Hypnotist James J. Mapes to appear December 7 in the Auditorium.

James Mapes To Hypnotize GSC

Fear and superstition have always had a deep hold in anything supernatural. ESP and hypnosis are no exceptions. As far back as the Bible and even further back there have been written records of people being able to see into the future. Gypsies have made a fortune in "foretelling the future."

James J. Mapes is a renowned hypnotist in Intra Sensory Perception (ISP). He is the founder and director of the New York Center for Hypnosis and Mind Control. His professional clients include sports figures, show business personalities, executives, medical and law enforcement experts and others.

At the age of seven his first experience in precognition dawned. He predicted the exact date of his grandmother's death. A year later his prophecy came true. Encouraged by his psychic mother, Mapes finally came in control of his power in his teens. Mapes knew when people were lying to him and strengthened his powers by consciously predicting future events.

Attending the California State University, Mapes lost 100 pounds and stopped smoking three packs of cigarettes a day with the help of a hypnotist. Like a true Scorpio, he became fascinated. "Anything that powerful I have to know about." In 1969 he studied hypnosis in Europe and emerged a master of the art.

Aid Applications Available

Although the fall term has yet to breathe its last gasp and many are counting the shopping days remaining until Christmas, the time has come to set one's sights on the prospects for financial aid for the 1979-80 year.

Financial aid applications for 1979-80 are now available. All students applying for financial assistance at GSC are required to complete the Institutional Application for Financial Assistance. This form will not appear in the Christmas stocking. Rather, it may be obtained from the Office of Financial Aid.

Those students interested in aid via the National Direct Student Loan Program, Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant Program, Basic Educational Opportunity Grant Program, College Work-Study Program, and West Virginia Higher Education Grant Program are required to complete the Financial Aid form. Students currently receiving assistance from the WV Grant Program will receive an FAF by mail directly from the Board of Regents. Included with the FAF will be a Grade Report Form which should be submitted to the Office of Financial Aid. Students not currently receiving the WV Grant may obtain the Financial Aid form and the Grade Report form from the Office of Financial Aid. The FAF should be completed and submitted to the College Scholarship Service after January 1, 1979.

As noted in a prior article, it appears that Santa Claus, exchanging his red suit and North Pole abode for a conventional business suit and a White House, may have come early this year. Under the Middle Income Student Assistance Act recently signed into law by President Carter, the Basic Grant Program will be substantially expanded for 1979-80 to include students from families whose incomes are between $15,000 and $25,000 and many independent students. A typical family of four with an income of $25,000 one child in college, and one parent employed will receive a grant of $200.00 for the 1979-80 academic year. In addition, increased SEOG and College Work-Study funding will be available to most institutions, thereby, enabling more students to be served.

Although the new legislation will provide assistance to an estimated 1.5 million new students who were deemed ineligible in previous years, one must take the proper steps and complete the necessary forms in order to qualify. Forms and information may be acquired from the Office of Financial Aid located in Louis Bennett Hall.

Driving Range Funds Approved

On Nov. 21, 1978, Governor Jay Rockefeller, in a letter, informed President Simmons that "$45,000 in federal matching funds for a multiple vehicle driving range were made available through the Criminal Justice and Highway Safety Division of the Governor's Office of Economic and Community Development."

The driving range will consist of a 200' x 300' black-top area and a control tower which will be located behind the forestry building.

GSC students and the Gilmer County School System will maintain use of the facility. The range will be useful for both students who are learning to drive and driver education student teacher trainees.

The multiple driving range will deal with automobiles, motorcycle safety, and eventually, bicycle safety.

This project, approved once previously, was open for bids in August and September 1977 and resulted with only one bid which was in excess of the amount allocated.

The project will again be submitted for bids in January 1979. "We hope to open the driving range by the following fall semester," said President Simmons.

Rubin Passes Final Exam; Will Obtain Ph.D. December 8

Janet Rubin of the GSC Speech/Drama department will receive her Ph.D. on the evening of December 8, 1978 from Ohio State University.

After years of research, course study and examinations, Ms. Rubin passed her final test on November 15. The new Doctor Degree will be a Ph.D. in Educational Humanities with a specialization in Children's Theatre.

The final examination consisted of a series of questions given to Ms. Rubin orally, on a book entitled THE LITERARY AND THEATRICAL CONTRIBUTIONS OF CHARLOTTE B. CHORPENNING TO CHILDREN'S THEATRE. This textbook was written by Ms. Rubin as a final project towards earning her Ph.D.

