GSC Infirmary Has New Equipment

The GSC infirmary under the direction of Dr. Manley has several pieces of new equipment. For the first time ever we have a treadmill and monitor. The treadmill is an awesome machine of cold shiny, steel and green carpet on its floor, actually it is a periphery on a wide wheel having a horizontal axis. The treadmill was originally used in prisons as a disciplinary measure although our treadmill is purely for medical and scientific purposes.

The purpose of this equipment is to scientifically chart a person's physiological functions, and research. The athletic teams will also benefit, by such examinations to tell if that particular person is in good enough shape to participate in that particular sport. Hopefully this will cut down on the amount of injuries that take place in GSC sports.

The treadmill and the monitor are attached together. The monitor is attached to your body via some wires. This process is entirely painless. The doctor then controls how fast, how far, and for how long he wants you to either run or walk. The wires attached send back your pulse rate and a visual readout of your heart-beat. By these readouts the doctor said he could tell what condition you were in and if something were seriously wrong with you. After the readout he then will prescribe an exercise to get you in shape.

Doctor Manley urges everyone, students and faculty alike to come up and have a go on the new treadmill.

'Jabberjaws' To Judge 4-H

Glenville State College's Forensics team, the 'Jabberjaws,' will be judging speaking events for 4-H at the 4-H grounds at 6:30 p.m. on April 3rd. Advisor Monica Kretzschmar-Young said 'the events include public speaking and presentations using visual aids.

The 'Jabberjaws' will be competing in a couple of more tournaments this semester but the dates and places have not been finalized as of yet.

This semester 'Jabberjaws' include the following: Athelene Birchfield of Denton, Md.; Fran Davis of Kingwood, WV; Wendy Elliott of Ranger, WV; Steve Combs of Hambleton, WV; and Mike Maloney of Spencer, WV.

Letters to the editor are welcome. Letters must have a signature, but the signature won't be printed at the request of the writer.

There will be a meeting for all persons interested in technical work on the BRAVE LITTLE TAILOR Monday, March 26 at 4 p.m. in the Underground. Academic credit will be given for the time you put in.

ENROLLMENT ANNOUNCED

Glenville State College has reversed a statewide overall trend and recorded a six percent increase in spring enrollment in 1979 as compared to 1978.

According to the official headcount enrollment figures released by the West Virginia Board of Regents, GSC's spring headcount is 1,601. The 1978 count was 1,528.

The institutions supported by the state overall recorded a decrease in enrollment from 62,991 to 62,076, with large drops (on a percentage basis) at W.Va. Northern Community College, Fairmont State College and Bluefield State College.

Both Marshall and West Virginia universities also recorded decreases in enrollment.

Play Date Set

The Children's Theatre of Glenville State College will present the BRAVE LITTLE TAILOR May 7, 8, 9, & 10, in the Auditorium. The shows are at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. There will be one evening presentation on May 8th at 8 p.m.

The BRAVE LITTLE TAILOR is a classic children's story about the small conquering the mighty. Through wit and wisdom, the little tailor, who has killed seven flies with a blow, convinces the two giants that he is a force mightier than they. Using the theory of divide and conquer, he turns the giant's attention away from destroying him and on to destroying each other thus keeping the kingdom from their threatening menace, and winning the gratitude of the Queens who rule there.

Dr. Janet Rubin will be directing and the cast includes: Tim James as the Tailor, Gary Ross as the Giant, Doug Bailey as Brother Giant, Carla Barker as the Maid, June Nohe as Eulalia, and Jennifer Chisler as Oulalia.

Journalism Workshop To Be Held

An all-day Newspaper/Yearbook workshop will be held on campus Friday, April 6, according to Mrs. Yvonne King, Director of Publications. Students from high schools in twelve surrounding counties have been invited to participate.

Highlighting the day's events will be a luncheon address by Neil Boggs, well-known Washington, D.C. broadcaster and presently weekend anchorman for WJLA TV, ABC, with the White House/Congress beats.

Boggs, a native of Clay County formerly served as assistant news director and anchorman at WCHS TV in Charleston, WSAZ TV in Huntington and later worked with NBC in Chicago. In 1965, he transferred to Washington, D.C. where he worked for NBC and WRC TV. In 1972, he

The seniors will be represented by Tammy Chambers, who is from Fenwick.

