Students Selected For Who's Who

This year's Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities has been named. The 1982 edition will carry the names of 31 students from Glenville State College, who have been selected as being among the country's most outstanding campus leaders.

The selection committee has chosen these students according to their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities, and future potential.

Those chosen join an elite group of students selected from more than 1,300 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and several foreign nations.

Outstanding students have been honored in the annual directory since it was first published in 1934.

These students have been named this year from Glenville State College:

Angel Joann Baker of El-lenboro, WV, is a senior business administration major with a minor in management, computer science, and economics. Angel's college activities include the Dean's list, Sigma Tau Delta, Literary Society - secretary, Chi Beta Phi - vice president and recording secretary, Panhellenic Council, Outstanding Woman for Chi Beta Phi, GSC Computer Club - president and secretary/treasurer, Phi Beta Lambda, and Ladies of the White Rose.

Kimberly Sue Barber, from Ripley, WV, is a senior majoring in social work and her minors are sociology and psychology. Previously enrolled at PCC, she was in the student government, president of the Student Affairs Committee, Dean's List at GSC, treasurer of the Student Social Service Organization, a member of Pi Gamma Mu, Ladies of the White Rose, and a volunteer for Student Information and referral service worker.

John Beaudry of St. Albans, VT, is a senior majoring in Social Work and minoring in Sociology. John is a member of the Student Social Service Organization and is on the advisory committee for SSSO. He played football for two years at GSC, and intramural basketball, is a Delta Zeta Big Brother, and is a volunteer for student information and referral organization.

Patricia Joanne Bills of St. Marys, WV, is majoring in Elementary Education, and her minor is Specific Learning Disability. Pat's activities include associate degree in Child development from Parkersburg Community College, Dean's list, president of Kappa Omicron Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, a member of the National Daughters of the American Revolution.

David Bruce Boggess of Charleston, WV, is a senior majoring in Business Administration. David has played football for four years, and also college intramurals. He is a Delta Zeta Big Brother, and served on the coach selection committee.

Debra D. Brown of In-dorse, WV, is majoring in Elementary Education, and her minors are learning disabilities and mental retardation. Debra's campus activities are Ladies of the White Rose, Student National Education Association, Student Council for Exceptional Children, the Smithsonian Associate, the VFW Ladies Auxiliary, the treasurer of Ladies, committee for muscular dystrophy, and Special Olympics.

Traci Carter of Milton, WV, majoring in Elementary Ed. and minors in mental retardation, behavioral disorders, and English. Her activities at GSC include Delta Zeta Sorority, Choir, played lead role in The Lottery, English Proficiency exam committee, Ladies of the White Rose Aux. and named to the Dean's list.

Gillespie Receives Award

Glenville State College librarians took an active role at the annual conference of the West Virginia Library Association held November 12-14 at The Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs.

Dr. David M. Gillespie, director of the Robert F. Kidd Library at GSC, was presented with the 1981 Outstanding Service Award. This award is annually presented to a member of the WVLA who has significantly contributed to the association and to librarianship in West Virginia.

An immediate past president of WVLA, Gillespie graduated from Glenville State College in 1964, obtained a master's in library science in 1968 from Indiana University, and most recently completed a doctorate in 1980 in library science from Florida State University. Additionally, Gillespie has served in various capacities in the WVLA.

Gillespie is very active in the Glenville community, including the Presbyterian Church, WV Folk Festival, and as former town mayor and municipal judge. He is married to Yvonne Row Gillespie and they have one daughter, Erica.

Charles Julian, reference librarian and instructor in library science, was elected chairperson of the Junior Members Round Table and secretary of the College and University section for the 1981-82 year. As chairman of the JMRT, Julian will be responsible for coordinating the programs and activities of the newest members of WVLA. Junior Members Round Table are those who have served less than six years in the library field and are under 36 years of age.

A native of Wheeling, Julian is a 1975 graduate of GSC. He received a master of arts in information studies from the University of Sheffield, England, in 1978, and a master in library science from George Peabody College for Teachers in 1979.

Within the Glenville Community, Julian is active as a member of the Glenville Rotary, Trinity United Methodist Church, and serves on the library board of the Gilmer Public Library as vice president.

Don Phillips, director of the media center, also attended the conference.

A reminder that Glamour Girl applications are still available in the Mercury Office.

