Campus is Honored

President William K. Simmons has accepted, on behalf of Glenville State College, a merit award for a recent landscaping project.

On Saturday, October 4 at the Blennerhassett Hotel in Parkersburg, Dr. Simmons accepted the award from David Keiser, President elect of the West Virginia Chapter of Landscape Architects.

The Council of Landscape Architectural Registration Boards (CLARB) annually selects outstanding landscape projects for honors. Entries must be in-state projects and must be nominated by an architectural firm.

This year there were seven entries. Glenville State College was nominated by Hoblitzell, Daley, and McIntire Architectural firm of Charleston. The judges of the entries were from Kentucky.

West Virginia is part of Region no. 2 of CLARB. States included in this region are West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, and Missouri.

Those accepting the award were Mr. Robert Wilson, representing the Board of Regents; Dr. Simmons of GSC; and Mr. R. Jack Ankrom, the architect of the project.

After receiving the award,

Dr. Simmons said he was "extremely proud of the honor and extremely proud that Hoblitzell, Daley, and McIntire had paid GSC the compliment of nominating it."

Simmons went on to say that the landscaping project not only enhances the beauty of the campus, but also augments the pride that students, community, faculty, administrators and staff feel for the GSC campus.

Simmons concluded by saying, "This is another first for Glenville - our own gas wells, and now we are in the business of winning awards for our landscaping projects."

GSC Offers Clinic

by Mahala Strauss

This past Saturday, October 18, Glenville State College was host to its First Annual Cheerleading Clinic. According to Mrs. Piercy, advisor to GSC's own cheerleading squad, the event will introduce the college to area students and aid in recruitment.

There were 61 participants from area schools. Schools attending were Pleasant Hill, Weston Jr. High, Richwood, Sand Fork, Glenville, and Gilmer County High School.

Among the activities scheduled were a cheer class, a sidelines class, a dance class, a competition between schools, and cheering at the Pioneer football game against the Fairmont Falcons.

Richwood High School received the spirit award and Weston Junior High School was named Outstanding Cheerleading Squad.

GLAMOUR Seeks Top Ten Women

Glenville State College students are invited to participate in GLAMOUR Magazine's 1987 Top Ten College Women Competition. Young women from colleges and universities throughout the country will compete in GLAMOUR's search for ten outstanding students. A panel of GLAMOUR editors will select the winners on the basis of their solid records of achievement in academic studies and/or extracurricular activities on campus or in the community.

The 1987 Top Ten College Women will be featured in GLAMOUR's August College Issue. During May, June or July, the ten winners will receive an all-expenses-paid trip to New York City and will participate in meetings with professionals in their area of interest.

Anyone who is interested in entering the search should contact Yvonne King at the Mercury for more information. The deadline for submitting an application to GLAMOUR is December 19, 1986.

New Programs Announced

Glenville State College is again announcing a new program. This program is an associate in science with a major in business technology with options in arts management, food service management, printing/media management, and resort area management.

The associate in science degree in business technology has a core of courses which provide a strong background in business as well as a group of courses designed around a central industry-related theme. The program provides the skills necessary for entry-level positions and potential career growth in areas identified as having particularly strong increases in employment within the context of West Virginia's economy.

The core courses are 39 hours of general studies classes required for all five options. The student will select one of the five options to provide related industry-specific skills.

The arts management option provides the student with a combination of business fundamentals and art for employment in arts and crafts facilities, art retail establishments, and art merchandising in department stores.

The food service management program is designed to train persons in the operation of commercial eating establishments such as fast food restaurants and in institutional settings such as hospital food service and college dining halls.

The music management option equips the student for entry-level positions in the rapidly-expanding retail music industry and offers a

Darnall Accepting Applications for Legislative Fellows Programs

by Lesa Hendershot

Dr. Joe Darnall has announced that he is taking applications for the Frazure-Singleton Student Legislative and the Judith Herndon Legislative Fellows Programs.

The Frazure-Singleton Student Legislative Program provides an opportunity for students to observe for one week the West Virginia Legislature during the 1987 regular session.

In this program students work on a one-to-one basis with legislators. The students observe committee meetings, floor sessions, and hearings. Included in the scheduled activities will be discussion sessions with members of the executive and legislative branches of the state government as well as lobbyists and the press.

