Drs. Hymes and Hilgenberg Return from Tour of China

by Lesa Hendershot

While talking to Dr. Hilgenberg and Dr. Hymes about their trip abroad, I was very pleased to learn that Glenville State College was one of the few colleges which had two professors participating in the China program. Both of our instructors were chosen from thirty state-wide applicants to tour China for six weeks during the summer vacation.

A group of sixteen West Virginia instructors departed on June 5 for a memorable tour of the world's most populated country. Prior to departure the group attended many lectures given by experts on China from the University of Pittsburgh. Some of the information imparted by these experts was valuable while some was already outdated. The group couldn't really absorb the information until they had experienced China for themselves, which is what they did while visiting twelve of the twenty major cities in China.

The members of this project were hosted by two universities in China who hoped to develop an interest and understanding of their heritage in Western society. The citizens of China definitely chipped in to do their share to help Westerners feel at ease in their culture.

During my conversation with both instructors I heard many adjectives such as wonderful, polite, diplomatic, and resourceful connected with the Chinese people, but the one most impressed on me was that they were very, very nice. They were anxious to welcome Westerners into their country, even though they had little experience in dealing with them. Language was a definite problem and hampered any real conversation.

Counselors Assist Frosh

"PLAYFAIR!" Although this was designed as an icebreaker for all our new residents, the counselors and staff seemed to enjoy it even more!

Thursday and Friday, August 21 and 22, were packed full of organizing schedules, giving tours and answering (and asking) loads of questions. Each new student got a first-hand account of the process of registration, fee-paying, and i.d. photos. Although all of these activities were time-consuming, they were made fun by doing them in groups.

August 19 at Jackson's Mill in Lewis County. These two days were filled with hours of hard work and hours of great fun. Diane Bach, Director of Student Life and Coordinator of the Freshman Counselors, organized training sessions on everything from GSC's administrative services to an assertiveness training program.

For the first time in the history of Glenville State College, freshman counselors were trained to help incoming frosh get organized with their GSC routines. Although this was a first-time event, it was deemed a success by not only the counselors and staff, but by the incoming freshmen themselves!

To kick off the extremely busy week, 60 staff, resident assistants and freshmen counselors spent Monday, August 18 and Tuesday,

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

On Thursday, September 11, the officers and members of GSC Student Congress met with President William K. Simmons at a luncheon in the Verona Maple Room. This occasion provided student leaders with the opportunity to informally discuss many aspects of the college programs which affect student life and academic standards.

As a college community, we are extremely happy that we will be retaining Dr. Simmons as President of our college. He has proven his effectiveness as a Chancellor of West Virginia Higher Education and we feel fortunate that we did not lose him to the system.

His dedication to Glenville State College has brought dreams to reality; and, soon we will see the ground breaking for the new Art and Music Building. Without this intervention and fight, this building would not have been possible. The new G.S.C. Nicholas County Center, dedicated this summer and opened for classes this fall, is another significant campus development of which we can all be proud. Glenville State College continues to be a viable force in the higher education system of West Virginia and will soon announce a record enrollment.

We are indeed fortunate to have this committed "Pioneer" leading our college in the challenging years ahead. WELCOME HOME TO STAY, PRESIDENT SIMMONS!!!

Residents Curse Alarms

A shrill scream fills the air; people scramble madly; angry voices curse the night's events. Is it "Friday the 13th Part 84?" Is it "The Towering Inferno" come to life? No!!! It's the Pickens Hall fire alarm reminding the campus of its presence.

Pickens Hall residents have been forced to live with the rude awakenings at odd hours of the night since the semester began. According to Laura Nauman, House Director at Pickens Hall, not all of these false alarms are the result of pranksters. She stated that the alarm is sensitive to such things as cigarette smoke and fumes from cleaning solutions.

Bruce Hathaway, Maintenance Director, explained that the system's sensors cannot be adjusted to make them less sensitive without bringing them below federal standards. However, the fire alarm system is not always so sensitive. This past weekend

Pickens Hall staff were forced to go door-to-door evacuating students because the alarm did not respond to an electrical malfunction. Mr. Hathaway stated that the alarm system is inspected each time it goes off but he did not mention if any problems had been found.

There are several things students can do to avoid setting off the alarms. They should avoid using products with strong odors or smoking near sensors. Scott Wing residents who smoke should either keep their suite ventilated by opening the suite door and turning on the exhaust fan in the bathroom or smoke in their rooms with the door shut.

Perhaps if students take a few precautions to avoid setting off the alarms, the administration can be convinced to correct the malfunctions in the system that endanger our lives and ruin our sleep.

