Class Schedule Changes Noted

This is the week of pre-registration for the spring semester. During this time students plan and replan when they can get in their hours—some want classes at 8:00 a.m. everyday, while others can't function until noon.

No matter when you want your classes you have undoubtedly had problems with two classes being offered at the same time, or the professor decides to change the time after you have scheduled it.

The field with the most changes this semester is the language department. If you are taking classes in English to complete a major or minor, or are planning to take English hours to meet elective requirements you need to be aware of four changes. English 203, Survey of English Literature I, has been changed from 1:30-2:45 on Tuesdays and Thursday to 2:00-3:15 on Mondays and Wednesdays. English 207, Western World Literature, has changed from 2:00-3:15 on Mondays and Wednesdays to 3:30-2:45 on Tuesdays and Thursdays. English 301, Shakespeare, has changed from 3:00-6:00 on Mondays to 3:30-6:00 on Mondays. And Education 342, Teaching English-Language Arts in Middle and Adolescent Education, has changed from 1:15-4:30 to 2:00-3:15 on Mondays and Wednesdays.

Please keep these changes in mind when pre-registering this week.

Graduate Killed

Kimberley Susan Dean, 23, of Huntersville, died Friday, November 20, 1987, in an accident on an icy road near Mill Point, West Virginia.

A 1982 graduate of Pocahontas County High School and a 1987 graduate of Glenville State College, she was teaching her first year in Brown Elementary School at Indore, Clay County. She was the GSC 1986 Homecoming Senior Princess and was a member of the Pioneer Center Programming Board, Student Congress, and a member of the education honorary Kappa Delta Pi. She attended the Marlinton United Methodist Church.

Born at Marlinton, January 26, 1964, she was the daughter of Elmer L. and Judith Shaw Dean.

Surviving her are her parents; a sister, Debra Dean Murphy, of Durham, North Carolina; and her grandparents, Mrs. Alfred Dean, of Elkins, and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Shaw of Elk Route, Marlinton.

Les Gourmet Sponsors Dinner

Christmas in Bavaria is the theme for the annual Christmas dinner sponsored by the Les Gourmet Society. The Society was designed to expose this area to unique food with excellent quality in a relaxing, enjoyable atmosphere.

Joe Drahnak's Food Service Management class and Virginia Hay's Marketing class are making a joint effort to make the dinner a success.

The Food Service Management class, under the guidance of Mr. Drahnak, has gained experience by sponsoring this dinner because they know basically what it is like to set up a restaurant. The class has done extensive research on German foods and has designed a menu that consists of a variety of Bavarian dishes. The menu for Les Gourmets' Bavarian Dinner will be: Oxtail Soup, Sauerbraten, Pork & Sauerkraut, Bratwurst, Dumplings, Hot Potato Salad, Turnips, Green Beans in Cream Sauce, Red Cabbage and Apples, Cucumber and Sour Cream Salad, Tossed Salad, Christmas Stollen, Apple Strudel, German Chocolate Cake, Cream Puffs, Tarts, Bread and Beverages.

The Marketing class has helped by passing out flyers, distributing tickets, and has contacted various types of media to announce this Christmas event. The class has also designed the placemats, tickets, posters and flyers.

Christmas in Bavaria will take place Saturday, December 5, 1987 in the Ballroom of the Pioneer Center from 6:00 - 8:00 p.m. Tickets may be purchased for $10.00 at the door, or check with Joe Drahnak for advanced tickets.

Computer Error Strikes Again

By Mack Samples

On Monday morning, November 30, 1987 disaster struck in the Administration Building. The generally calm and uneventful pre-registration process turned into mass confusion. Students who were accustomed to spending 5 to 15 minutes in the registration line found themselves waiting as much as three hours.

