'Mousetrap' To Appear

The scene is a secluded old manor house on the English countryside, now being run as an inn. A group of mysterious guests arrive for the weekend. Word comes of a murderer-at-large in the vicinity. Soon, a blinding snow storm cuts off all access to the roads, leaving the group isolated. A scream! Another victim! The murderer is in the house!

The perfect plot for everyone who likes to "curl up with a good mystery."

The world famous Barter Players take delight in presenting their touring production of "The Mousetrap," the tremendously successful mystery thriller by the "Queen of Crime," Agatha Christie. This exciting "whodunit" comes to Glenville, on April 6, 1983, at 8 p.m., at the Glenville State College Auditorium, sponsored by the Glenville State College Cultural Affairs Committee.

The original production of "The Mousetrap" is currently in its 30th year on the London stage, making it the longest running play in theatrical history.

Audiences have great fun trying to guess the murderer's identity, as the eccentric guests, and even the young couple who run the inn, all come under suspicion. Several of the characters are not what they seem, and secrets are revealed in their lives which lead to the surprise discovery of the killer, in one of Agatha Christie's cleverest twist endings.

A student, faculty, and staff airband contest and a square dance highlight Tuesday's activities. There will be a Jazz Band Concert on Wednesday with a donut eating contest and a hands-on-the-table tournament on Thursday.

A transcontinental exhibition sponsored by the Cultural Exchange Club and the Miss GSC Pageant will take place Friday.

Saturday will feature a field day and awards ceremony with the group, "Janice," playing in the concert to finish the week off.

Clagg To Speak On 'Geography'

Dr. Sam Clagg, Professor of Geography at Marshall University, will deliver a lecture on "The Nature of Geography" this Thursday, March 24, at 6:30 p.m. in the Verona Mapel Room. Dr. Clagg's lecture is sponsored by the West Virginia Zeta Chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, the International Social Sciences Honor Society. Dr. Clagg is the fourth annual guest lecturer sponsored by Pi Gamma Mu. The members of West Virginia Zeta chapter cordially invite the college community and the public to attend.

BOR Schedules Meeting

On April 10, 11, and 12 the W. V. Board of Regents will hold a meeting at Glenville State College. The Board of Regents runs the public colleges in W.V., including GSC. President Simmons commented, "I am very pleased that the Board of Regents chose Glenville as the site for their meeting." In 1979, the Board of Regents held their meeting at Glenville, which was very productive, and they have not been to Glenville since. The Board, according to President Simmons, plans to meet with the various campus organizations, as well as the students, and administration to answer questions or just listen to comments. President Simmons encourages all students to attend the meeting for students on Monday, April 11, at 10 a.m. in the Verona-Mapel room. Students can ask questions concerning tuition and fees, and the future of GSC, or anything else related to the Board of Regents. President Simmons hopes that GSC will impress the uniqueness of GSC and the service it offers to W. V. upon the Board of Regents. He commented, "We should let the Board of Regents know about the good things of GSC."

Sam Clagg To Lecture

Cam Henderson's many accomplishments will be reflected upon by Sam Clagg, author of The Cam Henderson Story, His Life and Times, in a public lecture at 4 p.m., Thursday, March 24 in the Verona Mapel Room of Pioneer Center. The informal lecture is open to the students, staff, faculty and the general public with light refreshments provided.

Henderson was a 1911 graduate of Glenville Normal School and was very active in campus activities, especially athletics. "Cy," as many Glenville natives called him, was on the first basketball team, 1910-1911 and the football team. In addition, he was editor of the first Kanawhachen yearbook in 1910 and served as senior class treasurer.

Henderson married Glenville native Susan Roxie Bell, sister of retired Glenville State College faculty member Bessie Boyd Bell Scott. Born in the small town of Joetown, now known as Mannington, Henderson proved to be one of the best coaches in the history of West Virginia collegiate sports.

Henderson coached at Salem College, Davis and Elkins College and finally at Marshall College compiling outstanding records of achievement at every college coaching football and basketball. He was a master at basketball, inventing what many successful basketball teams use, the zone defense. He is known throughout West Virginia as the father of the zone defense and one of the greatest men to ever have coached. His greatness is exemplified by the Henderson Arena at Marshall University, a facility that bears his name.

Clagg is the chairman of the geography department at Marshall University and has authored many publications as well as participating in governmental projects in the Florida Everglades, Costa Rica, Puerto Rico, Arizona, and Colorado. Clagg's knowledge of Henderson comes from serving as player and coach under Henderson at Marshall University.