This one week program is open to all full-time sophomores, juniors, and seniors who have completed one course in political science. Housing, two meals, and transportation while in Charleston are provided by the program. All other expenses must be absorbed by the participants.

Some Proposals Concerning College Athletics

Big-time college athletics is mired in scandal. Top high-school athletes are lured by recruiters with under-the-table payments. Players who can barely read or write are admitted to well-known colleges, then kept academically eligible just so they can compete in sports. Coaches, alumni and school boosters regularly bend and break rules, all in the name of victory.

The bottom line is cold, hard cash, reports the October Reader's Digest. Winning guarantees income. Football alone can generate up to $10 million a year in some schools. Last season 18 bowl games disbursed over $40 million.

Schools will often do almost anything to ensure success. The NCAA revealed this year that Texas Christian University boosters handed over cash payments of $49,025 to one student and $37,500 to another. In New Orleans, Tulane University abolished its varsity basketball team following disclosure that players were paid to take part in a point-shaving scheme.

As if all this were not enough, the specter of drugs hangs over American athletic programs. At Clemson University, in South Carolina, three former coaches pleaded guilty to illegally dispensing steroids and phenylbutazone, an anti-inflammatory agent. At the University of Maryland, Len Bias, No. 1 draft choice of the Boston Celtics, died in June of cocaine intoxication.

Hurt most by schools looking the other way are the student athletes themselves. Bias's death was followed by the revelation that he had not passed a single academic course last spring. In 1982, basketball player Kevin Ross confirmed the shocking story that he had played four seasons for Creighton University even though his reading and writing ability was no better than grade-school level. Only a minute fraction of these student athletes ever become professional athletes. Once their college eligibility is used up, most are left to fend for themselves as best they can.

Without a doubt, reform in college sports is sorely needed, and the NCAA is making a start. This year the NCAA began phasing in a significant rule change affecting academic eligibility for athletes. Known as Proposition 48, the measure is scheduled to be fully implemented by 1988. At that time, for athletes to be eligible, they must have achieved a 2.0 (C) high-school grade-point average in a core curriculum of 11 academic subjects, as well as a minimum combined score of 700 out of 1600 in the SAT, or a composite score of 15 out of 35 in the ACT Assessment Program. The NCAA has also approved drug testing at football-bowl games and at selected NCAA championship events.

Reader's Digest suggests the following additional steps:

1. Declare freshmen ineligible for varsity sports. Freshmen need time to adjust to college life.
2. Require satisfactory progress toward a degree. Student athletes must be required to fulfill the same core-curriculum requirements as non-athletes. No student should be allowed to play varsity sports unless he or she is on schedule to graduate within five years.

3. Integrate athletes into campus life. Athletic dorms should be abolished, seasons shortened and practice requirements reduced.

4. Make drug testing mandatory. For those who test positive, one violation should result in suspension from varsity sports, and drug counseling. Two more violations should bar the individual from intercollegiate athletics.

5. Share television revenues equally. TV income should be shared among all schools playing big sports—not just the ones that appear on TV.

6. Ban boosters. Boosters should have no place in recruiting of athletes. Recruiting should be controlled by the college president, not by partnerships of boosters and autonomous athletic departments and booster clubs.

7. Increase financial aid. Since the NCAA prohibits student athletes from holding jobs during an academic year, they should be given a stipend to cover basic necessities.

Golfers' Fall Season Ends

With the tournament at Malone two weeks ago, the fall golf schedule is now complete. In reflection, Veteran coach Tim Carney is rather pleased with the performance of his squad. The team closed with some performances in the last two weeks with Mike Dyr taking All-Tournament honors at Malone.

Carney is hopeful that his squad can recapture the conference title they won in 1985. "It will be tough, especially since Fairmont had four of their top five back," Carney said. Last year, the Pioneer golfers finished third in the WVIAC.

Glenville to Host Conference Meet

For the first time, Glenville State College will be the host for the West Virginia Conference Cross Country Championships.

The annual meet, which determines the District 28 representatives to the NAIA national meet, will be conducted on the beautiful Glenville Golf Club course on Saturday, Nov. 1.

Men's team entrants will include Davis and Elkins, Fairmont, West Virginia State, West Liberty, Glenville, West Virginia Wesleyan and possibly West Virginia Tech. The University of Charleston, last year's champion, didn't field a team this year.