Generally, in these high tech times all problems are blamed on the computer and in keeping with that trend, that's where we place the blame. The system checked out fine Sunday evening, but when the process was started at 7:30 a.m. on Monday morning, it failed to respond. At about 8:15 a.m. the decision was made to wipe

The Mercury will be paying the Nicholas Extension a visit on Tuesday, Dec. 8, 2 p.m., to snap your picture for the Yearbook! The pictures will be individual, in traditional black and white. There is no charge for these pictures and all students are welcome. So if you would like to have your picture in 1987-88 yearbook with the rest of your classmates, please arrange to be at the center on this date.

Since the same background cannot be used for the center's pictures that was used on main campus, pictures taken at the center will be in a separate section.

Flights of Fancy

HAITIAN VOTER'S REGISTRATION KIT

It's not often that we attempt to discuss mores, culture, and folkways on this page; but there comes a time when old-fashioned bad manners deserve comment. Unfortunately many of our population have grown up in front of a television set munching potato chips and talking back to the screen. It may startle these folks to learn that in civilized society, in public, with other people trying to hear a presentation, we don't do that sort of thing.

Monday's Thoreau performance was excellent and captivating. David Barto succeeded in establishing himself as Thoreau and many of us were concentrating on what he had to say. That task was made difficult by people talking to each other in a normal conversational tone, rattling paper bags, and giggling among themselves.

It is understood that attendance at the presentation was required by some faculty members hoping to demonstrate communication above the level of grunts and squeals; however, the example was lost on some of the audience. Such conduct might be expected of the high school students during Lysistrata, but not from mature college students.

It is hoped that in the future we will be able to relax and enjoy such presentations, and if not perhaps someone with the authority to require attendance will grade the miscreants appropriately.

ORGANIZATIONS

Alpha Rho Tau

Alpha Rho Tau had a meeting the Wednesday before we left for break in AB 309. It was and will be the last official meeting this semester. President John Curran and Vice-President Patty Chambers led the meeting as several pressing issues were discussed. Tentative decisions were made concerning some surprises for the spring semester, but they shan't be mentioned here (then it wouldn't be a surprise, would it?) Dues were also paid at an unprecedented rate.

On another note, everyone should plod down to the pottery building to check out the recent work of Doug Jackson. The guy makes some impressive pottery.

That wraps it up for this semester. The next meeting will be announced. Until then, art enthusiasts, keep working.

Student Accounting Society

The Student Accounting Society will meet on Thursday, December 3, 1987 in AB-302. All business majors are welcome!

Donations will be accepted on the Spuds MacKenzie dog until the meeting. Any donations can be given to any member of the society. A drawing will be held and the winner announced at the Christmas Dance.

SEA

The monthly meeting will be December 7 at 4 p.m. in Clark Hall.

SEA will sponsor a discussion on the merits of belonging to other educational groups on campus. After the meeting, our Christmas tree will be decorated. All education majors are welcome to attend the meeting and the tree decoration.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

In reply to "Scary Skeletons" gripe that our paper is mostly sports, let me say this: As a reporter I try very hard to write stories of interest for everyone. I have never written a sports story and neither has any of my classmates. We are not paid, reporting is a graded portion of our journalism class. If you have a story of interest and wish it to be published come to the journalism department and tell us about it. We look for stories all the time but we do not have a divining rod that points out stories for us. It also helps to know your name, I for one have no intentions of going around asking if anyone knows a Mr. or Miss Scary Skeleton.

A representative from the National Park Service will be on campus Thursday, December 3, to talk with students concerning seasonal employment at the New River Gorge National River. She will also be able to provide students with information on possible internships and volunteer positions with the National Park Service.

The representative will be available to talk with students in the lobby of the Pioneer Center from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Graduates planning to participate in May commencement exercises should place their order for graduation announcements with the College Bookstore before February 1, 1988. Payment in full must be made at the time the order is placed.