Campus To Be Changed

by Ray Hanks

The Glenville State College Campus Access Committee, headed by Dr. John Chisler, Chairman of the Science and Mathematics Department is responsible for making programs and facilities accessible to all students.

The transitional plan for the campus is to (1) Identify physical obstacles in facilities that limit accessibility. (2) Describe in detail the methods that will be used to make facilities accessible. (3) Specify the schedule for taking the steps necessary to achieve full program accessibility, with steps that will be taken each year of the transition period identified clearly. (4) Identify the persons responsible for implementation of the plan.

This plan to make the college barrier-free for all students has been developed as required by Section 504 of the rehabilitation act of 1973.

The major project right now is installing wheelchair ramps on all of the buildings, which, according to Dr. Chisler will not be too expensive for some of them. For the Library, it will cost approximately $720, and for the Administration building, $176.

"A person in a wheel chair cannot get into the bookstore, cafeteria, union, gym, football games, or see a physician," he said.

The extreme expense pain will be installing elevators in the buildings, which is an intricate part of the program. For the Health building it will cost $65-$85 thousand; and

Who cares if the U.S. dollar is only worth .30 cents, if nuclear plants are causing cancer, or if there's enough oil to last 'til Monday—I'm watching T.V. tonight!

Apathy Is Of Concern

It seems that every few weeks I fall into a post late night Johnny Carson depression. It's due partly to bad peanut butter and down cycle bio-rhythms. But the main culprit in causing my pre-peptic ulcer condition is the state of the world in general and the condition of my generation in particular.

I'm sorry that I am a child of the 60's; I would have much rather been a participant. Aside from the violence, riots, and general confusion of much of the time, the sixties was, though at times misdirected, an era of action. The Vietnam war—I mean police action—civil rights—the 1978 Democratic Conventions—yuppies—hippies—and hundreds of others were all questioning and trying to find answers. America was alive with concern, love, fear, hates, prejudice and hope.

Today the war in Vietnam is over; minorities are taking their rightful place in society; the Democrats have gentleman Jimmy, the yuppies and hippies are all living in quiet suburbs, and the hundred of other things that used to be important no longer are. Very few care.

Instead we have an apathetic society, whose only concern is if the world supply of oil is going to be sufficient to fill their campers, LTD's and dune buggies; the mighty dollar is fast becoming anemic both here and abroad; labor unions and big business cannot even agree on the size of the negotiating table; solar power is being neglected as a viable fuel source; nuclear power plant bombs continue to increase while people starve. The list goes on.

I am not saying that many of these and other problems did not exist in the 60's. They did. But people were concerned.

Perhaps tomorrow I won't care about apathetic people. But for today at least I am.

Off The Wall

by Tim Brady

I was strolling through the hallowed halls of the Ad building a quarter fortnight ago when I saw a poster that immediately attracted my attention. The poster read 'Study Abroad Next Year'. I don't know about you (gentlemen) but one of my favorite pastimes is studying broads.

With fervent enthusiasm I began searching for the originator of this poster. First, I went to the Foundation Offices, which occurred to me as the most likely place to elicit pertinent information concerning my quest, being that several of the people in Foundations are recognized as geniuses. But to my amazement, no one there could help me. It seems that they were all busy trying to figure out how to answer the telephone. All the little buttons and lights confused them. I left them and proceeded to the next most likely oasis of information, the MERCURY office.

At the Mercury office I felt that I would find the answer to my question about the poster. I have heard that the staff of the Mercury is the lost bastion of intellectual excellence on campus. But I knew I was in trouble when I saw the editor and assistant editor were playing pick up sticks in the middle of the floor. Two typists were having an argument about where to plug the typewriters in. One wanted to plug it in an outlet and the other one wanted to plug it in his ear. The circulation and advertising managers were over in a corner with the file cabinets trying to figure why A comes before B. But the final straw was the sight of the Mercury advisor wearing Mickey Mouse ears and singing 'On the Good Ship Lollipop'. I give up.

STAFF NOTE: Of course you know Tim spends most of his time in the bathroom, where he gets all of his material for 'Off the Wall'.

Anna Wallace's car after a "hit and run" accident which occurred on the Ad Building parking lot.

Honda Is Victim Of Hit-Run

Dear Editors:

On Sunday evening, March 4, a car was hit in the Administration building parking lot. Big deal huh? Well, yes it is a big deal to me. That blue 1977 Honda CVCC happens to belong to me. And to add insult to injury, the driver of the other car did not have the common courtesy to notify me. The first I heard of the accident was Monday morning when a co-worker asked me what happened to my car! Needless to say, that was a glorious way to start the week off (sarcasm fully intended).