Millersville Rolls Over Pioneers, 55 - 13

by Jesse Skiles

The Glenville State football team fell to 0-2 Saturday night by suffering a 55-13 loss to Millersville (PA). The team will begin their conference schedule this Saturday when Shepherd invades Pioneer Stadium.

Millersville led from the beginning, vaulting to a 35-7 halftime lead and then cruised to the large victory. The potent Millersville offense tallied 21 first downs in the contest.

Glenville was led in rushing by freshman Gary Holmes who rushed for a total of 39 yards in 13 carries. Chuck Wharton connected on 11 of 23 passes for 94 yards in the contest and also scored his first collegiate touchdown.

Eric Mitchell was the statistical star for the Pioneers, however, as he turned in a fine performance returning kicks. He returned five kick-offs for 132 yards, and two punts for 37 yards, and in all probability will be among the conference leaders in each category. Todd Layhew led the defense with 13 tackles while Jeff Evans led Pioneer receivers with five catches for 39 yards.

Glenville will return home this Saturday to embark on a crucial two-game home stand. For the next seven games the Pioneers will be facing conference competition. Even though they are now 0-2, they remain 0-0 in the WVIAC, and a victory Saturday would certainly get this season going in the right direction.

Saturday's game with the Shepherd Rams will be kicking off at 1:30 p.m. at Pioneer Stadium.

Walker: Experience in the Trenches

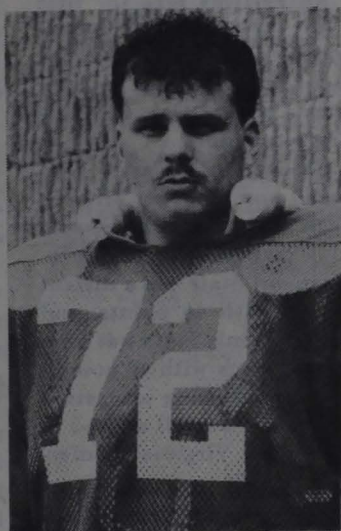

by Jesse Skiles

Dave Walker is the most experienced player on the Pioneer roster. When it comes to total games started and minutes played on the college level, no Pioneer can match the experience of the senior from Pineville.

Walker has never really received a great deal of recognition for his exploits though. Like so many other productive offensive linemen in the sport, the big guy performs in anonymity. Walker has probably never seen his name on a college stat sheet, and has rarely seen his name in the papers. "I learned a long time ago that the lack of recognition comes with the position," Walker said.

Now in his third year as a starter, Walker has been a part of some successful GSC football teams. In 1984, he was one of the blockers for All-American Byron Brooks who gained 846 yards that season. Walker, incidentally, cites 1984 as his personal best season.

Perhaps his success in college can be attributed somewhat to his fine high school program. He attended Pineville High School which is famous for producing Penn State and new Seattle SeaHawk star Curt Warner. The school is one of the better Class A programs in West Virginia and made the playoffs throughout Walker's high school career. His senior year, he was a Second Team All-State tackle.

As for the Pioneer offensive line in 1986, Walker sees this as a unique season. "We are throwing a lot more this season, which is quite different from my other three years here," Walker said. The big tackle went on to say that he feels the offensive line is a better pass blocking line and should benefit from the increased emphasis on passing. The Pioneers have put the ball in the air 67 times already this year.

As the season goes on, Dave Walker will continue to perform, relatively unrecognized. This does not take away from his value, though. Big Dave is a powerful force in the Pioneer offensive line...experience and strength, a winning combination.

Fall Golf Opens

by Jesse Skiles

Glenville golf coach Tim Carney took a group of five golfers to Lexington, Virginia last weekend and finished twelfth out of the 18-team field. The squad's two-day score was 323-321-644.

Individually, the team was led by freshman Bob Sowards who carded a 78-81-159. He was followed by Mike Dynda (81-79-160), Danny Wassick (83-79-162), Parker Long (83-82-165), and Jeff Bennett (81-86-167).

Carney had positive feelings on the weekend. "I was really pleased with the play of our freshmen. They played well and I think they are going to help us this year," Carney remarked. He went on to note, "It looks as though our squad will be much stronger."

On Monday September 22, Carney will take the team to a tournament in Youngstown, Ohio. Carney says that he will take basically a different group to that event, and hopefully learn a great deal more about where everybody stands.

Andy Jarrell: The Braxton Jet

by Steve Shumate

A year wiser and in much better physical condition, GSC sophomore cross country runner Andy Jarrell is enjoying his second season much more than his first and for good reason, too.

Jarrell, a 1985 Braxton County High School graduate, has placed second and first in GSC's first two meets of the 1986 campaign, being the Pioneers' first runner in both meets.

