Professor Returns

Charles Scott expected a letter informing him whether or not he had earned a spot in the Fulbright Teacher Exchange Program. Instead, he answered his phone around 7 p.m. one evening, and the voice on the other end explained to Scott that he had indeed earned the honor of participating in the prestigious year-long teacher exchange program administered by the United States Information Agency.

Scott's caller turned out to be David Webster, an instructor at the Southport College of Art and Technology in Southport, a resort city of 90,000 in Northwestern England. From August 1985 to July 1986, Scott and Webster simply switched

Faculty Contributes

How does a college teacher spend his spare time? Six Glenville State College faculty members recently gave some of that spare time to help county school systems with the in-service days prior to the opening of the 1986-87 public school year.

Public school systems are required to offer in-service, continuing education hours to teachers. These school systems depend heavily upon state college and university faculties for those hours.

Dr. Joe Evans traveled to Atkins High School, Hurricane High School, and John Adams Junior High School in Kanawha County for three different sessions in Science and Comprehensive Test of Basic Skill, Inquiry Teaching, and Enhancing Questioning.

Mrs. Sharon Kraus went to Point Pleasant High School and Pleasants County Middle School for sessions of Coping With Stress.

Mr. Jim Meads traveled to John Adams Junior High for single and team-teaching sessions with Joe Evans in Enhancing Questioning.

Dr. Lowell Peterson presented a science workshop at Parkersburg Community College and Dr. Craig Etchison took Writing as a Classroom Activity to Doddridge County High School.

WV International Film Festival:

Filmmakers to Visit Campus

One of America's best reviewed, young film directors, Eagle Pennell, and the visiting director of this year's West Virginia International Film Festival, Mark Rance, will be on the Glenville State College campus October 16, 1986 at 2:00 p.m. in the college auditorium.

Mr. Pennell and Mr. Rance will be in the state from October 12-19 as guests of the West Virginia International Film Festival in Charleston. They hope to create an annual event, bringing filmmakers to West Virginia to get a personal perspective on current cinema.

Born and raised in the small west Texas town of Andrews, Pennell, a self-taught filmmaker, completed his first film at the age of 25. After leaving the University of Texas (Austin) Pennell was impressed with watching Tobe Hooper make an independent feature "sort of in the middle of nowhere." That film was "The Texas Chainsaw Massacre," but the major influences Pennell cites are Frank Capra for that filmmaker's interest in the "common man" and John Ford for both the way that director tells stories and his "instinctive" manner of shooting.

Pennell worked as a cameraman for four years during which time he shot a number of commercials and completed his own documentary of rodeos. His first dramatic film was a short, "Hell of a Note," in which Lou Perry and Sonny Davis - the two leads of "The Whole Shootin' Match" - appeared for the first time. They also star in Pennell's most recent film, "Last Night at the Alamo."

Eagle Pennell and Mark Rance, a director in his own right, are being brought to the Glenville campus by the Cultural Affairs Committee.

Parking Poses Problems

Parking -- this topic has been cussed, discussed, argued over, whined about, and editorialized ad nauseum but no solutions have been found for the lack of parking places on campus.

There are several factors contributing to the problem. First, for the 473 legal parking places available on campus, there have been 735 permits issued so far. Of the available spaces, one is reserved for campus police, eight are reserved for college-owned vehicles, forty-three are reserved for faculty, and two are reserved for the handicapped.

Second, no one knows where they can park. Yes, Virginia, you can park behind the library, and by the P.E. Building, and Firestone Lodge, and Pickens Hall, and Clark Hall, and the lot by the President's house, and by the Pioneer Center. However, you cannot park by the Administration Building because that lot is reserved for faculty; nor can you park in any space marked reserved for handicapped, college-owned vehicles, or police; nor can you park outside designated areas (unless you are the campus police, then you can park on the sidewalk or, if you drive a college-owned vehicle, in which case you can park in the 2 handicapped places).

My advice to those of you who complain about not being able to find a parking place is get here long enough before class to check all the lots and be willing to walk from Pickens to Clark Hall; you may not be able to park by the door every time. Try forming carpools. If you still have trouble, complain to the administration; it's their job to serve you!

The GSC Theatre department is pressing on toward production of "Thieves Carnival." With the roles cast, the technical work is getting into full swing. Anyone who is interested in working on the technical crew should attend the technical meeting Thursday evening at 7:00 in the Underground.

