Holiday Happenings Hopeful

Christmas is approaching and to most college students it is a time of many feelings. Most importantly, Christmas is the time when we celebrate the birth of Christ and rejoice. The givings of gifts, the decorating of Christmas trees, and all of the associated events of Christmas go back to the true meaning of Christmas - that is Christ's birth.

Many students will be very relieved for Christmas to come because the semester will be over and all of the cramming and studying for finals will end. However, many students will fear the mailman while home on break due to the fact that he will deliver the results of the cramming and studying for finals.

Nevertheless, Christmas is a very festive occasion. Good luck to all on finals and have a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

Now that the ghosts and spooks have been forgotten on campus I feel it is time to discuss a real problem - RATS. I remember last year when an LBH resident on first floor had a rat in his room and was really annoyed. Well, that rat has gotten bigger and moved up the floor. This rat sounds like a jackhammer in the walls. Obviously, poison and traps are not the answer. I think if the college can not do the job maybe we should call in the "rat-busters."

Pioneers Drop Two, Fall To 1-4

The Pioneers dropped to 1-4 on the season last week with a 76-70 loss to West Virginia Tech and a 73-68 defeat by Salem. Tuesday night's contest against Tech saw GSC trailing 42-38 at the half. Glenville shot 62% from the floor in the first half, but hit only one of five free throws for 20%.

In the second half, the Pioneers hit 55% of their foul shots, but fell to just 32% from the floor. For the game, Tech out-gunned GSC 47% to 45% in field goals, and 56% to 43% from the line.

Kenneth Taylor pumped in 21 points to lead the Pioneers, followed by Rich Moore with 15 and Steve Linville with 12. Matt Bullet added nine points, Rudy Watts had eight, and Steve Morris scored five to finish the scoring. Taylor also had 14 rebounds to his credit while Linville had 12.

Saturday night, the Pioneers travelled to Salem, and came away 1-4 and 0-3 in West Virginia Conference action.

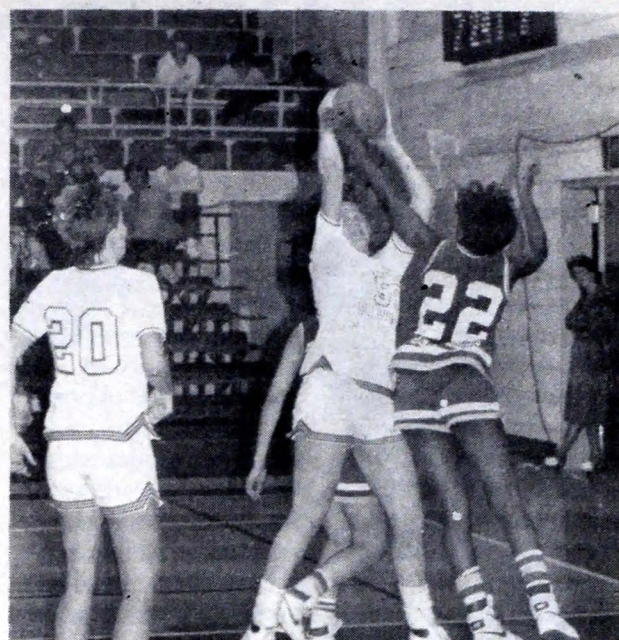

Glenville held a two-point, 30-28, lead at halftime, but the Tigers hit on 60% of their field goals and 73% of their free throw attempts to outscore Glenville 45-38 in the second half in establishing their 73-68 margin of victory.

Both teams finished the game hitting 50% from the floor, while GSC went seven of eight for 87% at the line and Salem was 14 of 18 for 77%.

Rudy Watts had 23 points to lead the Pioneers, while Steve Linville had 14 and Rich

Moore had 13. Steve Morris hit two three-point field goals and one two-point shot for eight points, Matt Bullet had six, and Kenneth Taylor had four to round out the scoring.

The Pioneers face tough opposition this week in the forms of 12-0 Rio Grande (Ohio) and 6-0 West Virginia Wesleyan. Rio Grande is ranked in the top 20 nationally, while Wesleyan is currently leading the WVC and is in the country's top 10. Head coach Gary Nottingham feels that a win in one of these two games could be the key to his team's turning its season around. The coach commented that, "We still have the capacity to have a good year if we beat Rio Grande or Wesleyan."

