The Red Cross bloodmobile unit will be in Glenville on Tuesday, September 26 at the Glenville State College Pioneer Center Ballroom from 1-5 p.m. The GSC Student Congress will serve as sponsor.

Gilmer County residents as well as Glenville State College students need to donate if the county is to maintain a blood program. Recent bloodmobile visits have resulted in very few donations, the last one in July with only 20. The established goal for a bloodmobile visit in Gilmer County is 100 donors.

The bus, heading for the women's Festival at WVU, will be leaving at 6:30 a.m. Wed. Sept. 27. Doughnuts and hot chocolate will be provided as an extra treat for the day and will be presented to you upon boarding the bus. Everyone should meet across the street from the student union where the bus is always parked.

Davis Named State Intern

A Glenville State College student has been accepted into the West Virginia Board of Regents Public Service Internship Program.

Philip E. Davis, son of Mrs. Nona Davis of Parkersburg, has been placed with the Human Rights Commission in the program designed to give students practical experience in an agency of state government for an entire semester.

Students from six public colleges and universities are participating in public services and planning internship programs during the fall semester, and each is receiving 15 hours credit.

In the past, students have been receiving weekly stipends for their stay in Charleston, but as of now, funding for the program in the future is not certain.

According to Dr. Ben Morton, chancellor of the West Virginia Board of Regents, the internship programs, established in 1975, have been widely accepted by students, agencies, supervisors, colleges and universities.

Presently, Davis is a pre-law major at Glenville State College, under the direction of Dr. Joseph Darnall.

One of GSC's interns of last year, David Sotello, who was also assigned to the Human Rights Commission, is now in Howard University Law School in Washington, D.C.

'Space Fantasy' Set

Space Fantasy is the theme for the 1978 homecoming with a variety of activities being planned by the GSC Student Congress.

Spirit week will start on Oct. 9 with many campus organizations scheduled to participate by doing some kind of spirit-oriented activity such as a cheer or skit.

The schedule for spirit week is as follows:

Monday: Tri-Sigma & Student Congress
Tuesday: TKE, Majorettes, cheerleaders and Pioneer.

Wednesday: Lambda-Chi's and Football players day.

Only college juniors and seniors matriculated in a four year undergraduate curriculum are eligible for nomination. The quota of nominees for GSC is 32.

Students are evaluated, by a group consisting of both student and faculty members, on scholarship ability, participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities; citizenship and service to the school, and potential for future achievement.

Mercury Staff Composed of Variety

For those of you who think that The Mercury miraculously appears on paper every week, we, The Mercury staff would like to disprove that theory once and for all! The Mercury is a student publication, printed for and by the students of Glenville State College. This student newspaper is put together on every Wednesday night during a crazy, hectic, "time warp" called press night. Our trusty advisor and main catalyst is Mrs. Yvonne King who is now beginning her 12th year as The Mercury advisor. The head of our Mercury family is P. Kay Nottingham, editor. Ms. Nottingham is a senior English education major from Braxton County, and she has received her B.S. degree in journalism from West Virginia University. The assistant editor is Susan McCartney, a senior English major from Glenville. The Mercury's picture taker (and photographer) is Mike Boggs a senior Elementary Education major from all over (he graduated from Hampton High School, Hampton, Virginia.) The advertising manager is Debbie Vance, a senior Social Work major from Petersburg, WV. Sports editors for this semester are Cheryl Cline, a senior Social Work major from Wirt County and Tim Brady, a junior English major from Gilmer County. The IBM operators (without whom we would be lost!) are Lisa Jones, a senior Elementary Education major from Glenville and Debbie Wildman, a senior Secretarial Science and English Education major from Baltimore, Maryland. Typist is Pamela M. Laign, a sophomore English major from Braxton County. Circulation managers are Michele Bruce, a freshman English major from Wirt County and Debbie Vance. File Clerk is Peggy Kessler, a freshman English major from Webster County. The Mercury's cartoonist this semester is Tim Miller, a freshman speech major from Boone County. Reporters and news gatherers are Tim Miller, Rebecca Triplett, Michele Bruce, Michael Maloney, Raymond Hanks and Peggy Kessler.

There you have it, the hard-working Mercury staff who (perhaps miraculously) allow the Mercury to appear on the GSC campus every week.

Editorially Speaking . . .

"There is never anything to do at GSC campus." Have you ever heard yourselves saying this and yet you seem to find your social and academic calendars filled to the maximum? Juniors and seniors, this full calendar is advantageous at this particular time. "Who's Who Among College and University Students" is now being acknowledged for the 1978 - 79 term.