Any college female is eligible for the contest. A cash prize of $1000 will be awarded along with recognition in Glamour magazine.

All applications must be post-marked by December 15.

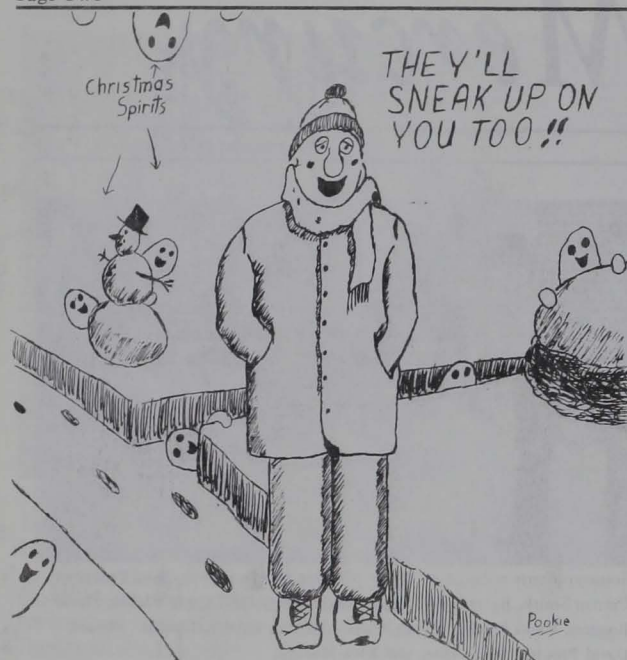

mended for membership whose application is approved by the Membership Committee and the Board of Governors.

A 1973 graduate of Glenville State College, Nicholson also holds a master's degree in speech communication from West Virginia University. She is a three year member of the Glenville State College faculty where she teaches speech communication and coaches forensics. Previously, the Weston, WV native taught and coached forensics at Gilmer County High School where she coached the team to the 1979 national forensics tournament.

At the college level, Nicholson will be coaching the GSC Forensics Team to an unprecedented fourth consecutive national forensics tournament. She has been responsible for hosting the WVSCA Novice Forensics Tournament for the past three years and the West Virginia High School State Speech Tournament in 1981 and 1982.

Nicholson is a member of the West Virginia Speech Communication Association, National Speech Communication Association, Eastern Communication Association and the International Communication Association. She was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities in 1973 and to Outstanding Women of the Year in 1975.

Bah Humbug And All That

December has arrived and with it comes the Christmas season. All of the stores are already displaying holiday decor, Christmas trees are now being sold and everyone is preparing for that one special celebration on the 25th.

Because of the spirit and warm friendliness experienced during the holiday, many people have said, "I wish Christmas could be celebrated all year." So why do we complain when manufacturers begin the festive season early?

Some people complain about "commercialism." Big Deal! So there is a lot of it, but all of us have contributed to making Christmas so commercialized whether it be buying an excess of presents or decorating our houses with flashy lights and evergreen wreaths.

Perhaps another question should be asked. Does the commercialization make us forget the true meaning of Christmas? That is what many people believe, but it shouldn't.

If the true meaning seems to be hidden behind material things and commercialization, then it is our fault. All of us should let the real meaning of Christmas be remembered in our own lives and to friends and relatives throughout the holiday and forget about the complaints of commercialism. 'Tis the season to be jolly—remember?

R.I.P. For The Famous

I happened to be leafing through a book the other day and came across an interesting list of epithets that never were! That is the people who uttered the epithets never had them appear on their tombstones, but were stated to be there in jest or in seriousness.

For instance, Rube Goldberg, a cartoonist, said, "Dear God: Enclosed please find Rube Goldberg. Now that you've got him, What are you going to do with him?" (I bet he was born with a question to ask). Jean Harlow the film actress said, "Of this quiet and peace, I'm very fond; No more remarks - 'She's a Platinum blonde.'" (Remember the old question about dying your hair, "Will she or won't she?"). Ernest Hemingway, the author, said, "Pardon me for not getting up." (Poor ole Ernie, if you did get up, you would scare us silly.)

Clark Gable, stated "Back to silence" (clearly a case of dead men tells no tales). Robert Benchly, comedian and author, said "This is all over my head." (never a truer word spoken) and good ole W.C. Fields said, "On the whole I'd rather be in Philadelphia" (somehow, this one came as no surprise.)