So... what does all this amount to? Well, for starters, the legal term applied to this type of case is 'hit and run'. I must now take time off from work to get repair estimates on my car. Then, unless the other driver of the other car comes forward, I will have to negotiate with my own insurance company for financial assistance. And I suppose that everybody wonders why their insurance rates keep going up!

In the two years that I have had the privilege of being on the staff here, I've been proud to say that I work at Glenville State College. One bad apple may not spoil the whole barrel, but it certainly has soured my stomach.

With much outrage, I am
Anna Wallace

Vandalism Evident

There is a serious problem here at GSC, that if not brought under control, could cause a lot of pain to a lot of people. It is automobile vandalism. There is a lot of it going around.

The most recent incident, which has brought my attention to this subject, is the hit and run fender-bender that was perpetrated on Anna Wallace's blue 1977 Honda CVCC. Anna Wallace is a staff member working at the Computer Center.

If a "fender-bender" sounds like a thing that is not very serious, that is the wrong impression. These days, even a scratch can be expensive to have someone fix, and Ms. Wallace's car is going to cost her plenty in the higher insurance rate she will now be forced to pay. Insurance people are not the most friendly to deal with; nor the most honest, so this is no pleasure cruise for her.

The person who ran, and did not even contact Ms. Wallace has not committed a serious crime. The police have a suspect and work is now being done on some paint scrapings at the state police lab in Charleston.

What is most troubling is the vandalism occurring now on campus. In December, 13 cars at Pickens Hall had their gas tanks drowned with water. Others have had the air let out of the tires. I suppose slashing them will be the next thrill. Sugar in the gas tank has also been a problem. Two people I have contacted had their cars paint jobs imperfed by deep scratch marks.

Why am I telling you this? For one thing, few people are aware that this problem exists, but most of all, I want to plea to the student body, faculty and staff to please report these incidents to the campus and state police. This is very important. Most of the vandalism has not been reported. If we do not bother to report it, then we will never find out what parties are responsible—and it will never stop.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

As a student at Glenville State College and a resident of Louis Bennett Hall, I feel it my duty to report a situation that should have not happened.

In the dorm there are machines which are there to provide snacks for the residents but this is far from the case. At the present time the two candy machines have approximately four selections out of 10 and it has been this way for several weeks. Also the sandwich and potato chip machines are constantly malfunctioning, not to mention the sometimes working soft drink machines.

I realize that these machines take much abuse, but this is no reason for them not to be restocked. These machines are for the students so they do not have to leave the dorm at night while studying in order to get something to eat.

It is my hope that students take better care of their machines and that those in charge of stocking them would please do so.

Signed,
A Concerned Student

Committee Meets

the Pioneer Center, $63-$85 thousand; and for the Science building, $88-$115 thousand.

Another great problem is wheelchair students getting around on our hilly campus. In 1872, when GSC was founded, it was considered to be a non-essential luxury, so it was put on a spot that was not needed, on top of this hill.

As the college developed, new buildings were put up on various spots at various elevations. Special ramps and bridges were ruled out—this would go up into the millions of dollars. Instead, automobiles will be used for these students to get from building to building.

Of course, these types of programs take time and a lot of money, but now the plan is in motion. We are awaiting the approval of funds. In the meantime, programs are being made accessible. This is being done by having the ability to schedule any class on the first floor of any of the buildings. In the Science building, for example, there are labs, equipment and classrooms on the first floor. There is a ramp to the first floor of the Science building, and there are thoughts of having a bridge built from the Science building to the top of the Pioneer Center.

Dr. Chisler emphasized that these improvements cannot be made exclusively for the handicapped. This would be against the law. He said that all facilities are for all students.

There are also no accommodations for the blind. Audio signals must be installed. Braille signs and door numbers will have to be put in.

"We need visual signs for the deaf," said Dr. Chisler. "As it stands now, a deaf person cannot tell if there is a fire alarm."

