

The Glenville Mercury

Number 25

Glenville State College, Glenville, West Virginia

Wednesday, March 16, 1983

The 'Association' plans a spring concert March 22.

'Association' Plans Concert

The Glenville State Association, under the direction of Mr. Edward McKown, will present a concert, free of charge, in the college auditorium on March 22, 1983, at 8 p.m. The show choir performs music of popular nature with a repertoire including standards to modern rock music. Singing at the concert will be the following Glenville State College students: Dana Balachowski, Leesa Holder,

Education Topic

Education theorist John Holt will be on the Glenville State College campus Monday, March 21 to give a public lecture followed by a question and answer session on teaching your own children at home at 7:30 p.m. in the Ballroom of Pioneer Center.

Holt is a teacher, author and education reformer...an outspoken iconoclastic champion of the need for revolutionary changes in America's school system, public and private, at all levels. Currently writing his fourth book What Can I Do Monday? he has also authored How Children Fail, How Children Learn and The Underachieving School.

Holt believes that today's schools are impersonal and unfeeling; they fill a child's head with facts making him virtually obsolete since a machine can spew out facts at a much faster and cheaper rate. Because of the emphasis on grades, tests and attendance, Holt says that today's schools promulgate stupidity, incompetence, ignorance, alienation, apathy, resentment and rage.

Friday, Mar. 18 is the last day to withdraw from classes with a "WP".

The Norwegian Wind Quartet will appear in concert March 24, at 8pm.

Wind Quartet To Appear

The Norwegian Wind Quintet will be appearing at Glenville State College at 8 p.m., March 24, in the Little Theatre. The concert, sponsored by the Glenville Cultural Affairs Committee, is free and open to the public.

For over twenty-six years, the Norwegian Wind Quintet has performed in international series delighting audiences and critics who proclaim their "elegant precision" and "perfect harmony."

They have recently performed in several international music festivals including the Warsaw Autumn; Festival du Marais, Paris; Bergen International Festival and the ISCM Festival in Iceland.

In 1977, the ensemble was invited to the University of Western Ontario, London, Canada as Artists-in-Residence for a month. During that time they performed in Toronto and for the Canadian Broadcasting Company. Their tours have taken them to Sweden, Denmark, Poland, England, Ireland, and West Germany.

In 1982-83, they make their debut in the United States touring under the banner of SCANDAVIA TODAY. Selected as the outstanding ensemble from Norway, the Norwegian Wind Quintet is no stranger to honors. They received the Oslo Music Critics' prize for the best performance of the year for their interpretation of Arnold Schoenberg's quintet. Their recording on SIMAX of the Nielson Quintet with works by John Fernstrom and Antonio Bibalo has received much acclaim.

Unique Hobby Brightens President's Office

Not only does Glenville State College have a dedicated president, we also have a president who has a very unique craft, which is making objects from wood. President Simmons has worked with wood since he was in jr. high school, where he learned most of the fundamentals of wood-cutting and making objects from wood in his shop class. His first wood piece was a lamp made from cedar wood. "I love to work with wood," President Simmons commented.

Every person has some way to express themselves, whether it be singing, painting, or writing. President Simmons says that working with wood serves as a similar function to express himself. He uses mostly walnut, which he collects from his farm. He also said that people who have heard about his hobby have given him pieces of walnut wood. Making a wood object is not as easy as most people would think. President Simmons says that it usually takes three to four years to complete a wooden table. First a person has to cut the wood and then President Simmons said a person has to let the wood dry. Drying the wood is the critical period because it is hard to keep the wood from cracking. It usually takes two to three years for the wood to dry and then it takes a couple of weeks for the cutting, shaping, and finishing of the object.

President Simmons has made many wooden objects, ranging from gun racks to lamps and tables. After graduate school in 1969, the walnut trees on his farm were cut and the stumps were left and President Simmons decided to make them into tables. Getting the crotch-wood and the tree forks is hard labor but these are the most beautiful pieces of wood because they have such a beautiful grain.