Dr. Albert Schweitzer, the Nobel prize winner said, "If cannibals should ever catch me, I hope they will say, 'We have eaten Dr. Schweitzer, and he was good to the end..... And the end wasn't bad.'"

George Arliss, stage and film actor, said "All my old junk gone to the storehouse, Here I am, God starting for your house. In order to prevent of ruction, Am bringing you back your original production." Fredrick March, the actor said, "This is just my lot."

Finally, my two favorites were uttered by George Bernard Shaw and William Haines. Shaw said, "I knew if I stayed around long enough, something like this would happen," and Haines said, "Here's something I want to get off my chest." Don't both of them just rattle your bones? (pun intended). Maybe mine will be, "Here lies Becky T, she had a mightier pen than sword, and as her ink dried up so did she."

From The Wesley Foundation

The Wesley Foundation welcomes everyone back after the Thanksgiving break. We hope your vacation was a time of fun and relaxation with friends and families. Fifty-three students and faculty members started the Thanksgiving holidays early, with a Thanksgiving dinner at the Wesley Foundation on Nov. 19.

On Dec. 3 the Coffee House will present an evening of folk music, with Wayne de Rosset and Gary Norum. This talented duet has recently cut a new album.

The regular Monday night Worship service is scheduled for 7:30pm on Dec. 7, 1981.

Attention all talented people! The Wesley Foundation will be sponsoring a Talent Night, at the Dec. 10th Coffee House. So everyone get your act together and come out for a night of fun.

NASA Spokesman Is Guest Lecturer

Dr. William Brunk, from the Space Science and Application Office of NASA in Washington D.C. was a guest lecturer at GSC on Nov. 18-19.

The Harlow Shapley Visiting Lectureship Program of the American Astronomical Society arranged his visit.

On Nov. 18 at 3:00 pm Dr. Brunk addressed a full room of students in 207 of the Science Hall. During a slide show Dr. Brunk discussed the missions of Voyager I and II to Saturn and Jupiter. The slides also showed how infrared wavelengths were used to study the rings around Saturn, Jupiter and Uranus and the details of the planets. The different satellites of these planets were discussed in regard to material make up, temperature and location.

During the question and answer period Dr. Brunk discussed the following topics:

1. The possibility of Halley's Comet hitting the earth in 1986.
2. The "Jupiter Effect" and Dr. Brunk assured his audience that the much publicized doomsday effect of the planet's expected alignment in March, 1982 was a matter of misinformation. The articles in the papers and the book, "The Jupiter Effect" were all based on a string of predicted events that never

One Act Plays Reviewed

Since the "Effect of Gamma Rays on Man" there hasn't been any major productions, but there have been several minor productions done by the students of Play Production, under the instruction of Mrs. Linda McKown.

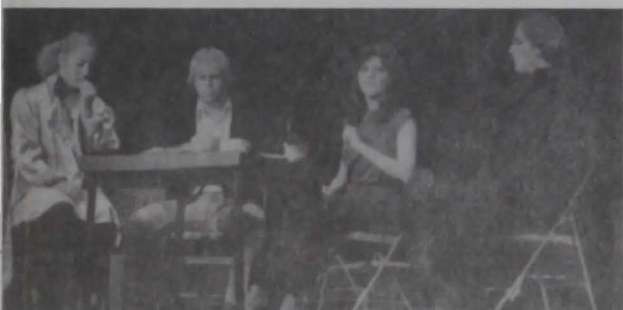

The students, Fran Davis, Danny Bayer, Raelen McMillion, Jupe Morton, and Lisa Taylor, selected the plays, built the sets, chose the casts and directed.

The many long hours and labor spent on perfecting the plays ended with the performances beginning November 5 and continuing through the 19th.

The plays presented were "Twenty-seven Wagons Full of Cotton" (Tennessee Williams) directed by Fran Davis; "Plaza Suite" (Neil Simon) directed by Danny Bayer; "Love and How to Cure It" (Thornton Wilder) directed by Raelen McMillion; "The Lottery" (Shirley Jackson) directed by Jupe Morton; and "A Victory on Mrs. Dandywine's Island" (Langford Wilson) directed by Lisa Taylor.

The plays ranged from fair to excellent, the majority being excellent. Congratulations to you five, for a job well done.

by Debbie Moore

"Love and How to Cure It," directed by Raelen McMillion was presented November 18 in the auditorium. Members of the cast included Jennifer Chisler, Tim Brown, Pat Lewis and Craig Worl.