Janice Hensley fights for a rebound in the Lady Pioneers' game against Tech last Thursday.

Ladies 4-2 On Season

The Lady Pioneers continued their winning ways last week and upped their record to 4-2 with wins over West Virginia Wesleyan, WV Tech, and Garrett Community College (Maryland) before losing to Potomac State in the championship game of that school's invitational tournament last weekend.

The ladies got off to a slow start Thursday night against Tech, shooting only 22% from the floor to Tech's 41% and trailing 33-19 at halftime. Glenville turned things around in the second half, though, outscoring the Lady Golden Bears 39-20 to build the winning margin of 58-53.

Janice Hensley had 21 points to lead all Lady Pioneer scorers, followed by Maria Lothes with 14 and Tina Burkhamer with 11. Other scorers were Kim Maynard with six, Marsha Shrader with four, and Cathy Starcher with two points.

For the game, GSC hit 21 of 65 field goals for 32% while Tech matched that percentage, going 24 of 75 from the floor. Glenville nailed 16 out of 22 free throws for 72%.

Details of the Wesleyan, Garrett, and Potomac State games were not available at press time. The ladies hosted Salem Monday night and will meet Alderson-Broadus Thursday in a 7:00 home contest.

Payne Defensive Player Of The Year

Mike Payne, Glenville State College junior defensive back, was named West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Defensive Player of the Year last week.

Payne led the WVIAC in both punt and kickoff returns this season and was a unanimous all-conference choice. He ran back a total of 11 kickoffs for 284 yards, an average of 25.8 yards per return, while returning 11 punts for 88 yards. Payne also had 70 tackles and 7 interceptions for 42 yards on the year.

Pioneer head football coach Frank Vincent said of Payne, "In my opinion, Mike is the best athlete in the West Virginia Conference, and any All-American team without him wouldn't be an All-American team." The coach went on to note that this could be the first time that the school has had back-to-back years of All-American selections (GSC running back Byron Brooks was selected in 1983).

"Mike," Vincent continued, "is dedicated, strong, and an extremely cooperative young man. He's one of the hardest working football players I've ever coached."

The coach then pointed out that he has "made the proper contacts in the National Football League and the United States Football League so that Mike, Byron, and some of our other players can have a chance to play professional football." Vincent concluded by saying, "This (selection) is a compliment not only to Mike Payne, but to the football staff, Glenville State College, and the entire college community."

Besides Payne, six other Pioneers earned all-conference status. Named to the offensive squad were Byron Brooks and Ron Gutshall, while Payne, Rocky Metheny, and Mike Chadwick copped defensive honors. Dave Darst was named to the second team, and Rodney Abrams earned honorable mention.

IM News Announced

All teams wishing to play intramural basketball should turn in rosters to Coach Lilly or the intramural office by Tuesday, January 8. A $5 forfeit fee must be submitted from all teams participating in basketball (including new, as well as present teams).

If a team forfeits a game, then it will forfeit its $5, and an additional $5 must be paid before the next game. After two forfeits, a team will be dropped from the league. If a team does not forfeit, the $5 will be refunded at the end of the season.

This fee is designed to cut down the number of forfeited games, because of 36 forfeited games during volleyball season. Turn fees in to Coach Lilly before the season begins.

Eric Chico Is Man of Magic

While everyone was seeking love on the Caribbean cruise, eleven-year-old Eric Chico was discovering the fascinating field of magic. Now a student at Glenville State College, Eric Chico has developed this fascination into a unique talent. Eric has his own style and terrific personality which has enabled him to make a niche in this enchanted field.

When we think of magic, we think of "Houdini" and the word "abracadabra." Eric's view of magic varies from these old stereotypes. Eric sees magic as a theatrical art utilized for entertainment purposes, much in the same way as a good movie or a play. Eric also feels magic should touch the audience's emotions, sparking laughter or potential tears. The main hope of Mr. Chico is to have magic be seen as a respected form of entertainment, not as means to "fool" the onlooker.