The "Who's Who" program has endeavored to remain responsive to the needs of college and student members in its over 43 year history of serving higher education. Only college junior and senior students matriculated in a four-year undergraduate curriculum are eligible for nomination to "Who's Who."

To be included in "Who's Who" is an unparalleled honor. Students, who are selected for this prestigious program are entitled to the following sublime privileges and benefits of membership: (1) The lifetime use of the Reference Placement Service. The "Who's Who" program, upon requests from either the student or the prospective employer, will prepare individual letters of recommendation and/or supply the employer with necessary biographical material. With the job markets as tight as they are, this privilege would be immensely valuable to the job interviewee.

The student also may list the program as a reference on his or her application or resume for employment. This meritorious service is designed primarily for the student and is performed completely without charge. (2) The student selected for "Who's Who" will receive a personalized certificate attesting to the fact that the student has been officially honored by the "Who's Who" program, and (3) will have local and national publicity regarding the selection to the "Who's Who" program, coordinated by the school's news media. (4) Students will be invited to participate in national students polls, which are conducted periodically on major issues of the day.

The students selected for this year's nomination to "Who's Who" shall have their unique achievements placed in a biographical volume that provides a lasting tribute to the leaders of today's college generation.

We would wish to urge you to take advantage of this propitious opportunity and fill out a form which will be judged by a committee consisting of both student and faculty members. Forms may be obtained in the Mercury office. The deadline in which to return applications is October 1, 1978.

Now for an analogy or a case in point for gripe: This past summer I met a very good male friend who I enjoyed sharing time with. Everything in our relationship was great until one day I found out that this guy was shying away from the relationship because he thought it had "romantic overtones". If that wasn't enough, he wouldn't even take me camping with him at the Arts and Crafts Fair. He didn't think a woman and a man could spend the night in the deep, dark woods without "anything happening." How ludicrous!

At this point, I wish to clarify "romantic overtones." By this definition I am referring to a deep intimate, and all-time consuming relationship, as in "going steady" or some other eccentric connotation. Just because a woman enjoys spending time with a member of the male species doesn't necessarily mean that she wants a heavy committed relationship. On the contrary, she may be lonely or just happens to enjoy spending time with that particular person.

I should also like to say that this works both ways. Men often find themselves in this same situation.

I definitely am not a psychologist when it comes to dealing with these situations, but with the many articles I have read, and the fact that I am a devout believer in constructive communication, I would like to think that discussing this particular situation with one another would alleviate many of the tensions in a too-tight, unrelaxed relationship.

Of course, in discussion, all sorts of problems may arise. You may find anger, bitterness, hostility, confusion and numerous other adjectives used to describe the human emotions. But, if both parties involved wish to communicate and continue the relationship, all doors must be open.

Female to female and male to male relationships are great, especially when it comes to needing someone to share problems with. But I honestly believe that a very intense male and female relationship is totally beautiful. Both can understand how each reacts in different situations and why.

This sharing leads to heavy and deep discussions which in turn leads to really getting to know the person you are sharing conversation with. You also have a chance to get to know yourself through the other person. And this is truly beautiful! So, people before you lose an incredibly valuable friend, try to understand the connotative meanings in the relationship and don't jump to any speculative conclusions about the person you are spending time with.

Culturally Speaking . . .

Even though the insufferable heat has withered most of my cultural grapes, the events scheduled for this week remain intact on the vine. But first, before we consider tonight's activity, it seems appropriate at this time of the year to recognize the autumnal equinox as a cultural event in itself.

Maybe I should refrain from expressing my thoughts on this celebrated occasion for my relationship with our great orb is a pale and one after this week's climatic assault. Every time I take a bath, it seems my tan and summer enthusiasm are the only things flowing down the drain.

As far as I am concerned, we've missed several beautiful clear fall days, because of the sun's reluctance to accept its southerly call. I certainly don't mean to insult the summer in its last glorious moment, but this heat wave is beginning to infringe on my favorite season. This "rain" doesn't intend to keep quiet as long as the sun threatens to barge its way into October. Go ahead, sun, and have your day on Saturday, but please be mindful that our harvest and a splendid fall depends on the cool relief from the north.

I have observed one aspect of our culture this week that possibly affects us all. This business of mixing polyester and cotton may have its rewards for the clothing manufacturers and their wash and wear clients, but for providing any comfort in the heat, it's worthless. The cloth simply will not breathe.

