57 Begin Careers

Most of the students here at GSC have noticed the absence of a few familiar faces from campus. No, these students didn't drop off the end of the earth or forget that school started again in January. If you'd check around in the schools of surrounding counties, your chances of finding those missing faces are great. In fact 37 GSC, 15 PCC, and 5 NCC students are now student teaching.

These students, along with their specialization (s) and counties of placement are:

Lisa McHenry's Olds after crash.

GSC Grad Injured

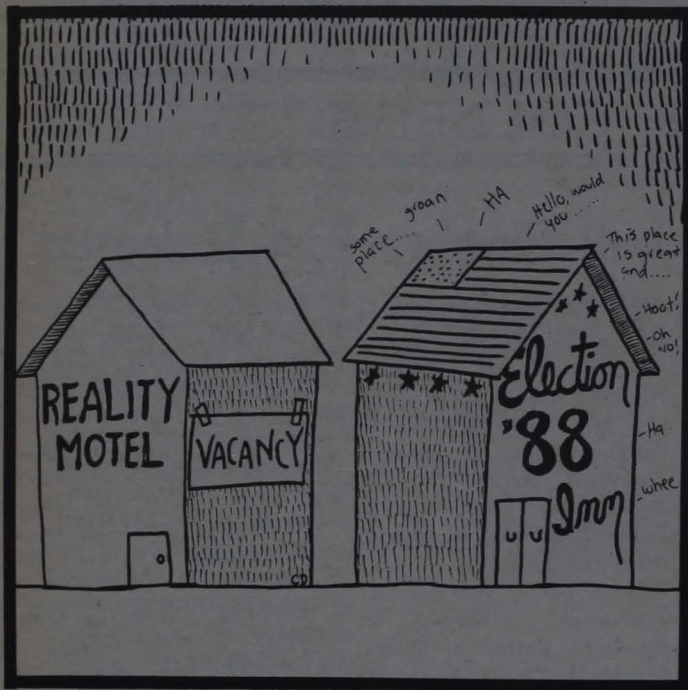

A well-known 1987 GSC graduate was a victim of West Virginia winter weather last Wednesday as she returned to her job at The Parkersburg News. Shortly after noon January 27th Lisa McHenry, a Liberal Arts English graduate, was traveling West on Route 47 when her Oldsmobile skidded out of control, went over an embankment, and struck a large tree. Witnesses stated that Ms. McHenry was traveling at a reasonable rate of speed for the conditions when her front wheels contacted slush or a patch of ice causing the vehicle to spin around and exit the road backwards. The impact of striking the barrel-sized tree severely damaged the passenger's compartment, leaving only the drivers area relatively unharmed.

Ms. McHenry was removed from the vehicle by paramedics and transported to St. Joseph's Hospital in Parkersburg where she remains in Intensive Care at press time. Her condition is described as stable and responsive by family members. Though still unconscious, she is breathing unassisted and improving by degrees each day.

While at GSC, Lisa was active in theatrical productions and held several positions on the Mercury staff, including reporter, columnist, copy editor, and Arts editor.

OPINION

FLIGHTS OF FANCY

It sometimes seems there are subjects that we are pounded over the head with at any given opportunity. We begin to tune out whenever we sense the subject being brought up and resent being preached to by self-appointed guardians of our well-being. One of those topics is seat belts.

As noted elsewhere in this issue, something occurred last week to bring home just how important that metallic click can be. A long time friend of the Mercury is alive today because she always wore her seat belt.

Lisa McHenry was not speeding, or drinking, turning the radio, or doing anything but driving to work when a chain of circumstances created a terrible accident. She survived because she was buckled in.

As Lisa's mother said, "If she hadn't had her belt fastened, we wouldn't be meeting here in the hospital."

Enough said.

Herndon Selectee Participates

Miss Deborah Renee Bunner, Glenville State College senior, has been selected from a very competitive field as a 1988 Judith A. Herndon Legislative Fellow. Bunner, 21, will be assisting Delegate Deborah F. Phillips (D-Putnam) in order to learn about the legislative process by participation and observation.