AIDS: Don't Die of Ignorance

By Jennifer Gabany

Whether you're an African who doesn't own a shirt for his back dying of Slim's disease, or an American corporate president worth millions infected with HTLV II, you will take the same ride that over 250,000 other people will have also taken by next year, with the same lead end, and I mean DEAD! AIDS is a humanitarian disease, a problem for all of society. Regardless of who, how, or where it started, the fact is, it's here and each person has a personal responsibility to society to stop this disease. This means you! Because no vaccine or cure exists, public education is the best defense we have against the Aids epidemic. So know this: Homosexuals are not the predominant spreader of AIDS. They are surpassed by both prostitutes and junkies who share needles. 60% of Aids victims are white, 25% are black, 14% are Hispanic, and 93% of all Aids victims are males. Last reported, West Virginia had 39 known cases of AIDS. Once exposed to the AIDS virus the disease may result in an AIDS Related complex within 6-12 weeks, in which case the victim should see a doctor about their symptoms, or the disease may remain dormant up to 4 years, and the victim doesn't experience any symptoms but passes the virus onto others. Once a person is tested positive for the HTLV - III, which causes a mutation in the white blood cells, which make up the immune system, they can remain an asymptomatic carrier with no bodily illness, or they could die in a very short period of time. A person doesn't really die of AIDS, instead the attacked immune system breaks down and the patient dies of an often simple and common ailment that the body can't fight off. No matter what route it takes, AIDS is always eventually fatal.

Learn to realize high risk groups and activities. AIDS is passed on in a few very specific ways. Remember HIV, as it is now referred to for Human Immune-deficiency Virus, must have a fluid to live in. The two fluids that concern us most are blood and semen, since these are the only fluids proven to pass the virus to other people. Even though HIV has been found in sweat, saliva, and even tears, these fluids do NOT pass on the virus. Therefore, high risk groups would include homosexuals engaging in anal sex and any person who has several sexual partners, especially bisexual partners, drug users who share needles, any receiver of blood transfusions, especially hemophiliacs, and infants whose mothers were infected with the virus. Such a mother has a 50-50 chance of giving birth to an infected baby. The baby can become infected during pregnancy, during birth, and possibly even by breastfeeding. Pregnancy can be dangerous to a woman infected with the AIDS virus. Mosquitoes have not been proven to pass on this virus, mainly because they don't live long enough. Most experts agree it would take extreme circumstances for this to happen. AIDS would be an easily controlled disease if not for the fact that people don't care enough to realize they will die from their bad habits. If you're dumb enough to accept a needle, at least be smart enough to rinse it off with good ole' fashioned bleach, since it has been proven to kill HIV. Don't be embarrassed to suggest condoms. In this day and age of growing consciousness we all realize the security and need that only this type of contraception provides. Remember you're doing them the favor too.

Don't share any item that could possibly be contaminated with blood including razors and toothbrushes. More countries are systematically screening blood and blood products for virus antibodies but this will help only a small fraction of potential AIDS victims. Most of all it is vital to really know your sexual partner. Don't fool yourself into thinking anyone's safe, because today no one is. Aids is a disease of morals. Even though it originated in Africa and remained unclassified for years, it didn't become a global concern until it came to the western hemisphere where it spread at an appalling rate and overwhelms the entire human race more everyday. We must fight AIDS! We must fight with high moral standards, we must fight with love and compassion, we must fight with technology and education. Don't die of ignorance.