The members of the Campus Access Committee are as follows: Dr. John Chisler, Chairman; James Campbell, Director of the Physical Plant; William Cutlip, Director of Vocational Rehabilitation Center, Glenville; Robert Gainer, Director of Administrative Services; any handicapped student; Joseph Now, Professor of Health and Physical Education, and Athletic Director; Lowell Peterson, Dean of Academic Affairs; Ben Polis, Public Information Officer; Mack Samples, Associate Dean of Academic Affairs and Registrar; William K. Simmons, president of the college; Irvin Talbott, instructor of history, Director of Community Development and Research Center; Karen Thorpe, Assoc. Dean, and persons with a handicap.

Dr. Chisler is looking for a handicapped person or persons to become a part of the board.

Media Seminar Held

Dr. Tedford, Dr. Nelson, and Mrs. Keating held a Media Seminar last Wednesday, March 14, on 'Careers in Publishing.'

Materials were distributed concerning information on newspaper, magazine, and book publications and the jobs entailed with each. Free brochures and pamphlets can be found in the Career Placement Office for those who did not attend the seminar.

Some of the topics discussed at the seminar were: money involved in the publishing business; books in the library that pertain to publishing jobs and what those jobs consist of; and preparing to go into the publishing field of study at GSC.

A book entitled, Aside from Teaching English, What in the World Can You Do? by Dorothy K. Bestor, will be on reserve in the library for anyone interested. The book includes jobs in editing and publishing.

Energy Ideas Rewarded

The West Virginia Fuel and Energy Office announced today that persons interested in participating in the $1 million energy-related grants program announced by Governor Rockefeller on February 28 can now obtain application forms at all public libraries and county extension offices in the state.

Grants of up to $50,000 will be awarded later this year under the Appropriate Technology Program of the U.S. Department of Energy to assist in the development of unusual energy-saving or energy-producing ideas. Applications for the funding will be accepted through April 27 from individuals, non-profit organizations, state and local agencies, Indian tribes, and small businesses.

While a high number of applications is expected from scientists and engineers, participation in the program is not limited to energy professionals, according to Jeff Herholdt, Director of the Fuel and Energy Office.

'Any West Virginian who has an innovative idea about conserving energy forms is urged to apply for this assistance,' Herholdt said.

'Examples of the type of energy-related projects which might be funded under the program include windmills, solar storage systems, methane production from wastes, and waste heat recovery systems,' Herholdt said.

The current phase of the Appropriate Technology Small Grants Program is being conducted by DOE in an area encompassing Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, and the District of Columbia. The State Fuel and Energy Office, a division of the Governor's Office of Economic and Community Development, is cooperating with DOE in administering the program in West Virginia.

Further information about the program may be obtained from DOE by calling 1-800-424-5141 toll-free.

Conservation Tips

The West Virginia Fuel and Energy Office is offering motorists the following suggestions for conserving gasoline and reducing driving expenses:

1. Observe the speed limit. Slowing down from 60 to 55 MPH increases the fuel economy of the average car by as much as five percent. The resulting savings are equivalent to a three or four cent reduction in the price of gasoline.
2. Get a tune-up. A tune-up may save from three to twenty cents of every gasoline dollar.
3. Correct tire pressure. Check your owner's manual. Underinflated tires increase drag and may waste one mile per gallon or more.
4. Drive smoothly. Avoid tailgating and stop-and-go driving. Smooth starts and a steady foot on the gas pedal improve gas mileage.
5. Avoid idling. An idling car gets zero miles per gallon. Save gas by turning off the engine if you are going to be in one place longer than a minute.

6. Avoid excess weight and remove snow tires as weather permits. Less weight and less rolling friction mean better fuel economy.

7. Plan your trips. Gas mileage is lower on short trips than longer ones. Combine several short errands into one trip.

8. Try alternatives. Walk, bus, bike or telephone. Share rides. Plan outings and vacations which require less use of the car.

West Virginians desiring more information about energy conservation may call the West Virginia Fuel and Energy Office, a division of the Governor's Office of Economic and Community Development, at 1-800-642-9012 toll free.

Representatives from West Virginia State Employment Security will be on campus March 27 to administer the General Aptitude Test Battery.

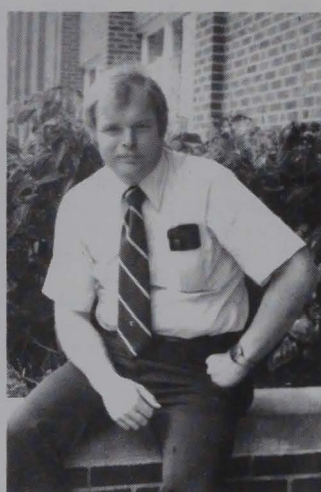

Students who feel they might benefit from this type of counseling are encouraged to sign up for this test battery in the placement office prior to March 19.