Education Reaps Benefits

Do you complain about the cost of your college education? Many people do. Yet, according to a report issued by the Bureau of Census, college grads will reap greater lifetime earnings than their high school counterparts.

According to this study, a college graduate will earn as much as $1,190,000 in his lifetime. A female college grad will probably earn upwards of $523,000. A high school male grad will probably earn $861,000 (not including any unrecorded earnings), and a woman who graduates only from high school may earn $381,000. The report stated women's salaries were often less than men's, not because of discrimination, but because women often interrupted their careers to raise a family.

Another interesting development is in college enrollment. Once again, a report by the Census Bureau states that college enrollment has increased. The number of men attending college rose 12 percent from 1981 to 1982, whereas, the number of women attending college rose a whopping 63 percent. Of the increase in enrollment, women out-numbered men by a 108 to 100 margin.

Total college enrollment age increased as well. Nearly 1.4 million people 35 years old or older are now attending college. Of the 10.4 million college students, half are 25 years old or older. At good ole Glenville, 203 students are 35 years old or older, and 123 of those students are women.

Barter Theatre, with its home base in the small Southwest Virginia town of Abingdon, is now in its 50th year; the oldest, longest running professional theatre in the country. Barter began in 1933, during the great Depression, with the idea that farmers could trade, or "barter," produce to see live drama, thereby feeding hungry actors. Touring plays to other areas has been part of Barter's tradition from its first season, a half century ago.

Make a date on April 6 to see Agatha Christie's "The Mousetrap" at Glenville State College, at 8 p.m.

One For All, Call Repairman

Washing clothes, as most would readily agree, is not a task to be savoured. It has become even less thrilling with the malfunction of all but one of the washing machines in Pickens Hall.

Since boys will be boys, they naturally put off this task until as close to Monday morning as possible and the lines, waiting, and anguish are enough to make you consider the relevance of wearing clean clothes.

Adding to the joy of it all, the dryers are often so crowded, one must make an on foot pilgrimage to all six floors, since the elevator is broken down on week-ends with the regularity of old faithful.

I, despite what some would have you believe, am not a complainer by nature, but this is a bit much. Let's hire some of those lonely repairmen out there.

AV Lab Moves To Center

This is just a reminder that the Audio-Visual Laboratory (AV Lab) has been located in the Media Center of the Library. The hours for evaluation by the A-V Lab Evaluators are the following: Monday- 11:00 - 12:00, 1:00 - 4:00; Tuesday - 3:00 - 4:00; Wednesday - 11:00 - 12:00, 1:00 - 4:00; Thursday - 3:00 - 4:00; Friday - 11:00 - 12:00, 1:00 - 2:00. However, a student may come in any time to work with the machines from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m., Monday through Thursday.

The A-V Lab is set up principally for Education 301 students, although any student may go through the A-V Lab. The A-V Lab contains the following machines: eight projectors (film, slide, filmstrip), a tape recorder, a record player, a copy machine, and a videorecorder.

All 301 students, please do not save the A-V Lab until the end of the semester. You do not have to go through the Lab at once. On the average, it takes a student around fifteen hours (including evaluation) to complete the A-V Lab. It would be much simpler for everybody if you finished the A-V Lab before the deadlines. There are illustrated books to go with the machines, so the process is much simpler than one would think.

There will be 6 girls running for the title of Miss GSC 1983. The contestants are: June Casto, Beth Carpenter, Vickie Butcher, Pam McVey, Tammy Stalnaker and Brenda Kennison. The winner will represent GSC in the Miss West Virginia Pageant in June.

Carolyn Snodgrass, 1982 Miss GSC, commented that "the Miss GSC Pageant and Miss West Virginia Pageant were both good experiences" for her, and she hopes to see several girls run for the title of Miss GSC.

It's still not too late to run for Miss GSC. Deadline has been set for Wednesday, March 23.

keenan's korner

Granted, the GSC men's basketball team didn't have a good season in 1982-83. Let's face it, an 8-20 record and a first-round tournament loss are nothing to write home about.

But, the Pioneers do have one thing to brag about. They beat West Virginia Wesleyan once this season. Big deal, you say! It is, because not very many teams beat Wesleyan this season.

In fact, the Bobcats recently gained a trip to the NAIA tournament in Kansas City, and only one team beat them there-in the championship game. So, at one time in the season, GSC beat what proved to be one of the best NAIA teams in the land. Not bad, huh?!

GSC's defeat of Wesleyan is only one of the countless examples of the parity present in college athletics today. Translated, this means that on any given day one team is capable of beating another, regardless of their records. No team is invincible any longer. A team can play like a world-beater one night and a grade school team the next night.