Romance Still Prevails at GSC

By Debbie Roberts

I ventured up the great mountain of GSC - in search of 20 couples who had been together for at least 3 months, claimed to love each other, and were willing to answer some rather personal questions. Unfortunately, my choice of questions brought about a few arguments among the chosen couples and was a contributing factor in one break-up. A major result of this survey that has been most obvious to me - are the inquiring minds - ALL females knocking on my door trying to find out what their boyfriend responded to certain questions. Now I see why the guys' common complaint was 'She nags me too much.' And the girls' common complaint was 'He never talks to me.' The questions ranged from light one's - such as - who calls the most? To more serious - such as - what would happen in the event of pregnancy? The question most commonly agreed upon by both sexes was - 'Who says I love you the most?' - and the most commonly disputed was - 'what would happen if pregnancy occurred?' Every couple believed in pre-marital sex. When asked if they trusted each other, both groups said 'yes.' However, they contradicted this response when asked what they'd most like to know about their mate: 39 out of 40 said they'd like to know if he or she is faithful. The one person left over was a guy who most wanted to know if his girlfriend was going to turn out fat someday. One-half of the people interviewed went so far to say that their boyfriend or girlfriend shouldn't trust them at all. Among the other things agreed upon were: the guys said 'I love you' first, and tended to say it more often than the girl later in the relationship. When apart, the guy communicated most by phone, while the girls wrote the most letters.

They both agreed that they had secrets from one another, and if it came down to a desperate situation, both guys and girls would count on their best friend before their boyfriend/girlfriend. Some of the more interesting responses were that guys put cars and sports before their girlfriend. While the girlfriend occasionally put college or their brother before the boyfriend. However, the girl realized that they came second to cars and sports, while all of the guys believed that they were absolutely first in their girlfriend's life. When there is a fight, the girl makes the initial move to make up although the guy generally responds to her efforts. Even when the fight is the guy's fault, they claim to "wait until she comes to me." The most surprising of all, were answers concerning the strange mixture of phone calls and pregnancy. The girls agreed that it was OK - for a girl to call a guy that they'd just met, but the guys responded that they would think she was a sleaze unless they'd known her for a while before she called. Concerning pregnancy - the guys said that if their girlfriends were to get pregnant at this time, they would want to marry her. However, most of the girls would choose to have an abortion and finish college, carrying on their present plans without interruption. And so it appears that many relationships which are putting on a good appearance may soon be swallowed up in assuming that each knows what the other is thinking and doing. It's 10:00 do you know where your boyfriend/girlfriend is? AND WHO THEY'RE WITH?

December 13-19, 1987 has been designated "Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week" in West Virginia and the nation. Commemoration of Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week began in 1982 as an effort to raise individual and community awareness of the problem of driving under the influence of alcohol and other drugs. Because more drivers are on the highways and more social functions are attended, more motor vehicle accidents occur during the Christmas and New Year holiday period. This makes December 13-19 a particularly appropriate time to focus on this critical problem. The theme for the 1987 Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week is "First A Friend... Then A Host"; the "designated driver" concept is encouraged as part of that theme. Under the designated driver concept, one person out of a group agrees to remain sober to drive others to their destination safely.

SPORTS

Farewell to Our Seniors

Tim Cugini

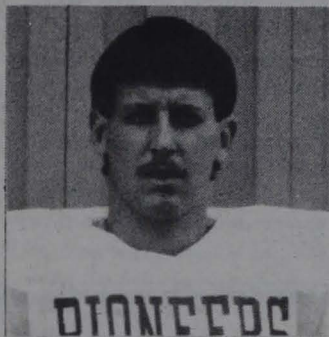

Cujo has been a mainstay on the Pioneer offense throughout his career at Glenville, and has played every position on the line. This season Cujo has put his muscle into some more use as a hard hitting defensive end. Although statistics don't tell the true story of Cujo's exploits in the trenches he remains unperturbed. He feels overly compensated by the fact that there have always been some hard running backs behind him. Cujo thinks this season has been like a brand new beginning for him as he had to work doubly hard to gain the confidence of the coaches and regain his starting position.

Billy Dunn

Billy's hard work at the strong safety position has been impressive throughout his career for the Pioneers. It is even more impressive when viewed in the light that Billy was primarily an offensive performer throughout his high school career at Mount Pleasant, Pa. Billy has improved with every season although he saw very little duty towards the second half of this season, and for no apparent reason. It was the least amount of time he had seen throughout his college career and his absence hurt the defense on a number of occasions. Despite all the adversity Billy still remains high in his hopes about his future - both as a ball player and in his chosen major, computer science. Billy feels that a senior's accomplishments should be more recognized and was particularly disheartened by the fact that there wasn't even a tribute at their last game.