Testing sessions will be held in the Old Cafeteria from 10 a.m. until 12 noon and from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. All students will attend the morning session and one hour of the afternoon session.

The Placement Office announces that Preston and Grant Counties have been recently added to the list of Teacher Education interviews for April 24 along with the following counties:

Braxton, Calhoun, Clay, Fayette, Gilmer, Greenbrier, Jackson, Jefferson, Kanawha, Lewis, McDowell, Nicholas, Pleasants, Pocahontas, Putnam, Randolph, Ritchie, Roane, Taylor, Upshur, Webster, Wetzell, Wirt, and Wood.

New Counselor Is Bill H. Cutlip

The West Virginia Division of Vocational Rehabilitation has established an office on the Glenville State College campus. Mr. William H. Cutlip, Counselor-in-Charge of the Glenville Branch Office, will be coming to the Career Planning and Placement Office to meet with students involved in a Vocational Rehabilitation Program.

The Division of Vocational Rehabilitation is an agency of the state government that provides services to handicapped individuals so that they may be able to obtain employment. The only requirements needed to be eligible for this service is the presence of a disability (either physical or mental) that does constitute a handicap to employment and a reasonable expectation that the individual will be able to obtain employment upon completion of Vocational Rehabilitation services. Some of the services that can be provided include: counseling and guidance, physical restoration, training, and placement.

Mr. Cutlip, a native of Braxton County and a graduate of Weston High School, obtained his B.A. degree in Social Studies from Salem College in 1968. He also received a Master of Science Degree in Rehabilitation Counseling from West Virginia University in 1972. He has been employed by the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation since January 1969, and became the Counselor-in-Charge of the Glenville Branch Office in December 1975. He and his wife, Nancy, and daughter, Erin, are residing on College Street in Glenville.

Mr. Cutlip will be available to meet with students who are being sponsored by Vocational Rehabilitation in their training and also is interested in talking with students who feel that they may have a disabling condition and may be eligible for Vocational Rehabilitation services. He will be on campus the first and third Wednesdays of each month from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. Appointments can be scheduled by contacting the Placement Office.

Class Visits House of Delegates

Anytime a large group of people are clustered together in a closed and controlled atmosphere you always have conflicting emotions. Most certainly, one of these emotions would be disagreement, and on Friday, March 3, a group of about twenty interested state and local government students were allowed to observe this emotion first hand as the House of Delegates debated several bills in the State Capitol. This trip to Charleston was sponsored and supervised by their advisor, Dr. Darnall.

Leaving the campus a little after 8:35 in the morning they reached Charleston a little after 11:00. The group immediately proceeded to the House of Delegates. Dale Stover (a former internship recipient) gave us a general tour, got us into our seats and explained all of our questions.

The most important bill the House was debating was the Food Tax. Both sides argued persuasively for their side.

The main point was that only one cent a year would be taken off the now existing three cent tax. With much debate and a ploy (the motion to have the bill read in its entirety) to kill the bill did not succeed and it was passed. The House then adjourned for lunch and so did the students.

After lunch some students took time out to visit the Cultural Center adjacent to the capitol. It was a very nice and cooling balm from an overheated atmosphere. Many of the students were also male Commodores of the State by Secretary of State A. James Manchin. This position for those who do not know means the above awardee will serve on active election patrol and to keep constant vigilance over the cleanliness of the state.

Dr. Darnall also plans to visit the Weston State Hospital, Moundsville and hopefully the Magistrate Court. He has also invited Delegate Reed from Clay to speak to his class.

Children's Literature On Exhibit

There are two hundred books on exhibit at the Robert F. Kidd Library. This display is loaned by the West Virginia Library Commission. The Joint Committee of the Children's Book Council and the American Library Association supplied these exhibit copies for display. The display is intended to present an actual sample of the wide range of trade publishing for children and young adults. A wide selection of information books, fiction, and picture books are included.

All age groups of young readers will find an abundance of books on a wide variety of subjects and interest. Science and mathematic game books can be found mixed with the traditional cultural fields. Biography, literature and history are found with many new twists for the interested and curious reader.

