Ozone Goes Wild

By Donna Brady

Something has gone wrong with the world. It's February the Second and people are wearing shorts. Outside! It must be the hole in the Ozone Layer. Whales are beaching themselves and we can't save them. It has to be the hole in the Ozone.

People are calling West Virginians "innately stupid." Other people are agreeing. Our governor promised us there'd be no more taxes and he's already wanting to implement taxes on food and gasoline. It must be that damned hole in the Ozone.

They're cutting down all the rain forests. They're not cutting down the crime rate. People are starving in Africa, freezing in Siberia and being shot on the Freeway in California. It has to be that hole.

Ted Bundy was executed the other day, but it took over a decade. Our tax dollars are supporting hardened criminals. Our tax dollars are paying the salaries of divers, politicians and legislators. Wait, didn't I just say that? You see, the hole in the Ozone is interfering with my brain waves. Reebok commercials are getting weirder and weirder. So are Levi's commercials. So are Duracell commercials. Raisin commercials have always been strange. And have you seen a cat food commercial lately? Now explain that with anything other than the hole in the Ozone! You say LSD? We wouldn't have a drug problem if it weren't for the hole in the Ozone.

My best friend thinks she's a possum and my roommate is attempting to juggle hard oranges. Our floor of the dorm smells like Barbasol and orange juice. I have two tests tomorrow and I haven't cracked a book. To top it all off, my mother has a crush on Slash. It's got to be the hole in the Ozone.

Tomorrow morning I'll turn on the radio and former President Reagan will be trying to blame Oliver North for the hole in the Ozone Layer. Or is it the other way around?

Maybe one of these days we'll be able to get up and face our problems but, until then, let's blame it on that hole in the Ozone Layer.

Carnegie Report Given

By Barbara Harris

The 51 page Carnegie Foundation report is a proposal for combining the West Virginia and Marshall universities with the College of Graduate Studies to form a three-campus university. This proposal focuses on West Virginia's financial condition, and the idea of strengthening our existing educational system.

The report claims WVU, Marshall, and COGS as one system, should be headed by a Board of Trustees which would "build centers of excellence in West Virginia for the advancement of research, graduate and professional education." The Carnegie Foundation report also emphasizes West Virginia's need for increased medical education. It is

Letters to the Editor

For the week of Feb. 15 through Feb. 22 the following took place inside the "caged walls" of Louis Bennett Hall's "Animal House." The staff and students of LBH showed their support for the women and men's Pioneer basketball teams by throwing a banquet for them in the Vandalia Room. The squads along with their coaches and some of Glenville State's administrative staff were given a menu including: breaded shrimp, sweet & sour pork, green beans, broccoli in cheese sauce, a tossed salad, jello, rolls, and for desert - sundaes. Drinks included iced tea, coke, and coffee. Around 50 people were in attendance at the banquet. Following the banquet a pep rally, cheerleading performance, and staff faculty basketball game was scheduled, but due to outbreaks of the flu this was still in the air at press time.

In other news, the House Director at LBH wishes to thank the "animals" of the dorm for learning how to restrain their aggressive behavior this semester. At present time terms such as civilized, almost human, and the best yet - "nice young men" - have been heard floating around campus being used by administration and students alike. And if you like miracles, listen to this. It has even been heard that females are no longer afraid to venture to the once dreaded fourth floor to study or to just visit. My compliments and thanks go out to all my residents, especially those on the 4th floor, for reducing damages from $21.77 per person last semester to a total of .18¢ per person to this point - Feb. 22, 1989 of this semester. Thanks again guys and keep it up. Thanks also to the staff of LBH who are also doing a splendid job. And finally thanks and best wishes to our men's and women's basketball teams. Go get 'em in the tournaments and look for your LBH supporters, or listen for us in Charleston, we'll be there.

Jerry Burkhammer
LBH H.D.

Very few things seem to upset the student body on campus. The parking situation didn't; people complained about it but, weren't willing to do anything else; so the committee that was formed to check into it was discontinued due to lack of student interest. So, I was suprised to see a protest Friday before last here. It's the only time since I have been here at GSC that I have seen that many students, (25 to 30), concerned that much with anything to do something about it.

