Co-Op To Sell Used Texts

The Campus Co-Op is now accepting used textbooks on consignment. Students are urged to bring the books they are willing to sell to the store during hours. Prices for the books can be set by the students. At the beginning of this semester there was a huge turnover of books being bought and sold, and we're looking for tremendous success again next semester. One reminder to students who bring their books in-don't expect to collect your money until at least two weeks have gone by in the spring semester. Store hours are as follows during final exam days: 11 a.m.-3 p.m. on Thursday, Friday, and Monday. The store will be closed Tuesday.

The employees and all those associated with the Campus Co-Op would like to wish the students, faculty, and administration a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Smith Enters Glamour Girl

Carron E. Smith, daughter of Benton and Louise Smith of Hebron, WV, has entered the 1982 Glamour Girl competition. Carron had to write an essay concerning her most meaningful and stimulating achievements of her college career. Carron is a junior, majoring in English with minors in Political Science, Journalism, and history. Her future plans include attending Graduate School to obtain a Master's Degree in Journalism. With her Master's Degree, she hopes to either teach in a college or write fiction for a magazine.

Carron feels that her most stimulating and meaningful achievements have been with her work on the newspaper as a reporter, on the yearbook as editor and on Student Congress, where she has served for three years. She hopes that these experiences will give her the insight to be a productive and fruitful career woman.

Carron has been active in Student Congress, where she has served as Freshman Class Representative, Sophomore Class Representative, Treasurer, and Junior Class Representative. Other activities she has been involved with on Congress has been the Publicity FAO Committee, where she has been mittee, where she serves as secretary, publicity chairman for Homecoming and "GSC Week and Field Day." She has been a member of the Trillium staff, where she served on the editorial board and as typist. She is

The band under the direction of Edward McKown held their Winter Concert in the Auditorium, Sunday at 4:00 pm. The Concert featured Christmas music and was very well presented.

SC Holds Last Meeting For Semester

Student Congress met in its regular weekly meeting in Room 9 in the Pioneer Center. Old business was discussed, and it was decided that the parliamentary procedures workshop will be held next semester. This is open to all officers of organizations and anyone else who is interested. The academic advising council was discussed, and another meeting date was announced. It was also brought to Congress's attention that firearms are being kept in the dorms. This is strictly illegal and Congress would like for students to use the lockers in the Campus Security office.

Under new business, the end of the semester dance was planned, with DJ's Kris Keister and Kevin Johnson. Other business discussed was the new teacher evaluations, and Congress plans to meet at another time to discuss the matter. President Dena Dunlap announced that everyone should be thinking of Student Congress elections, which will take place next February. Ann Woody, chairman for "GSC Week and Field Day" asks that anyone having a suggestion for that week please see her or Dean Bach. Student Congress meets every Tuesday at 4:15 in Room 9 of the Pioneer Center. These meetings are open to everyone.

Louis Bennett Hall is sponsoring a dance this Friday, Dec. 18 to give students a break from their studies. The dance will be held in the Student Union from 8:00 10:30 pm. Admission is $1.00, and everyone is welcome.

The next issue of The Mercury will be published on Wednesday, January 20, 1982.

Dr. Espy Miller Returns To GSC

GSC will have a new face on campus next semester. Dr. Espy W. Miller will join the English faculty second semester, while Mr. Wayne deRosset is on leave to continue graduate studies at West Virginia University. Dr. Miller will teach one section of English 101 and one section of English 202.

Dr. Miller has been with Glenville State College for many years. He served as Chairman of the Language Division from 1954 until his retirement in 1976. From 1946 until 1954, he was an instructor in English and journalism. Also during that time, Dr. Miller was advisor to The Mercury.

Mercury Plans Christmas Party

The annual Mercury Christmas party will be held Sunday, Dec. 20 at 7 pm. at the home of the advisor, Mrs. King.

Preceding the party, staff members will be served a lasagna dinner. A gift exchange will be held around the Christmas tree.