The current NCAA championship had had its share of upsets, including WVU's loss to James Madison University. Who knows, the team that wins in Albuquerque on April 4 could be Podunk U. or the Charles Manson School for the Criminally Insane, but my choice is the North Carolina Tar Heels.

Team Enters M.U. Relays

The GSC men's track team competed this past weekend in the Early Bird Relays in Huntington. Paced by their field events performances, the Pioneers placed tenth of 15 teams. Included in the field were WVU, Marshall, Ohio University and Kent State. Scoring points for GSC were as follows: Trent King tied for fifth in the high jump; Dave Darst and Robert Brown - fifth in the shot put duo and sixth in the discus duo; and, Lloyd Willis and Brian Riffey - sixth in the long jump duo.

GSC had several other good performances. The team's coach, Jerry Milliken, said, "Our times and distances were better than last week. We accepted the challenge of running in a bigger meet. Overall, I was pleased."

The Pioneer men have been plagued by cold weather so far this season. They hope to have warmer weather this Saturday, though, as they take part in the Yellow Jacket Relays at Charleston's Laidley Field. Milliken remarked, "This week's meet will be a little better test of our ability."

The Panhellenic Council has announced that the Outstanding Women's Banquet, originally scheduled for April 7, will be held on May 4 at 5 p.m. in the Verona Mapel Room.

Thinclads Open Season

The 1983 GSC women's track season opened last Saturday at Huntington. Statistics of the meet were unavailable at press time.

For this year's team, coach Sandra Piercy has one senior in Marion Richards. The only two juniors on the squad are June Casto and Mary Davis. Sophomores for this year's team include Cynthia Crowder, Laura Dabney, Carol Wilson, and Teresa Legg. Gina Buffo, Pam Carson, Marilyn Carpenter, Sharon Hayes, Brenda McCloy, Sara Oliver, Kelly Riel, and Glenda Taylor are the first year members this spring.

Pam Minigh

Bunny Taylor

Cagers Named All-WVC

Two Glenville State basketball players were named to the All-WVIAC women's basketball squad, which was announced this past weekend.

Pam Minigh, a senior, and Bunny Taylor, a junior, were the Lady Pioneers' selections to the elite, eight-player squad. The two players were instrumental in the GSC ladies' fine season this year. GSC finished with a 17-7 record and a third-place performance in the WVC tourney.

Minigh, from Gilmer County, was a top-notch performer throughout her four-year career at GSC under Tim Carney, the Lady Pioneers' coach. The 5-7 forward is GSC's career scoring leader with 1,434 points. In the 1982-83 season, Minigh carried a scoring average of 17.4 points a game. She also cleared 9.4 rebounds per outing.

Taylor, a junior from Clay County, was picked to the first team, also. The 5-6 guard had a scoring average of 15.8 points a game. Also, she had a conference-leading 3.2 assists per game. Taylor is second on the all-time GSC scoring list. She has over 1000 points and could pass Minigh next season.

In addition to Taylor and Minigh, GSC had one other player honored. Sonja Bailey, a junior point guard from Richwood, was named to the honorable mention squad. She scored 11.3 points a game and led the team in steals.

Athletic Cuts Discussed

A meeting was held last Friday night in the Health Building concerning the recent cuts in athletics at Glenville State College. Several members of the GSC Athletic Committee, as well as other GSC administrators, were present to discuss the situation and answer questions from baseball coach, Ollie Pottmeyer, 16 members of the baseball squad, and a few other interested students.

The meeting constituted two hours of questions and discussion, sometimes very heated and confusing. The meeting had some good give-and-take, but not much was accomplished except to get the matter more out in the open.

The big point made at various times during the meeting was the fact that student athletic fees were not increased enough for next year in order to cover the entire athletic budget; therefore, the sports had to be cut. As Jesse Lilly, GSC's athletic director, put it, "It boils down to the almighty dollar."

The baseball team plans to continue to pursue the matter. Team members already have a petition with over 500 signatures of concerned people.

Students Surveyed On Feelings About Mid-term Grades

The Journalism 322 class at Glenville State College took a poll concerning the issue of the new distribution of mid-term grades. This new system which was incorporated this year seems to have been accepted reasonably well by the students, most seemed to want to know how they stood grade-wise in their classes.

Listed below are the comments of the students polled.

Greg Lambert--"I think it is good that they put them out. It lets us know how we are doing."

Joey Ferguson--"I feel it helps for people to know what their grades are."