If students would put their energies into other things also; like they did this; a lot could be accomplished for the entire student body. How about it? I commend these students for standing up for what they thought was worth standing up for and can only say that there are those who cannot find a cause that they feel is worth standing up for.

On another note but, along the same lines: Everyone should have heard about the six million dollar contract that the Ayatollah Khomeini has put on Salman Rushdie the author of "The Satanic Verses." If Iran would put as much energy into improving their internal affairs and those to other countries as these students did it would improve our world a lot and then maybe we wouldn't have hostages still over there.

If we put out a contract on everyone who wrote something that we did not like there wouldn't be very many people left. If the Koran says that a man should be killed for writing something about it, then this religion is not any better than the religion that caused the Jonestown Massacre and the people who died for no reason there. Khomeini has done about what he wanted to whomever he wanted for the past few years. When will people like this learn that they cannot do this and get away with it?

Black History Recognized

In recognition of February as Black History Month, The Glenville State College Student Congress is sponsoring a 56 minute Video entitled "Ethnic Notions" that will be shown on Wednesday, February 22nd at 6:00 p.m. in the Pioneer Center SnackBar Area.

"Ethnic Notions" is the award-winning documentary that takes viewers on a disturbing voyage through American history, tracing for the first time the deep-rooted stereotypes which have fueled anti-black prejudice. Through these images we can begin to understand the evolution of racial consciousness in America.

Gary Gillespie

By Sally Robinson

One familiar face to Glenville State Students is the Division Chairman of the Fine Arts Department, Dr. Gary Gillespie. One of the reasons that he is so well known is because as he would say, "All students become part of my captive audience Fine Arts Class."

Dr. Gillespie's degrees are an A.B. in education with a major in English and a minor in Social Sciences from Glenville State, 1959; an M.A. in English from West Virginia University, 1964; and a Ph.D. in Comparative Arts from Ohio University.

Dr. Gillespie has taught at Glenville State for the past 22 years, and lives here with his wife, Anna Belle, who teaches remedial reading at Normantown Elementary School. They have one son Daniel, "Fritz," who is a senior at Gilmer County High School. Dr. Gillespie and Anna Belle met while they were both students at Glenville State, where they both worked in the cafeteria, she taking lunch tickets and he pouring drinks and hand dipping ice cream.

Question: What do you consider your greatest challenge in teaching?

Dr. Gillespie: Many of my students ask why they must study Fine Arts. My greatest challenge is to convince them that this subject is worthy of their time.

Question: Where is the most interesting place you have visited?

Dr. Gillespie: Oh MY! We spent two different summers in Europe and visited the major cities in 17 countries. We traveled on our own with Eurail passes, a ticket that is purchased here that allows the holder to ride on any train in any country that is part of the common market. I think maybe one of the most beautiful countries we visited was Norway. We loved the snow capped mountains, the clear water, and the fresh air. Everywhere we ever visited we found the people extremely helpful and friendly.

Question: What would you consider the world's most beautiful piece of art?

Dr. Gillespie: Probably, Rembrandt's painting of the Prodigal Son. I think the relationship that it suggests between the father and his son is beautiful.

Question: If you could live anywhere and any life style, where would you choose?

Dr. Gillespie: Well, it would certainly be nice to have more money. I like West Virginia a great deal so it might be nice to live over the eastern panhandle to be close to Washington and Baltimore. I would like a lifestyle so that we could travel. I don't like money for the sake of money, I'm not very materialistic, but for what it would allow me to do. I like to travel, tour museums, go to movies and plays, especially movies, I really like movies. Simple things, you could say. For instance, my wife is a very good cook and we enjoy inviting students and friends to our house for a meal.

Question: What do you wish Glenville State could offer students that it does not?

Dr. Gillespie: Well, I really have two opinions about that. I have lots of friends who teach at other colleges, Con't on page 6

Lady Pioneers Split Games

Glenville 93
Fairmont 79

Four of Glenville's finest players concluded their regular season home careers on Tuesday Feb. 14, when the Lady Pioneers entertained Fairmont. Kim Creel, Niki Randolph, Karen Holloway, and Kim Fox all were honored before the senior night contest.

Wanting to finish their careers in an impressive fashion, GSC's seniors took charge as Glenville raced to a 6-0 lead one minute into the game.