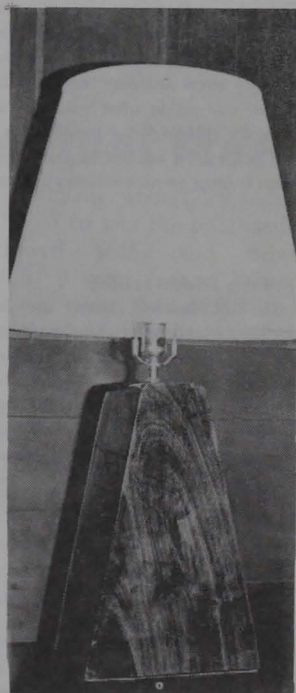

President Simmons has made a table for Governor Rockefeller and it is in the Governor's Office. He has also made a table and lamp for his office here at Glenville. He says that when the college furnished new furniture, there was not enough money to purchase a lamp so he made the lamp and saved some money, while also getting a chance to make something from wood. President Simmons has had one of his coffee tables in the Folk Festival.

Being president of Glenville State College is a job that keeps President Simmons very busy, however he commented, "I try to do one object a year, since I don't have much time."

Jackie Mullens

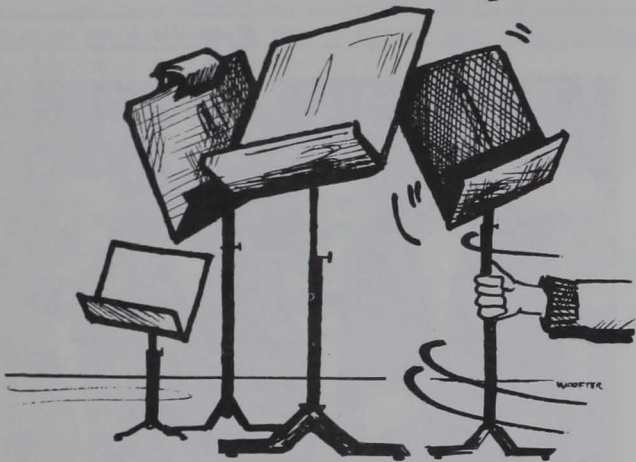

This walnut table was made from wood cut from President Simmons' farm.

The lamp which graces the corner of the office is of geometric design.

GSC STUDENTS TAKING --STANDS?

Placidity vs. Speaking Out

Too often students do not stand up for their rights and beliefs. Instead, they allow themselves to be trod over by teachers and administration. It might be easier to "follow a leader," but as each person does this, they lose a little of their self-respect and their personality.

GSC has always been known as "the friendly campus." The placidity of GSC is not new. As campuses around the nation protested and rallied against the Vietnam war, GSC saw only one small gathering. In the past several years, this campus has been rocked by change—some good, some bad. Yet, oftentimes, no one speaks up.

If the students are afraid to speak up and think for themselves now, what kind of citizens will they become? Will the society become placid, and let only a few govern?

Our fees supply funding for various activities, the big screen television, athletics, cultural affairs and movies to name a few. Yet, more and more of these are being cut. This is our school, we must protect it. If we think and act for ourselves, we may feel better about ourselves and may better our campus.

Letters To The Editor

Athletic funds cut.....

I am a senior and have been on the baseball team for four years now. In these four years I have seen the program grow immensely. When I was first here, Coach Pottmeyer was begging people to come, this year he has landed one of the top pitchers in the state, and some fine freshmen from other areas. Coach Pottmeyer is now receiving resumes from several high school athletes who would like to play baseball at Glenville. I would like to inform the students that baseball is the second largest sport in Glenville, we do our own work on the field and earn some of our own money. The most important thing of dropping the program though is that we the students pay for these activities, yet the school can take them away without us having any say in what is done. The activity fee has been increased, yet they are still dropping programs, is this fair to the students to pay more and get less? I would like to ask for the students' support in finding out what is going on with athletics at Glenville State College.

Sincerely,
Randy Edge, Student Athlete

To Every Student at GSC,

The GSC Baseball, Tennis, and Bowling programs have been cancelled for next year because of the mismanagement of the student's money in the Athletic Department. This decision was kept very low key until it was final and people still won't give out all of the information on the decision. We just keep on getting the run-around. Who is this school here for, a few who make the decisions or the STUDENTS? Everyone knows of the mismanagement and I am asking you to stand up and speak out, because if there is something to be done, it must be done by you the student. Don't let this opportunity pass, because it could be something else next year.

Concerned Student

Dear Students,

When you think of sports, you think first of the three most popular—football, basketball, and baseball. Oops! Baseball? Next year we may not have baseball at GSC. Our administrators have decided for us which sports will go because of their mismanagement of funds. If they can cancel what they want, what will be next? We have to rally together now and stop them before there is nothing left!