Alan Fiddler

Alan came to Glenville from Musselman High and was instrumental in their capturing the state championship in his junior year and ending up runners up in his final year. Alan continued his brilliance in college, and in his freshmen year was named all-conference honorable mention player of the week when he completed 11 out of 20 attempts for a total of 217 yds. (including 3 touchdowns), in a game against West Liberty. A broken foot side-lined Alan for the whole of his junior year, and he saw no playing time this season due largely to "slight difficulties in adjusting to the new coaching staff and new program."

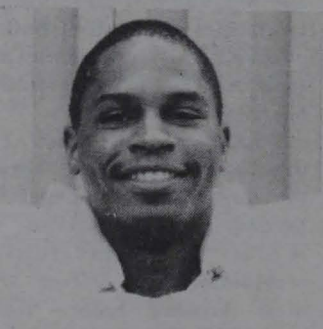

Although Alan's promising career never really blossomed, due to no fault of his, "he enjoyed playing ball in Glenville and learned a lot about the game, even when he was not playing." Alan sees a bright future for Glenville football with the change in attitude towards the sport and the amount of talent resident here in Glenville.

Robert Flynt

Rob came to Glenville from Woodbridge, Virginia, where he started at free safety and fullback. He was instrumental in his team's appearance in the playoffs in his senior year. Although Rob has grown used to the cornerback position he never gets complacent because just one mistake could cause the team a touchdown, a game, or even a championship.

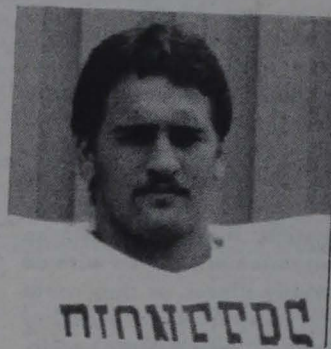

Rob believes that the 1984 defensive unit was probably the best for a long time and gained national recognition when they were ranked second best in the nation.

Eric Mitchell

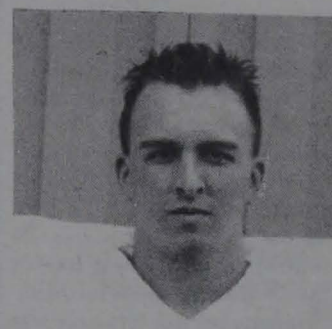

Eric's speed has been probably his biggest asset and has served him well during his career at Glenville. Eric's speed has made him outstanding as a return specialist and no doubt those special units who have had to try to contain him over the years will be thankful for the end to their nightmare. Eric spent his first two years as cornerback but his transition to free safety, over the second half of his career, really gave him the freedom to utilize his speed. Last year Eric was the leading punt returner in the nation with an average of almost 30 yds. on each return.

Andy Pfefferkorn

Andy was the only member of the Pioneer offensive unit to receive a post season honor last year (Honorable Mention All-WVIAC) when he played fullback. Andy played on just about every unit during his career in Glenville and was valuable as a blocker, pass receiver, and a hard nosed runner. Andy is a hard worker and his passion for weightlifting paid off for him this season. Andy was the team leader in both tackles and quarterback sacks. Andy's story is one of true versatility.

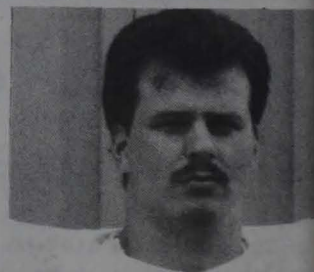

Mark Szklennik

Mark came to Glenville from Garfield Sr. Where he made the All-Metropolitan Team, Washington D.C. area, his senior year. Mark was brilliant throughout his career at Glenville and missed tying the all time kicking record by just one point. Mark summed up his career in Glenville by saying "it's sad to know that all good things come to an end and the fact that my career ended so close to that elusive record is especially disheartening."