Pioneers Split In Wesleyan Tourney

The GSC Pioneer men's basketball team opened its season on Nov. 20-21 by competing in the West Virginia Wesleyan Bobcat Booster Tournament. The Pioneers came away with a split in the tourney, winning one game and losing one.

In the first contest on Friday night, GSC defeated the host Wesleyan Bobcats by a 64-55 margin. Steady play by the Pioneer cagers brought about the victory as Jesse Lilly's team outscored Wesleyan 30-26 in the first half and 34-29 in the second twenty minutes of action.

Junior Scott Ludwig was Glenville's leading scorer on the evening. He was a perfect six for six in both field goals and free throws for a total of 18 points. He also had five rebounds and two steals. Senior Don Bullett, a pre-season All-WVC selection, added 16 points to the Pioneer cause. Also, Junior Jerome Hampton notched 14 points, junior Randy Anderson had ten points and seven assists, and sophomore Clay Young had six points and eight rebounds.

As a team, GSC shot a fine 57.1 percent from the floor and 64 percent from the foul line. Wesleyan outrebounded GSC by a 32-29 count.

In the championship game between the Pioneers and Alderson-Broaddus the next night, the Battlers fought back from a 15 point deficit in the first half to register a 96-90 triumph, dropping GSC's record to 1-1.

For most of the first half, GSC built up a lead which stretched to 15 points at times. A-B, however, whittled away at the Pioneer lead and pulled to within two points at 49-47 at halftime.

The Battlers outpointed GSC 49-41 in the second half for a final margin of 96-90. Good foul shooting (17 for 20) in the second half was a big key in the A-B victory.

For GSC, both Don Bullett and Scott Ludwig ripped the cords for 27 points. Bullett hit 11 of 18 field goals and five of five foul shots. He also led the team with nine rebounds. Ludwig continued his torrid field goal shooting, connecting on 11 of 15 attempts. After two games, the junior from Ripley has an 80 percent field goal mark.

Also contributing for GSC were Jerome Hampton with 15 points, Clay Young with ten points and eight boards, Randy Anderson with six points, Rich

Moore with three points, and Chris Bell with two markers.

A busy week is ahead for the Pioneer team. After an away contest with West

If you want to see some exciting basketball action, the GSC gym is the place to be this week.

The men's team will play D&E on Thursday, and Walsh College on Saturday.

Both games are at 7:30 p.m. The women will play Fairmont on Thursday at 5 p.m., and Shepherd Friday at 4 p.m.

GSC Women Ready For New Season

A good blend of returning players and newcomers this season might give the GSC Lady Pioneer basketball team something it has fallen short of for the past two years — a West Virginia Conference Championship. Two years ago, GSC's women placed third in the WVC tournament. Last season, they were second to perennial power University of Charleston. This season, who knows?

Coach Tim Carney has eight players returning from last year's runner-up team, which had a 17-4 record overall and a 14-2 WVC mark. Leading the list of returners is sophomore Bunny Taylor. Taylor was an All-Conference selection last year as a freshman when she averaged 18.8 points and 8.3 rebounds a game.

Other starters returning are Pam Linger and Pam Minigh, the team's co-captains. Linger, a senior, averaged 11.8 points and 7.2 rebounds per game last year, while Minigh, a junior, had averages of 15.6 and 8.4, respectively.

The remainder of the returning players for Carney includes Donita Cox, the team's lone senior besides Linger, Junior Judy Niday, and sophomores Sonja Bailey, Jill Burkhammer, and Shelly Tharp.

Newcomers, who will help fill a big role with their size, include Maria Lothes, Robin Phipps, Cathy Starcher, Kim Maynard, Janice Hensley, Laura Dabney, and Paula Bush.

Coach Carney remarked, "Our forte will be our depth. We will be more flexible as a whole." Also, Carney pointed out, "Our freshmen will be looked to for immediate help with their size. Overall, this class is the biggest and probably the best ability-wise I've had since I began coaching here."

GSC will have its work cut out for it if it is to be in the running for the conference championship at the end of the season. Carney stated, "UC will be the team to beat again this season. Fairmont will be a threat, and Concord and Tech will be better."