The prerequisites for her earning her Ph.D. were three years of course study plus scores of oral and written examinations. These examinations gave Ms. Rubin candidacy to attaining a Ph.D.

Ms. Rubin is now in her second year of teaching at Glenville State College. She taught Creative Drama as an associate of Dr. George Lewis at Ohio State University.

Section 6 of Handbook Revised

The West Virginia Board of Regents recently made selected revisions in Section 6 of the Policies, Rules, and Regulations Regarding Student Rights, Responsibilities, and Conduct in West Virginia State Universities and Colleges. The original text is found on pages 97-100 in your GSC Student Handbook.

Anticipating these changes, GSC has been in compliance with them since the beginning of this academic year 1978-79.

In Section 6.02, the board added the statement, Each institution shall identify in its student handbook or other similar publication the offenses for which a student who is found guilty may be subject to the sanctions of suspension or expulsion.

These offenses are currently listed on pages 78 and 79 of your GSC Student Handbook. Any one of these offenses, depending on the circumstances, may lead to suspension or expulsion from college.

In Section 6.03, the hearing board shall include student and faculty representatives. This has been the case since the formation of The Committee on Student Life and Welfare. See page 75 of your GSC Student Handbook which lists the composition of the committee as two student affairs deans, three faculty members and two student members.

Also in Section 6.03 c. iv. provisions are made for a hearing by a lesser disciplinary channel which is the residence hall judicial board at

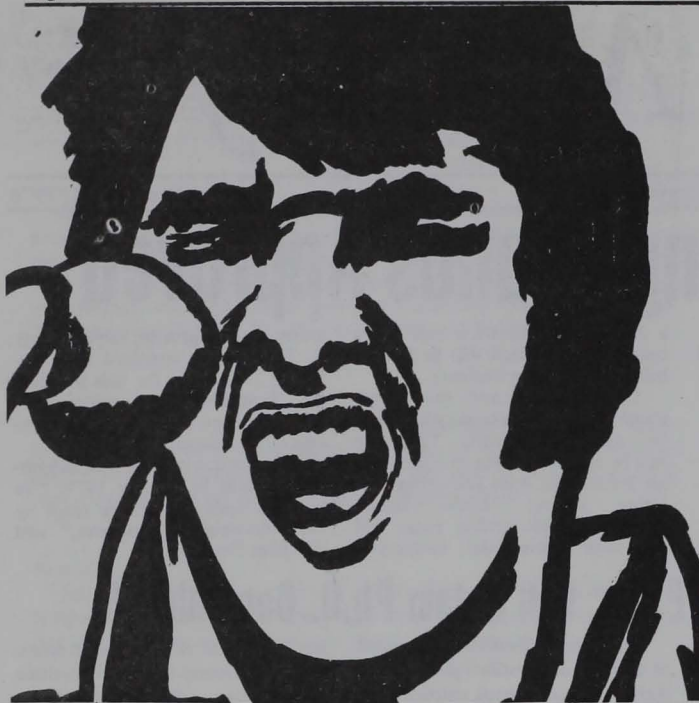

GSC. This is described on page 77 of your GSC Handbook.

A modification in Section 6.04 a., shows the addition of subtopic iv. which states: in cases involving potential suspension or expulsion, as specified in institutional policies, the student must be informed of his/her right to have legal counsel present at the hearing (students retain attorneys in such cases at their own expense and must notify the hearing board at least five days prior to the hearing if the attorney will be present at the proceedings).

Glenville State College routinely makes this information available on its letter of summons to the student for a hearing. Also, it is stated in the (continued on page 4)

The end of one educational tunnel is in sight. We have approximately three weeks left in this semester, give or take a week, to tie together all "loose ends." These "loose ends" consist of last-minute papers, tests, room reservations, and pre-registration.

A new registration system is being experimented with: the on-line registration borrowed from Fairmont State and revised to fit our accommodations. The student sees his/her advisor, fills out a schedule, has it signed by the advisor and presents it to the Registrar's Office via the main window.

The on-line registration experimentation results are extremely positive thus far. According to Mack K. Samples, associate dean of academic affairs, the system is working better than their (the people who devised the experiment) expectations. "Providing a mistake is not made, it takes less than a minute to enter the data," said Dean Samples. The operation is quite simple. The programmer inserts the student's social security number and the Telaray terminal calls the name of the student from the computer's memory bank. The index number for each class is then inserted by the programmer. The programmer then pushes a "C" button and the return button simultaneously. The terminal then responds with a complete class schedule which can be rechecked by the programmer. The student has then completed registration for classes, provided fees have been paid.