Women's team entrants will include defending champion West Liberty

West Virginia State. Also having runners will be Wesleyan, Tech, and Glenville.

The women's race will get underway at 10:30 a.m., and the men will follow at 11:30 a.m.

GSC has good possibilities in both the team and individual competition, so make plans to stay the weekend and cheer the Pioneers to victory.

The intramural department is considering water polo as the next sport to be played after volleyball. For those interested in participating in this sport, please contact the intramural office so they will know whether water polo teams will be possible.

Organizations

Student Congress

The Lunch Bunch Committee met with Joe Drahnak and Diane Bach this past week to discuss our cafeteria food service. Many ideas were discussed. Mr. Drahnak asked that we find out if the students would utilize the breakfast hours more if he lengthened them from 7:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m. instead of the current 7:00 a.m. to 8:15 a.m. In the last hour cold foods would be served such as cereals or doughnuts. Any feedback would be appreciated; just come to our meeting, write us a note, or talk to a Student Congress member.

The age old topic of "parking" was discussed with no real answers. The Congress is recommending that the college purchase all the houses next to the fine arts complex site as funds become available, and turn that area into much needed parking lots. To try and help those people getting parking tickets a committee has been established to investigate the ticketing area of parking. Anyone with answers or solutions please come visit Student Congress.

A Halloween Dance will be held on October 30 from 8-11 p.m. Refreshments will be provided. GSC Student Congress is in room 104 in the Pioneer Center; meetings are Wednesday at 4:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

How to live: 1. I think I have the answer for every one, for I think I have the answer for no one; each must find his own answer; 2. As to how to live, truth cannot be taught; it must be self-discovered, self-appropriated; 3. My own most reliable authority for how to live, lies within me myself, and I rely on it at my peril, for I have no cocksure certainty; 4. The only good in the world is loving kindness from man as rain from a cloud; 5. My only way to improve the world is by improving myself.

Fairmont Rolls Over Pioneers, 37-0

by Jesse Skiles

Fairmont State's Falcons invaded Pioneer Stadium Saturday night and left with a convincing 37-0 victory. The loss left the Pioneers with a 1-6 record while the Falcons are now 4-2.

Fairmont jumped out to a 14-0 first quarter lead and added another touchdown in the second to lead 21-0 at the half. They tacked on 16 more in the third to close the issue.

Glenville materialized an excellent drive in the second quarter moving from their own 26 to inside the Falcon 20, collecting four first downs in the process. The drive stalled and the Pioneers turned the ball over on downs. Another chance was created when Pioneer defensive back Bill Boyles intercepted a Falcon pass and thriftily returned it 38 yards. This chance also went by the boards, however, when Fairmont defensive back Vince Mitchell intercepted a pass on the very next play.

Gordon Stevens was once again the leading ground gainer for the Pioneers with 46 yards on 16 carries, while Andy Pfefferkorn contributed 34 yards on 8 carries. Defensively, Donn Layhew and Bill Dunn each had 14 tackles, while Todd Layhew and John Lipscomb had 13 apiece.

This Saturday, Glenville will be on the road in Athens, WV facing the Concord Mountain Lions. Coach Marvin Williams' squad is always one of the top teams in the league and this season is no different. Last year, Glenville very nearly upset Concord, but bowed 7-2.

Jesse's Place

In this week's football feature Andy Pfefferkorn speaks of the Pioneers playing the role of "spoilers." I found this to be a good observation and something worth discussing.

It is obvious that our football team is struggling right now. They are playing many freshmen, and the squad has failed to register a point over the last eleven quarters. This "spoiler" role though, could be a saviour. A Pioneer upset over the next two weeks would be a very major victory. They could severely hurt the excellent seasons of Concord and Tech, and could give the program something very positive to take into the off-season.

As for Cross Country, it is getting close to crunch time. We are unbeaten in the conference, but we have yet to face Davis and Elkins and their All-American candidate Jeff Trump. D & E by the same token is unbeaten in the conference, but have yet to face us. Then there is West Liberty who could very well pull an upset. It is like some great heavyweights, and we will be duking it out on November 1 here on our home turf.

