph Ledbetter that brought the crowd to its feet. Up to that point it had been a frustrating evening for Ralph who picked up 3 fouls in the first 10 minutes of the game. He picked up two of these quick fouls by trying to stop Bluefield's star Anthony Harris. Harris injured his knee in the second half and this may have been the key to the Pioneer win as Ledbetter played the entire second half without picking up another foul.

The second half saw Glenville slowly pull out to a small lead and hold it. Their biggest lead was 10 points which they held around the four minute mark. But as usual the

"Kardiac Korps" of the Pioneers refused to make this an easy win, as they let Bluefield chop at the lead for three and a half minutes, getting as close as four points, before Tom

BULLETIN

The G.S.C. Pioneers defeated Bluefield for the second time in a week yesterday afternoon, 74-70, to move into the semifinals of the WVIAC tournament tonight at 9:00.

Coates and Robert Hawkins put the fire out by hitting one and one situations from the foul line in the last minute.

It was a fine game for the two graduating seniors, Coates and Hawkins, to use for their final encore. Then both received gracious standing ovations before the game by the thankful and fired-up student body. Tom Coates played one of the best games of his career, scoring 28 points and pulling down 15 rebounds. Many of his points came on tipping over the taller Bluefield rebounders. Hawkins came off the bench to score 14 points, including 4 from the charity stripe in the last minute. Ledbetter had 16 points for Glenville, while Charles Warner and Wayne Washington added 13 and 10 points respectively.

Pioneerettes Beat Davis & Elkins

Glenville's Pioneerettes traveled to Muskingham Monday night but only to be handed a depressing loss.

The loss did not hinder the Pioneerettes spirit as they came back Tuesday to defeat D&E 70-51. The turning point in the game could have been the tremendous exhibition of foul shooting by the Pioneer Women, sinking 20 points from the foul line.

Grogg did an outstanding job, snagging down 16 rebounds and tossing in 16 points. Top scorer for Glenville was Kim West with 21 points, followed close behind by Kim Short with 18 points.

The women are now 10 - 5 overall and 9-3 in the conference.

Hailed as a genius while in his early twenties, Orson Welles wrote, directed and starred in the film classic: Citizen Kane. This film, loosely based upon the early career of Randolph Hearst, will be shown by the Cultural Affairs Committee on March 2. The showing will begin at 8:00 p.m. and is to be in the Auditorium.

Pioneers Win Over Beckley

The fortieth annual WVIAC Basketball Tournament opened Tuesday afternoon with the Glenville State - Beckley battle. It proved to be the Blue Hawk's final contest as the Pioneers outmanned them, 85-79.

Beckley definitely outthrusted the G-Men and the halftime score showed only a two-point lead, 30-28. With ten minutes to go, the Pioneers opened up the lead as Ralph Ledbetter made a crowd pleasing dunk to boast the Pioneers with a 15 point lead, but the Blue Hawks fought hard to the end, narrowing the lead to six points. Charles Warner played an outstanding defensive game while also contributing 15 points to the Pioneer win. Ralph Ledbetter had an outstanding game connecting 13 out of 16 attempts and 3 foul shots to make a season's high of 29 points, while Wayne Washington pumped in 17 and Tom Coates 12.

The tournament was attended by 3,600 fans to watch the first round of outstanding basketball. GSC had the best crowd with 150 screaming fans to cheer the Pioneers on to victory.

Tech had a good night defeating West Liberty 73-60. This was a nice win for Tech but a restless wait for the upcoming game against Fairmont Thursday night.

GSC Keglers Place Second

The Glenville bowlers participated in their final regional of the year last weekend at Clarksburg and took third place behind West Liberty, who finished first, and W. Va. Wesleyan and Morris Harvey who tied for second. The third place win in the regional gave Glenville second place in the final conference standings, with a year long record of 19-13. West Liberty won the regular season championship with a 29-3 mark. Finishing behind Glenville was Concord with a 16-6 record.

Bob Davison led the Pioneers in this particular regional with an eight game average of 185. Dale Sparks followed with a 176, Mike Hickman 169, Dave Twyman 161, Mark Smith 156, and Dave Eckhart finished up with a 146. Davison also had a high game for the G-Men in the regional with a 205.

The Keglers now compete in the state tournament with the winners representing District 28 in the national tournament. Even if Glenville loses this tournament which will be held March 5-6, they could go to the nationals by way of a wild card bid.

Some thirty Panhellenic workers collected $668. 58 in the Glenville area for Heart Sunday. This was a record amount ever collected for the Heart Fund in this area.

If anyone was missed or would like to contribute, send your donation to Mrs. Donald Taylor, Glenville or to Jack Stalnaker, Heart Fund Treasurer, at the Kanawha Union Bank.

There is a new book in the Placement Office for anyone who is interested in it. It's called Overseas Opportunities for American Educators and Students.
