Robey Godfrey, Gene White and Fran Davis contemplate their upcoming "Camelot" roles.

"Camelot" Characters Presented

by Debbie Moore

"Camelot" the Arthurian legend centers around the characters of King Arthur, Guenevere and Lancelot. Their solid friendship and love for one another is portrayed by Joe Hickman. Fran Davis and Gene White.

King Arthur, alias Joe Hickman, is Director of Placement at GSC. Along with this, he also works in seven county areas arranging off campus classes.

Mr. Hickman feels that the part of King Arthur is challenging because Arthur is a tragedy. Mr. Hickman describes Arthur as an idealistic, frustrated, gentle and forgiving person. He also said that Arthur is not a deep thinker and often stumbles into ideas that are usually right.

Sophomore Fran Davis, majoring in English and oral communications, is portraying Guenevere. Fran is a member of the GSC Forensic team and has appeared in "Bus Stop" and "Desperate Desmond's Dasterly Deeds." She has also worked on technical crews for various plays.

Fran has found it easy, but also challenging, to play the character of Guenevere, due to the fact that Guenevere's emotions are constantly changing throughout the musical. In the beginning, Guenevere is defiant about her arranged marriage to King Arthur and throughout the play she is spirited and sarcastic, but later because of her own personal conflicting emotions, she becomes less spirited and brave. The challenge for Fran is to change from light and spirited to deeper more meaningful emotions. She has found singing like Guenevere, in a light voice with precise, sophisticated words, to be the most challenging for her.

Playing Lancelot is Senior Gene White. Gene is a Biology major and an Oral Communications minor. He has been acting at GSC for four years and has been in the major productions of "Star Spangled Girl", "The Rainmaker", "Send Me No Flowers", "Bus Stop", and "The Importance of Being Ernest". Besides these plays, he has done some one-acts and was Master of Ceremonies for "Desperate Desmond's Dasterly Deed," when it traveled to public schools.

Two major accomplishments for Gene were his receiving the Best Actor Award for two years in a row. He received these for his participation in "The Rainmaker", and "Send Me No Flowers."

Gene has found Sir Lancelot to be a challenge. In describing Lancelot, Gene said he was a Frenchman, a fighter and very godly. Through his godliness, Lancelot finds his strength and magical powers. But the real challenge for Gene is the fact that Lancelot is the perfect person and Gene feels that this is the hardest character he has ever had to portray.

Jerri Riley, editor of the new literary magazine, addresses the first meeting of interested students. The deadline for any material submitted for publication is Feb. 22.

Italian Opera Presented

A concert of Italian opera arias and duets, from Puccini's La Boheme, Verdi's Rigoletto and La Traviata, Rossini's Barber of Seville, and others will be performed in the GSC auditorium on Tuesday, Feb. 12 at 8:00 p.m. Deborah Lucas (soprano) and Roger Lucas (tenor) are the featured singers.

Miss Lucas studied at the New England Conservatory of Music, the Manhattan School of Music, and the American Institute in Graz, Austria. She made her debut with the National Symphony in the Beethoven 9th Symphony, and was the soprano soloist in Orff's Carmina Burana, with the Paul Hill Chorale. She has done a concert tour with Columbia Artist and has appeared with the Opera Society of Washington, and sung at the Birmingham Civic Opera. Miss Lucas has also sung in Vienna, Boston, and New York. (cont. on p. 4.)

Band Director Ed McKown has announced a college-community effort to involve more people in concert band. He has invited any person in the community who can play an instrument and college students with conflicting schedules that do not allow them to attend practices, which are held Mondays and Thursdays at 3 p.m. to rehearse with concert band Tuesday evenings at 7 p.m. in the band room. This effort is in experimental stages and will be discarded if enough interest is not shown.

Editorially Speaking....

Just what exactly is one supposed to learn at college? According to a father you are going to ingest a vast diet of pertinent information that will enable you to safely journey into the impenetrable jungle that is generally referred to as life. A mother hopes you will learn how to match socks, use a fork, and be socialable without being obscene. But what else is there? There has to be more. Right? Right! Read on and be informed.

One very important college lesson, the sooner learned the better, is there are people—instructors, administration, students, janitors, cooks, etc., that know a little more than you do, just a little. Please, lay down the high walls of ego and listen for a few years. Not all the information offered should be accepted unquestioned. Learn to sort out what is good and what is bad. But first you must give yourself the chance to listen.

Something else that is important and decidedly more difficult to learn is when, how, where, and why it is appropriate to act like a prepubescent extrovert who throws up at parties and when, how, where, why to fain some semblence of adult decorum in order to extract a minute bit of information for post college existence. It is quite necessary for everyone to have a pressure release valve that enables them to cope with the rigors of academia. Thursday night blitzes are great, if they don't become Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, etc. blitzes. If you want to go to parties and bar hopping every night, that's fine. But don't expect to light up the old bulb too often. You can't have your Strohs and drink it, too.