In reference to my column last week, several people have spoken with me about what kind of wrestling team we could have here. We have state champions Jeff O'Dell, Danny Ray, and four-time state champion Rich Greathouse. There is also Jeff Trippett who was a state runner-up last year. It is true that we have some fine baseball players and wrestlers on our campus who are unable to utilize their skills.

Women's Basketball Coach Tim Carney has announced that his ad for a manager has been answered.

The manager for the squad this season will be Bettie Fry from Pickens Hall.

Pfefferkorn: All-Purpose Back

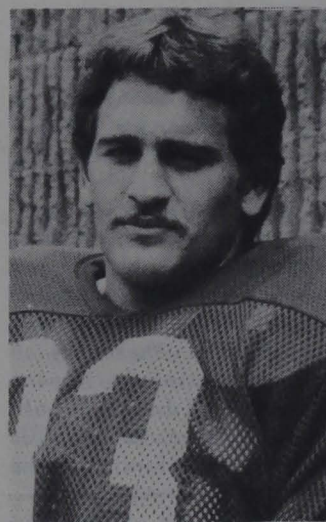

by Jesse Skiles

Andy Pfefferkorn was the only member of the Pioneer offensive unit to receive a post-season honor last year (Honorable Mention All-WVIAC). Even though his statistics are not overwhelming, he does a little bit of everything.

As a fullback, he is in the midst of another productive season. Andy is valuable as a blocker, pass receiver, and is a hard-nosed runner. He is also a fine special teams performer, being on every Pioneer specialty unit over the last three years except this season's punt return team. He is truly a do-everything performer.

Pfefferkorn has also seen duty at tight end this season, and has even been tried at tackle in practice before. "I will play wherever the coach wants me to," Pfefferkorn said.

Andy attributes his on-the-field success to his obsession with weight training. Last spring he bench pressed 380 and squatted 495. "I really believe in the weights," Andy acknowledged. He likes to use his strength as a blocker and as a runner noting that he enjoys delivering punishment to foes in each aspect of his game.

For Andy, 1986 has been a frustrating season as the Pioneers are rebuilding. "I guess we are now playing spoilers. If we can keep our morale up and forget what our record is, I really think we can get the job done. I honestly feel we have it in us," Pfefferkorn elaborated.

Pfefferkorn's junior season is now winding down, and once again his statistics won't overwhelm anyone. But he does however, have decent statistics in a variety of categories. With this degree of versatility and a rugged style of play, he will no doubt continue to be a valuable man in the Pioneer offense.

The performance enabled Glenville to raise its season record to 23-4 overall and 12-0 in the West Virginia Conference. The Pioneers will host a three-team warm-up meet tomorrow (Thursday) beginning at 4 p.m. Fairmont and West Virginia State will be involved.

For GSC's women, Lori Barker and Andrea Davisson both turned in outstanding performances. Barker ran the three-mile course in 22:08 while Davisson was close behind in 22:46, her best race this season. Barker was fifth and Davisson eighth out of 21 finishers.

Dawkins' time for the five-mile men's layout was 27:02.

Jarrell crossed the line in 27:08. The win was Dawkins' first over Jarrell this season. The two Pioneers were second and third overall.

Shockey's Return Vital to Crush Crew

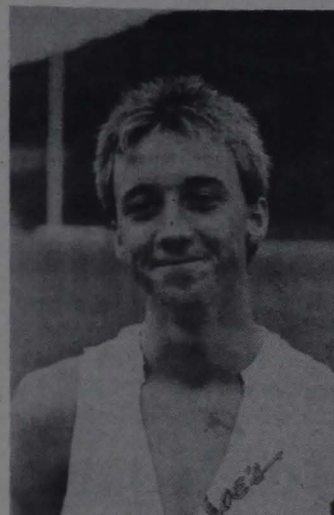

by Steve Keenan

To win the West Virginia Conference cross country championship, the GSC Pioneers must have Chris Shockey healthy.

Shockey, a sophomore member of the squad, has been suffering from lower back pains over the last two weeks. He was slowed by the back pain in the Fairmont Invitational, and he didn't even compete in last week's West Liberty meet.

The back injury, which was a combination of a sandlot football injury and increased mileage (162 miles in the previous two weeks), sidelined Shockey for five days. Prior to that, he had run three straight weeks without missing a workout. He reports that the pain is now subsiding, and he feels he'll be ready to go on Nov. 1.