Last fall, in his first-ever cross country season, Jarrell didn't run nearly as well. He, as well as his teammates, struggled all season long. Jarrell placed 12th in the West Virginia Conference championships as the Pioneers gained a fifth place finish.

"I was disappointed in our team effort, our coaching and everything else last season," said Jarrell. "We could've done a lot better."

"I think we'll be a major factor this year," Jarrell, a Phys. Ed. major, continued. "We have the talent and coaching. We just have to have the desire to win."

That burning desire to win, to be the best, has driven Jarrell to increase his training mileage to over 50 miles (from his previous 30) per week throughout 1986. His better physical conditioning paced Jarrell to an outstanding track season and a fast start this fall.

Another factor helping him run faster is that his teammate Jay Dawkins, a Junior, is breathing down his neck. Dawkins was just 11 seconds back of Jarrell in GSC's latest meet. The two have developed a fierce rivalry over the past year, and both figure to be battling for GSC's top spot as well as for top honors at the conference meet in six weeks.

"We're both real competitive runners," Jarrell said of his relationship with Dawkins. "He had a great summer of racing, and a lot of people were surprised when I beat him. Jay makes me work a lot harder."

Team goals are more on Jarrell's mind now than beating Dawkins or his other teammates. "I wouldn't care to be number two or three man as long as we win the conference. Like my mom told me, 'you guys (Jay and Andy) are teammates' She's right. The team should come first."

And with that type of attitude to go along with continued improvement, the Pioneers may very well come first at the WVC meet on Oct. 31.

Look for Andy Jarrell's name up near the top of the heap.

Runners Shine at Tech

by Steve Keenan

An exciting race for first place between Andy Jarrell and Jay Dawkins highlighted the Glenville cross country team's win at Oak Hill this past weekend.

Coach Lou Geary's GSC squad won the West Virginia Tech Invitational by scoring a low team total of 21 points. Fairmont State was a distant second with 46 points, and West Virginia State was even further back with 63 points.

The convincing win raised GSC to 5-1 overall and 2-0 in the West Virginia Conference in 1986.

After a Fairmont runner took the early lead on the 5-mile layout at Oak Hill High School, Jarrell and Dawkins assumed command and ran side-by-side for most of the rest of the way. Jarrell finally surged between 3 1/2 and 4 miles and opened up a slight gap.

He won the race with a time of 28:02. Dawkins trailed in 28:13 for second place.

Glenville received good performances from its other runners, too. Junior Tom Clark crossed the line in 29:28 for fourth place. Sophomore Chris Shockey was sixth in 29:47, and freshman Jeff Trippett, GSC's final scoring runner, was eighth in 30:38. Senior Jesse Skiles (11th in 31:25) and freshman Jim Kelly (12th in 31:35) were non-scoring runners for the Pioneers, but they managed to finish ahead of Fairmont's fourth runner, thereby helping the GSC cause.

Two unattached runners attending Glenville, Bubby Dent and Danny Stowers, completed the course in 28:53 and 28:55, respectively.

GSC freshman Lori Barker was involved in an exciting race of her own in the women's division. She ran stride-for-stride with West Virginia State's Crystal Neal until Neal nipped her at the finish line. Neal ran 23:48 for the 3.2 mile course, while Barker was timed at 23:49. Another GSC frosh, Andrea Davisson, was fifth in 26:40 in her first meet.

"I think the guys are finding out that their hard work over the summer is paying off," remarked Coach Lou Geary. "At first, the Fairmont runners were up front, then we took command."

"The other teams are starting to see that we're running well again," Geary continued.

Glenville hosts its own invitational this Saturday at the Glenville Golf Club. Women's action begins at 10:45 a.m., and men's follows at 11:45 a.m. Seven teams are expected to participate on the same course that will be used for the WVC meet.

Let's get out and support the Pioneers!

Jesse's Place

Glenville State students obviously have some very strong ties to their homes. With the Pioneer football team in Millersville this weekend, those of us who stayed were able to view the first mass exodus of the 1986-87 school year.

After I returned from the cross country meet on Saturday afternoon, I had a half-hour to kill so I went over to the room of Student Congress president Kenny Pack and helped him count cars on the Pickens Hall parking lot. We counted 16 vehicles in the large lot (11 cars, 5 trucks... 13 two-door, 3 four-door). I tell ya', the place was pretty dead.