Eric Chico has been inspired by many performing predecessors such as Johnny "Ace" Palmer. Mr. Palmer has had a large impact on Chico's area of entertainment. The area Eric is now performing in is magic in religion. At first many people had a difficult time accepting the mixture of magic and the church, but it is slowly becoming a method of spreading the word of God. Eric feels the Christian aspect will become more popular if people would view "Magic" as a God-given talent—a talent which Mr. Eric Chico cherishes as a precious gift.

Seniors are reminded that graduation announcements must be ordered and paid for in full by Feb. 1, 1985. There will be no extra announcements printed other than those ordered on or before the deadline. For more information, please contact the Bookstore.

A capital repairs and alterations project of $38,000 has been awarded to Boggs Roofing, Inc. of Huntington for the reroofing of the auditorium of the Administration Building at Glenville State College.

The project began on December 10 with expected completion within 90 days. The contractors will be using a rubber membrane roofing surface which can be used in extremely cold weather. The reroofing project includes seven smaller roofs over the auditorium practice rooms, corridors and entries into the building.

Other campus projects are progressing before severe winter weather prohibits additional work. The Phase One Inter-Campus renovation of the Robert F. Kidd Library will be completed in the spring. However, the rear parking lot is expected to be open for use by January to alleviate much of the parking problem on campus. The lot will be graveled for immediate use and blacktopped in the spring. The concrete patterned paved walkways in front of the library will be installed this month.

The right set of steps from High Street to the library will be rebuilt along with several flowerbeds and final landscaping in the spring. It is anticipated that the renovation project will be completed prior to commencement.

The running track at the athletic complex has been reopened to the general public for exercise use. Because of the extended renovation to the facility, the track will be closed for spring use and to all track meets.

Rotary Club To Sponsor Community Luminaria

The Glenville Rotary Club is once again sponsoring a community luminaria on Christmas Eve. Each year club members join those from the community in lighting the local area with candles. Of particular note is a symbolic cross which is formed by placing candles along Main and Court Streets.

Those families wishing to participate in this community project may purchase specially-designed candles and bags prior to Christmas at the Trinity United Methodist Church office on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 9:00 a.m. until noon. The cost is 25 cents per candle. At a date closer to Christmas, Rotarians will be selling candles in the downtown area.

Glenville Rotarians urge all citizens to join them in this celebration which was historically meant to point the way to the manger in Bethlehem. Those wishing more information on the project may contact Rotary President Julian G. Sulgit.

The GSC Housing Corporation will have some housing available to married students during the Spring 1985, Summer 1985, or Fall 1985 semester. Anyone wishing additional information should contact Patty Dugger in Clark Hall - Room 102 or by phone at 462-7361, ext. 294.

Attention Medical Students: The Greater Kanawha Valley Foundation is administering the Westmoreland Coal Company Medical Scholarship, a single scholarship in the approximate amount of $5,000 given to a West Virginia Medical Student. For more information or an application, contact the Greater Kanawha Valley Foundation, P.O. Box 3041, Charleston, WV 25331, (304) 346-3620.

The Student Congress will sponsor a back-to-school dance featuring the band LEGACY on January 29. All students are urged to attend and the proceeds will go to the African Relief Fund.

New Building Plans Underway

Two architectural-planning firms have been hired by Glenville State College to begin preliminary studies on the proposed new multi-purpose/fine arts facility.

Hoblitzell, Daley & McIntyre of Charleston with H2L2 of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, have met with college officials and have reviewed possible building sites and building requirements.

The firms have been hired to prepare preliminary facility renderings, cost estimates and site selection recommendations by January. The architects' preliminary design and cost estimates will be sent to the Board of Regents for approval and inclusion in a bonding package to be submitted to the legislature during the 1985 session.

"We are optimistic that, providing the regents submit a substantial package, our request will be approved this session," said Robert K. Gainer, vice-president for administration. "If however, the package is less than we expect it to be, the request could possibly be delayed another year."

The proposed $6.5 million facility will house the fine arts and business academic programs along with the media center. The present plans call for the building to have 56,000 total square feet with 36,000 square feet of net assignable space.