He'll have to be. The success of "Beaker," GSC's number four man is critical to the Pioneers' chances. With Shockey (and the rest of the team) performing up to par, it won't be near as difficult as without him.

"I think I'm fully recovered," Shockey remarked. "My goal now is to get my time closer to Andy (Jarrell), Jay (Dawkins) and Tom (Clark.) I think we have a good chance of winning the conference if everyone runs like he should."

About the team, Shockey said, "We have a bunch of 'weirdos' on this team. Some of us need attitude adjustments."

They can be as 'weird' as they want, as long as they win. With Chris Shockey healthy, that's a pretty distinct possibility.

Volleyball Team Drops Two at Home

Last Thursday, Glenville's volleyball team lost to Alderson-Broadbuddus and Salem in a tri-match held here in Glenville. Coach Kay Chico's squad fell to each opponent in two games.

Glenville was defeated by the tough Alderson-Broadbuddus team 15-2, 15-8, and then bowed to Salem 15-11, 15-10. Alderson-Broadbuddus went on to win the tri-match by downing Salem in two games.

As of last week, Glenville was ranked seventh in the WVIAC rankings, ahead of Wesleyan and the University of Charleston. The team will be in action once again today when Glenville will once again be hosting a tri-match. Opponents this week will be Fairmont and West Liberty.

In New Orleans, Tulane University abolished its varsity basketball team following disclosure that players were paid to take part in a point-shaving scheme.

As if all this were not enough, the specter of drugs hangs over American athletic programs. At Clemson University, in South Carolina, three former coaches pleaded guilty to illegally dispensing steroids and phenylbutazone, an anti-inflammatory agent. At the University of Maryland, Len Bias, No. 1 draft choice of the Boston Celtics, died in June of cocaine intoxication.

Hurt most by schools looking the other way are the student athletes themselves. Bias's death was followed by the revelation that he had not passed a single academic course last spring. In 1982, basketball player Kevin Ross confirmed the shocking story that he had played four seasons for Creighton University even though his reading and writing ability was no better than grade-school level. Only a minute fraction of these student athletes ever become professional athletes. Once their college eligibility is used up, most are left to fend for themselves as best they can.

Without a doubt, reform in college sports is sorely needed, and the NCAA is making a start. This year the NCAA began phasing in a significant rule change affecting academic eligibility for athletes. Known as Proposition 48, the measure is scheduled to be fully implemented by 1988. At that time, for athletes to be eligible, they must have achieved a 2.0 (C) high-school grade-point average in a core curriculum of 11 academic subjects, as well as a minimum combined score of 700 out of 1600 in the SAT, or a composite score of 15 out of 35 in the ACT Assessment Program. The NCAA has also approved drug testing at football-bowl games and at selected NCAA championship events.

Reader's Digest suggests the following additional steps:

1. Declare freshmen ineligible for varsity sports. Freshmen need time to adjust to college life.

2. Require satisfactory progress toward a degree. Student athletes must be required to fulfill the same core-curriculum requirements as non-athletes. No student should be allowed to play varsity sports unless he or she is on schedule to graduate within five years.

3. Integrate athletes into campus life. Athletic dorms should be abolished, seasons shortened and practice requirements reduced.

4. Make drug testing mandatory. For those who test positive, one violation should result in suspension from varsity sports, and drug counseling. Two more violations should bar the individual from intercollegiate athletics.

5. Share television revenues equally. TV income should be shared among all schools playing big-time sports—not just the ones that appear on TV.

6. Ban boosters. They should have no place in the recruiting of athletes. Fund-raising should be controlled by the college president and not by partnerships of semi-autonomous athletic departments and booster clubs.

7. Increase financial aid. Since the NCAA prohibits student athletes from holding jobs during the academic year, they should be given a stipend to cover basic necessities.

Golfers' Fall Season Ends

With the tournament at Malone two weeks ago, the fall golf schedule is now complete. In reflection, Veteran coach Tim Carney is rather pleased with the performance of his squad. The team closed with solid performances in the last two weeks with Mike Dynda taking All-Tournament honors at Malone.