The Angel, Bill Anderson, directs the three shepherds, Cheryl Keenan, Danny Bayer, and Kim Honaker, to Bethlehem in "The Second Shepherds Play" presented by Dr. McDonald's 314 English class.

Christmas Reflections

The end of the semester is finally upon us, final exams are about to begin and Christmas is a little over a week away.

Let's begin by congratulating the freshman class who have made it through their first semester at GSC. It has been said that if a freshman survives his first semester, then the rest is all up-hill. And so freshman, look ahead to the next three and a half years and be prepared to experience what many of us refer to as "the best years of our lives."

This is the season when college students exchange Christmas traditions and memories they have from previous years at home, each with their own special experiences. Remember when you first caught Mom and Dad drinking Santa's milk and eating cookies? (Boy, was Mom surprised to see you!) Remember watching Rudolph on television and crying during the sad parts? (Some of us still do!) Remember practicing hours to memorize the "C stands for the Christ child born on Christmas Day" for the church program? (We always seemed to forget one part of it, anyway!)

All of these memories have left a special story in everyone's heart throughout the years. We, the Mercury staff, wish GSC students, faculty and staff a Christmas filled with special times that can be stored away as good memories in years to come. Have a safe trip home and a joyous holiday season.

Letters to the Editor

At 216 North Court Street, between Pickens Hall and the library lives a little boy named Robbie. Perhaps you've seen him on his Big Wheel, zipping down the street with his red hair flying.

Robbie loves Christmas. This year, he decided it would be a nice idea to decorate the outside of our house so the "college kids" could enjoy the feeling of Christmas, too. Unfortunately, Glenville State College has its very own Grinch. Robbie no longer has Christmas lights.

Perhaps this wouldn't be so distressing, except that Robbie has had his last two jack-o-lanterns stolen from his porch on Halloween. His skateboard disappeared last fall. By the time he's eight years old, I doubt that Robbie will feel people are very trustworthy. Merry Christmas!

Bob and Janet Gainer

There is a matter that needs to be aired publicly to the students of Glenville State College. The waitresses here in Glenville do not make minimum wage. The difference between what we are paid and minimum wage is usually made up by tips. This is the way it's set up whether one agrees with the practice or not. Our gripe is that college students generally do not tip and it is discouraging and aggravating. Most of us like our job and feel we do a good job but do not understand why students can spend four to eight dollars on a meal and then leave nothing for the waitress. We take your order, serve the meal in its entirety, and then clean up your mess. Do we not deserve something for our effort?

The whole matter wouldn't deserve this much concern except that there are a lot of you here and it makes a difference whether you tip or not. Please consider.

The waitresses in Glenville

At the end of each semester we as students are asked to evaluate our instructors, and I feel that as a student, I must speak out against the way the evaluation is taken.

We are handed a computer card with three ways to apply: "Yes, No, and Does Not Apply." Now let me ask you, is that any way to evaluate an instructor that may or may not be doing their job? My answer to that is no. I feel that some of the instructors here at Glenville State really do not get the true evaluation by this matter. Some instructors are better than the credit they receive indicates, and others are really not doing the job. Therefore, they are being evaluated along with the good. This system, in my opinion, is one-sided. Let us as students who spend our time and money speak out more clearly on how we feel about our instructors, and not have an already-made answer sheet given to us. There are students that have dropped some classes and even changed their majors because the instructors didn't take time to explain to their class more clearly. In this case, how do we evaluate? "Yes, No, and Does Not Apply?"

Let's be fair to the students, the instructors, and to Glenville State College.

Clarence Fink

Considering the fact that Glenville State College is an academic institution with a small collection of educators with Ph. D., M.A. and M.S. degrees in various fields, it seems quite disturbing that the school cannot create a better system for evaluating the faculty. As a concerned student, the present forms are very frustrating and seem to have very little real evaluative capabilities.