Books for the youngest readers can be selected most easily through examination. Here, the potential buyer has a chance to judge the quality of the illustrations, the binding and the paper. Parents who want a chance to find more appropriate books for gifts for their children and teachers and school librarians who must purchase juvenile books should find the Traveling Exhibit an interesting and helpful tool.

This set of books will be on deposit until May 1, 1979.

This is the third time GSC will be exhibiting the collection. Students in two Children's Literature classes, and Elementary Majors should make use of the collection.

GSC Hosts First Social Studies Fair

Glenville State College will host the first regional Social Studies Fair for elementary and secondary schools Thursday, March 29, from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. in the Pioneer Center Ballroom.

Three counties, Gilmer, Braxton, and Calhoun, have been invited to participate in the competition from which division winners will compete in the West Virginia Social Studies Fair at Marshall University on May 18-19.

According to Dolores Mysliwiec, coordinator of the fair and assistant professor of history at GSC, the fair is to encourage interest in areas of social studies

'The students are to do research and then display that research in project form,' Ms. Mysliwiec said. 'We want the students in grades 4-12 to realize that social studies is not boring and dry, but something relevant in which they can participate.'

The categories in the fair are: anthropology, economics, geography, history, sociology, psychology, political science, interdisciplinary and special theme—responsible citizenship.

There will be three divisions: grades 4-6; and 10-12, and individual or group projects will be accepted.

MENC Meeting Held

M.E.N.C. had their regular weekly meeting Thursday, March 15, at 5:30 in the bandroom. President Beth Dunn called the meeting to order.

The major topic of discussion was the upcoming Majorette Festival on March 25 at 3:00 in the Auditorium of the Administration Building. There are two categories: military and specialty. Trophies will be awarded to first, second, and third place winners in each category. Various committees were appointed to prepare for the upcoming festival.

Plans were then discussed for the Spring Convention to be held at the Holiday Inn in Huntington on March 29, 30, and 31.

President Beth Dunn appointed Maureen Kraus as newspaper reporter.

Admission is $.50 for students, $1.00 for adults to the Majorette Festival.

A resume workshop for students with non-teaching majors will be held in the basement of the library on Wednesday, March 28 at 6:30 p.m. This session will be conducted by the career counselors and will deal with writing cover letters and resumes and interview techniques. A video tape on interviewing will be shown.

Any student enrolled in a non-teaching area is urged to attend.

Wesley Foundation Building is temporarily closed until the Board of Directors can choose a campus Minister, Rev. Ron Hand has been granted a leave-of-absence.

Banterings

If you are wondering-doubt if you are-Why there is so little sports news this week, it's because not a whole lot of sports is going on yet. The baseball team doesn't play until the 23rd; the track team has its first scoring track meet the 22nd; the tennis team isn't set yet; and the golf team only had its first meeting on the 20th. So, until next week rolls around, the news is a little scarce.

The WV high school tournament is underway in Morgantown this week. Aside from the fact that the tournament isn't in Charleston this year-due to construction of the new Civic Center Complex-there is another noteworthy occurrence. For the first time since 1945, a Gilmer county basketball team is entered in the tournament; my old alma mater, Gilmer County High School. It's great to have Gilmer County in the tournament. For the last several years, Gilmer County has had a good ball club-they had me of course-but have been beaten in the regional finals. But this year was different. It's great.

Golfers Prepares For Season Opener; Invitational Action Slated March 30

Glenville hopes to continue its dominance in the W.V.I.A.C. this upcoming season. Glenville has won the State title five out of the last seven years. Last year the Pioneers won the conference by five shots over Davis and Elkins by shooting a state record 300 team score (75 avg./man). Glenville then made the trip to the nationals in Houston, Texas.

Jim Brady, (Olean, NY), is the lone senior on this year's squad. Coach Tim Carney says, "Jim is an exceptional player and will be counted on heavily this year, and since it is his last year he will want to do well."

Greg DelPrince, (Ashtabula, OH), was the Golfer of the Year his freshman year at G.S.C. Greg had an off year last year but came through strong at the end and he is expected to return to the outstanding form of his freshman year.

Perry Coe, (Summersville, WV), might have the best fundamental swing on the team and with the past year's experience he is expected to contribute tremendously to the program.

Joe Crislip, (Parkersburg, WV) transferred to GSC from Kent State his sophomore year and made the All-Conference team his first year here. Joe is being counted on again this year to help Glenville win the State Title.