The following was in response to four years of bitching, pleading, cajoling, and threatening by numerous members of the GSC faculty. If you're lucky, they will do the same to you.

Tim Brady, Editor

GSC Commuters Speak Out

We are the GSC students who have to appear in class with our winter boots, coats, scarfs, book bags, purses, art supplies, art work, and photography equipment all draped on our shoulders, arms, head and hands.

We are the GSC students who are to attend class, turn in papers, even though it snowed 8 inches the night before. The campus teachers who do not want to travel to extension classes in inclement weather, can cancel. Students who do not show-up for classes because of the same inclement weather are marked absent and their papers, etc. are labeled "handed in late."

We are the GSC students who have to get up in the early morning hours (5 or 6 a.m.): to get to class at 9 a.m.

We are the students who have to pay the high price of gasoline, have to obtain a reliable vehicle for winter driving, have to keep up with daily weather forecasts.

Who are we? We are the campus commuters. Do you have anything to add to this list? If so, the MERCURY would like to hear from you. Send your comments to "Campus Commuter" c/o MERCURY office.

Draft Issues Discussed

The following is one, in a series, of articles pertaining to women on the Glenville campus. In this issue, the topic of discussion will be the draft. In future issues, the topics will cover Title IX and the women's basketball team, married women on campus and their careers, and the awareness of women today.

With the situations in Iran and Afghanistan, and the possibility of the draft being reinstated, women now face the possibility of also being drafted. As Feb. 9 rolls around, many are wondering what President Carter will decide on the women's draft. A poll, taken on the GSC campus, of approximately 100 women shows that women here are equally divided on this issue. Of the approximately 50 men questioned, most felt that women should be drafted.

Various pro and con statements were made pertaining to the question—"do you feel that women should be drafted?" "No, women should not be drafted, because of my own personal feelings, I couldn't kill some one," was the statement made by Kate Reed, a sophomore Liberal Arts major. Elementary education major Michele Gallourakis—"I think women should have a choice." Many women voiced the concern that a woman in combat would distract the men. With a woman fighting alongside a man, the men might feel that they must "watch-out" for the woman.

One very interesting statement, made by Betty Wells, a freshman history major was, "Gloria Steinem started all this equal rights movement, so women could go to war, and now she's too old to be drafted." Sandy Pyles, social work major, made a similar statement, "I'm not for the ERA—not completely." The comment, "we're fighting Gloria Steinem's war" was common during this poll. Senior art education major, Lola Smith explained, "if they (women) want equal rights, I think they should be drafted."

June Nohe, senior English major, stated—"Yes, if women have no other reason not to go, they should go." Many questions remain to be answered: could, if a woman were drafted, she move heavy artillery, carry heavy packs, or should women be drafted not for combat, but for the paperwork. If women are drafted to take care of the paperwork, more men would be able to fight. Shirley Williams, senior history major looked upon the question like this, "If we have to go, we have to go."

SC Purchases Lockers

The Student Congress has purchased 33 wooden surplus lockers for commuters. The lockers are free but commuters will have to purchase their own padlocks. There will be 12 lockers placed in the Snack Bar, 12 in the Placement, and 9 in the basement of the Administration building. Padlocks must be removed by August 1 or they will be cut off to make room for new persons. Anyone interested may contact Mike Murphy or any Student Congress member.

DZ's Sponsors Dance

The dance contest will be open to single or double competitors and a prize will be given to the best male and female dancer.

Joannie Harris and Eddie Huffman, sponsored by Sigma's and Pam Collins and Mark Davis, sponsored by DZ's, are the only Sweet-Heart nominations at the present time. Kappa Delta Pi, GSC's national honorary education association, presented to Mrs. Janis Owen of the Gilmer Public Library, a complete set of the Sesame Street Library. The project was initiated by the past-president, Kim Buckley, and was carried out by the new president, Shirley Williams. Kappa Delta Pi is very interested in the education of the young, especially those in the Gilmer Co. area, and feels that this contribution is just one way that they can serve the people of the county.

Artist-in-residence Rick Roberts gives instruction in guitar to a student. He teaches two classes, also.

Roberts Named Artist in Residence

By Debbie Moore

Musician-in-residence? What is that? This is the most common reaction when GSC students hear that Glenville has a musician-in-residence.

Rick Roberts, formerly from Sutton, is Glenville's musician-in-residence. He was selected by the Residency Committee which consists of Mack Samples, Assistant Dean of Academic Affairs; Sandy Seman, County Music Teacher; and Pat Harder, Treasurer of the Folk Festival.

Mr. Roberts' job is made possible by the Arts and Humanities Commission in Charleston. The Commission funds not only musicians, but artists, poets and writers, and pays them a monthly salary. The purpose is to give musicians or artists money and time to develop themselves professionally.

Roberts is the musician-in-residence for Gilmer and Calhoun Counties. His job requires responsibility in three areas: Glenville State College, public schools and communities in the two counties. Mr. Roberts is available to the schools and community organizations to demonstrate his musical talents.