Things only got better for the Lady Pioneers as they extended their lead to 14-2 at the fifteen minute mark. Coach Shepherd's club, which shot an eye-catching 71% from the floor in the first twenty minutes of action, led at the half 46-39.

After all ten players had seen action, Glenville, which led by as many as 24 points late in the second half, had waltzed to a 93-79 victory over the Lady Falcons.

GSC's Monique Johnson landed 26 points to lead all scorers, and was followed by Tammy Pence with 19, Kim Creel with 16, and Karen Holloway with 13 points. Marcia Moore and Tami Simons both came off the bench to grab 10 and 9 rebounds, respectively, while Niki Randolph dished out 7 assists for the winners.

WV Wesleyan 83
Glenville 67

Hoping to make up for an earlier 88-81 loss to WV Wesleyan, the Lady Pioneers went on the road Thursday (Feb. 16) to face the Lady Bobcats.

With four key players suffering from the flu, Glenville found itself trailing early and could never quite catch WV Wesleyan. At the half, the Ladies in Blue were down 47-39.

Although GSC was in striking distance for much of the final period, the veteran Lady Bobcat squad always seemed to hit crucial baskets when needed. Consequently, the host gained an 83-67 victory over Glenville.

The Lady Pioneers slipped to 15-5 overall with the loss, but remained 12-1 in the WVC, because it was a non-conference game.

Monique Johnson led the Glenville attack with 16 points, while Tammy Pence added 15 markers and collected 12 rebounds.

Pioneers Down Salem 66-53

by John Buser

Entering Saturday's (Feb. 18) road game with Salem, the Pioneers were hoping to gain a conference victory over a team they had split games with earlier this season.

With both teams applying solid man-to-man defenses, the first score did not come until 17:58 when Bernie Rees found Clinton Hinton for an alley-oop. After a brief Salem lead, Hinton powered his way to the hole for two more, giving Glenville an 11-8 lead with 12:25 remaining.

However, the muscular 6'6 Hinton picked up his third foul at the twelve minute mark and was forced to sit. David Hall and reserve Mike Hughes wasted no time taking over in the paint. Hall's inside scoring and Hughes' defense helped Coach Nottingham's squad extend their lead to 22-15 with just under six minutes left in the half.

Dwayne Williamson's bucket in traffic widened the Pioneer lead to 32-18, while Bernie Rees' three point goal as the first half buzzer sounded made it 43-22.

The physical play by both squads continued at the start of the second half.

David Hall's turn around jumper at 16:25 increased GSC's lead to 49-28.

Following a Clinton Hinton tip-in with 10:35 to go, Glenville was on top 53-34. However, Salem made one last run. Mike McCallister's three point goal brought the Tigers to within eleven (58-47) at 5:01.

Fortunately, Paul Grier's running lay-up a minute later put the Pioneers up 62-47 and halted the Salem run. Glenville went on to earn a 66-53 victory over the Tigers.

GSC, which upped its overall and conference records to 14-11 and 10-7, respectively, was led by David Hall's 20 points.

Dwayne Williamson added 14 points and 5 assists, while Clinton Hinton netted 10 and grabbed 8 rebounds.

The Pioneers played Charleston on Monday, but the results were unknown by press time. Thursday (Feb. 23) the men cagers wrap up their regular season when they host the Shepherd Rams at 7:30 pm.

Women Claim

WVC Title

by John Buser

Having already beaten Salem in a January 19th contest, the Lady Pioneers road match-up on Saturday (Feb. 18) with the Lady Tigers was important, because Glenville could sew up first place in the WVC's regular season with a victory.

In the game's opening minutes, Salem came out inspired and grabbed a 13-10 lead. The Ladies in Blue quickly awakened, however, as Karen Holloway's three point goal at 13:28 gave GSC a 20-15 lead.

The Lady Tigers continued to battle, regaining the lead 31-30 at 6:45. Salem's advantage was once again short lived, because Coach Shepherd's club ran off an 18-8 spurt over the last five minutes of the half, highlighted by Niki Randolph's coast to coast lay-up, to establish a 53-43 count at the intermission.

Taking advantage of their opponent's weak bench, the Lady Pioneers turned up their fast break a notch and ran away from Salem for good to start the final period. Tammy Pence's driving lay-up at 14:02 increased the GSC lead to 69-48.