When my criticism of the system was voiced, some of our faculty said something to the effect, the students aren't capable of evaluating teaching methods and teachers. Other statements said that students "didn't care and that the evaluations were personality contests". While I recognize that some of these things are true, I firmly believe that the average student is concerned and will not let personality totally affect their evaluation.

The basic problem is that a situation now exists when the faculty evaluates itself. True they are the educated, but we the student must learn from them. Therefore, regardless of how many degrees, regardless of accumulated knowledge, the student and the student only knows how effective the teacher is in transmitting what they know to the student. Whether we can recognize different teaching philosophies is beside the point. We do however know whether we have been motivated to learn and indeed if we have learned from the instructor. We pay for an education, our tax money supports the school, so as a result we the student must be heard.

I am glad the Mercury has printed an editorial that addresses this issue and I hope that it will be pursued further. I hope that other students will voice their opinion and show that they are concerned.

Foundation Offers Thanks

A Holiday Season Thank-You.

We feel like members of the freshman class who have "made it through the first semester."

We want to say "thank-you" to the students, faculty, and staff for the genuinely warm welcome you have given us. Glenville State College has easily lived up to its reputation as a friendly campus.

Our dream is for the shaping of a campus ministry that provides meaning and direction for the whole campus community. A few steps taken this last six months help us conclude that this is a real possibility for which we are excited and encouraged.

Our realization is that it is a futile effort alone. We say "thank-you" for your support and ask that you continue to help us make the effort relevant here and now.

We extend to you our warmest greetings.

TRACES OF CHRISTMAS AT

It was Christmas night, and everyone knows all those tales and my writing powers being so slight. I will not repeat them by the bells, but an unusual story I do have to tell. So sit back and listen well.

It was drawing near, this jolly time when good feeling becomes everyone's mime. They were hurrying here and there with jumbled thoughts and with a care; Giving gifts was the accepted norm in any shape, size or form.

It was also the time of reflecting on the past of that college semester just passed. Many a shudder and many a frown had crossed the college teachers' brainy mound. The question asked was what to do because good grades to bestow were few.

But being of sterner stuff made this thought did not them phase, down went the sorrowful grades and down with fortune already made. All happy thoughts were mourned and for a parent's meeting everyone was forlorn.

Santa knows when we're bad, letting parents know such grades is sad. Humor then deserts us while our parents rant, rave, and cuss. So all in all the season was trouble and everyone seems stuck in a muddle.

GLENVILLE STATE COLLEGE

But old Santa knew just what to do for those mighty Pioneer blues. Just once the grades were changed and the sighs of relief were not feigned. To add on another gift, Santa had plans for both of the basketball clans.

So for a nice semester's work, Santa settled down like a contented Trekkie Kirk and in Glenville all was in joy 'cause these gifts were better than any toy, and teachers have another half to plan, manipulate and laugh.

So now this silly tale I will leave with youse to do with what you choose for such stuff I get paid and a genius poet can not be made.

So home we went, that's a fact and many of us tried to pass the hat. But Christmas is made to enjoy, and we will get our favorite toys. But just remember GSC is where it's at, And we will be back, That's more fiction than fact.

WVU Hands GSC Women First Loss

A close win over WV Tech and a resounding loss to West Virginia University in action last week moved the GSC Lady Pioneer's basketball team to 4-1 on the season. The games were the last before the Christmas break for GSC.

After falling behind by 14 points at halftime, GSC rallied in the second twenty minutes of play to record its fourth consecutive win. The 71-69 win wasn't decided until the final seconds when Sonja Bailey scored to give GSC the win over Tech, who was undefeated going into the game.

Bailey and Bunny Taylor, both sophomore guards, led GSC's balanced scoring with 14 points each. Senior Pam Linger, who was the WVC player of the week, and junior Pam Minigh followed with 12 points apiece. Also, freshmen Kim Maynard and Janice Hensley added six points each, freshman Maria Lothes had four, and freshman Robin Phipps had three.

