Mid-Semester Grades To Be Reported

In accordance with academic policy at Glenville State College, the faculty will report all grades of "D" or "F" at mid-semester, March 6, 1985. Students earning either a "D" or "F" at mid-semester will have a grade report mailed to them at their permanent address, or they may secure a copy from their advisor.

The last day to drop a class without earning a punitive grade will be March 13, 1985. Students dropping a class prior to that date will be awarded a "W" and will not suffer any damage to their grade point average. After March 13, 1985, students will not be permitted to drop classes except for medical reasons or severe extenuating circumstances. Any student who is permitted to drop after March 13, 1985, will be awarded either a "WF" or "WP" whichever is appropriate. The "WF" grade will be figured into the grade point average. Students who stop attending classes without dropping will be awarded the "FIW" grade.

Literary Society will be meeting Thurs., March 7 at 6:30 in AB301. We will be discussing "The Importance of Being Earnest" in THE PICTURE OF DORIAN GRAY AND OTHER WRITINGS by Oscar Wilde.

The play deals with the reunion of the three Magarth sisters-Lenny, Meg and Babe. Why the sisters come together and the action that ensues, brings to light the Crimes of the Heart.

It seems that the youngest sister of the clan, Babe, has gotten into a scrape with the law--she has just shot her husband. Her reason? "I didn't like his looks...just didn't like his stinking looks."

Why all the fuss over Crimes of the Heart?

D's and F's Sent Home Grades Policy Discussed

Mid-semester is this week and after completing all of those papers and exams, which took many hours of preparation, many students will be relieved that they are finally over. Are they really over?

No, if a student has a 'D' or an 'F' the grade will be sent to their permanent address and to their advisor. Shouldn't the student also receive a copy of his grades, and is it fair to send the grades home to parents when some students put themselves through school? I don't think so. Also, shouldn't all of the grades be reported to let the students know how they are doing in all of their classes?

I welcome response to this policy that now stands and extend a good luck to everyone on the remainder of their exams.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Ms. Editor:

I believe that it was courageous of James M. Payne to apologize (February 27th issue of THE MERCURY) for any inconvenience he may have caused by throwing a water fountain out of a window of Louis Bennet Hall. May I add, in passing, that he can take comfort from the thought that even greater inconvenience would have resulted had HE been thrown out of the window.

Respectfully yours,

Pioneers Go 1-1 In Tourney Action, Finish Seventh In W.V. Conference

The GSC Pioneers made it past the first round of the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference tournament for the first time since 1981, and finished in seventh place in the conference standings.

GSC 72, Salem 68

Glenville held off a late rally by Salem College in Wednesday night's first round action to post a 72-68 win over the Tigers. The Pioneers quickly got on top and held Salem down, leading by 22-8 midway through the first half, and building that to 38-21 by the intermission.

With just under four minutes remaining in the game, however, Salem began to pick away at the 62-51 GSC lead. The Tigers scored six straight points in the next minute to cut the score to 64-57. After four straight missed GSC free throws, Salem pulled to within four at 68-64. That was as close as the game ever got, though, as Matt Bullet and Rudy Watts hit two foul shots each to ice the win.

Bullet scored a game-high 21 points to pace the Pioneer scoring attack, while Watts poured in 18 and grabbed 10 rebounds. Steve Linville added 14 points and nabbed 5 steals in the effort, and Kenneth Taylor, WVIAC Player of the Week for February 18-23, pumped in 13 markers. The squad hit 28 of 44 field goal attempts for a .636 percentage while holding Salem to only 26 of 65 for just 40%.

UC 99, GSC 71

It was all the Pioneers could do in Thursday night's quarterfinal action to keep the University of Charleston under 100 points. The Golden Eagles literally stifled Glenville early in the game and went on to knock the Pioneers out of the tournament by a 99-71 score.

Glenville managed to keep up with UC for the first 10 minutes of the game, but by halftime the Pioneers were looking at the low end of a 59-29 score. The second half did not look much better for GSC, as they battled to stay within 30 and to keep UC from breaking the century mark. Charleston was stopped in at least two scoring attempts in the last minute of play as the GSC defense and Pioneer fans did all they could to hold the Golden Eagles at 99.

Bullet, Watts, and Taylor led the Pioneers in scoring with 17, 13, and 12 points, respectively. Coach Gary Nottingham's squad finished the season with a 12-17 overall record and went 9-14 in conference action.

