Common Council Plans Public Library

Recently the Common Council of the City of Glenville asked that a Gilmer Public Library Commission be established to explore the possibility of a public library for Gilmer County. On June 27th, 1977 the newly-formed Gilmer Public Library Commission held its organizational meeting; at that time officers were elected and the Commission began to function. Newly-elected officers and members are: Mrs. Elizabeth Turner, president; Mrs. Estelle Murphy, secretary; Dr. John D. Hymes, Jr., treasurer; Dr. S. Thomas Wilkerson, and Mr. William Piercy.

The Commission decided that its first function should be to hold open meetings for ALL residents of Gilmer County to learn more about the services and functions of a public library. They feel that these meetings should both illustrate what a public library does and also offer

Gilmer Countians an opportunity to personally meet representatives of the West Virginia Library Commission and to ask any and all questions desired. In this way each resident can decide the value of a public library and how it might benefit their community.

The Gilmer Public Library Commission asked representatives of the West Virginia Library Commission to meet with the public on Thursday July 21 in the Dining Room of the Conrad Restaurant at 1:00 p.m. and again at 8:00 p.m. The members of both library commissions were on hand to answer questions. A special 20 minute multi-screened color slide show was given. It described a public library and what it can do for its users. A question and answer session followed this presentation.

Courses Offered

He said this will be the first time the entire state will have access to credit courses through a cooperative endeavor of the Board of Regents and the state's Educational Broadcasting Authority. The courses will be offered by WWVU-TV, West Virginia University; WMUL-TV, (continued on page 3)

MS. KAREN THORPE

Karen Thorpe Is Now On Campus

Ms. Karen Thorpe has taken the position as Associate Dean of Student Affairs previously held by Mrs. Jean S. Wright.

Before coming to Glenville State Ms. Thorpe was a Counselor in Residence at Shepherd college for 3 years. This position included office work and being a House Director. She left this position and went to Colorado for a year to travel and later decided to return to West Virginia. She returned to West Virginia and applied for this position. Prior to her stint at Shepherd College, Ms. Thorpe was a Traveling Resource teacher for Elementary Physical Education in Jackson County from 1971 to 72. This position was helping teachers develop curriculum for physical education programs in their schools.

Ms. Thorpe is interested in camping, music, "fooling around with the guitar" and tennis as hobbies.

She received her B.A. and M.A. from Marshall University.

When asked how she liked Glenville, Ms. Thorpe replied that she is "really excited about being here." It's a beautiful town and the college and the college has a good reputation throughout the state and she's "pleased to be a part of that staff."

Those participating in the Field Studies Course seemed to have had a good time.

Field Group Returns

Twelve high school students recently completed the "WV Field Studies Course" offered by the Division of Science and Mathematics at Glenville State College. Field course instructors were Mr. Joseph Hickman and Mr. James Meads. They were assisted by Mrs. Evelyn Hui, Media Specialist at the College, and Mrs. Dale Moore, GSC Student Congress President.

The students participating in the two week field activity include: Lisa Jane Hall - Spencer; Abby Arnold, Joe Hickman, Susan Williams; Kevin Brown - Keslers Cross Lanes; Gregory Campbell, Rosemary Deal, Becky Thomas, Anthony Wheeler - Summersville; Terry Russell - Calvin; and Kevin Digregorio, William Kraft - Richwood.

After a one day on-campus orientation, WV Field Studies set up the first of three base camps in the Monongahela National Forest on Tuesday, July 19. For the next two days students were involved in exploration of the Bowden Cave system, studying the operation and management of the National Fish Hatchery, and extended study of the plant and animal life of the region. It was at this first camp site that the campers became seasoned adventurers when a rain storm completely soaked clothing and bedding.

Tennis enthusiasts should don their sunglasses, sneakers, and racquets as four new tennis courts have been completed and readied for public use. Located on Mineral Road, the royal blue courts contrast sharply with the old asphalt court behind the Administration Building, in that the surface is much smoother than the old cracked surface. Also, modern technology has enabled the courts to be fully lit at night with a minimum fee of twenty - five cents per half hour. Currently, this added attraction is inoperable until signs are erected explaining their proper use.

According to Mr. Robert Gainer of the Office of Administrative Services, the signs should be erected before the fall term begins. His explanation for the delay in use of the lights is that until proper procedures are instructed to individuals for their use, a person may waste too many quarters trying to get an expired light back on.

Program Is Ended

Glenville State College participated this summer in the Governor's Summer Youth Program. The program is open to economically disadvantaged youth between the ages of 14 and 21.

Five students participated in the program on the GSC campus. Their jobs began on June 21 and end today August 5.

The purpose of the program is to enable the participants to explore career opportunities. The students were encouraged to work and develop proper work habits and job safety. They worked 32 hours a week at $2.30 an hour.

Glenville became a part of the program by agreeing to employ participants. All sub-sponsors are units of local government, state agencies, or private non-profit organizations. The program is operated by the Governor's Man Power office in Charleston. Funds are provided by the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973. Students were referred to sub-sponsors by the State Department of Employment Security.

According to Mr. Dale Fox, GSC Career Counselor and supervisor of the program on this campus, the program was a success. It was a success in that the participants received some work experience and gained a sense of independence by being able to work.

The Glenville State College field group moved to Red Creek Campgrounds located on Dolly Sods on Friday, July 22. On Friday, the course participants studied the geology of the Blackwater Falls - Canaan Valley region. The classmembers also enjoyed riding the ski lift at Canaan Valley State Park.

