Charles A. Julian, public services librarian and instructor in library science at Glenville State College, has been awarded a grant to attend a library history seminar at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

"Libraries, Books and Culture" is the topic of a three-day seminar which will explore the historical roles and significance of graphic records in society. The seminar will feature a total of 24 scholarly presentations in 12 plenary sessions devoted to various aspects of library history.

Julian is one of six doctoral students nationally to receive a grant to attend. The March 6-8 seminar is sponsored by the Journal of Library History, the University of Texas at Austin and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Julian is a 1975 magna cum laude graduate of Glenville State College. He holds a masters degree from Sheffield University in England and a masters in library science from George Peabody College. Julian has completed all necessary coursework in the library science doctoral program at Florida State University. He presently is conducting research on his dissertation which examines the historical development of the West Virginia Library Association and its influence upon the growth of librarianship in West Virginia.

Julian is a member of the American Library Association, Beta Phi Mu, Southeastern Library Association, president of the Glenville Rotary, and the West Virginia Library Association in which he is the chairman of the college and university section, advertising editor for West Virginia Libraries and a member of the legislative committee.

Color Workshop Slated Feb. 12

The Glenville State College Office of Continuing Education will be offering a Magic of Color Workshop Tuesday, February 12, 1985. The workshop will be held in the Verona Maple Room in the Pioneer Center from 7:00 - 10:00 p.m.

Participants can learn the right colors and makeup to wear to enhance the natural beauty of their skin, hair, and eyes. Come alive with color through "seasonal" analysis.

The instructors for the workshop will be Jackie Milliken and Janet Gainer. Mrs. Milliken and Mrs. Gainer have done many workshops in the Gilmer, Roane, Jackson county area the past year. Through an initial interest in color and fabric, they became interested in attending professional color analysis workshops, and developed their own system from these.

For more information or registration, please contact the Office of Continuing Education at 462-7361, Ext. 120. The number of participants will be limited to 12. It is important that participants pre-enroll. The college reserves the right to cancel a class if pre-enrollment is insufficient. A fee for the workshop will be charged.

GSC Officials Discuss Higher Education Needs

Glenville State College officials met with area legislative delegates and senators to share the priorities and needs of public higher education. Delegate Marge Burke, Gilmer County, and senators Gino Columbo and Larry Tucker discussed various legislative concerns with members of the Board of Advisors, staff and faculty Thursday evening.

President William K. Simmons outlined Glenville's needs and encouraged legislators to endorse the Board of Regents requests of a $73 million bonding program and significant salary increases for faculty and staff.

Glenville has a $4 million fine arts facility and a $200,000 natural gas well included in the Regents' requests that need legislative approval.

"Funding of these two items is very important," said President Simmons. "We would not be building a facility if it were not badly needed," he noted, "and we have already experienced significant savings from our gas well."

The savings from the well will be allocated to higher education support for Nicholas County, in particular the leasing of a new off-campus facility shared with the College of Graduate Studies.

Tucker, the Democratic senator from

Nicholas County, said "Glenville State represents a great opportunity for the people of Nicholas and surrounding counties. I certainly support every effort Glenville makes in expanding in Nicholas County."

Faculty and staff encouraged the legislators for a 7½ percent or $1,000 pay raise and full funding of Senate Bills 612 and 624. The senate bills address faculty and classified salary schedules.

"The key issue of this legislative session is economic development," said Gary Adams, assistant to the Regents chancellor. "The best investment is in higher education. With better educated citizens, we will find better personal salaries. An educated population increases the tax base," he said.

Adams cited the statistics that West Virginia faculty rank 50th nationally in salary, that 2,000 classified employees earn less than $10,000 annually, and one in ten West Virginians have a college education.

"West Virginians receive quality education for the amount of money the system gets," said Simmons. "However, we need to address the salary issues in order to keep good employees and ask them to continually perform their very best."

More Males Maybe?

'Let's Go Pioneers' and 'Go Big Blue', are a few of the chants that can be heard by the GSC Cheerleaders during Pioneer basketball games. This year the squad is comprised of five females and one male cheerleader, which is very unfortunate.