Joe McAllister--"I feel they should send them out to show how we're doing."

Larry Loughner--"They should send them to us but there is no need to mail them to our parents."

Dave Smith--"It is fine for them to be sent to us, but not to our parents. We are in college, not high school."

John Sennett--"They can send them to us, that's okay. If we want our parents to know we can relay the information ourselves."

Anthony Russ--"Basically, I just don't really care. If they want to waste money mailing them, they can."

Andre Holland--"They can send them to us but they should save money and not send them to our parents. This money saved can be reimbursed to the students."

Dale Holt--"I think it is good. It gives the student an idea as to how he is doing. This way the student knows how hard he must work to bring his grades up."

Jackie Myer--"I think they should send them out to let you know how you are doing and how you can improve."

Kitty Cox--"I like them in one way because they give you an idea of what you have and I dislike them in another way because one grade doesn't determine a whole semester."

Sandy Woods--"I need to know how they determine them and what my cumulative average was because I'm a transfer student."

Jim Allison--"I didn't like the way they were distributed. I think what was on them was insufficient because we needed to know our averages, not our grades."

Tammy Maynor--"I think they're a good idea, since they can show you where you need to improve."

Scott Gallagher--"I think they're a good idea, because they let you know whether you have to work harder or party harder!"

Patti Woofert--"I think they're unfair because one grade doesn't determine all of the work you've put in."

Jim Kirby--"I think they're a good idea because they let you know where you stand, but they (instructors) don't always average in all of the grades because they're lazy."

Laura Dabney--"I think the D and F slips were a good idea, but mid-term grades were a waste."

Robin Phipps--"I don't think they're helpful - they give you false hope or make you depressed."

Patrick Lipscomb--"I'm not for sending the mid-term grades home. They should give them to the

Jump Teams Compete

For Heart Assoc.

The Glenville State College Jump Rope for Heart was held this morning from 9-12 in the GSC gymnasium. Teams from the Mercury staff, Sigmas and TKE's jumped the three hours to help support the American Heart Association. Each team involved received 20% of their total contributions and the rest went to the Heart Association. These monies will go to support research to help obtain a better understanding of the basic causes of heart attack, stroke and hypertension.

Volleyball was one of the many activities held during MD Week.

Jim Kirk--"I don't really have an opinion of them other than that I like how they treat us like adults now instead of sending our grades home to mommy."

Kevin Knoll--"They let you know you have to kick tail the second half of the semester."

Jim Quinn--"They are a waste of paper. If you don't know how you are doing in a class half way through, you're dumber than a bobsled. FIW's are a drag, anyway."

Marsha Johnson--"Mid-term grades are okay. I feel they let the students know how they are doing."

Julie Bowling--"Mid-term grades are fine. I did okay, considering."

Jeff Osborn--"Mid-term means low grades. I feel they should send mid-term grades out to people with D's and F's, so they can inform the student."

Dale Carney--"I think mid-term grades are good because it shows a student how they are doing half way through the semester. It's a good idea."

kids so they know how they are doing."

George Stansberry--"No problem with mid-semester grades. Students should be informed."

Laura Jones--"Don't send grades home during half semester. Grades should be strictly for the student. Parents should be included for finals."

Renita Emerson--"Mid-term is good for students, it lets them know where they stand and gives the student a chance to improve."

Alicia Kline--"It's a good idea."

Diane Tomlin--"I think they're good because they let you know where you stand and you don't have to try to raise your grades at the last minute."

Marc Radabaugh--"I like them because they let you know how you are doing. I don't like them because they are usually disappointing."

Brad Riffle--"They mess up your karma and this causes an altered state of mind for the remainder of the semester. Mojo Risin' would never send you a

"Quest Of The Beast"

- So you're my roommate!? Glad to meet you.

- Yeah, the feeling's mutual. What year are you in?

- I'm just starting, first term you know, and you?

- Senior, last term (an eerie silence befell the two).

- Say, why are you so quiet all of a sudden? Something bugging you?

- Well suit yourself. I was just . . .

- No, it's O.K. It's just hard to describe.

- What is?

- I guess you should know now; at the start.

- What? What are you talking about?

- You haven't heard of it yet then? About what to expect here?

- No, I haven't heard anything. I just got here today. Why are you looking at me like that?

- At first, it's hard to deal with. It drains you. But you get used to it. The exhaustion subsides and eventually you thrive on it.

- What is it? Please, you're scaring me. What is this thing?