Kim Creel's free throws at 8:16 made it 87-58 in favor of Glenville, when Coach Shepherd cleared the bench. In the end, the Lady Pioneers had captured a 102-80 blow-out over Salem, in addition to securing the WVC regular season title.

GSC, 16-5 overall and 13-1 in the conference, was led by Tammy Pence who poured in 31 points and collected 9 boards. Five other Glenville players also reached double figures, including Kim Creel with 14, Tami Simons with 13, and Niki Randolph, Karen Holloway, and Monique Johnson who each had 12 points.

The Lady Pioneers concluded their regular season yesterday (Feb. 21) when they played Bluefield, but the results were unavailable by press time. Their next game will be in the WVIAC Tournament next week at Charleston.

Buser's Briefs

Of all the 26 conferences in major college basketball, which one do you think is the strongest in 1989? That question is certainly very debatable. However, a choice has to be made, and I crown the Big Ten the best conference this year, followed very closely by the Big East.

The Big Ten's strength from top to bottom was proven on Saturday when Wisconsin rocked Illinois. Of course in the Big East, every team has at least four conference wins, except Boston College.

The ACC, a perennial power, is stronger than the Big Eight from top to bottom, and therefore gets my pick for the third toughest conference, despite Big Eight powers Oklahoma and Missouri.

When the NCAA Tournament invitations are extended in a few weeks, look for the Big Ten and Big East to receive at least five each and maybe even as many as seven. I am sure the selection committee will consider how competitive these conferences have been in 1989.

Michael Jordan, the all-everything guard for the Chicago Bulls, currently leads the NBA in scoring with an average of over 34 points a game. Second to the Wheaties' endorser in scoring is Karl Malone who averages 29 plus per game. When one considers these statistics, Wilt Chamberlain's 1961-62 season seems unbelievable. The Hall of Fame center scored 4029 points (the most ever for one NBA season) that year for an amazing 50 points per game average.

Glenville 81 Fairmont 79 (2OT)

by John Buser

Heading into Wednesday's (Feb. 15) game at the Feaster Center in Fairmont, the host Falcons had beaten Glenville five consecutive times, with the most recent Fairmont win coming in the fashion of a 53-52 thriller on January 30th.

Although Pioneer starters David Hall and Paul Grier were stricken with the flu, the two seniors helped Coach Nottingham's squad open a 35-29 lead at the intermission.

After the tightly played second half ended with the score knotted at 60 apiece, the two teams headed for overtime.

With the Pioneers ahead 70-68, Fairmont missed a potential game winning three point goal in the closing seconds of the first overtime period, but 6'6

Falcon forward Terence Coleman tipped in the missed bucket at the buzzer.