Danny Vanoy

Danny spent his first two seasons in Glenville as a backup quarterback - in the position which he held at his High School, Clear Fork. Danny was perfect as a quarterback with a 100% completion. His transition to receiver was a smooth one and he has contributed valuably to Glenville's overall offense. Danny is a hard worker and his participation in track in the off season definitely helped improve his speed this season.

Dave Walker

Although Dave has most likely never seen his name on a stat sheet or in the papers he hasn't been worried about the lack of recognition. The 260 lb. 6'3" tackle has realized, long ago that it was one of the 'hazards of the occupation.' Dave was the driving force behind Pineville High making the playoff throughout his high school career and was one of the blockers behind Byron Brooke's All-American performance in 1984, when Dave was named to the second team All-State. Here in Glenville Dave's size and experience have had a definite impact and one only has to take a look at the rushing statistics to realize how profound it has been. Like some other offensive line-men, though, Dave Walker has continued to perform with relative anonymity.

Runners in Top 25

By Marcus Alcindor

The Glenville State Cross-country team returned from the N.A.I.A. national runs in Kenosha over the week. The team coached by first year coach Jesse Skiles finished 25th out of a total of 100 teams - the highest ever by the school in the West Virginia conference. Adams State College from Alamosa, Colorado captured the crown, their 9th in 11 years. They were coached by Joe Sigil, the U.S. Olympic distance coach.

Senior co-captain Jay Hawkins was 144th overall out of the 382 strong field in a time of 26:35. Bubby Dent ran a good race and was second man in for the runners, 165th overall in 26:44. Co-captain Andy Jarrell was next in 172nd overall with a time of 26:48. Freshman Tony Ross and Mickey Grass were close behind in 214th and 239th place respectively. John Fitzpatrick was 258th overall in 27:52 and Jeff Kincaid was 7th man in for the crush crew in 29:16.

Lori Barker cut more than a minute off last year's time finishing 167th out of a field of 304 in 20:21 over the 3.1 mile course.

The Men's Basketball season got off to a slow start over the break. Coach Nottingham's cagers had a hard time on the road at the Wheeling Tournament losing to West Liberty 65-75 on the opening night. The team found the task even more uphill against W.V. State going down 57-93 but were able to hold Bluefield to a 96-93 victory, the first for the Pioneer season. The Pioneers engaged California University Pa. two days later and succumbed 76-85. It's early days yet for our cagers still reeling from the loss of Matt Bullet and Rudy Watts. However guard Paul Grier and power forward John Harris, together with the recently acquired Dave Hall will have to hold the fort till the younger players get into the game. The Pioneers will be at home against W.V. Tech this Thursday.

Meanwhile the Lady Pioneers started their season at the Domino's Pizza classic last weekend in Walsh. They came away with a 1-1 record blowing out Daemen out of Buffalo N.Y. 114-51. Some crucial turnovers though cost them the game against Walsh, 80-81. The team performed well generally but could do with some improvement in the rebounding department.

Whipkey Wrangles Summer Away

GSC sophomore Charlotte Whipkey discovered how to combine her love of horses with a way to earn money over break last summer. She took a job as head wrangler for the Flying L Skytel near Cody, Wyoming, beginning the end of May and working to the latter part of August.

The dude ranch, located about 22 miles from Yellowstone National Park, caters to tourists wishing to experience first-hand the thrill of horseback riding. It is the wrangler's primary responsibility to see that the customers have a safe, enjoyable ride. "Some of these people have never even seen a horse, much less ridden one. That's what a dude is," Charlotte says. "It can be pretty interesting," and she laughs.

