Summit Center Offers Help

Suicide Has Warning Signs

"No one cares!" "I wish I were dead!" While these words are many times used as a way of getting attention, they are often overlooked but may indicate a more serious problem. WARNING: If they do not get the proper attention drastic results may occur.

Death by suicide has skyrocketed among 15-24 year olds causing teenage suicide to raise to epidemic proportions in this country. There are approximately 500,000 teenage suicide attempts a year, with about 5,000 young people succeeding.

Being away from home in the pressured environment of college, we must be aware of these potential warning signs: 1) pre-occupation with themes of death or expressed suicidal thoughts 2) giving away prized possessions 3) sudden changes in sleeping or eating habits 4) withdrawal from friends and family 5) changes in school performance including cutting classes, dropping out of activities, lowered grades 6) personality changes like apathy of appearance and health, nervousness, outburst of anger 7) use of drugs - alcohol 8) recent suicide of friends or relatives 9) previous suicide attempts.

If you or anyone you know has shown any of these warning signs, GET HELP!!

To get proper professional help in this area contact the Summit Center for Human Development located at the lower level of the Medical Center on Mineral Road. The Center is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 - 4:30 and is staffed with qualified therapists who are trained in crisis intervention stressing confidentiality. The number to call is 462-5721 and after hours (toll free) 1-800-352-3869.

Remember: Problems can be solved and there are people who are willing to help. Death is not the solution.

Ladies Take Fourth Place In Conference, Hensley, Burkhamer Make All-Tourney

The GSC Lady Pioneers wrapped up a fantastic season last week by taking fourth place in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference tournament. The Ladies entered the Wheeling Civic Center with a 14-8 overall and 12-6 conference record, and came out 16-10 and 14-8 on the year.

GSC 72, Concord 47

The Ladies' first victory in the tournament came Wednesday against Concord College. Glenville took immediate control of the game and never let go as they chalked up a 72-47 win over the Lady Mountain Lions.

Janice Hensley led the squad in scoring with 23 points and in rebounding with 10. Tina Burkhamer poured in 19 points in the win, and Kim Maynard had 15 markers and nine caroms. Rhonda Hicks also hit double figures with 10 points. The Lady Pioneers shot 51% from the floor and 72% from the line, and hauled in a team total of 37 rebounds.

GSC 62, Wheeling 55

Thursday afternoon saw a major upset in tournament action, as the Lady Pioneers scored a 62-55 victory over heavily-favored Wheeling College.

Tina Burkhamer's 19 points paced the GSC scoring attack, while Hensley nailed 15 and had 15 rebounds, and Maynard hit for 13 and eight rebounds. Glenville was 24 of 50 from the floor for 48% and grabbed 46 rebounds to Wheeling's 36.

UC 67, GSC 60

In Friday night's semifinal action, the Ladies were finally knocked out of action by a powerful University of Charleston squad. Glenville got off to a slow start and couldn't catch up as UC went on to post the 67-60 victory.

The Ladies were once again led by Burkhamer, who hit eight of 20 field goal attempts and all four of her free throws in scoring 20 points. Kim Maynard was the only other GSC player in double figures with 15. The team hit only 39% of its field goal attempts and was out rebounded 46-43.

Fairmont 70, GSC 65

Fairmont State finally got past GSC after two earlier defeats by scoring a 70-65 victory over the Lady Pioneers in Saturday night's consolation game. The Lady Falcons simply outgunned Glenville in the second half in winning third place honors in the tournament.

Hensley and Burkhamer again topped the Ladies' scoring list as each pumped in 23 points in the losing effort. Maynard had 12 markers, Maria Lothes had five, and Cathy Starcher added two to the final total.

Burkhamer and Hensley were each named to the All-Tournament team, and Lothes was a co-winner of the tournament's Sportsmanship award. Head coach Tim Carney was extremely pleased with his team's performance in the tournament as well as throughout the entire season. The coach commented that the leadership of seniors Maynard, Lothes, and Starcher were key elements of the squad's success and that he felt that the Lady Pioneers have enjoyed an excellent season.