Rick has wanted to be a musician since high school and since then has played in several bands. Before coming here, he played for three years with "The Hooker Hollow Symphony." This band consisted of three fellows that lived at Hooker Hollow, therefore the name, and they played bluegrass in surrounding states.

Mr. Roberts, as his job requires, travels to different public schools in the two counties and helps with the demonstration and teaching of instrumental music. He is teaching two classes, a folk instrument course at Gilmer County High School and a folk guitar class at GSC on Tues. evenings.

Mr. Roberts plays many different instruments and, therefore, can offer a wide variety of instruction in his classes. Some of the instruments he plays are the fiddle, mandolin, guitar, banjo, and dulcimer.

Rick's future plans after completing his residency are to find another band and continue to play the college and festival circuit, although he did mention maybe someday, starring in a movie with Burt Reynolds and Cheryl Ladd.

Exhibit Shown

A travelling exhibit from the Folger Shakespeare Library in Washington, D.C., is being exhibited at Glenville State College from January 25 to February 25. The exhibit, sponsored by the Cultural Affairs Committee, is being displayed in glass cases outside the Auditorium on the first floor of the Administration Building. On display are facsimiles of old maps, engravings, photographs, and playbills. Of special interest are a copy of the rare Visscher's map of London (1616) and a facsimile of the only known copy of the 1594 quarto of Titus Andronicus. Although the work was mentioned in 17th century records, no copy of it was found until 1904, when one was discovered in a barn in Sweden. Henry Clay Folger, founder of the Folger Shakespeare Library, bought it for his collection, which formed the nucleus of the Library.

The exhibit also includes photographs of the Folger Shakespeare Library, reproductions of the title pages of the First Folio (1623) and various quartos, and pictures showing the dress and customs of Shakespeare's day. The exhibit has been timed to coincide with the second season of "The Shakespeare Plays," a PBS series beginning on February 27, which is being offered as a three-hour credit course by Glenville State College.

Fees To Be Raised

A Subcommittee on Student Activity Fees has met and has come up with a proposal for raises in activity fees for next year. A referendum will be held on Monday, Feb. 18, and Tuesday, Feb. 19, when Student Congress officers are elected.

The raise is prompted by inflationary costs and will be between $15-$20 per semester.

Students are urged to vote. A forty percent turnout is essential.

Heart Association Regular or Salt Free Diet books are on sale now. Costs are $2.25 for the condensed version; $5 for salt free; $6.95 for spiral and $11.95 for hardback. Order yours today from County Heart Chairman, Mrs. Garnett Taylor or State Heart Secretary, Mrs. Yvonne King.

Roger Lucas, a native of Charleston also studied at the New England Conservatory of Music. His many credits include concerts in Europe, the Soviet Union, Vienna, Salzburg, Venice and Rome. He sang the Count in Barber of Seville, with the New York City Center Opera last year and in Cosi Fan Tuti, with the Chattanooga Opera. He has had roles with the Birmingham Opera, Augusta Opera, Los Angeles Opera Guild, Wolf Trap Opera, Santa Fe Opera, and the Metropolitan Opera Guild.

A traveling exhibit of a Shakespearian collection on loan from Folger Library is shown in the hall beside the auditorium.

Speakers Qualify Women

"We did terrific," commented forensic coach, Barbara Nicholson after an outstanding performance at the Ruth A. Wilcox Forensic Invitational at Marietta College.

GSC's three finalists were Kent Woofter placing third in Prose Interpretation; Jennifer Chisler and Eddie Harbert placing third and fifth in Persuasive Speaking.

Team members placing in Informative Speaking were: Fran Davis, seventh; and two novices, Cindy Stewart and Tom Davisson, twelfth and fourteenth place.

Marietta College was overall team winner, but because they were the host of the tournament, they were ineligible to receive the Sweepstakes trophy. The trophy and first place went to the University of Akron with GSC and Parkersburg Community College tied for second place in the tournament.

Kent Woofter, with his third place finish in Prose Interpretation at the Invitational is now eligible to compete in the National Forensic finals, along with Eddie Harbert in Alabama in April.

The second annual Women's Day at the Legislature is scheduled on Feb. 19, 1980. It is sponsored by the WV Women's Commission. The Governor will give the welcome at 9 a.m. at the Science and Cultural Center. Sharon Rockefeller will present opening remarks. The keynote speaker will be Dr. Evelyn Harris, political scientist at the University of Charleston, who will discuss the power of women in effecting politics.

There is still time to sign up for the 'Women's Day in the Legislature Program,' slated for Feb. 19. The Office of Student Affairs and the Panhellenic Council is sponsoring the bus trip to the WV State Capitol.

The cost of this program is $3, and this includes program materials, transportation to and from GSC, and a luncheon with members of the Legislature. Reservations can be made with Dean Vaughn in the Office of Student Affairs on a first come first serve basis.