John F. Curran, Jr. and Mary Ross are continuing their final directing projects jointly entitled "Memories." These shows will be presented the evening of October 28 at 8:00.

Letters to the Editor should be signed and delivered to the Mercury Office in a sealed envelope to insure confidentiality. All letters will be printed exactly as received. Spelling, punctuation, and grammatical errors will not be corrected. Please proofread your letter to avoid embarrassment.

Sigma Sigma Sigma

The Delta Alpha chapter of the Sigma Sigma Sigma Sorority held their ceremonial meeting Thurs., Oct. 2, at 7 p.m. Several fund raisers were discussed, for more information see Tracy.

Good job girls! Pinning went very nicely! Also, we would like to welcome our newest pledge: Charlene Cole! Congratulations Charlene!

Thanks to Tracy, Danette, and everyone else who worked on the banner. Good job, girls! Also, congratulations to the football team on their win at the homecoming game!

Our awards this week are: Sis of the week - everyone who worked on the banner. Sigma Sweetheart - the football team for their win over State. A pat on the back for the GSC Marching Band - you looked and sounded great on the field.

Ohningohow Players

The Ohningohow Players had an executive meeting last Wednesday and discussed a variety of topics. Since it was an executive meeting the mysterious discussions of the O'how braintrust shall remain secret. However, suffice it to say that some new, exciting things are coming up in the future of Ohningohow.

There's going to be a meeting of all Ohningohow Players this Wednesday at 5:30 in the underground. All members are urged to attend to see what new things are going on.

Ladies of the White Rose

The Ladies held their regular meeting Thursday, October 2, at 6:00 in the Wesley Foundation Chapel.

Congratulations to the new Ladies on picking up their bids. They are: Cindy Batton, Monna Beamer, Traci Chapman, Lisa Crutchfield, Carla Cutlip, Beth Edman, Sherri Hardman, Ramonda Hoover, Connie Meadows, Lisa Miller, Julie Mitchell, Lisa Nichols, Tracy Romine, and Serena Williams.

Dayna would like to thank Janet Cowger for her help on the banner and Debbie Tice, Mitzi Whited, and Lisa Nichols for their help on the float. We love ya Chi's!

Kappa Delta Pi

Kappa Delta Pi will hold a special meeting on Oct. 13 at 12:15 in 002 CH. If you wish to have any input in the organization this semester you should plan to attend. Please feel free to bring your lunch.

SEA

An organizational meeting will be held on October 8 from 4-5 p.m. in Room 101, Clark Hall for the purpose of reactivating the Student Education Association. Membership in the Association holds many benefits and there will be speakers present to describe them. The dues include affiliation with the national, state and local organization and are twenty dollars per year. All education majors should take advantage of SEA membership because many pertinent educational issues will be discussed throughout the year. John James, associate professor of education, with the help of Dean Paul Borthwick, is serving as the local chapter sponsor.

Lambda Chi Alpha

Lambda Chi Alpha's Beta Beta chapter held their weekly meeting at the Wesley Foundation on Sunday.

Associates are reminded of their Kappa meeting on Wednesday at 6 p.m. in AB 307. On Thursday, there is a meeting in Jesse and Andy's room at 9 p.m.

Awards for this week: KCUF - Luther 'I can't believe it' Toney, AH - Dwayne 'Pyromaniac' Boothe with honorary to Frank Vincent for punting from the opponent's 26 yard line at homecoming, POW - Mike 'Two-for-one' Nicholas, and WINO - 'P', Tom Evans, Dwayne Boothe, and Will Adkins for keeping the Pub in business.

Hey Ladies of the White Rose! We are having a picnic just for you on a Thursday from 5 to 7:30 at Cedar Creek State Park. Find a Chi or your president (Dayna Smith) and find out if the picnic is this week or next week. We love ya!

PBL meeting Thurs. Oct. 9, 12:30 AB 100. All business majors welcome.

West Liberty Rally Tops Pioneers

by Jesse Skiles

Glenville State's Pioneers put together another strong effort Saturday, but again came away with a heartbreaking defeat. Despite leading 9-0 at the half, GSC succumbed to a second half West Liberty rally and bowed 17-9.

Andy Pfefferkorn and Mark Szklennik accounted for the first half Glenville points. Pfefferkorn scored on a one-yard plunge, while Szklennik connected on a 43-yard field goal. This boot was only two yards shy of being the longest field goal in Glenville history.