The Lady Pioneers will open their season on Dec. 1 with an away game at West Virginia State. Then, on Dec. 3, GSC will host Fairmont State. Another home game will be held on the following day, Dec. 4, with Shepherd. Carney said concerning the student support at games of the past years, "We feel that we have student support as good as any team in the league. The girls and coaching staff really appreciate it."

Next games for women's intramural basketball are: December 7-8-Long Shots vs. Sigmas, The Press vs. Rah Rahs; 8:30 TTT vs. Oreos, DA vs. Woodchucks.

All teams are reminded that outstanding woman nominations are due by December 7.

Harriers Compete

GSC's men's Cross Country Team completed a successful season by competing in the NAIA National Cross Country Meet at Kenosha, Wisconsin, on November 21.

Of 36 teams participating from all over the US and parts of Canada, GSC finished 31st. A total of 326 runners finished the five-mile race, out of 340 starters.

Official results weren't known at press time, so watch next week's paper for final results and comments on the season from Coach Jim Hilgenberg.

Following is the women's basketball schedule for 1981-82:

3. Dr. Brunk's familiarity with Carl Sagan, the host of the Cosmos TV series. Dr. Brunk said that he did not consider Sagan an active scientist now, because the Cosmos series took most of Sagan's time.
Later the same day Dr. Brunk spoke in the ballroom at 7:00 pm. He started his discussion with the offices of NASA and some of their functions. Offices discussed were the Space Shuttle office, office of Space Science and Applications in which Brunk is associated with, the Aeronautics and Space Technology office, and the office of Tracking and Data Analysis.
A 20 minute film, "Post Flight Press Conference" of the first flight of Columbia, was also shown at Wednesday's evening lecture.
Group discussion included an explanation of the workings of the faulty fuel cells on the second flight of Columbia, and the effects of federal cutbacks of NASA funding.

At 9:30 a.m., Thursday, Nov. 19, 1981, Dr. Brunk delivered a third address and slide show. This meeting concerned many of the projects with which Dr. Brunk is involved. Slides of the 88 in. optical and the 120 in. infrared telescopes located on Mauna Kea, Hawaii and the 107 in. optical telescope of the McDonald Observatory in Texas were shown and discussed.
The 1,000 foot diameter radio telescope, in Arecibo, Puerto Rico, is another of the programs that Dr. Brunk manages.
Other slides showed the make-up of asteroids and comets and the studies being conducted with infrared telescopes.
Dr. Brunk is program Manager of Halley Watch which studies Halley's Comet.
Dr. Brunk represents NASA on committees involving the naming of surface features of the planets and their satellites.
As if his schedule were not full enough, Brunk also received word after he arrived on campus, that he had been appointed Chief of the Astronomy and Atmospheric Branch of NASA. In this capacity, he will oversee all studies of the gases of the solar system.
Dr. Brunk will be speaking at WV Tech in the spring of 1982.

GSC was the school that started the "Bad Bandanas" handkerchiefs as spirit boosters. Now most other schools have the "bandanas" in their school colors. Now GSC can start another fad, as the "Spirit Caps" invade the Pioneer basketball fans.
The "Spirit Cap" is a style similar to a painters cap, yet has GSC Pioneers and a drawing of Pioneer on it. The caps will go on sale Dec. 3 for the first home game by the Pioneers.
The caps may be purchased in the Office of Student Affairs for $1.00. The caps were sponsored by Student Congress.

Brass Quintet To Perform In College Auditorium

The Annapolis Brass Quintet will present a free concert in the Glenville State College Auditorium at 2 p.m. Sunday, December 6, 1981. The Quintet is an active performing ensemble, having played over 50 concerts over a four-month period in the United States. In addition, they have just completed their first tour of the Orient and their twelfth consecutive tour of Europe.

Each summer the Annapolis Brass Quintet sponsors, organizes, and operates a serious forum for brass quintets. Attracting groups from Texas to Innsbruck, they commission and premiere new compositions, work with guest artists and composers, conduct educational sessions and play numerous concerts. This year the Annapolis Brass Quintet appeared with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

Members of the Annapolis Brass Quintet are David Cran, trumpet; Robert Suggs, trumpet; Marc Guy, horn; Wayne Wells, trombone; and Robert Posten, brass trombone.

This program is a second in a series of programs sponsored by the Cultural Affairs Committee of Glenville State College.

The Brass Quintet will present a free concert in the GSC auditorium on Sunday, December 6, at 2 p.m.