The WVU Mountaineers proved to be too superior for Glenville in the game on Saturday, which was played as a preliminary to the WVU - Ohio State men's game.

WVU held a 52-28 advantage at halftime, then outpointed the Pioneer women by a 49-21 margin in the second half, for a final score of 101-49. Cathy Parsons netted 35 points for WVU.

For GSC, who dropped to 4-1 with the loss, Pam Minigh was the only double-figure scorer with ten points. Kim Maynard added nine, Judy Niday eight, Bunny Taylor six, Pam Linger five, Janice Hensley three, and Sonja Bailey, Robin Phipps, Paula Bush, and Laura Dabney, two apiece.

GSC could manage only 28.6 percent (20 for 70) from the floor, while WVU was 41 for 89 (46.2 percent).

Coach Tim Carney remarked on his team's performance, "We've been playing pretty good ball, but we were just stunned up there. We didn't have a good game."

Harriers Complete Season

The GSC Pioneer Cross Country team, under the direction of Dr. Jim Hilgenberg, recently concluded its season by competing in the NAIA National Meet at Kenosha, Wisconsin.

Official results are in from the meet, in which GSC earned the right to participate by winning the WV Conference meet. The Pioneers, the District 28 representative, placed 31st out of 36 teams present. The 36 teams were out of a total of over 200 nationwide.

GSC's team was comprised of two seniors, one junior, three sophomores, and one freshman. The team's top finisher was sophomore Larry Taylor, who placed 130th overall with a time of 27:10 on the five-mile course at the University of Wisconsin - Parkside. Last year, Taylor competed in the national meet, also. He placed 126.

The squad's only freshman, Lee Haddox, was GSC's second finisher. He was 185th in 27:44. The Pioneer's final three scoring runners finished within 36 seconds of each other. Billy Belcher, a junior, was 261st with a time of 28:43. Sophomore Steve Keenan was 279th place in 29:14, and senior captain P. K. Coon was five seconds behind in 284th place. The Pioneers' team total of these five places, excluding individual runners, was 845 points.

Craig Bock, a senior, and Steve Roberts, a sophomore were GSC's two non-scoring runners. Bock was 310th place with a time of 30:56, and Roberts placed 324th in 32:10.

Hilgenberg, who didn't get to make the trip due to injuries sustained in a car wreck, commented, "We finished with an impressive record (27-2) and our squad was by far the most cooperative, cordial, and dedicated group of runners that I have worked with at GSC."

GSC should be as strong or even stronger next season. Two members, Coon, a four-year veteran who has been the team's leader for four years, and Bock--will not return. Everyone else will, though, and with good recruiting, GSC will be favored to repeat as champions next season. Hilgenberg lists three goals for the team: 1) Another solid recruiting year; 2) a good off-season conditioning program; and 3) more championships.

A meeting will be held on Thursday, Jan. 14, 1982 for all men interested in participating in track, both indoor and outdoor. The time and place of this meeting will be posted in the Health Building at a later date.

All men interested in intramural team swimming should turn rosters in to Gary Nottingham by Friday, January 15. Any fraternity or other organization is urged to participate. Events include: freestyle, backstroke, underwater for distance, butterfly, elementary backstroke, freestyle relay, butterfly relay, and backstroke relay.

Gandee Gets WVC Honor

Steve "Reno" Gandee, a senior split end on the GSC football team, was recently named to the honorable mention team of the All-West Virginia Conference Gridiron Squad. Gandee was the only Pioneer team member to be honored.

Gandee had a good year for the Pioneers, playing split end and handling the kicking chores. The senior co-captain had a team-high 26 receptions for 432 yards and six touchdowns. He also kicked five out of six extra points and two out of three field goals. His point total was 47 points, almost one-half of GSC's team total. His longest field goal was 47 yards, while his scoring catches were of 30, 29, 28, 22, 19, and 15 yards.