Fairmont State, as well as other conference schools, are equipped with a ten-person cheerleading squad. This enables them to build high pyramids, to out-cheer Glenville at home, and to excel in WVIAC competition at the conference tourney. Why is it that Glenville can't get five male cheerleaders? In 1980 and 1981, for example, the squad captured first place with ten members at the WVIAC competition. In 1984, Fairmont stole first place with ten members and Glenville captured second place with six girls and three males. Cheerleaders do help win those games, regardless of many people's opinions.

The squad will, however, attempt to compete in the WVIAC competition and to cheer the Pioneer basketball team onward, despite the lack of male help. I can only encourage and hope that the males of GSC will think of this lack of participation and try to improve the squad when try-outs roll around for next year.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor, Staff and Advisor of the GLENVILLE MERCURY,

First of all it should be stated that the GLENVILLE MERCURY is a student publication. It is, or should we say, has in past always been a reliable medium through which the Student Congress has informed the student body of campus activities or concerns. The most consistent source of activities on this campus is Student Congress and yet the MERCURY has all but ignored the efforts of the Congress.

Preceding the January 16, 1985 edition of the MERCURY at least two Congress members including President Shelly Morris were contacted and interviewed concerning the Congress's 'Back to School Dance'. Publicity for this dance was of particular importance as all the proceeds were to be donated to the African Relief Fund. Much to our chagrin, however, the paper did print a small block on the dance but did not emphasize the purpose of it. Also ignored in the same edition was the fact that nominations for Student Congress offices were due on January 25. As a result there is only one candidate for president. In all fairness this information was printed in the January 23 edition but only after the MERCURY received a letter from Shelly Morris asking for support. Even at this the announcement was made (buried within advertisements on the last page) only two days before the deadline making it impossible for some organizations to make nominations.

The MERCURY staff may have felt that they rectified this problem with Student Congress when it printed the nomination article. The paper, however, went on to ignore an important opportunity for students to voice their concerns. A student forum was scheduled for January 29. It was attended by some nine students. We feel that lack of attendance was due to the fact that it was given no publicity in the newspaper. In addition, after seeing the questions asked by MERCURY Editor Jackie Mullens in her column on January 30, one wonders why the paper did not send even one representative to ask the administration's opinion on these issues.

Last week's edition served to prove once and for all the MERCURY's apathetic attitude toward Student Congress activities. Several candidates for the Student Congress elections including the paper's associate editor submitted campaign letters all of which were left out of the paper. According to Article 6, section 2 of the Constitution of Student Congress contained in the Student Handbook "Each candidate shall have the opportunity to present a written platform in the school newspaper." These candidates have obviously been denied their rights.

Yours truly,
The Officers and members of the
Glenville State College Student Congress
Shelly L. Morris, President

Editor's Note:

In response to the letter sent by the Student Congress of GSC, I would like to state that the Mercury staff under no circumstances has ignored the efforts of the Congress. After reviewing the past issues, I feel that the Student Congress has received ample space and to prove this I would like to show the amounts of column inches that have been devoted to the Student Congress from the past four issues:

In the December 12 issue of THE GLENVILLE MERCURY, Number 14, the Student Congress was given 4 column inches which dealt with the Legacy dance and the nominations deadline dates.

In the January 16 issue of THE GLENVILLE MERCURY, Number 15, the Student Congress was given 4 column inches with their student congress minutes, which also publicized the dance.

In the January 23 issue of THE GLENVILLE MERCURY, Number 16, the Student Congress received 5½ column inches. The student Congress minutes were printed as well as information on the Legacy dance.

In the January 30 issue of THE GLENVILLE MERCURY, Number 17, the Student Congress received 6 column inches which were the announcement of nominees running for offices.

The platform letters, the two written and turned in by deadline, were inadvertently left out of last week's issue due to the lack of space and the fact that the staff overlooked the dates of elections. An apology is in order to those nominees.