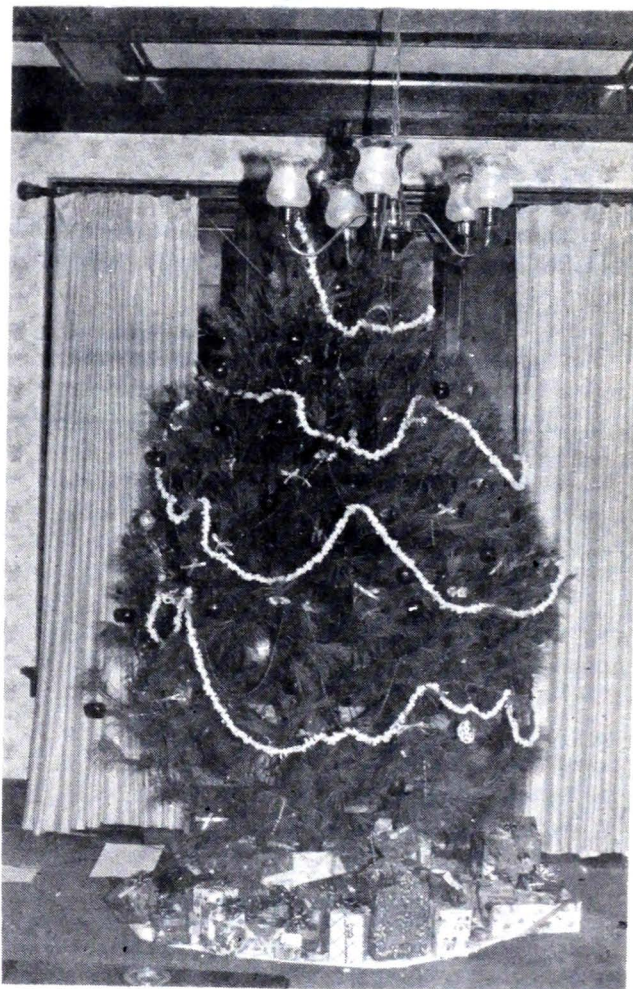

"What we have asked in terms of space desired and building contents may be changed if the cost is prohibitive," said Gainer. "What is presently being planned by the architects is the ideal building that we would like, but that may have to be pared-down somewhat."

The architects have also met with prospective occupants of the new facility to learn firsthand of the necessary specialized contents. Ideally, the facility would contain specific rooms for sculpture, ceramics, printmaking, photography laboratories, art studios, acoustical rehearsal rooms for choral and instrumental, electronic piano labs, a recording studio, listening and instrument repair studios, individual practice studios, a theatre, and business education laboratories along with general purpose instructional classrooms and faculty offices.

The Mineral Road property owned by the College is not among the possible building site considerations because of a lack of transportation available for students to that location.

"The architects have carefully examined property adjacent to the main campus," Gainer explained, referring to High Street, Linn Street, Court Street and College Street all as possible locations.

Thumbs Down

To the library hours on Friday through Monday and the Media Center Hours.

To all those no good people who destroy property at LBH causing the deposits to decrease day by day.

To LBH J-Board for being weak on offenses pertaining to destruction of property.

To the contractors working around the library for causing a muddy mess that reminds me of Jake's Run.

To all people who leave their unconsumed tobacco in public water fountains.

To the people who complain about nothing to do, yet can't go to the Christmas Dance.

To small turnouts to the home basketball games.

To the slow construction, poor lighting, and all the mud in front of the library.

Thumbs Up

To the Delta Zeta Sorority for the open house this past Sunday night.

To those who show proper respect to the flag at ball games.

To the custodians in all buildings especially the Administration Building for doing a great job.

To Dwayne Duffield for creating beautiful artworks and running a superb art show.

To Bob Dinkler for being there when a person in his position is needed most and for a job well done since his employment.

To LBH J-Board for being strong on intervisitation violations.

For "The Maxx" playing a great dance.

To Shelly Morris doing a great job as Student Congress President.

To those who stayed and watched the 2nd half of the Lady Pioneers basketball game against WV Tech ... We appreciate your support.