Intramurals To Resume In 1982

Women's and men's intramurals will take a break for Christmas, along with everything else, but action will resume about as soon as school starts back in January.

The women are currently participating in a basketball tournament. Three teams, the Long Shots, the Woodchucks, and the Oreos, have records of 2-0. The Sigmas and the Sweats are 1-1, and Terre's Terrific Team, Delta Zeta, and the Rah Rahs are 0-2.

Games will resume on Monday, Jan. 25. Games scheduled then are as fol-

Pioneers Lose Two Games

The GSC men's basketball squad played only two games last week. The Pioneers played WV Tech on Monday night and Salem College on Saturday night. Both games ended in losses, putting GSC at 3-4 overall.

The Tech Golden Bears, behind all-conference guard Sedale Threatt, forged to a 38-28 lead at halftime, then held GSC off by a 38-36 margin in the second half for a final score of 76-64.

Senior Don Bullett and junior Scott Ludwig paced GSC's scoring in the loss. Both canned 22 points. Next was sophomore Clay Young with 12 markers. Also, Jerome Hampton added four, and Mike Forbes and Mike Morrison put in two each.

GSC outshot Tech 48 percent to 43 percent, but was outrebounded 51-37. Clay Young was the Pioneers' top rebounder with 14 boards. Don Bullett added seven rebounds and two blocked shots.

The Pioneers dropped their third WVC game in a row when they travelled to Salem on Saturday. The tall Salem team, one of the WVC's best, outscored GSC 40-36 in the first half and 35-32 in the second half for a final score of 75-68.

GSC was in the contest the whole way, being within three points most of the second half. A technical on a controversial play may have turned the tide just as GSC was ready to close in, though, and Salem tallied three straight baskets near the end for a seven-point margin. For the Pioneers, Scott Ludwig was the top point-producer. He landed 24 markers. Clay Young contributed 14 points and nine rebounds, and Don Bullett had 13 points and a team-high 11 rebounds. Also for Glenville, Rich Moore had eight points and three steals, Randy Anderson had five points and five steals, and Mike Forbes and Jerome Hampton put in two points each.

Team-wise, GSC was outshot (50 percent to 36 percent) and outrebounded (40-27) by Salem.

Men Hope To Even Record

GSC's men's basketball team will not play again until the first week of 1982. Until then, the Pioneers will continue to practice in preparation for the second semester.

Right now, Coach Jesse Lilly's Pioneer team has a record of three wins and four losses overall (1-3 in the West Virginia Conference).

GSC hopes to improve its record on Jan. 6 and 7 when it participates in the Joe Manchin Tournament at Salem College. The Pioneers' first-round opponent will be the University of Pittsburgh-Bradford. Alice Lloyd (Ky.) and Salem will play in the other game.

Then, on Jan. 9, the Pioneers will face Fairmont in an away contest. On Jan. 13, GSC will host West Liberty, and on Jan. 15 and 16, they will play Concord and Bluefield.

An injury to starting forward Jerome Hampton will change Lilly's line-up, at least for the time being. Scott Ludwig, who's been playing guard, will move to Hampton's forward spot. Freshman Rich Moore will take over at guard, along side Randy Anderson. The other two starters are Don Bullett and Clay Young.

A new player will be added to the Pioneer squad next semester. Chris Richardson, a 6-4 forward from Washington, D.C. will be eligible to play in GSC's game with West Liberty on Jan. 13.

Lilly said about his team's play so far, "Our main problem area is still our rebounding. Overall, though, we're not in bad shape. We're where we thought we'd be at this point, but not where we wanted to be."

The men, according to Gary Nottingham, haven't shown as much interest as he thought they would.

Lambda Chi Alpha, which won the latest sport, racquetball, is on top of the team standings. The Junior Leagues are second, TKE is third, Theta Xi is fourth, and the Stump Jumpers are fifth.

The next men's sport is team swimming.