In my four years at GSC, it seems that autumn weekends with the Pioneer football team away are the most popular weekends to "get the h--- out of Glenville." I think this situation can be summed up in three short words ... high school football. In my opinion, it is far and away the most popular sport on campus, easily ahead of the major leagues, the NFL, the NBA, and NCAA football and basketball. I believe that just about everyone I know has talked high school football with me at one time or another. It seems that most people are intense fans, living and dying with the fortunes of their alma mater

... from the bulkiest of jocks to the dizziest of females.

The Friday night news has become somewhat of a ritual at Pickens Hall with many people gathering around the TV anxiously awaiting the scores. Then when the sports finally comes on, most every score is greeted with an outcry of emotion; either a cheer of jubilation or a scream of despair, and of course the playful teasing by the winners after the sports are off.

So many people from so many different high schools. This is something that is really special and something that I will miss when I leave here.

This weekend though, good ol' Glenville will be a hot spot for sports. Saturday morning will be the annual Pioneer cross country Invitational at the Glenville Golf Club. The runners of coach Lou Geary will be trying to extend their record trying to extend their 5-1 record. The afternoon will feature the football team's showdown with Shepherd. Since this is the team's first conference game, it is sort of like the season is just starting. It will be a big game for our young Pioneers.

Volleyball Team Scrimmages

by Jesse Skiles

It now seems that volleyball is here to stay for the 1986 season. Kay Chico's team raised its membership to nine last week and topped everything off with a scrimmage with visiting Salem. Chico says the squad may swell to as large as twelve before the season opener.

Chico was very pleased with the play of her team, and is excited about the season. "I see a lot of potential on this team...we picked up on the offensive and defensive patterns pretty well," Chico said. She also went on to state that she is now more aware of where the teams's weaknesses are, and where most of the work needs to be done.

This Thursday the team will travel to Fairmont to participate in a tri-match. The opponents will be Fairmont State and California State of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Mark Keefe Joins

One may wonder who the new education instructor is on campus this year at GSC. He is Dr. Mark Keefe, a Norfolk, VA native, who is also the new Director of Field Experiences and an Assistant Professor in our ever-growing Teacher Education program.

As Director of Field Experiences, Keefe's job is to oversee and maintain the placement and supervision of GSC's student teachers on seven counties throughout West Virginia. When asked, "Is your job time-consuming?" Keefe replied, "This job requires my full attention Monday through Friday. It is more than an 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. job; sometimes I utilize night and weekend time to plan effective communication strategies for working with schools, networking our resources, interpreting new state certification guidelines, preparing for my courses; the list goes on." He teaches two sections of Curriculum and Instruction for Secondary teacher education majors. He will also be teaching the Theories of Learning course in the coming semesters.

Much of Dr. Keefe's time will be spent traveling from county to county overseeing the placement and supervision of all practicum and student teachers at GSC. That totals 150 "future teachers" this year!

Keefe received his B.S. in Health and Physical Education, and his Masters in Educational Leadership and Public School Administration from Old Dominion University. He served in a similar position for an elementary teacher education program at the University of Massachusetts, where he earned his Doctorate.

His most rewarding experiences include his past work in the areas of day care, mental/physical retardation and his most recent position as the coordinator for a tutoring program serving Cambodian refugees in western Massachusetts. His interest in Asian cultures stems from a world tour in 1980 where he examined elementary, secondary and post-secondary schools in Singapore, Malaysia, Thailand, Cambodia, Laos, Hong Kong, Taiwan, India, and the United Kingdom.

Why Glenville State College? "I wanted to work in an institution where I could influence and work closely with faculty who were motivated by the new directions challenging teacher educators today. Glenville State has a good reputation as 'the' teacher training institution in West Virginia, and I want to contribute to such a successful effort."

Commenting briefly on his new position, Keefe interjected, "So far I have enjoyed every aspect of my responsibilities at GSC and must credit Patty Dugger, our key player in the Teacher Education office, with making my transition here a smooth one. Her hard work, diligence, and attention to detail has served both students and faculty well."

Dr. Keefe comments favorably on students citing a

"high-spirited, talented and motivated student body. The facilities are modern; however, I haven't found the racquetball courts yet!" He also stated, "Everyone seems to work together cooperatively as one common community—everyone knows everyone else."

Dr. Keefe intends to stay at GSC indefinitely. His goal is to understand higher education in West Virginia as it impacts teacher education and to help GSC maintain its quality certification programs.

"We're Out for Blood"

The time is nearing for the next Gilmer County Chapter of the Red Cross Blood Drive held at the Wesley Foundation.

Many people who wish to donate blood refrain because of the growing concern of contracting AIDS. Karen Frank, coordinator of the blood drive effort, would like to insure everyone that all the equipment used is sanitary and blood collection is performed by licensed registered nurses. The Red Cross stresses that "the thermometers, lancets used for the ear-stick, and needles, are sterile." All of these items are used only once and then discarded. There is no danger of getting AIDS by giving blood.