Dean Samples, in a timed operation, made one mistake, corrected the mistake and still had the operation completed in only one minute and 20 seconds. Although this system has a large margin of error, it is much faster and less nerve-racking than previous registration systems.

Two reporters informed us of various positive comments concerning the reduction of wasted time permitted by the new system. Carol Shaw said, "(The system is) an improvement. It is much faster and is not a waste of time." "(The system is) alot better. It is quicker and easier," said Jane Marshall. Beth Ware said, "(The system is) definitely an improvement. I felt like I wasn't wasting my time."

With various "loose-ends" to tie at the end of a semester or at the beginning, it is beneficial to have unwasted time. Therefore, this new on-line registration system is eminent. We have fewer lines to stand in and a much more organized system of registering. To those who devised this experiment, we commend you.

We received a news release Tuesday concerning plans for a new holiday. The American Artists Commemorative Foundation, Inc. headed by C.E. "Gus" Geotas, has set up promotional plans to establish a special national and/or state holiday in memory of Elvis Presley.

The non-profit organization plans to work on a city, state and national level to establish volunteer centers at key points across the country to promote the idea and gather support through state and federal agencies. Promotional plans include concerts, look-alike contests, trips to Presley's birthplace and entombment and a number of other events geared to create and/or increase awareness of the need for such a holiday.

There is no need for a holiday. Sure, Presley was great, but if we give him a holiday what next? If we give one celebrity a holiday what about the others? What about Steve Martin, Farrah Fawcett, Henry Winkler, John Travolta, the Beatles and countless other "big names" when they die? Why don't we just let Presley lie in peace?

The success of this endeavor will largely depend on the availability of volunteer help. Since this is strictly a volunteer project, the most advantageous method to prevent this holiday from appearing would be not to volunteer our services.

Off The Wall

by Tim Brady

To my many loyal fans out there in newspaper land who have religiously read and continually marvelled at my tremendously humorous column "Off the Wall," I feel I owe something. And what better way to thank my minions than to tell them something about their favorite person, me.

I was very young when I was born (Thank you George Harrison). Immediately after my birth my mother and father abandoned me for a life of fun and frivolity as civil rights supporters in Tupelo, Mississippi. Strange that I haven't heard from them. Oh well,

As a young boy I had very few friends at the orphanage. Only the fat kid with the terminal acne and swollen ankles and the skinny red-haired girl who always put grapes in her bra to improve her figure would have anything to do with me. The headmaster of the orphanage really hated me. I knew because every time I had to go to the bathroom, "really" bad, he always had a fire drill.

And when I got into high school things didn't get much better. My home room teacher always made me take the lunch count down to the secretary's office and before I returned she locked the door. I was the only kid in school to get an award for missing everyday of school. The P. E. teacher didn't like me either. He forced me to try a double flip on the trampoline. I showed him though, I did it. Of course, when he moved the trampoline while I was into the last flip I didn't have an opportunity to gloat.

After graduating from high school I tried my hand at the military. That didn't prove too successful either. When the company sergeant uses you as a practice dummy in the bayonet drill, something is wrong. The base commander seemed somewhat hostile towards me also. Do you think it could have been because I drove a tank through his sauna?

All those things are behind me now and I have made a fresh start here at good ole Glenville State. I would be much happier though if they would let me out of my room more often and fed me something besides granola bars and swill.

Blood Drive Slated

The Red Cross bloodmobile unit will be in Glenville on Tuesday, December 5 at the Glenville State College Ballroom from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m.

Gilmer County residents as well as GSC students need to donate if the County is to maintain a blood program.

The most recent blood collection resulted in 75 donations, a big improvement over previous '78 collections.

The established goal for a bloodmobile visit in Gilmer County is 100 donors.

The faculty recital of Dr. Edward Graham, pianist, originally scheduled for Sun. Dec. 3, has been postponed until further notice.

Auditions will be held December 12 through December 13 for the Oh-nin-gohow Players presentation of BUS STOP. Audition times will be from 4:00 to 6:00 each evening. Copies of the script are available from the library. Anyone interested in participating in technical crew work is advised to see Dr. Janet Rubin to register for credit.