Why does baseball, bowling and tennis have to be cut? That's what I would like to know, but no one seems to have the answer. I'm not demanding that they be kept, but like everyone else, I would like this move to be justified by the Athletic Committee. The inconsideration shown by the committee to the coaches and players of these sports is an insult in itself. I will not go into detail of how this decision was made, just ask any of the players or coaches that it affects. In any case there was no common courtesy showed by the committee. No one was notified beforehand. They were told after the committee had already voted that our programs were cut.

Again, I don't know if these sports can be kept, but it is the principle of how the decision was made that concerns me, not only as a baseball player but as a student. This shall concern all students at GSC! What will be cut next?

DOLLY reviews criticized.....

Dear Editor,

I'd like to address the reviews to "Hello Dolly." As a Veteran actor on the GSC stage and by not being associated with the show except as a make-up crew member, I feel that I can be an objective critic.

First "Best Musical to Date," come on, the script of "Dolly" is marginal at best. Granted the orchestra and choreography far exceeded that of the past three shows, but even with the fine acting, the overall effect left something to be desired.

Unfortunately because of the flu, I was unable to attend the show for the Saturday evening performance, however I sat through many rehearsals and through Thursday and Sunday's showings and I can understand the feeling that the energy level was lacking in Act I, but the actors and actresses had so little to work with in that act.

Finally Miss Moore, once again I'm sure that you got your share of criticism for your review of this play as well, as you should have. You stated your doubt in commenting on the show; I was once told by a very wise man, "when in doubt, do nothing." I've found that that is a good rule to live by. And there are a set of rules (Aristotle's Eight Points) that one should be aware of when writing a theatrical review. I heard a lot of static from the cast because of your review. I tend to agree with them, that in fact they did at least a satisfactory job in portraying the characters. I feel that it was an admirable performance!

The overall effect of "Dolly" was moderate, ranking perhaps near the level of "The Music Man," last spring. The characterization was equal to that show, the orchestra and choreography exceeded that of any show ever done on the GSC stage. In light of these facts, the only fault that can be found is in the work of the playwright, Mr. Jerry Herman. We can only hope the next show has a more playable script.

Sincerely,
Phil Minigh

Comments on the big screen.....

Dear Student Body,

During this past week there have been problems with the schedule of programs for the big screen and what has actually been aired. The Activities Committee has double checked our selected schedule against the Program Guide sent to us and they do agree. The fault then lies with the networks and they do have the ability to change their minds. Please don't get angry at Mr. Joe Drahnak or with any of his employees who may be operating the big screen. The fault will be with either the Activities Committee or the networks who broadcast the shows. If it is our fault, we will do our best to correct the problem and we certainly cannot do a thing about problems associated with the networks. Remember this time last year we had no big screen, so let's do our best to accept some of the minor problems associated with it.

Billy Joe Belcher
Chairman, Activities Committee

To be awarded a Jump Rope for Heart T-shirt, all you have to do is join a jump rope team, raise the most money on that team and jump for Heart on March 23 at 9:00 am in the Gym. All profits goes to the Heart Association.

If Mother Nature cooperates, GSC could be in for a full slate of sporting activities this spring. That is, IF she cooperates. So far this spring, most of the athletes in training for their sports haven't known what to expect from one day to the other, in terms of weather.

The men's track team kicked off its season last weekend, albeit under the threat of snow. And, in the next few weeks, the other sports teams at GSC will initiate action for the season.

Students will have several opportunities to view these sports teams in action on campus. Both the tennis and baseball teams have several outings scheduled here. Also, the men's and women's track squads will compete at Glenville later in the season, including the WVC track meet. However, unless it's at an away match, students won't be able to see the GSC golf team in competition, because there are no home matches scheduled.

Baseball and tennis will not even be played next year, so let's give them (as well as the other teams) as much support as possible.

Steve Keenan

Glenville Seniors Finish Excellent Cage Careers

Four seniors recently completed their basketball careers at Glenville State College. These players, two men and two women, compiled some impressive statistics and left their mark on the GSC basketball scene.