Bunner is a business administration major with concentration in marketing/retailing and a minor in economics. Her plans for the future include going to law school. "I am intrigued with the legal system, especially the political side of the coin. I hope to be accepted at Duke University and then pursue a career in political or corporate law. This internship will provide me with an invaluable experience that I may use in future endeavors."

Delegate Phillips said she is very pleased with the Judith A. Herndon Legislative Fellowship Program. "It

TRACKSTER'S WIN MEET

Last Friday, the Glenville State Men's Track team saw their first action under first-year coach Brian Swisher. The meet was a successful one as the Pioneers captured the Kenyon College Triangular. The final team score was Glenville 77, Kenyon 42, Marietta 42½. Bubby Dent and Lonnie Hosby were both double winners with Dent taking the 880 and 1000 while Hosby captured the 60 and 300 yard dashes. They were also members of Glenville's winning 4x400 relay team.

Individual winners included Jeff Kincaid (600), Tony Ross (3 mile), and the 4x200 relay team, Eric Mitchell, Shannon Parsons, Gordon Stevens, and Lonnie Hosby.

DAN THE FAN

MERCURY SPORTS EDITOR: DANNY RAY

I was shocked and appalled. I thought the John Elway Show would win first place. Instead, the Broncos were gonged! Being a Dallas Cowboy fan, I hate to see the Redskins win anything, including the toss. First of all, the Redskins aren't even from a real state. Instead of an arms for hostages deal, we should try a Redskins for hostages deal. Instead of sending money to the Contras, we should send the Super Bowl XXII Champs. When another country accuses us of "sending in the Cavalry" we can say, "No! we sent the Redskins." Every one knows that the only two good things that start with R and come from Washington are Ronald Reagan and Republican. I think it is time to bury the tom-a-hawk and squaw no more.

...How tough are you?? As you might have guessed, I am not the toughest man in north-central West Virginia. I got beat (literally) in the finals on a decision. A wise decision would have been to stay out of the ring. Still punch-drunk and bruised, I already miss the much needed brain-cells I lost. I even tried to get a date with one of the ring-girls. Two defeats in one night! The guy I fought in the finals made an impression. The impression of his glove on my face. All joking aside, I had a lot of fun and would like to thank the friends that were there to support me, and Brad Criss for being my trainer/cornerman.

A wise man once said, "Gosh, I miss Leanne!" ...and so do I.

CREEL APPEAL

You can't help but like Kim Creel. She is funny, friendly, fun-loving, and seems carefree, but when it comes to basketball this six-foot center gets serious. Right now she ranks tenth in the nation in field goal shooting with a 62.1 percentage.

Kim is from Ravenswood where she was an All-Stater. "If it wasn't for basketball I wouldn't be here," says Kim, "Glenville is small but I love it here." Kim's major is Sports Management and wants to get a masters degree and someday manage a major coliseum. Right now she is having fun.

Kim is very optimistic about the team, "We have a lot of talent and could be unstoppable." She likes Coach Tim Carney says, "He is very dedicated and pushes us all to reach our potential." Coach Tim Carney says, "Kim is finally playing a season without a nagging injury and is doing great. She is one of the best shooting big girls in the country." Kim is the co-captain this year and says, "When we don't get along, we don't play as well together. I have tried to settle down and be more of a leader. They know I'm crazy but they also know when its time to get serious."

"THEY KNOW I'M CRAZY BUT THEY ALSO KNOW WHEN IT'S TIME TO GET SERIOUS."

Kim commented on the pressure that is put on her to perform, "At times it is hard to get my confidence up, but no one puts more pressure on me than I do." Kim is now 12th on Glenville's all-time scoring list and is continually moving up the ladder. Kim will continue to do well and continue to have fun playing the sport she loves.

SUPERBOWL CONTEST WINNER

Super Bowl XXII is over and so is the Mercury Super Bowl contest. Forty-eight people entered the contest, thirty people went for the Broncos, and only eighteen thought the Redskins would win. Nobody was very close but Mr. Bernard McKown was the closest winning ten dollars with a 34-20 Redskin pick. When Mr. McKown was informed that he had won he replied, "I didn't even watch the game." Jesse Skiles and Kelly Sims tied for second with a 34-21 Redskins pick. The person furthest from the right score was Mr. James Meads. He picked the Broncos to win 7-3. Sorry Mr. Meads, no prize will be awarded.