Runners End Season

The Glenville State College cross country team finished 45th among approximately 50 teams in the NAIA national finals held in Kenosha, Wisconsin, on Nov. 18. P.K. Coon was Glenville's highest finisher, placing 320, although the official results are not in yet. Jim Chivers was the next Glenville finisher with the rest of the team finishing well back in the field of approximately 500 runners.

The meet was a good experience for the runners, putting them with some excellent competition, the best in the country. The meet was also good for the program as a whole. Prospective high school runners can now recognize Glenville as a competitive force in small college competition, which will be an added incentive for joining the program here.

Dr. Hilgenberg was well pleased with the team's effort this year, but thinks they are two or three runners away from becoming a viable contender. These runners would add depth to an already strong team.

Whether running in the sunshine of the mountain state or the rain and snow in Wisconsin, the future looks bright for the members of the hard working Glenville State cross country team. Long may their Pro-Keds persevere.

Banterings

It has been a few years since the Glenville State basketball team has started off the season with four straight wins.

Not to be overly enthusiastic, but it's good to see the basketball team undefeated after four games. It was fortunate though that the first game was not played against stiffer competition because a good team would have an easy time beating the Pioneers who looked a wee bit nervous. It's only natural though to be tense for the first game.

The Shrine Tournament was fun to watch this year. Partially because Glenville won and partially because of some strange moments provided by a few of the participants. And with all respect to the ball players, some of the antics on the court were hilarious. Where else could you see someone miss three dunk attempts in one game, with one of the misses bouncing all the way to Buckhannon? Thankfully only a few forgettable moments were provided by Glenville players.

All indication from the first four games seem to point to a very balanced team, rather than a team dominated by one or two players. Balanced scoring and a energetic, very mobile zone defense have been the strong points of the four wins. Doug

Pioneers Win Four

Apprentice

W. V. Tech

The GSC Basketball Team opened their season with a less than impressive showing in the first round of the Shrine Tournament in Weston on Friday, November 17th, defeating Newport News Apprentice of VA, 57-51.

Both teams started out slowly, common for the first game of the season. The lead changed hands several times during the first half with Newport News enjoying a slim half time lead 28-24. Glenville was 11 for 25 from the field and 2 for 4 from the line in the first half.

The second half started out much the same as the first. Both teams being careful not to throw the ball away and looking for the percentage shot. After approximately four minutes had elapsed Glenville started to come back. Using solid defense to trigger a controlled break, the Pioneers managed to pull even with Newport. Ken Lacy was instrumental in the comeback, hitting 5 of 7 from the floor. Also Glenville started to go the offensive boards in the second half, something they simply did not do in the first half. After coming abreast of Newport, Glenville managed to take control of the lead and hang on for a 57-51 victory.

Wayne Washington lead a balanced attack with 15 points, followed closely by Charles Warner and Ken Lacy with 10 points apiece. Washington also led in rebounding pulling down seven boards Doug Watts and Warner were next with six and Philip Thomas (PT) yanked down five.

A. B.

In the finals of the Shrine Tournament on Saturday 18, Glenville defeated Alderson-Broadus College 84-70.

AB scored the first basket of the game at 18:15 and Glenville answered right back five seconds later with their first score, an 18 foot jumper by Gary Nottingham. The score was tied several times during the first 10 minutes of play with neither team being able to open a substantial margin.

Glenville employed an aggressive 2-3 zone in the game to try and cut off AB's inside strength. It worked very well. Good pressure was exerted on the AB guards not allowing them to penetrate or effectively pass off. Meanwhile on the offensive end, the Pioneers attacked a man-to-man defense with a crisp passing and good board work, much better than the night before. Doug Watts, Charles Warner, and freshman Don Bullett went to the boards well and Glenville was rewarded with 44-34 half time lead.

Glenville scored the first four points of the second half and AB was never able to get closer than 12 points; the lead at time 20 points. As in the first half Glenville effectively shut down the inside strength for AB with a tight zone, even trapping on the sides.

Doug Watts was the scoring leader, collecting 20 points, all from the floor. Wayne Washington and Don Bullett finished with 16 points. Charles Warner, while not playing well, still scored 14. Glenville shot 42% from the field and a sterling 92% from the foul line on 12 of 13. Gary Nottingham lead the team in assists with six while Warner dished out five. The Pioneers were extremely strong on both boards pulling down 16 on the offensive end. Watts gathered in 12 boards, with Warner, Bullett and Nottingham each collecting nine.

The Glenville State Pioneers won their third straight game of the season November 21, when they defeated W. V. Tech 70-68 in Glenville's home opener.