Carney is hopeful that his squad can recapture the conference title they won in 1985. "It will be tough, especially since Fairmont has four of their top five back" Carney said. Last year, the Pioneer golfers finished third in the WVIAC.

Glenville to Host Conference Meet

For the first time, Glenville State College will be the host for the West Virginia Conference Cross Country Championships.

The annual meet, which determines the District 28 representatives to the NAIA national meet, will be conducted on the beautiful Glenville Golf Club course on Saturday, Nov. 1.

Men's team entrants will include Davis and Elkins, Fairmont, West Virginia State, West Liberty, Glenville, West Virginia Wesleyan and possibly West Virginia Tech. The University of Charleston, last year's champion, didn't field a team this year.

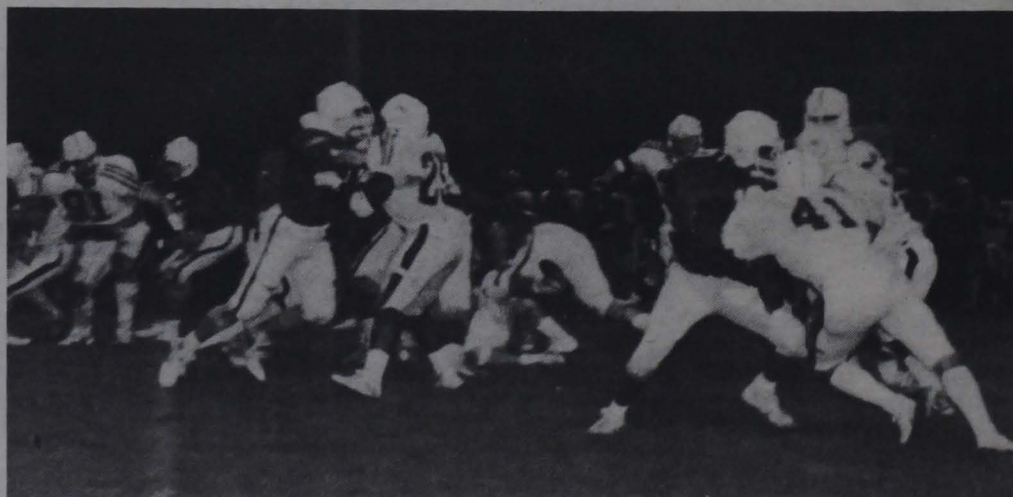

Women's team entrants will include defending champion West Liberty and

West Virginia State. Also having runners will be Wesleyan, Tech, and Glenville.

The women's race will get underway at 10:30 a.m., and the men will follow at 11:30 a.m.

GSC has good possibilities in both the team and individual competition, so make plans to stay the weekend and cheer the Pioneers to victory.

The intramural department is considering water polo as the next sport to be played after volleyball. For those interested in participating in this sport, please contact the intramural office so they will know whether water polo teams will be possible.

Student Congress

The Lunch Bunch Committee met with Joe Drahnak and Diane Bach this past week to discuss our cafeteria food service. Many ideas were discussed. Mr. Drahnak asked that we find out if the students would utilize the breakfast hours more if he lengthened them from 7:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m. instead of the current 7:00 a.m. to 8:15 a.m. In the last hour cold foods would be served such as cereals or doughnuts. Any feedback would be appreciated; just come to our meeting, write us a note, or talk to a Student Congress member.

The age old topic of "parking" was discussed with no real answers. The Congress is recommending that the college purchase all the houses next to the fine arts complex site as funds become available, and turn that area into much needed parking lots. To try and help those people getting parking tickets a committee has been established to investigate the ticketing area of parking. Anyone with answers or solutions please come visit Student Congress.

A Halloween Dance will be held on October 30 from 8-11 p.m. Refreshments will be provided. GSC Student Congress is in room 104 in the Pioneer Center; meetings are Wednesday at 4:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

How to Live

How to live: 1. I think I have the answer for every one, for I think I have the answer for no one; each must find his own answer; 2. As to how to live, truth cannot be taught; it must be self-discovered, self-appropriated; 3. My own most reliable authority for how to live, lies within me myself, and I rely on it at my peril, for I have no cocksure certainty; 4. The only good in the world is loving kindness from man as rain from a cloud; 5. My only way to improve the world is by improving myself.