A reflecting telescope was set up on Dolly Sods for the group's study of astronomy. Jupiter, Mars, and Venus were three planets observed at 5:00 in the morning.

Saturday and Sunday were devoted to the study of the ecology of the bogs and beaver dams, hiking to the Red Creek Wilderness Area, and study of the geology and botany of Bear Rocks. Natural foods were discussed and many students spent the Sunday afternoon collecting huckleberries and blueberries which are abundant in the Dolly Sods area.

The second spelunking expedition was encountered Monday when WV Field Studies traveled to Germany Valley, the site of many famous WV caves. The group had the opportunity of observing the differences between a commercial cave and a wild cave on this trip. Seneca Caverns, one of WV's oldest commercial caverns, was the first on the itinerary.

After the guided tour the group then explored Stratosphere Balloon Cave. This cave is given its name from the unique flowstone formation located deep within the cave.

A hike to the summit of Seneca Rocks was undertaken on Tuesday, July 26. The students climbed 1,000 feet from the floor of the valley to the White Median Sandstone peaks of Seneca Rocks. The group then traveled to Spruce Knob, the last base camp to be established on this trip. While at Spruce Knob, the group studied beaver populations, reptiles of the region, and traversed the historic Sinks of Gandy. Thursday, July 28 was the day WV Field Studies traveled back to the Glenville State College Campus. A tour of the French Creek Game Farm on Thursday afternoon concluded the group's field activities. Final wrap-up was held Friday morning.

Further information regarding the WV Field Studies Course may be obtained by contacting Dr. John Chisler, Chairman, Division of Science and Mathematics, Glenville State College, Glenville, WV 26351.

Student ID photographs will be taken on Tuesday, August 30 and Wednesday, August 31 from 8am to 4pm in Room 105 of the Pioneer Center.

Youthful Escapism

It appears that students at GSC aren't the only people suffering the effects of depression. Young adults of the sixties rebelled but the mood of today's youth is one of depression, intense apathy, and anger.

Teenage suicides, violence, pregnancies, drug abuse, and alcoholism are at an all time high. It's enough to make a person worry. But even if we do become concerned there is little that can be done. Young teens today are fighting to grow up. They are asserting themselves as adults and want to be treated as such.

Violence is on the rise and with the arrival of "punk rock" on the scene it is even reinforced. This new arrival also mocks the values of today's adult society.

Since GSC is a "teachers' college", many of you might be interested in the fact that all over the nation (not only in large cities) teachers are going to work armed with anything from kitchen knives to billy clubs in order to protect themselves from the students. Violence in the schools is on the rise in this day when school population is leveling off.

With a "TV in every home" children no longer have to think for themselves. Television is a great escape mechanism and viewers don't need imagination - TV takes its place. Shows on television are shaping the lives of children with their violence, fantasies, and ideals.

The pressures of life on youth today are astronomical. It is very difficult to find out who you are or who you want to become in a society that is moving at top speed and changing every minute. It is tough to be a person today, especially when you are still looking for your identity.

So far, no one has found a solution to this problem and one will probably never be found. Youth have to find a way to express themselves and in every new decade this self-expression is different. It is a challenge for any young teen to become a functioning adult and with today's growing society it has become more difficult than it ever was before.

SAM FERRELL NUMBER ONE BOWLER

Sam Ferrell Makes 'Team'; Becomes U.S.'s #1 Bowler

Sam Ferrell, former Glenville State College bowling champion, became the Number One bowler in the United States Saturday at the United States Bowling Team tryouts in Milwaukee. He will lead his nine-member team to the International Bowling Tournament in Panama City, Panama in November against bowlers from 29 other countries.

Ferrell was named Outstanding Bowler of the NAIA tournament in 1976 as a member of Glenville State College's championship team. This enabled him to become eligible to try out for the United States team. Along with three other college students (the NAIA '77 champion, the '76 '77 ACIU champions.) The other 28 candidates were American Bowling Congress champions from 30-63 years of age from throughout the country.

The first college student to finish first, Ferrell finished with 5,582 pins in 28 games for a 199 average, just 18 pins short of an even 200 norm. He bowled consistently with his high game being 247 and 15 of the 18 games over 200. Only one other college student has been included on the United States teams of which this is the fourth. This was Gary Beck in 1975 who finished ninth. This year, also, the women's champion is a college student for the first time. One other West Virginian, John Corbin 34, of Hampshire County is a member of the U.S. Team this year.

Ferrell, a '77 graduate of Glenville State College, is presently pursuing a master's degree in physical education at West Virginia University where he holds a 3.75 scholastic average. He was coached by Dr. Robert Dollgener, former GSC Bowling Coach and present professor of health and physical education at GSC. The new champion has been written up in the national bowling magazine NAIA magazine and the WIBC magazine, in addition to various newspaper and radio/TV articles in Milwaukee. He will be provided with a tailor-made uniform (blazer, trousers, shirts, etc) and will have all expenses of the trip to Panama City paid for, in addition to tours and practice in Miami and Costa Rica. He received a large silver bowl as his trophy.

This year's international tournament will be the eighth such event and will offer silver, gold and bronze medals much as the Olympics do. Sam, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Ferrell of Point Pleasant, is married to the former Kathy Johnson. He is employed by the Ritchie County Board of Education for the fall school term. Ironically, Ferrell has bowled only five years.

It's the same old song - our type-setting machine is tired. We're giving it a much deserved vacation - meanwhile, excuse the margins.