Doug Watts led Glenville in scoring with 20 points followed by Wayne Washington with 16 and Don Bullett with 14.

Glenville trailed early in the game 15-12 as Tech relied on the inside strength of Jack McClinton and some timely outside shooting. Glenville's pressing defense got them into some early foul trouble team wise as they committed the seventh team foul with 12:58 remaining in the half. Tech was unable to take advantage of their one-and-one opportunities, connecting on only 5-15 in the first half.

Glenville came back to tie Tech at 22 all with 6:55 remaining on a Mike Forbes assist to Washington, a steal by Washington, and a Doug Watts bucket off a fast break. At the half, however, Tech lead 37-34.

The Pioneers started their comeback in the second half mainly on the shooting arm of Don Bullett. Bullett hit 4 quick buckets in the first four minutes to give Glenville a 46-43 lead. The lead grew to 60-55 with 8:49 remaining when Tech converted a four point play. The teams then proceeded to trade turnovers and neither were able to score.

With 11 seconds remaining, Doug Watts gave Glenville a four point lead, converting both ends of a one-and-one. Glenville had one foul to waste and they used it wisely, making Tech use up six seconds without scoring. Tech scored as time ran out and Glenville held on to the 70-68 win.

The Pioneers shot an even 50% for the game on 30-60 from the floor; 16-26 in the second half.

Concord

Glenville State won their fourth ballgame of the year without a defeat as they overcame Concord College 80-73, in Concord.

Glenville led at half time 36-30. The lead should have been larger than six points but the Pioneers shot a dismal 34%, hitting only 14 of 41 from field. Concord stayed close on the strong play on junior Will Johnson who ended up with 30 points.

Glenville shot much better in the second half, hitting 17 of 29 from the foul line. The action heated up towards the end of the game when Concord scored an easy bucket off an offensive board to pull to within three points 73-70. The rest of the game belonged to Gary Nottingham who iced the game with seven foul shots when Concord was forced to foul.

Nottingham played perhaps his best game as a collegian, scoring 25 points, dishing out 5 assists, and collecting 3 rebounds. Assisting Nottingham in the scoring department were Wayne Washington with 21 points, Doug Watts with 14 points and Don Bullett with 10 points. Charles Warner had a poor night scoring with only four points, but lead the team in rebounding with eleven. Watts totalled nine rebounds.

average, Greg Martin 173 average, Keith Hite 172, Jeff Stump 155, and Dale Sparks 164 average for 3 games. Next tournament will be in Las Vegas, Nevada.

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT

Any student interested in summer employment should contact the Placement Office for information on job announcements already received. In some cases, employers request that students forward their application well in advance, due to the large number of applicants each year. Students should start planning now for a summer position.

There will be a display of summer job announcements in the lobby of the Pioneer Center sometime early in December.

If you have to do a spring activity in Education, you may elect to do your activity during the winter break. Therefore, those who plan to enroll in Education 201 or 301 this spring semester, 1979, and are thinking about doing their spring activity should contact Joe Hickman at the Placement Office as soon as possible.

Section 6.05 insures that, in hearing student appeals, the Board of Regents will review all relevant information and records of applicable institutional disciplinary proceedings to ensure that due process has been afforded.

These are the major revisions made by The West Virginia Board of Regents. The exact text of each revision will appear in the new issue of The Glenville State College Student Handbook. Glenville State College has provided due process in all disciplinary proceedings and will continue to provide such due process in all future proceedings.

Watts is a pleasant offensive surprise early in the year. His strong board play and improved jump shooting have been a big plus for Glenville. Wayne Washington is still the explosive scorer that he has been in prior years, but with a little more control and patience which can only make him a better ball player than he already is.

The "other" guard has been played well by Gary Nottingham, freshman Mike Forbes, and Ernie Gilliard. Nottingham has always been a tight fisted defensive player, ready to dive into a crowd after a loose ball. But Gary has added some offensive punch to the lineup, scoring a career high 25 points in the win over Concord. Mike Forbes has made some freshman mental errors but has cut down on his early mistakes and is playing a good floor game.

Ernie Gilliard runs the fast break well and has improved on his outside shooting a good deal.

I have heard a few comments on the play of Charles Warner. The comments are not critical, but rather quizzical. Stretch has played such consistent ball over his career that when he plays below par everyone thinks something is wrong. Well, the only thing the last couple ballgames have shown me about Stretch is that he is human too. He knows exactly what he is doing wrong and will quickly correct his mistakes. I still put my money on him in the clutch.