West Liberty came storming back in the second half behind the arm of quarterback Doug Karas. Karas hit on nine aeriels in the second half for 150 yards, as the Hilltoppers mounted a 17-9 lead.

Glenville quarterback Mitch Pantak helped lead a Pioneer charge late in the game with passing of his own. The Pioneers came up empty, however, and the game ended as a 17-9 West Liberty win.

This week the Pioneers will invade Salem to face the 0-4 Salem Tigers. Over the past couple of years, the Pioneers have played the Tigers very well despite their nationally ranked squads. Last year the Pioneers led 14-9 at the half, but ended up losing 42-20.

Glenville is now 1-4 overall and 1-2 in the conference. This Saturday's game will be at Salem's Catalano Stadium with the kickoff scheduled for 1:30.

Jesse's Place

This Saturday the Pioneer football team will be traveling to Salem to face Corky Griffith's 0-4 Tigers. To many, this may not seem like that big of a game, but to others it is certainly a game of interest.

Griffith and Pioneer mentor Frank Vincent were at one time rival coaches in the Kanawha Valley Conference. This will be their first meeting since back in October of 1979 when Vincent's Charleston High Mountain Lions lost to Griffith's Dupont Panthers, 10-7. At that time I was merely a skinny sophomore on the DuPont squad.

Simply put, there is no one person in this world that I respect more than Corky Griffith. As far as being a motivator, teacher, and friend all in one, nobody can compare and probably never will.

While at DuPont, Griffith had a 91-31 record and the Panthers made the Class AAA Championship game three times. I'm sure that it is just killing him suffering through a rebuilding season at Salem.

I can remember well a very stimulating lecture he gave us before the Charleston game on the little things that need to be done to beat a Frank Vincent-coached team. I wonder if the Tigers are getting that same lecture this week.

Cujo: A Man of Versatility

by Jesse Skiles

In three years at Glenville, Tim Cugini has bounced all over the Pioneer interior line, performing well at several positions. Through victories as well as defeats, "Cujo" has been a mainstay on the Pioneer defense.

Back in 1984, Cugini came to Glenville as a standout recruit from Timken High School in Canton, Ohio. As an offensive tackle at Timken, he was an All-County performer and also earned All-Northeast Ohio honors.

Cugini broke into the starting lineup midway through his freshman year in a 38-12 victory at WV Wesleyan. He continued to start at guard for the remainder of the year at the Pioneers finished 6-3.

When 1985 rolled around, Frank Vincent was in search of a center and Cugini was moved. He spent the entire season as starting center and says that it was quite an experience. "I hated it...I never really adjusted to making the snap plus firing out. It takes someone special to play center," Cugini said.

This season he was moved back to guard, but was moved to tackle for the West Liberty game. "Cujo" was pleased with this move and elaborated, "I felt comfortable at tackle. I have no idea why they moved me there, but I'm glad."

Cugini says that he really enjoys being an offensive lineman. "I love to block for backs, especially when I have always had guys behind me like Andy Pfefferkorn, who really run hard," Cugini said.

Cujo says that his parents are also a key source of motivation. "My mom and dad come to every game, home or away. They're really great," Cugini said. Whether at center, guard, or tackle, he will continue to prosper on the interior of the Pioneer offense.

Golfers Shoot Well in Wooster

by Jesse Skiles

Glenville's golf team played in their third fall tournament over the weekend in Wooster, Ohio. It was a fairly successful trip for Tim Carney's squad as the team finished sixth in the eighteen team field.

Mike Dynda led the way for Glenville in the two-day tournament by firing a 75-77-152. He was followed by Bob Sowards 75-81-156, Parker Long 79-79-158, Jeff Wine 83-78-161, Bill Forrest 84-82-166, and Mark Wanstreet 91-89-180. The Pioneers carded a team score of 793, only 23 strokes behind victorious Gannon College.

Coach Carney was happy with the scores and remarked that it was the best overall team performance so far this fall. "We kept it under an 80-average for both days and that is something that we strive for," Carney said. The Pioneers were in fifth place after the first day of competition.

The golfers will be closing the fall schedule this Friday and Saturday. They will be traveling to the Malone Invitational in Canton, Ohio.

Volleyballers Take One of Five

by Jesse Skiles

Glenville State's volleyball team ventured to Athens, West Virginia Saturday to participate in the Concord Invitational. Coach Kay Chico's squad came away with one victory out of five matches in the tournament.