The 1984-85 GSC Lady Pioneers finished their season with a 16-10 record and captured fourth place in the WV Conference tournament.

Lady Pioneer seniors Maria Lothes, Cathy Starcher, and Kim Maynard all capped off their GSC careers in last week's WVIAC tournament.

There will be no intramural basketball games on Wed., Feb. 27 and Thurs., Feb. 28 due to the WVIAC tournament in Charleston. Play will resume on Mon., March 4. Teams are reminded to check the intramural board for game times.

Literary Society will be meeting Thur., Feb. 28 at 6:30 p.m. in AB301. A discussion will be held on 'The Importance of Being Ernest,' from THE PICTURE OF DORIAN GRAY AND OTHER WRITINGS by Oscar Wilde.

Pioneers To Face Salem In Tournament

The Pioneers take their 11-6 overall and 8-13 West Virginia Conference record into tournament action tonight as they take on Salem College in the first round of the WVIAC tournament. Glenville finished their regular season last week with Monday and Saturday losses to Salem and the University of Charleston and a Thursday night victory against Alderson-Broaddus in the season's home finale.

The Salem Tigers gained their third win of the season over the Pioneers last Monday by staving off a GSC comeback to post a 88-83 victory. Kenneth Taylor poured in 28 points and Rudy Watts had 21 to pace the scoring attack. Richard Moore added 12 and Steve Morris and Matt Bullett had eight each in the loss. The Pioneers continued to shoot well, going 34 of 59 from the floor for a 57% accuracy, but Salem hit 60% of their field goal attempts, shooting for 65% in the first half.

An enthusiastic Glenville crowd watched on Thursday night as seniors Tim Moore and Rich Moore performed in their final home games in the blue and white. The Pioneers sent their seniors off with a big 75-57 victory over A-B. Watts topped the GSC scoring list with 20 points, followed by Morris and Bullett with 14 apiece and Rich Moore with 12. Watts also collected 14 rebounds in the game, and Taylor and Steve Linville each handed out five assists.

The season's final game was Saturday night against UC in Charleston's Eddie King Gym. The Golden Eagles jumped out to a 55-37 lead then coasted to a 111-85 victory over the Pioneers. Taylor scored 37 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to lead the squad, followed by Watts with 14 markers.

The winner of tonight's GSC-Salem game will go on to face the University of Charleston in quarter-final action tomorrow at 9:00 p.m. Semifinal games will be held at 7:00 and 9:00 p.m. Friday and the final will be Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

Weekley Attends Meeting

Vance Weekley, assistant professor of geography at Glenville State College, recently attended the Congressional Awards Gold Ceremony on Capitol Hill in Washington, D.C.

The Congressional Youth Awards recognize youth between the ages of 14-23 who have dedicated a total of 800 hours to volunteer public service, personal development and physical fitness. Youths must be between 14-16 to be eligible for the bronze award, 17-20 for the silver award, and 21-23 for the gold award.

Appointed by First District Congressman Alan Molloy, Weekley serves as chairman of the Ritchie County

Congressional Youth Awards Council.

At the Gold Ceremony held at the Cannon Building on February 6, 49 youths representing 10 states were honored with gold awards. Five recipients were from West Virginia's first congressional district.

Bill Kurtis, co-anchor of the CBS Morning News, serves as master of ceremonies for the event. National Board Members Cathy Lee Crosby, industrialist W. Clement Stone and former Kentucky Governor John Y. Brown, along with West Virginia Congressman Nick Joe Rahall and Harley Staggers also attended the ceremony.

Chisler Returns From Convention

Dr. John Chisler, chairman of the science and mathematics division at Glenville State College, has returned from a convention for biologists entitled: "Advances in Gene Technology, Molecular Biology of the Immune System." The convention was sponsored by the 17th Miami Winter Symposium and held February 11-15 in Miami, Fl.