If you see David Hall on campus you might describe him as a gentle giant. If you see him on the basketball court you would describe him as anything but gentle. With 215 lbs. on his 6'6" frame, David Hall can be seen doing his "Rambo" imitation anytime the Pioneers take the floor. Leading the team in scoring and rebounding, this U. of Charleston transfer has made the transition with a bang.

"I like going to school here, the people are friendly and I like the countryside," says the art and special education major. "I think our team has a lot of potential and I like Coach Nottingham because he hates to lose as much as I do." Dave was an All-Stater at South Charleston High where he played in three different state tournaments.

"My last two years there we lost in the finals by one point on a last second shot. It still bothers me." Winning the conference this year might help ease the pain to which David says, "I think this team can make it to Kansas City. The addition of Clinton Hinton and Melvin Smith has really helped, but we needed to learn how to play together. Things are looking good now, we are becoming a team."

Dave hits the court like a blue-collar worker with a no-nonsense style of play, "No fancy stuff, I just concentrate on the basics and try to get the job done." He does the job and does it well. After the Pioneers defeated WV State 76-72, Chico Caldwell, coach of the Yellowjackets, said, "On defense, number 42 (David Hall) killed us." His goal this year is to average 10 or more rebounds a game, get more blocked shots, and more steals. He leads the team in scoring, but says, If I can get someone else open, that is good enough for me."

"I am pleased with the way David plays," says Gary Nottingham, "I don't know where our team would be without him."

PIONEER'S 18 GAME TOTALS

GLENVILLE STUDENTS TUFF IT OUT

Two Glenville State students participated in the 1988 North Central West Virginia Toughman Contest. Danny Ray and Dwayne Titus combined to win five fights while losing only two.

Titus won two matches before being defeated in the quarterfinals. His defeat was one of the more spectacular fights of the night, as the Camden native kept bouncing back from almost certain defeat.

Ray won three fights on his way to earning Runner-Up in the heavyweight division, registering one knockout along the way. He lost the title by a decision to Ritchie County native Dale Putnam.

For his performance, Ray received $250 in cash plus a "Toughman" jacket. The winner walked away with $1000.

"Casey Hess and Phil Marsh took a poster that said, 'Get-up Danny,' I'm glad they didn't have to use it," says Dan.

Financial Aid Director August "Gook" Kafer made a ring appearance on opening night as he won 100 lottery tickets. In doing so, he was able to meet one of the scantily-clad bikini-bearing ring girls up close and personal.

In much the same vain as the original Rocky, Danny made a dramatic final round comeback, but it was too late and the decision was lost.

The Rivals Arrive

Lovers, lies, and laughter combine in a fun filled production of Richard Brinsley Sheridan's comedy classic THE RIVALS. Theatre West Virginia presents the frolic and flirtation of the 18th century in its 1987 tour. Glenville State College will present THE RIVALS Tuesday, February 9 at the College Auditorium. Curtain time is scheduled at 8:00 p.m.

The touring company's versatile and talented actors will portray some of literature's most memorable characters. Mrs. Malaprop, Sir Anthony Absolute, Jack Absolute and Lydia Languish combine their elaborate personalities in this timely duel of the sexes. The age of powdered wigs, brogades, farthingales and knee britches, set in an opulent Rococo background, will visually delight and entertain. Secrets, intrigue, disguises, and the confusions of love are all resolved in the classic happy ending.

"The actors are all talented professionals, many chosen from our summer outdoor drama season," said J R Wears, general director of Theatre West Virginia. "We are pleased to present them for the enjoyment of our 87-88 tour audiences. We feel that THE RIVALS, although written in the 18th century, is the comedic foundation from which our modern comedy has evolved."

The acting company is one of three touring divisions offered by the Beckley based producer of the outdoor dramas, "HATFIELDS AND MCCOYS" and "HONEY IN THE ROCK."

This program is being made possible through student activity fees and a grant from the Arts and Humanities Division, West Virginia Department of Culture and History. This project is supported by the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.