This evening the Cultural Affairs Committee will present Trapezoid, a musical group well known for its inspirational and driving folk rhythms. The performance, produced by Mack Samples will bring to our campus a synthesis of styles that only Mack would be able to decipher. My impression is that with their hammered dulcimers and other mountain instruments they are a bit upriver from "Elk River Progressive."

Hopefully this excellent concert will delay (for several hours at least) the student body's amazing tendency to roll home every weekend.

Cline's Lines

Well, Saturday finally rolled around and excitement began to fill the air early that day. As I walked across campus I heard students discussing the Pioneers' season opener and their plans for attending the game.

The GSC band and majorettes did some last minute "polishing" and the Cheerleaders and Tri-Sigma's worked desperately decorating the dressing room with signs and goodies for the team and coaches.

All of this "hustle" and "bustle" led me to believe that the stadium would be filled to near capacity, cheering the Pioneers in hopes of that long awaited victory.

At 7:30 Saturday night the Pioneers ran full force onto the field, fired up and ready for some action. Now you're probably asking yourself "If they were that fired up why didn't they win?" Well, its' very simple to answer, only a small number of students showed up for the game. Of these students very few showed any support or enthusiasm for the Pioneers which was a big let down for our hard working guys.

Now ask yourself this, "what would you do if the athletic dept. announced that football at GSC was to be dismissed from the athletic program or if the Cheerleaders walked off the field and sat in the bleachers or if the GSC "best ever" band refused to play?" Well, I know what would happen - there would be more griping and complaining than this campus has ever seen or would probably ever see. None of the above would go over well with students and you know it!

Why am I so distrubed? Because the Pioneers played an excellent game and very little student support, enthusiasm, and effort was shown. I would say that Saturday nights game was one of the best played games that I've seen Glenville play in the 3 years that I've seen here. It is true that the Pioneers were defeated 16-0 by Shepherd but you must remember that Shepherd is considered by many people to be the "top" team in the WV Conference.

In Closing I'd like to say that all of you "dorm pigeons" really missed a terrific game!

Let's make this week's game a must for everyone - - - It's free with ID's All you have to do is show up!!

S. Congress News

Student Congress will sponsor a Bloodmobile Drive, Tuesday, Sept. 26 from 1-5 p.m. Blood donors are needed. An award will be given to the group representing the most donors. The award will be a plaque with "Outstanding Blood Donor at Glenville State College" on it. All campus organizations are urged to participate.

By a request from the Education Dept. Student Congress urges students to leave reserve materials in the library in the Reserved Section. Some materials are missing. Please leave them where you find them so all students can benefit from their use.

'Runners' Open With Inaugural Meet

The Cross County team will hold its first ever home meet at Cedar Creek State Park on Saturday, Sept. 23 at 12 noon. The runners, under Coach James Hilgenberg, Jr., will entertain West Virginia Tech, Morris Harvey, and Fairmont State.

The course for the run will cover five miles of the picturesque state park. Coach Hilgenberg hopes for and is expecting a good crowd for this event. Much of the race can be viewed from several vantage points along the course. Spectators should find the sport very enjoyable.

RESULTS SURPRISING

Golfers 7th in Ohio

The Glenville State College Golf team traveled to Youngstown, Ohio on Tuesday, September 19, to participate in their first fall golf match. Team members participating in the match were Jim Brady, Tom Davisson, Bill Hess, Greg DelPrince, Perry Coe and Dave Lamm. Unfortunately the performance of the team was unusually mediocre.

Host team Youngstown State was the winner with a team score of 383. Glenville finished 7th out of the 11 teams with 406. Bill Hess had low score for Glenville with a 77. Jim Brady followed with an 80, Perry Coe 82, Greg DelPrince 83, Dave Lamm 84, and Tom Davisson 85.

Glenville next travels to Cannan Valley on the 21st to participate in the Davis and Elkins i

Pioneers Fall To Shepherd; Entertain State Saturday

If not for two Pioneer fumbles, The Shepherd Rams and the Glenville Pioneers could still be playing in a scoreless contest, banging heads and bruising bodies.

The Pioneer football squad, up against a highly touted Shepherd squad that returned 18 of the first 22, surprised many people including many Glenvillers. The defense, on the field for nearly three-fourths of the contest, held Shepherd to 10 points. Two of these scores were set up by fumble recoveries. Pioneer quarterback Terry Spangler fumbled deep in his own territory to set up a 24 yard Shepherd field goal. Later in the second half, Shepherd scored on a five yard run after recovering a Van Vaughn fumble on Glenville's ten yard line. Defensive standouts in an outstanding team effort were defensive back Chuck Ludwig, defensive lineman Billy Walker, and linebacker Chuck Barker.