Glenville's victory came over Berea (KY) in a tightly played match that took three games to decide a victor. Glenville opened with a 15-11 victory in game one and fell 15-1 in game two, but recovered to take the match 15-11. This was Glenville's fourth match of the tournament.

King College (TN) was the first opponent for Chico's squad and Glenville bowed, 15-7, 15-1. This was followed by a hard fought three match loss to Concord 15-8, 14-16, 15-2. The other defeats were to Mars Hill (NC) 15-1, 15-3, and Rio Grande (OH) 15-5, 15-3.

The volleyball squad is now 3-14 overall. Their conference slate now stands at 2-10.

Intramural Jogging begins Monday Oct. 13. Sign up in the Phys. Ed. Office or see Coach Lilly.

Runners Win State Invitational, Raise Record to 13-1

by Steve Keenan

Despite missing the services of top runner Andy Jarrell, the GSC cross country team cruised to yet another triumph over the weekend.

Glenville placed its five scoring runners in the top seven to record a low team score of 20 points and defeat four other teams at the West Virginia State College Invitational. The meet was contested at Camp Virgil Tate Saturday.

Jay Dawkins took individual honors with a time of 29:51 over the hilly 5-mile course. Tom Clark placed second in 30:01. Chris Shockey was fourth in 30:42, Jim Kelly was sixth in 31:23, and Jeff Trippett was seventh in 31:38. A first-time runner for the Pioneers, John Fitzpatrick, placed 15th with a time of 35:50.

GSC's Lori Barker continued to run well in the women's division. The freshman nabbed second place with a 3-mile time of 24:08. With an injury still sidelining teammate Andrea Davisson, Barker has been the Pioneers' only female participant of late.

The Pioneer men had an easy day of it in the team race. GSC scored 20 points (15 is a perfect score.) Morehead tallied 54, West Virginia State 66, West Virginia Tech 115, and West Virginia Wesleyan 95. The showing improved Lou Geary's squad to 13-1 overall and 7-0 in the West Virginia Conference.

GSC travels to Fairmont Saturday for an invitational meet which should offer some stiff competition. The Pioneers will once again have the services of Andy Jarrell, who missed due to testing, and Jesse Skiles, who has been slowed by illness.

Barker Experiencing GSC Running Glory

by Steve Keenan

College freshmen have to make adjustments. Sometimes it's even more difficult for student-athletes, since they have to juggle study time with practice time, not to mention all other aspects of life away from home.

Lori Barker, a freshman member of the Glenville women's cross country team, has had to endure these changes in lifestyle and locale, and so far she seems to be handling things well.

Barker, a 1986 graduate of Midland Trail High School where she placed third in the state track meet in both the 1600 and 3200 meters, has established herself as a force with which to reckon in the West Virginia Conference this fall.

She's placed second in two meets, sixth in one meet, and tenth in one meet. Only one girl, West Virginia State's Crystal Neal, has beaten

Lori Barker

Barker in competition among WVC females. Barker and Neal, along with a couple of girls from West Liberty, figure to be fighting it out for the number one position at the conference meet.

Barker is training more than ever (the 34 miles she recorded last week was her highest total ever), and she feels she's becoming a stronger runner. Plus, Barker has to get used to running without a full team to back her up.

Andrea Davisson, Lori's only teammate, has been out with an injury, so Barker has competed in two meets as GSC's lone female. "It would make it more fun if we had a team. We would push each other more," she said.

Morning runs are a big aid in her training, Barker feels. She is one of a group which runs four miles nearly every morning at 6 a.m. "I like the morning runs," she stated. "In high school, I wasn't even thinking about getting up at 6 a.m., much less running."

The male runners have helped a lot, Barker says. "They made me feel right at home, and training with

WVIAC Player of the Week

Woodhouse Honored

Aaron Woodhouse, Glenville's standout freshman defensive lineman, received WVIAC Player of the Week honors for his exploits in the victory over West Virginia State. He is the first Pioneer to attain Player of the Week in two years.

Woodhouse had eight tackles and four assists in the game plus four quarterback sacks. He is a 6'3", 230 pound defensive end from Portsmouth, Virginia. He led a Pioneer defense that shut down the Yellow Jackets for a 6-5 win, and a convincing defensive performance.

places. Webster came to Glenville and took over Scott's car, home and classes, while Scott returned the favor and assumed Webster's surroundings.

It was a year Charles Scott won't be likely to forget in the near future.