In other quarterfinal action, West Virginia Wesleyan slipped past

Rudy Watts (34) and Matt Bullett battle for a rebound in first round action in the WVIAC Tournament as Kenneth Taylor (44) looks on. Taylor was named the WVIAC Player of the Week for Feb. 18-23.

Wheeling, Fairmont rallied to defeat West Liberty, and WV Tech won a thriller over WV State. Wesleyan defeated Tech in Friday's first semi-final game, and Fairmont pulled off a two-point upset over UC. The conference championship once again went to Wesleyan, as the Bobcats won over Fairmont in the finals Saturday night. Charleston took third place honors by knocking off Tech in the consolation game.

Maynard 3rd, Lothes 4th In Ladies' Scoring Ranks

Kim Maynard has moved into third and Maria Lothes into fourth place on the GSC Lady Pioneers' all-time scoring list. Maynard scored 311 points this year to push her career total to 1,003 while Lothes hit for 275 on the season to raise her total to 926 career points.

Tina Burkhamer was the Ladies' high-scorer for the season, with 449 points for a 17.3 per game average. Janice Hensley was next with 429 markers on the year for an average of 16.5

per game, followed by Maynard at 12 points per game and Lothes with a 10.6 average. Rhonda Hicks had a total of 114 points for an average of 4.6.

Hensley had a total of 290 rebounds to lead the team in that category. She was followed by Maynard with 208 caroms and Lothes with 193. Maynard also topped the list in assists with 83 and steals with 57. Senior Cathy Starcher dealt out 70 assists on the year, and Hensley blocked a team-high 21 shots.

GSC's Kenneth prepares to put up a shot against Salem in last week's WVIAC Tournament. The Pioneers defeated Salem 72-68, then lost 99-71 to UC in the quarterfinals.

Poet To Visit On March 15

Huntington poet Llewellyn McKernan will read her poetry and meet with students on Friday, March 15. Students and faculty are invited to a public reading at 2:00 that afternoon in the Little Theatre.

McKernan will also meet with the Creative Writing class in 203 Clark Hall at 11:00 and have lunch with English majors and others interested in meeting her at 12:00 in the Verona Maple Room.

The Language Division is sponsoring her visit. Those who would like to be guests of the Division for a sandwich and soup luncheon should make reservations with Denise Ellyson, Secretary, no later than Monday, March 11.

Copies of McKernan's book of poems are on sale in the College Bookstore for $2.50. Both AAUW and The Humanities Foundation of West Virginia gave grants to assist her in publishing this book, titled "Short and Simple Annals: Poems about Appalachia" (1979).

A native of Arkansas, McKernan received her B.A. in English from Hendrix College, the M.A. in English from the University of Arkansas, and the M.A. in Creative Writing from Brown University. She has continued her studies at Marshall University, where she teaches part-time in the English Department. She has attended many writing workshops conducted by such eminent writers as Mary Lee Settle, George Garrett, A. R. Ammons, and R. V. Cassill.

McKernan has received numerous awards and honors, including a fellowship from the West Virginia Arts and Humanities Commission in 1981 to produce a manuscript of poems about Appalachian women and children. She has won prizes in state and national poetry competitions. Her poems have appeared in literary publications all across the United States, including The Providence Review, Nimrod, Magazine of Appalachian Women, Grab-A-Nickel, and The Kenyon Review. She gives frequent poetry readings in West Virginia and surrounding states.

"I am pleased that Llewellyn McKernan is coming to GSC," stated Dr. Barbara W. Tedford, who is in charge of arrangements. "Her poems are very carefully constructed and written about subjects that would appeal to West Virginians. She is a fine poet."

Barnes continues, "...while this play overflows with infectious high spirits, it is also the tale of a very troubled family...such is Miss Henley's talent that she can serve us pain as if it were a piece of cake..." (The New York Times).

Beth Henley, born in Mississippi, won both the Pulitzer Prize and the Drama Critic's Circle Award for Crimes of the Heart. It was initially played in the Actors' Theatre of Louisville, moving then to Off-Broadway before finally making its splash on Broadway, establishing Beth Henley as a major voice in contemporary theater. Her second play, The Miss Firecracker Contest, is currently playing in New York to reviews comparable to these.

Again, show dates are March 21, 22, and 23, with performances starting at 8:00 each evening. Tickets will go on sale March 18. Come to see the show that has audiences and critics going wild.