The Pioneer offense was like a quarter horse, good in stretches but erratic. Head by running backs Van Vaughn and Brad Batten, the offense would put together a string of good offensive plays only to be stomped by their own errors not to mention a tough Shepherd defense. Sophomore quarterback Terry Spangler completed 7 of 20 passes for us and two interceptions, but was continually pressured by a hard charging defensive line.

Statistically, the Pioneers amassed 245 yards total, while Shepherd accumulated 288.

Glenville's next opponent will be West Virginia State on Saturday the 23 at Pioneer Stadium.

Banterings

There was an interesting column in the sports section of the Tuesday Parkersburg News. The column dealt with the sports scene at Glenville State in general and the football team specifically. The article lauded the efforts of the football program that in prior years has been criticized as less than competitive. It went on to say that the Pioneer football team is going to surprise many state colleges before the year is over. I think the writer is correct.

For those of you who were present at the game Saturday night, I think it was evident that the Pioneers were playing a different "type" of ball than they had in the last several years. The enthusiasm was there, the defense was really there, and the offense was almost there.

The Defensive unit played an aggressive and very exciting brand of football. Chuck Barker and Defensive tackle Billy Walker lead the squad with six tackles each. But perhaps the defensive standout of the game was Defensive back Chuck Ludwig. Always seeming to be in the right place at the right time, Chuck sacked the quarterback twice and recovered two Shepherd fumbles.

As you can tell by the final score, the offense has its share of problems Saturday night. It seems that the offense would put together three or four good plays in a row, only to be stopped by a stellar defensive play by Shepherd or by a penalty or by a turnover. Van Vaughn looked very strong running the ball up the middle; and his running partner most of the night, Brad Batten showed good outside speed and the ability to turn the corner. Vaughn accumulated 91 yards in 20 carries and Batten 60 yards in 9 carries. Quarterback Terry Spangler had his share of problems. He completed only seven of twenty passes, was intercepted twice, and fumbled twice, once deep in his own territory.

CLASS TOURS CENTER

On Tuesday, September 19, the students of Mr. Laeng's Sociology class went on a field trip to Charleston.

At the Science and Cultural Center, the students looked at pieces of the past, present, and future of West Virginia. Much of the history of West Virginia has been captured for display in the halls of the center for all people of West Virginia to see and be proud of.

After lunch the students toured the state capitol building just beside the Science and Cultural Center. In the capitol, the students met Secretary of State A. James Manchin. Mr. Manchin declared the students and teachers to be Commodores of the State of West Virginia.

Yearbooks may be secured from the Information Center through Wednesday, from 9-12 a.m. & 1-4 p.m. Faculty members who wish to purchase a book may do so for $6.00.

Anyone who has a guitar to sell should see Mr. Edward Vineyard in the Music Department.

Mrs. Kretzchmar-Young has announced that anyone interested in Forensics should see her on Tuesday or Thursday at his own convenience.

Ms. Rubin has announced that anyone interested in the technical part of play production is invited to a meeting which will be held on September 28 at 4:30 p.m. in the Underground.

Office Management Class Tours

In order for her class to have a better idea of what a new modern office looks like since they must build a model for class, Ms. Susan Sienkiewicz along with Mr. James Hinter took twenty six members of her Office Management class on a field trip to Charleston on Wed., Sept. 20.

The group toured Charleston Federal Savings and Loan, one of the newest and more modern office complexes in the state. These offices featured the newer modular concept in offices. In other words instead of having permanent partitions in the offices there are moveable panels.

Mr. Pat Bond, Vice President of Management Services said that this gives more flexibility in the office space. He stated that an office could be disassembled and put back together in about two hours.

This type of office allows for more freedom of movement and less workflow interruption. Also it makes for a more happy employee because of the changes that can be made in each part of the office.

Mr. Bond also discussed with the group some of the special features of the building such as the multipurpose board room and dining room and the sun roof.

Mr. Bond told the students that whenever there was a board meeting a partition was drawn between the board room and the dining area for privacy. If the company wants to have some other type of function in this area all of the tables and chairs fold for easy storage.

The most important feature to note he said was the total use of the building and although some of the modular systems cost more at first in the long run they would pay for themselves for convenience and employee morale.

The afternoon concluded with a lunch on the building's sun roof.

All of the students were impressed with what they saw and now have a better understanding of modern office facilities. This knowledge will be invaluable in the years to come.

The seniors who are going out to Student Teach should stop by the Bookstore sometime soon and place orders for Announcements.