A reader in basic agreement with above statements, will do well to find others of such persuasion; help them, be helped by them.

Gameroom Available for All

by Steve Shumate

For those of you who are running out of things to do at GSC, the Gameroom in the basement of the Pioneer Center offers several types of recreation to help occupy some of your spare time.

Among the facilities at the gameroom are six bowling lanes, several pool tables, pinball machines, and many video games. There are also snack and soft drink machines.

An average of 150 to 200 students come to the gameroom weekly. Roger Weese, Assistant Facility Manager, said that he wished to see more people there. "A lot of the girls on campus think that the gameroom is for males only, but it's not," he stated. "And most people don't even know it's here."

The gameroom may be rented for parties through the Student Congress. The hours are Monday thru Friday— 5:00-11:00; and on weekends 5:00-10:00. Check it out!

The printing/media management option provides entry-level skills for employment in the mass media communications industry as well as employee training and conference programs which have been identified as one of the fastest growing segments at the American economy.

The resort area management option is designed to prepare the student for entry-level employment with the rapidly developing resort areas in the state.

This program with its many options has been designed at the associate (2 year) level but will also permit the student to tie in to a baccalaureate (4 year) degree at a later date.

For additional information about the associate degree contact Dr. Duke Talbott, Career-Technical Programs, Glenville State College or telephone 462-7361, ext. 142.

In this program, students will be assigned either directly to a legislator or a legislative agency, performing research and various staff functions. Among other things, participants will be introduced to and develop an and be in good social and academic standing during the period in which you would be serving the internship.

The selected participants will receive a $150 weekly stipend and will be awarded twelve hours of academic credit upon successful completion of the program. All participants will be responsible for completing registration and for paying tuition to their home institution. Students are also responsible for their own housing and transportation arrangements in the Charleston area for the program's duration.

Anyone interested in either program should contact Dr. Darnall for applications or information. Applications must be returned to the program directors by October 31.

"So All May Hear"

by Lisa McHenry

The next time you drive past the DZ house, think not so much of a pink and green turtle and consider instead your ability to hear. The Delta Zeta sorority has many ongoing projects, but a main concern with the sorority on a national and local level is hearing.

Delta Zetas at GSC help support two major national philanthropies. The first is Gallaudet Hearing College in Washington, D.C. Gallaudet provides higher education to deaf and dumb students—students for whom it would be nearly impossible to get an education at a conventional college. Gallaudet is the only accredited liberal arts college for the deaf in the world. The Delta Zetas help give scholarships to students at the college. Another philanthropy, adopted as recently as 1983, is the House Ear Institute in Los Angeles, CA. This institute is dedicated to ear research and training ear specialists and specialists from related disciplines. The institute endeavors to upgrade diagnosis skills, treatment, and rehabilitation techniques.

Allison Miller, a GSC Delta Zeta, says that many DZ chapters have individual philanthropies to which they contribute time and money. On a local level, GSC's DZ sorority is helpful to residents with hearing problems. Presently, the chapter is purchasing expensive but necessary batteries for a resident's hearing aid.

There is a national Hearing Helpline available for people with questions about hearing difficulties. The number is 1-800-424-8576. The caller will be directed on where to go in his area for questions about hearing loss, hearing help, hearing aids, and hearing services.

International Business Trip Offered for Spring

Dr. I. D. 'Duke' Talbott, Director of the Office of Resources and Development, announced that the Division of Business will offer an International Business course for the Spring '87 semester. The course offered will be Business 350- International Business. The course will consist of four class meetings prior to the trip, a 14 day, 7 city tour of Europe, and four class meetings following the trip.

The European trip will begin March 13 and students will leave Europe March 25. The fee for students under 26-years-old is $1,099 and $1,285 for students 26 and over. Students under 26 will be in shared rooms, while students 26 and over will have private accommodations. The fee includes all transportation, lodging, and meals. A deposit of $150 is due by December 10, 1986. The remainder is due on January 9, 1987.

Full time students should register for the course as part of their regular spring classes so that tuition is automatically covered. There will be two $300 scholarships available for the course. Details of the scholarship requirements will be released at a later date.

Memories, three one act plays, will be presented on Tuesday, October 28 at 8:00 p.m. in the GSC auditorium. Everyone is invited to attend these shows. Admission is free.