Thirty presentations of molecular biology and advances in the research of the human immune system were heard by 2000 convention participants.

Dr. Chisler believes that much of the material presented at the convention could be a vital boost to Glenville's newly-developed nursing program. The keynote speaker was Hugh O. McDevitt, proclaimed researcher in the field of body immunization.

"The information that I have gathered will aid me in the two nursing courses I will be teaching next year," said Dr. Chisler, referring to the informative research materials which he plans to use.

Dr. Chisler's symposium participation was funded by the College's "Faculty Improvement Fund."

Michaela Cogar

CPR Training Is Beneficial

The phone rings...It is a cry for help. Could you respond? Well, Michaela Cogar, a GSC student did. Michaela is a nursing student who learned CPR at the Braxton hospital when she was participating in the Medical Explorers program. "When I was being taught CPR, I never in a million years thought I'd use it." But on January 23, 1985, Michaela rushed to a heart attack victim's side. After administering CPR for long period of time, Miss Cogar realized her attempts were futile.

Although she was unable to save the victim's life, she was able to react quickly and perform the proper procedures...Could you? All Glenville students are required to take health or first aid. Those who take first aid are taught the proper way to carry out CPR. This class is unlike any other course offered to all Glenville students because it offers an opportunity to receive training which could be the difference in a life and death situation. So don't take CPR lightly... Someone's life may depend on it.

Organizations are reminded to turn their news into the Mercury office by noon on Monday.

New Restaurant Opens

A new restaurant has opened in Glenville much to the delight of those who have made its authentic Mexican-styled acquaintance. Cocina San Roman opened on January 19 in the building which once housed Valentino's on the corner of Whiting and Lewis Streets. The restaurant offers varieties of such items as tacos, tostados, enchiladas, and burritos, not to mention its specials and appetizers.

The owner, Mr. Rafael San Roman, moved to West Virginia from California ten years ago with his wife, Gilda, a native of Gilmer County. Using the skills in preparing Mexican cuisine they had learned from San Roman's mother, the couple opened the first Cocina San Roman in Parkersburg. The San Romans chose Glenville as the location of their new restaurant because of Mrs. San Roman's ties to the area and because Glenville is a college community. The San Romans are also considering opening a restaurant in Morgantown.

The manager of Cocina San Roman, Betty Jo Minney, and seven other employees, including some GSC students, provide fast courteous service to accompany the delicious Mexican style food.

Cocina San Roman is open Monday-Friday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 5-9 p.m.; Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sundays from noon to 6 p.m.

Aided by the use of a personal computer and 1984 Glenville State College graduate Jenny Lewis, Dr. DeBord completed the task in three years. The format of the index is annotated (indexed and cross-referenced) and includes over 800 articles from around the world.

Dr. DeBord holds a bachelor's degree from Morris Harvey College, and a master's degree and doctorate from West Virginia University.

Letters To The Editor

Letter to the Editor:

The question: Is this America 1985 or is it South Africa where upon 'River Rats' can bully college students into living as they do. Prejudice in a society where upon people do not fully understand the meaning and have probably never heard of civil rights. These are the people in our society which provide the problem to black college students. How do we fight prejudice? By force? No. By retaliation? No. By transforming or bending to their will and staying away from town after dark? No. We, as students of GSC, should not have to worry about harassment or assault as we venture down the hill to the village of Glenville. The businesses in Glenville depend on us as patrons, but in times of need like this one, can we depend on them? Thursday, February 21, marked possibly the first racial encounter in Glenville since the early 1970's.

The problem: 'River Rats' are purely prejudiced. Therefore, what should we do? What's next? A sign reading: No blacks outside after dark or else? All college students who support GSC and what it stands for should respond to this moral injustice in an adult manner.

Lloyd Willis

To the MERCURY,

I would like to apologize to the residents of Louis Bennet Hall, and for any inconvenience I may have caused them for throwing a water fountain out the window.