Scott Ludwig, of Ripley, was a member of the GSC Pioneers for a little under three years. In his 80 games as a Pioneer, Ludwig totaled 1240 points, 11th on the all-time GSC list. He has a high game of 36 points and had a GSC-record 18 of 19 free throws in a single game. Ludwig's career scoring average was 15.5. He also cleared 5.2 rebounds a game. In 1983, Ludwig finished second in the NAIA in foul shooting percentage (92.7).

Randy Anderson, also from Ripley, played four years for Jesse Lilly. He scored 587 points for a 5.2

average. While ably directing GSC's offense, Anderson passed out 391 assists (3.5 a game). In Anderson's sophomore year, he won the "Heart and Hustle" award at the WVC tourney.

On the distaff side, Gilmer County's Pam Minigh closed out a brilliant career under Tim Carney, coach of the Lady Pioneers. Minigh, a very consistent performer, is GSC's all-time leading scorer with 1440 points, a 16.0 average. She had 8.4 rebounds per game. Minigh, who received recognition at various levels, had nine games over 25 points and GSC highs of 33 points and 24 rebounds in single games.

Judy Niday, Carney's top shooter off the bench, scored 395 points in her four-year career at GSC for field goal percentage in the 1982 WVC tourney. Judy's total is 10th on GSC's all-time scoring list.

Golfers To Open 1983 Season

On March 21 and 22, the GSC golf team will open its season at the Fairmont Invitational in Parkersburg. The squad, coached by Tim Carney, is looking to continue the success it has had the past few seasons.

Only two lettermen, Gordon Delaat and John Forrest, return from last year's team. Delaat is a senior, and Forrest is a junior. Both will be looked to for guidance by the new members of the team.

The squad's newcomers are Tom Davisson, Rick Moore and Norman Craig. All three are seniors.

After the Fairmont outing, GSC will host its own invitational on March 25 at Beverly, Ohio. Then, over spring break, the linksters will travel to Elon, N.C. for a two-day match. The season culminates with the WVIAC tournament at Cacapon State Park on May 2-3.

Following is the 1983 GSC Golf Schedule:

March	21-22	Fairmont Inv.	Parkersburg
	25	GSC Inv. at Oxbow	Beverly, Oh.
April	28-29	Elon Inv.	Elon, N.C.
	1-2	Marietta Inv.	Marietta, Oh.
	6	Ohio U. Inv.	Athens, Oh.
	11-12	Southern Regional	Pipestem
	18	Cal. State Inv.	California, Pa.
	22-23	Central Regional	Canaan Valley
May	24-25	Northern Regional	Wheeling
	2-3	WVIAC Tournament	Cacapon State Park

Men participating in intramural basketball should check the schedule in the Health Building to see when they play.

SPORTS ARE ELIMINATED

The sporting scene at Glenville State College will be minus three sports next year. Baseball, tennis, and bowling have been cut out of the program for next season, but these sports will complete the 1983 season.

Jesse Lilly, GSC Athletic Director, stated matter-of-factly, "It was a matter of economy. We got to the point where we were exceeding our budget (meaning the entire system)." Lilly went on to say, "We studied the matter to the fullest extent, and this was the best solution."

Also, Lilly added that the Athletic Committee was to meet Tuesday evening to determine future budgets of sports activities.

Good Season Expected For 1983 Baseballers

"This is the best group of ball players I've had to coach in my four years here at Glenville State." This is the optimistic view of head baseball coach, Ollie Pottmeyer.

The upcoming season does look promising for the Pioneers this spring with a strong balance of experienced players and a talented crop of first year men filling in the open spaces. They have Randy Edge catching, who will start for his fourth year; Bill Del Prince, a three year starter, at center field; and Charles Fiber, starting for his third year, at shortstop. This, along with the crop of underclassmen, should keep the Pioneers competitive on the diamond.

The biggest improvement of this year's team over last year's 12-17 team seems to be the pitching. There are six solid pitchers forming this year's staff. Along with all of these improvements the team will also sport new uniforms on the diamond.

Along with Edge, Del Prince and Fiber, the roster of the team looks like this: seniors: Dave Hall, Terry Mullen, Doug Patterson, Mike Pszczolkowski, and Duane Sayer; juniors: Mike Lilly, Jeff Metheny, Jeff Shriner, Jeff Wilcox, and Craig Williams; sophomores: John Buffo, Jim Frame, and Marshall Kiser; Steve Bumgardner, Kenny Golden, Dale Holt, Greg Lambert, and Rich Meagher are the freshman recruits. This season, Bernie Bertus, a senior, will be the scorekeeper.