In addition to teaching Webster's classes, which included projects set up by course tutors in general art and design education, Scott and his wife Janet got to experience European culture first-hand.

They were treated to hearing and attempting to decipher numerous dialects. They had time to sample the multitude of small shops catering to nearly every whim. During a spring vacation of approximately two and one-half weeks, the Scotts traveled to the Republic of Ireland, and they took a ferry from Dover, England to Oostende, Belgium. From there, they drove through Belgium, France, Luxembourg, Switzerland, Germany, and the Netherlands.

All in all, the Scotts drove 15,000 miles throughout the United Kingdom, visiting such places as Wales, Scotland, Northern Ireland, and the Outer Hebrides. Of course, they had to conquer the British way of driving before they could go anywhere.

"At first, it was hard to get used to driving from the left side of the road. Then, you have to get used to driving in the roundabouts," said Scott. "After a while, it wasn't as bad."

Ohnimgohow...Oldest on Campus Players Celebrate 60th

by Lisa McHenry

On October 8, 1926, a small group of theatre enthusiasts at GSC felt the need to form a theatre-affiliated organization. This auxiliary would help with the production of plays and provide some honor for the participants. Later in that same year the name Ohnimgohow was adopted for the group. This word, in its original Indian meaning, means "the meeting of two rivers."

Translated in theatre language, one might say it meant the confluence of acting and technical work. The first two shows presented by the group 60 years ago were "Goodnight, Station YYYY" and "The Valiant."

This week Ohnimgohow celebrates its sixtieth anniversary. The current membership is planning a Mardi Gras on Wednesday, October 8, from 12 noon to 12 midnight at the amphitheatre. Face painting, dancing, refreshments, and costume contests will all be part of the festivities.

Everyone is encouraged to come and join in the celebration, and we congratulate Ohnimgohow's 60 years of fine contributions to Glenville State College.

A good part of the transportation system that Scott said he'd 'really miss' was the mass transit. "You could pay one pound ($1.45) and ride the bus or train to Liverpool and back."

The Southport College emphasized art in a more professional vein rather than towards the education end, according to Scott, who is a professor of art in his twenty-seventh year at GSC. "They have a different approach. They think more toward professional art," Scott explained. "The students are better off in the arts area over there, but here they're better otherwise academically."

"Overall, it was a very educational and intriguing experience," Scott related. "I've brought back lots of good ideas which my students should enjoy."

As far as going back: "I'd love to go back again. I'd love to live there."

To qualify for the Fulbright program, Scott first submitted a resume then underwent an interview involving five interviewers. Finally, they matched up the applicants with their foreign counterparts.

"The program is a very profitable one," Scott said of the Fulbright, which was initiated in 1961. "GSC faculty members should avail themselves of the opportunity."

Scott, who was West Virginia's only representative last year, urges all GSC faculty to contact him for the information. Application forms and resumes must be submitted no later than October 15.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Last week I wrote in a letter asking a multitude of questions. At the risk of making this section appear as my weekly column, I wish to make another entry.

Of all the comments I heard about my letter last week, I found that most applied to the alleged overweight welfare recipients. I find it interesting that people's ire was raised by such a meaningless observation. Of all the questions asked, that particular question ("If our welfare people are so hungry, why are so many of them fat?") was the most inane subject touched upon. This question was totally lacking in any importance in the face of world events, but I notice that this campus's interest in political issues is much less than its indignation at a pointless, yet mildly offensive question.

How can we let our minds tarry on these levitous nothings when commanding issues could possess our thoughts?

Well GSC, you have proven my dreaded hunch. The trivialities of our lives are apparently all-consuming, while our unstable future is made subordinate to our nonsensical indignation over meaningless matters.

If I may, I'll leave you with one more question. Why is it not until election year that our government begins to worry about drugs and Apartheid?

(Matt. 22:37-38) "Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind." This is the first and greatest commandment.

Too many times we put other things before God. We always find time to do the things we want to do from going golfing on a beautiful Sunday morning or watching TV to doing drugs. But when God wants us to live for him or do things for him, we're too busy. Too many people are making alcohol, drugs, or simple activities their God. I just pray that people will wake up and see that what they're doing is wrong.

There is only one God out there and he is ready to come into your heart. All you have to do is accept him and commit yourself to him. Please do that before it's too late.

This week Baptist Campus Ministry is meeting in the basement of the First Baptist Church on Main Street Thursday at 7:30 p.m. We will be watching a film on "His Image My Image" by Josh McDowell.