Juice and cookies will be served; these were donated by the TKE's and Lambda Chi's.

The drive will be held Tuesday, September 23, from 12 noon until 6 p.m.

Frank at Foundation

Students and faculty who've ventured near the Wesley Foundation of late have probably found a new face. This face probably belongs to Rev. Karen Frank, the new campus pastor.

This, however, is not Rev. Frank's first stay at GSC. She was a December graduate in 1971 with a B.A. in Education (majoring in physical education). Since then she has taught in schools from 1971 to 1975. Among her other credentials is an M.A. in counseling from WVU and a Master of Divinity from United Theological Seminary in Dayton, Ohio. It was after graduating from the latter institution that Rev. Frank entered the ministry.

Rev. Frank says that returning to Glenville is "almost like coming home" and that it is "refreshing to be back on a campus."

A new program beginning immediately that Rev. Frank is particularly excited about is the Intensive Care Units that the Foundation is now offering. These, she says, are support groups not necessarily of religious nature. It is not an encounter group but a "growth group" in which the participants decide what sort of topics or discussions take place. Any students who have problems such as loneliness, boredom, or any trying situation and want to work out their problems in a caring atmosphere should contact Lisa Crutchfield, Joe Mazzella, or Rev. Frank.

Perhaps indicative of Rev. Frank's philosophies, the campus chapel has been named the "Rainbow Chapel." It is named such because of how the diversity of colors in a rainbow unite in the beauty of God, much the same as the diversity of people who unite for the same purpose. Rev. Frank wants to give GSC students an alternative on campus. She wants to promote a "non-threatening atmosphere for growth" that thrives on group discussion.

Upon leaving Rev. Frank's office one gets the idea that we have on our campus a caring, comfortable, pastor with a wry sense of humor and a sincere desire to establish a meaningful program. by Craig Drennen

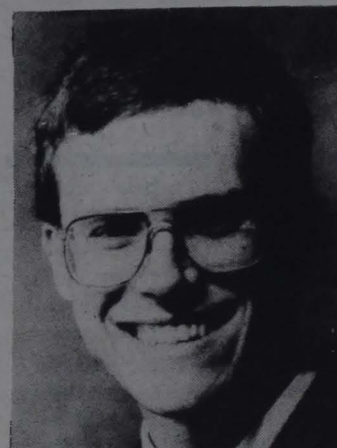

Starkey and Chamberlain Hold Recital at Glenville

Deborah Starkey, soprano, and Robert Chamberlain, piano, will present a recital of art songs at Glenville State College, on Thursday, September 18 at 8:00 p.m. The program will feature songs by Haydn, Schubert, Faure, Argento, and George Gershwin.

Starkey, a native of Vienna, West Virginia, holds a Bachelor of Music Education, summa cum laude, from West Virginia Wesleyan College and a Master of Music from North Texas State University, studying voice with Caroline

Dees, Laurel Miller, and Deborah Lucas. She has taught voice at Glenville State College and Marietta College.

Chamberlain, from Melbourne, Australia, received his Bachelor of Music with Honours from the University of Melbourne with piano studies under Max Cooke and returns to Melbourne in the fall under a research grant to continue his Master's Degree. In 1984 he was a member of Australia's Team of Pianists, participating in its overseas study tour.

tion from taking place with the Chinese citizens, but the group did manage to experience the Chinese lifestyle first hand.

They stayed in second rate accommodations, endured endless hours of classes, toured factories, and utilized Chinese transportation. They also consumed Chinese food, which according to both professors, "is not like the Chinese food that Americans call Chinese food."

The Chinese people were very quick to demonstrate pride in their history and traditions, but at the same time displayed their advances in industrialization. Some of the factories toured were very much up-to-date in using Western technology, while others were very primitive. This country is trying very hard to catch up with the West and is doing a remarkable job considering their late start.

On July 19, sixteen very tired instructors returned to their respective colleges with the assignment of preparing a twenty page module for the program. These modules will be utilized in every college and university in West Virginia. Glenville State students are very lucky to have two experienced professors in their classrooms who can bring to them a part of China through their slides and lectures. A part of the agreement for the project involves the professors devoting 20 percent of their World Cultures classes to the study of China. So enjoy a visit to China through the experiences of Dr. Hilgenberg and Dr. Hymes.

Death Row prisoner, Caucasian male, age 40, desires correspondence with either male or female college students. Wants to form a friendly relationship and more or less just exchange past experiences and ideas. Will answer all letters and exchange pictures.