Lilly Retires From Coaching

Jesse Lilly, veteran basketball coach at Glenville State College, retired last week as coach of the Pioneers, following an 8-20 record in 1983.

Lilly, whose 18-year record at Glenville included 272 wins and 230 losses, stepped down because he wanted to concentrate on either his coaching position or his job as athletic director and because "We just need to change the chemistry."

Included among his 272 victories during his illustrious career were West Virginia Conference Tournament championships in 1970 and 1972. Going into this year's tourney at Charleston, the Beckley native ranked second among active coaches in tournament victories with 21 wins, compared to 17 losses.

Throughout his coaching career at GSC, Lilly, a star in three sports during his playing days at Glenville, developed a winning basketball tradition. He felt that this tradition had suffered since he assumed duties as athletic director in 1980; therefore, he requested that the GSC administration relieve him of some of his duties.

Lilly, who will remain as GSC athletic director and associate professor of physical education, remarked, "I'd like to pay tribute to the student body for its support down through the years. If not the best in the league, it (the support) has been one of the best. Also, I've gotten fine cooperation from the administration over the years." He added, "My entire stay here has been pleasant, but there comes a time to think in terms of change for the good of progress."

A search is now on for a replacement for Lilly. The GSC administration hopes to choose someone by April 15. One of the candidates is Gary Nottingham, Lilly's assistant during the last three years.

Thinclads Win Dual Meet

GSC's men's track team started its season on a good note last weekend with a 65-48 dual meet win over Rio Grande College. Coach Jerry Milliken remarked about the meet, "All in all, we had a good day. It was a real good start to our season."

The Pioneers, who have a more balanced team than in past years, won ten of 15 events, based on combined team totals. Larry Taylor won the three-mile run in 15:24, and Trent King captured the high jump with a leap of 6-6. The duo of Don Howell and Dave Husk won the shot put and discus. Also, Husk and Mike Long won the javelin, and King and Long combined to win the pole vault. Lloyd Willis and Brian Riffey were second in the long jump, and Willis and Gary Brissey were second in the triple jump.

GSC relay squads capturing first place were 440, 880, mile and two-mile. Taking second were the sprint medley, distance medley and shuttle hurdle squads.

The Pioneers hope to improve upon their performances this Saturday at the Early Bird Relays in Huntington. Milliken commented, "We will be in a big meet this weeknd. There will be a lot of strong competition."

Anorexia, More Than A Disease

Anorexia Nervosa is a disease all of us have heard of in some way. Just recently, Karen Carpenter, who has sung many of our favorite tunes, died due to symptoms caused by anorexia nervosa. It is something very tragic, and yet it is most common among young females.

According to Diane Kyle R.N., of Kyle Clinic, one out of 2,000 females is an anorexic. The word anorexia is the medical term for loss of appetite and the work nervosa implies a psychological problem. Another statistic shows that one out of every ten anorexics are males. Anorexia nervosa is probably more prevalent in females than it is in males because of the cultural roles set for females and males. For instance, our culture has set the model type for females to be slim and trim, and the model type for males is to have muscles and strength. However, 13-and 14-year-olds are the most common ages of anorexics. High school and college students are also a main target of the starvation disease. According to Diane Kyle, after 30 years of age, anorexia nervosa is very rare.

There are two categories of anorexia nervosa; both involve a loss of appetite and a psychological problem. Bulimics are anorexics who have a compelling need to eat large amounts of food. However, after eating they find some way to omit the calories they consume, usually a laxative or intentional regurgitation. Bulimics are easier to deal with because you can confront them face-to-face with their problem. The second type of anorexics is the person who takes in almost nothing. "All foods make me fat," is an attitude that they take. These anorexics are hard to deal with because they lie about eating.

The treatment of anorexia nervosa is very difficult. Once the physical symptoms are in control, the psychological treatment is a battle hard to defeat. There is no diagnosis, however, the most popular theory is the obsessive personality theory. This is when the anorexic feels that she has to be best at everything, even dieting.