There are five golfers who will be competing for one of the five spots on the Golf Team. The golfers besides the returning lettermen are Tom Davisson, (Glenville); Jim Frietas, (Olean, NY); Ken Lacy, (Mullens, WV); Dave Lamm, (Parkersburg, WV); Jeff Stump, (Parkersburg, WV).

Glenville hopes to win the state title again this year and earn the right to return to the nationals. The nationals are in North Carolina this year. Coach Carney feels the strongest competition will come from Davis & Elkins, Shepherd, and Bluefield.

Glenville opens the golfing season by hosting the 2nd Annual Glenville State College Invitational at Oxbow Country Club on Friday, March 30.

Wayne Washington has been selected honorable mention in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. Wayne, a senior, led the Pioneers in scoring with a 15.75 average. He also led the team in field percentage and assists.

GSC Baseball Scheduled For Action March 23

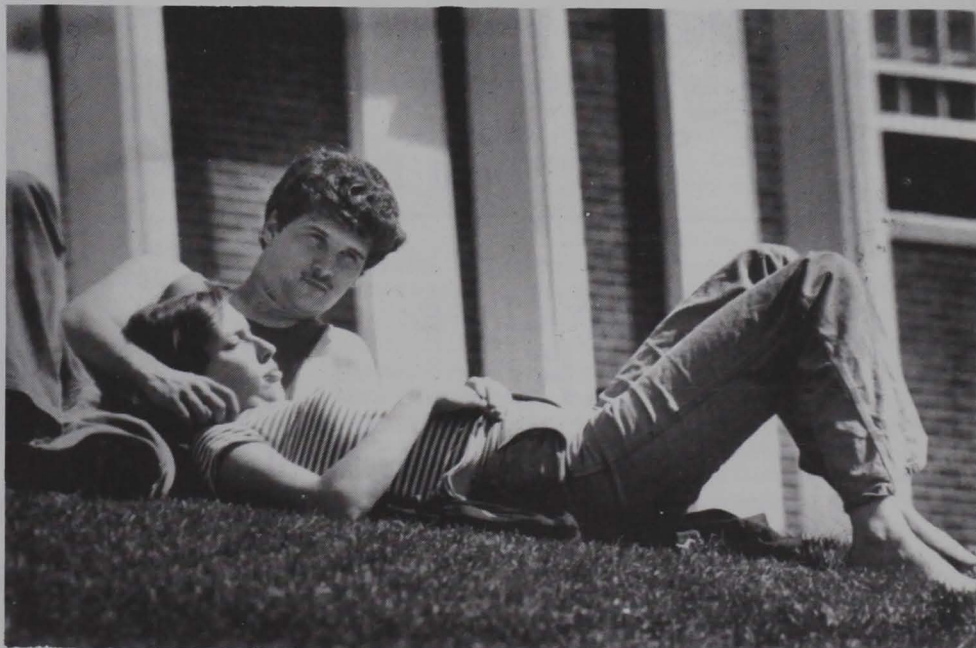

The GSC baseball team will open their season this Friday, March 23, against Point Park College of Pennsylvania. The game starts at 1:00 at the baseball field in the Brooklyn section of Glenville. Coach Belcastro and the team wish to thank the maintenance crew for the fine job they did in preparing the field for play. They mended the fence, picked up trash, put sand on the field to facilitate drainage, and many other little jobs. "It looks the best that it has in years," was Belcastro's assessment.

The team has been rounding into playing shape the last several weeks, thanks to the good weather. The defensive looks good this year with the offensive getting stronger everyday. Belcastro sees the potential for a strong hitting team.

Among those veterans that will contribute to the team's success are Ted Valentine, who is a very strong defensive first baseman who only made four errors last season. With a stronger bat this year, Ted may grab some post-season honors. Joedy Moots, according to Coach Belcastro, is a strong defensive player who this year will bat and should provide some fire. Also, Moots is the man on the team who keeps everyone loose with his humor. Rick Wallace has moved into the starting line-up this spring at third base. He has a good glove and sure arm and should bolster the infield play. Gary Jones is a hard-working, dedicated ball player that always gives 110%. Gary is very fast and aggressive, both on the base paths and on the field. Fred Smith has been a consistent offensive threat since he first started playing for GSC. He has been moved from the infield to the outfield because of his speed and strong arm. Fred knows the game well and seldom makes mistakes.

Spring is here! Evidence of GSC's Springtime is the rush of students on the lawn. A typical campus scene is the one above.