- I call it "The Beast." It has powers. It can frustrate you, exhaust you, stimulate you, elate you. Eventually you can't get enough of it. You'll find it in very few classes here at Glenville State. It's frightening at first.

- No, no, please, I'm not ready; give me time, please tell me what is this Beast?

- Before I tell you, you must be aware of its enemy. Something far worse than the Beast. Something that robs your mind, lulls you into a trance. This is the evil one. This is the one you should fear.

- What, what is it, this evil one? What is it called? Where will I find it- Please help me!!

- You will find it in most of your classes, you will. It takes on different forms and goes by different names. But there is no mistaking it, this evil one. I call it "The Bore."

- The Bore? What is it like? How will I recognize it?

- You will see it immediately. It functions in many ways- a few are "The overlay abuser," "The text reciter" and "The banter killer." When it is present there is only one voice heard - "Its" voice. Look around and you'll see half-closed eyes, yawning faces, dazed looks. These are the signs of The Bore's presence.

- How can I help myself? Please, tell me!! I want no part of it.

- There is only one way. The path I have chosen. It is difficult. It takes willpower, stamina, work. You must let yourself go to The Beast!

- No! No! I can't!!

- You must. There is no other way. The Beast will guide you, will strengthen you to fight the Bore. The Beast is flexible and can be used in every situation and must be used. Listen to me!! I was like you four years ago. I was afraid of it. I had never done it before. I had no one to help me, to guide me. I was led into the class unaware of what might be confronting me. The Beast was there. It intimidated me, but intrigued me at the same time. It made me hungry and thirsty for that which I had never tasted before. It dared me. I felt weak after the first few sessions. Then I gained stamina and strength enough to look into the Beast, thru the maze, into its core. Yes, I saw it. It is with me now. The Bore tried to take it away. They tried to rob me of it. Together we fought them, the Beast and I. We vowed never to let the Bore overtake us. And so it is that I stand here today and tell you to accept the Beast and THINK. Don't waste your mind.

"Janice" To Perform

The band, Janice, will perform at 8:30 p.m. on Saturday, April 16 in the Auditorium to cap off GSC Week activities. Admission to the concert is free. Janice Saddler is a vibrant, beautiful young woman with an absolutely amazing voice. A former beauty queen, her vocal abilities come as something of a shock. She comes from North Carolina, and is a strong believer in God. She credits God for her personal strength, the dedication of the group and their success to date.

The group consists of Janice as lead vocalist, her husband, Reggie Saddler, on lead guitar, and her brother, Freddie Morrison on bass.

Janice met Reggie Saddler at the age of sixteen. They fell in love, but Reggie left for Vietnam and two years in the Army. When he returned, they were married after a year of college for Janice. Later, they formed the Reggie Saddler Revue, but changed the name to Janice, and toured the south extensively.

Feeling that they couldn't reach the heights the desired in North Carolina, they made the inevitable move to Los Angeles. While there, the well known producer, Harvey Fuqua, saw and liked the group. He produced an album along with Reggie and Janice and Fantasy Records. Reggie and Janice composed most of the songs on their first LP.

Reggie Saddler spends the majority of his time writing and arranging. Freddie Morrison writes, sings and handles the choreography of the group.

The group has an enthusiasm which is totally infectious, and absolutely true. Their spiritual belief and dedication to a group success holds them together musically and as a family. With God on their side, determination and hard work, they are certain of the direction in which they are going.

Hike Your Own Trail

Students are always complaining that there is nothing to do in this town. Well, there are things to do! We've told you about Cedar Creek; now, I'd like to tell you about some college property at Jake's Run.

Cedar Creek is for the outdoor lover who appreciates the outdoors in a somewhat organized form: hiking trails, tennis, swimming, basketball, etc. Jake's Run, on the other hand, is for the true outdoorsman. The only "hiking trails" you will find here are the ones that you make yourself or that the deer have made; these are the kind that I prefer.

Once the hiker gets away from the forestry majors and the dirt (mud) road, there are nothing but hills, meadows, and rock cliffs, not to mention deer, squirrel, grouse, and other less noticeable forms of wildlife. The cliffs were caused by strip mining some years ago and are particularly interesting in the layers of rock and strange formations caused by erosion that can be observed.

In all, the Jake's Run property presents an opportunity to get away from it all, mentally and physically, and there are 733 acres of practically unaltered land just waiting for you to enjoy. Jake's Run is located just a few miles outside of town on Route 33 towards Weston. You may not be able to drive very far up the dirt road, and it is not advisable to try to drive through a mud hole that you aren't sure of; you may be looking for a four-wheel drive to pull you out.