Ninety percent of anorexics die in the recovery phase. The body can compensate losing food and weight, but when the body begins to build up, it is more difficult to compensate this change. Difficulties in respiration and stomach problems occur in or after the recovery phase. There is a forty percent mortality rate in anorexics. It is also common that if anorexics do survive treatment, there is a strong possibility for suicide.

Anorexia nervosa is a disease that could occur in any of our friends, mostly female friends.

If you know or suspect anyone who is an anorexic, you should urge them to seek professional help

"AFRICAN ODYSSEY" IS PRESENTED

The Wesley Foundation Coffee House this week (March 17) will present "An African Odyssey." Slides, food, and artifacts from West Africa will provide a glimpse into life on another part of the globe. Everyone is invited.

There will be no Coffee House on March 24.

The Wesley Foundation welcomes groups from the campus community who wish to use the facility. A group representative should contact Julian Sulgit to check time and space needs.

Besides a place to study, the Wesley Foundation has two pianos which can be used for practice...students or staff are welcome to use them.

I am writing this in reference to the recent budget cut here at Glenville State College. I am a freshman recruit for baseball and now that I am down here they say they are cutting baseball next year. What am I supposed to do? I came to Glenville to play baseball for four years. Now I have to find another school to go to. I have to have my hours transferred. I will probably lose half my hours and I would only have three years of eligibility left to play baseball. That would put me in a bind, being a freshman class-wise and a sophomore athletic-wise. I will probably have to go to school for five years for a four-year degree.

I think everyone who made this decision owes Coach Pottmeyer and apology. who make this decision owes Coach Pottmeyer an apology.

Very Disappointed Athlete,
Ken Golden

Co-chairpersons, Peggy Walton and Dee Mallette, urge students to participate in the events.

Jabber Jaws Will Compete

The Glenville State Forensic team will defend its WVIFA championship at the state tourney March 26-27 at Parkersburg Community College. Coach Barbara Nicholson expects stiff competition from Fairmont and Marshall.

The team will consist of 13 members, four of which are rookies. They are Mike Dotson, Bill Anderson, Tammy Stalnaker and Lou Davidson. The veterans on the team include: Raeleen McMillion, Danny Bayer, Cara Keenan, Lisa Taylor, Joe Stephens, Randy Harper, Kim Evans, Tammi Igo and Jo Cooper.

The Fairmont team beat Glenville earlier this year at Marietta. The two teams tied at Marshall; therefore, it should be a close meet.

SC Discusses Recent Changes

On March 9 at 4:15, the Student Congress held its weekly meeting. The GSC baseball team attended the meeting and expressed their views on the decision made by the Athletic Committee to alleviate the baseball team next year, as well as tennis and bowling, due to lack of funds. A decision was made for the baseball team to call a meeting with the Athletic Committee and try to reverse the committee's decision. Two representatives from Student Congress will plan to attend the meeting. Anetta Had-dox, Student Congress president, commented, "We listened to their opinions and views and we are willing to assist the baseball team in trying to keep a baseball team here at GSC." She continued, "We're glad that the students are asking about this money; we feel it is good."

The Student Congress discussed old business next, which was short and dealt with the pick-up of the amplifier. New business was also discussed. The Board of Regents will be at Glenville on April 10, 11, and 12 and will attend a Student Congress meeting. Elections for next year's Pioneer and Advisory Council were decided upon. On March 14, nominations will open and nominations will close March 18 at 12 noon. Voting will take place on the 23 and 24 of March. The meeting was then adjourned.

Holt's Monday evening lecture on teaching your own children at home has become a rapid growing concept among many young parenting families. Within a decade, Holt estimates, almost 500,000 U.S. families will be schooling their children at home. This figure, Holt conceded, comes out of the blue, though it might not be all that fanciful. More and more parents are becoming disenchanted with rigid programs, school strikes and reluctance of teachers to accept responsibility for students' failures to learn.

To achieve this, Holt calls for some tradition-shattering changes; elimination of schedules, grades and lesson plans; abolition of compulsory attendance, certification requirements for teachers, compulsory testing, and use of "intelligence" tests.

Even though some who reject Holt's solution find it hard to disagree with his view that administrative gobbleygook too often comes between children and their desire to learn. "People have been transmitting knowledge and skills for centuries," notes Holt. "Not everyone does it equally well, but it is an accessible skill."

Holt, nationally known author and lecturer, is being sponsored by the Glenville State College Speaker's Bureau and is free and open to the public.