Besides riding herd on the dudes, a wrangler's duties include grooming, feeding, and in general caring for the 26 head of horses on the ranch. A typical day starts at 5:30 a.m. (with coffee, of course), feeding the horses; and it doesn't end until the last horse is bedded down at night.

Hard work but a rewarding experience for someone who enjoys working with horses as much as Charlotte does. A bonus, she says, is that the job provided an opportunity to see Wyoming's spectacular outdoors, country she'd never seen before. "One 8-hour ride with the tourists took us to 10,000 ft. to a place called Table Mountain. You could see forever," she says.

Charlotte is eager to try wrangling again next summer, but in a different location. "Maybe Colorado," she says. "There's an outfit that does a trail ride from Cheyenne to Vail, Colorado." A far-away look has crept into her eyes.

Whoa, Whipkey! Summer's a long ways off.

Church Expands

The First Baptist Church of Glenville plans to have an official groundbreaking ceremony on Sunday, December 13, immediately following the 11 a.m. worship service. Soon thereafter Trushel Construction Company of Weirton, WV, will start construction on the new education building that has been designed by architect J.D. King of Elkins.

The entire project is the fulfillment of a forty-year dream for expansion of the First Baptist Church. Originally founded in 1850, the major part of the existing church building was constructed in 1879.

The Reverend David Carpenter issued an invitation to residents of the community and students at Glenville State College to attend the worship service and groundbreaking on Sunday, December 13.

The Glenville Mercury
the file clean and rebuild it one at a time. This meant that only one computer terminal at a time could be used. We knew it would be better than nothing. Looking back, we believe that nothing would have been better, and if we had it to do over, we would have delayed the process a few days until we solved the riddle of the computer. The cause of the problem was still unknown at press time.

Perhaps some mysterious force from out of the galaxy decided that it was time to cause chaos in Glenville. At any rate, all the registration staff can offer is its apologies.

Radio Station Seeks Funds

By Shelia Morrison

The college radio station has been off the air since the spring of 1982, and since the spring term of 1987 some dedicated students have been trying to get it back on the air.

Charles Schmidt, station manager says it will take at least $500.00 to get started again. Charles and Sue Adkins can be found at the Pioneer Center lobby selling raffle tickets on a Tee Shirt in an attempt to raise some of the funds necessary to get back on the air-waves.

They hope to broadcast into the dorms, cafeteria, and the game room. Playing music by request and the D.J.'s choice, plus information on college functions, dances and hopefully live broadcasts for sports.

The raffle tickets are being sold by interested students in the lobby of the Pioneer Center at noon until Thursday, Dec. 3 at 1 p.m. Without money the radio station cannot function, so if you are interested in a student radio station, please contribute to its funding.

GSC Student Ginny Hawker to Appear on Mountain Stage

Public Radio Appearance Set

Don't call it country. Don't call it bluegrass, folk or blues. Call it Hartford. That's what it is—pure, original, entertaining, classy and 100% unique. John Hartford is the originator, the only practitioner and if you haven't experienced his special style, he'll be making a return appearance on West Virginia Public Radio's MOUNTAIN STAGE on Sunday, December 6, from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Capitol Plaza Theater in Charleston.

Also joining host Larry

Groce on the December 6 edition of MOUNTAIN STAGE will be the Warrior River Boys, a traditional bluegrass band, and Ginny Hawker & Kay Justice, a West Virginia folk duo.

Tickets are $2.50 for adults, $1.00 for children or seniors, with a $5.00 family package. The theater box office opens at 1:00 p.m., the audience warm-up begins at 2:30 p.m., and the live broadcast on West Virginia Public Radio runs from 3 to 5 p.m.

All persons who had pictures taken for the yearbook are hereby notified that they must not pay the $2 for a proof to be used in this year's Kanawhachen. Simply mark the proof of your choice and return it to Yearbook Associates with no money, per our contract with the company.