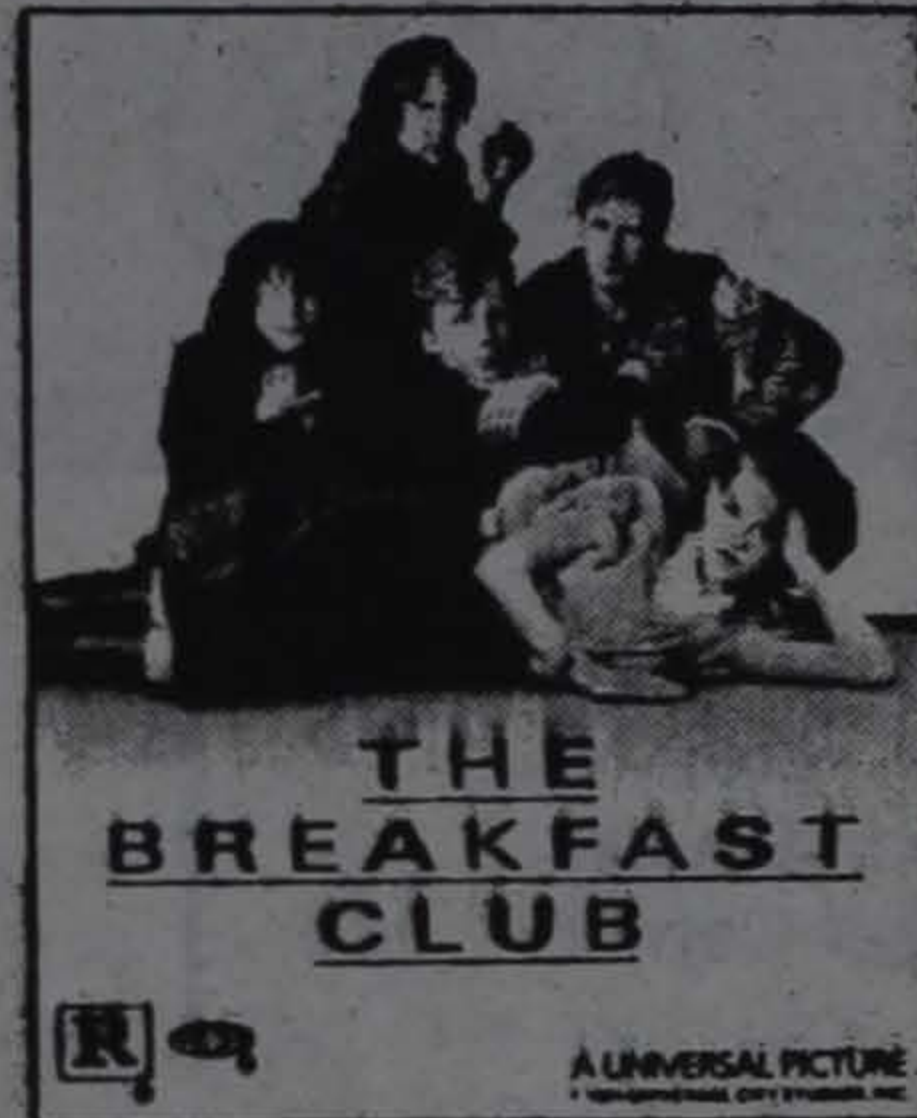

In the second overtime period, Bernie Rees' three point goal gave GSC a 75-72 lead. Following a Fairmont free throw, Paul Grier connected on a driving lay-up, but was whistled for charging. Grier's bucket counted, but the Falcons hit their resulting free throws to trim the deficit to 77-75 with 1:09 to play.

Thanks to four free throws by David Hall, Glenville held on to defeat Fairmont 81-79. Hall wound up with 23 points, 7 rebounds and 7 assists to lead the winners. William Jackson added 18 markers and 14 caroms for the Pioneers, while Paul Grier and Bernie Rees chipped in with 16 and 12 points respectively.

CARNEGIE

con't from pg. 1 suggested that WVU become more specialized in medical education, for Marshall to focus on rural health care, and that the School of Osteopathic Medicine at Lewisburg become a clinic at which to train upper-level students.

Though the report in only a proposal at present, without an economic improvement over a three year period, it may become a reality for many West Virginia students.

Showing Feb. 28-8:00pm.

Miss Sweetheart Named

By Sally Smith

For the first time in many years, the Sigma Sigma Sigma Sorority sponsored the Miss Sweetheart contest in honor of Valentine's Day.

Six young ladies vied for the title as Miss Sweetheart of 1989. Those who participated were Lisa Crutchfield, Monna Beamer, Lynn Wass, Jill Harmon, Karen Schoolcraft, and Andrea Wines.

The winner was determined by who collected the most money with all proceeds going towards the Robbie Page Memorial - Sigma's national philanthro-

A total of $40 was raised for the contest with $22.89 going towards the victory of Miss Schoolcraft. She was crowned Miss Sweetheart of 1989 during the halftime activities when the Lady Pioneers played Fairmont State.

Miss Schoolcraft stated, "I really enjoyed raising money for the Tri-Play Therapy. It was for a good cause."

Not only did Karen receive the title of Miss Sweetheart, but was also presented with a half dozen carnations and a dinner for two at Sadettes.

 so I'm aware what other states offer, but the faculty here is extremely dedicated and are always willing to spend time with their students. And, I wish we had a budget that would allow for more resource people to visit and perform here. I wish we could take our students, on field trips to museums and all kinds of live performances. We are isolated here in Glenville and I would really like to take our students to cities. Also, it would be nice to have more equipment. All departments need more equipment. But I want to emphasize that I have profound respect for the faculty here because they are hard working and dedicated, and our graduates are successful when they leave. Those wishing to go on to graduate school have a sound background to help them achieve their goals.

Question: If you could be an artist for one day or long enough to produce one work of art, What would you do?

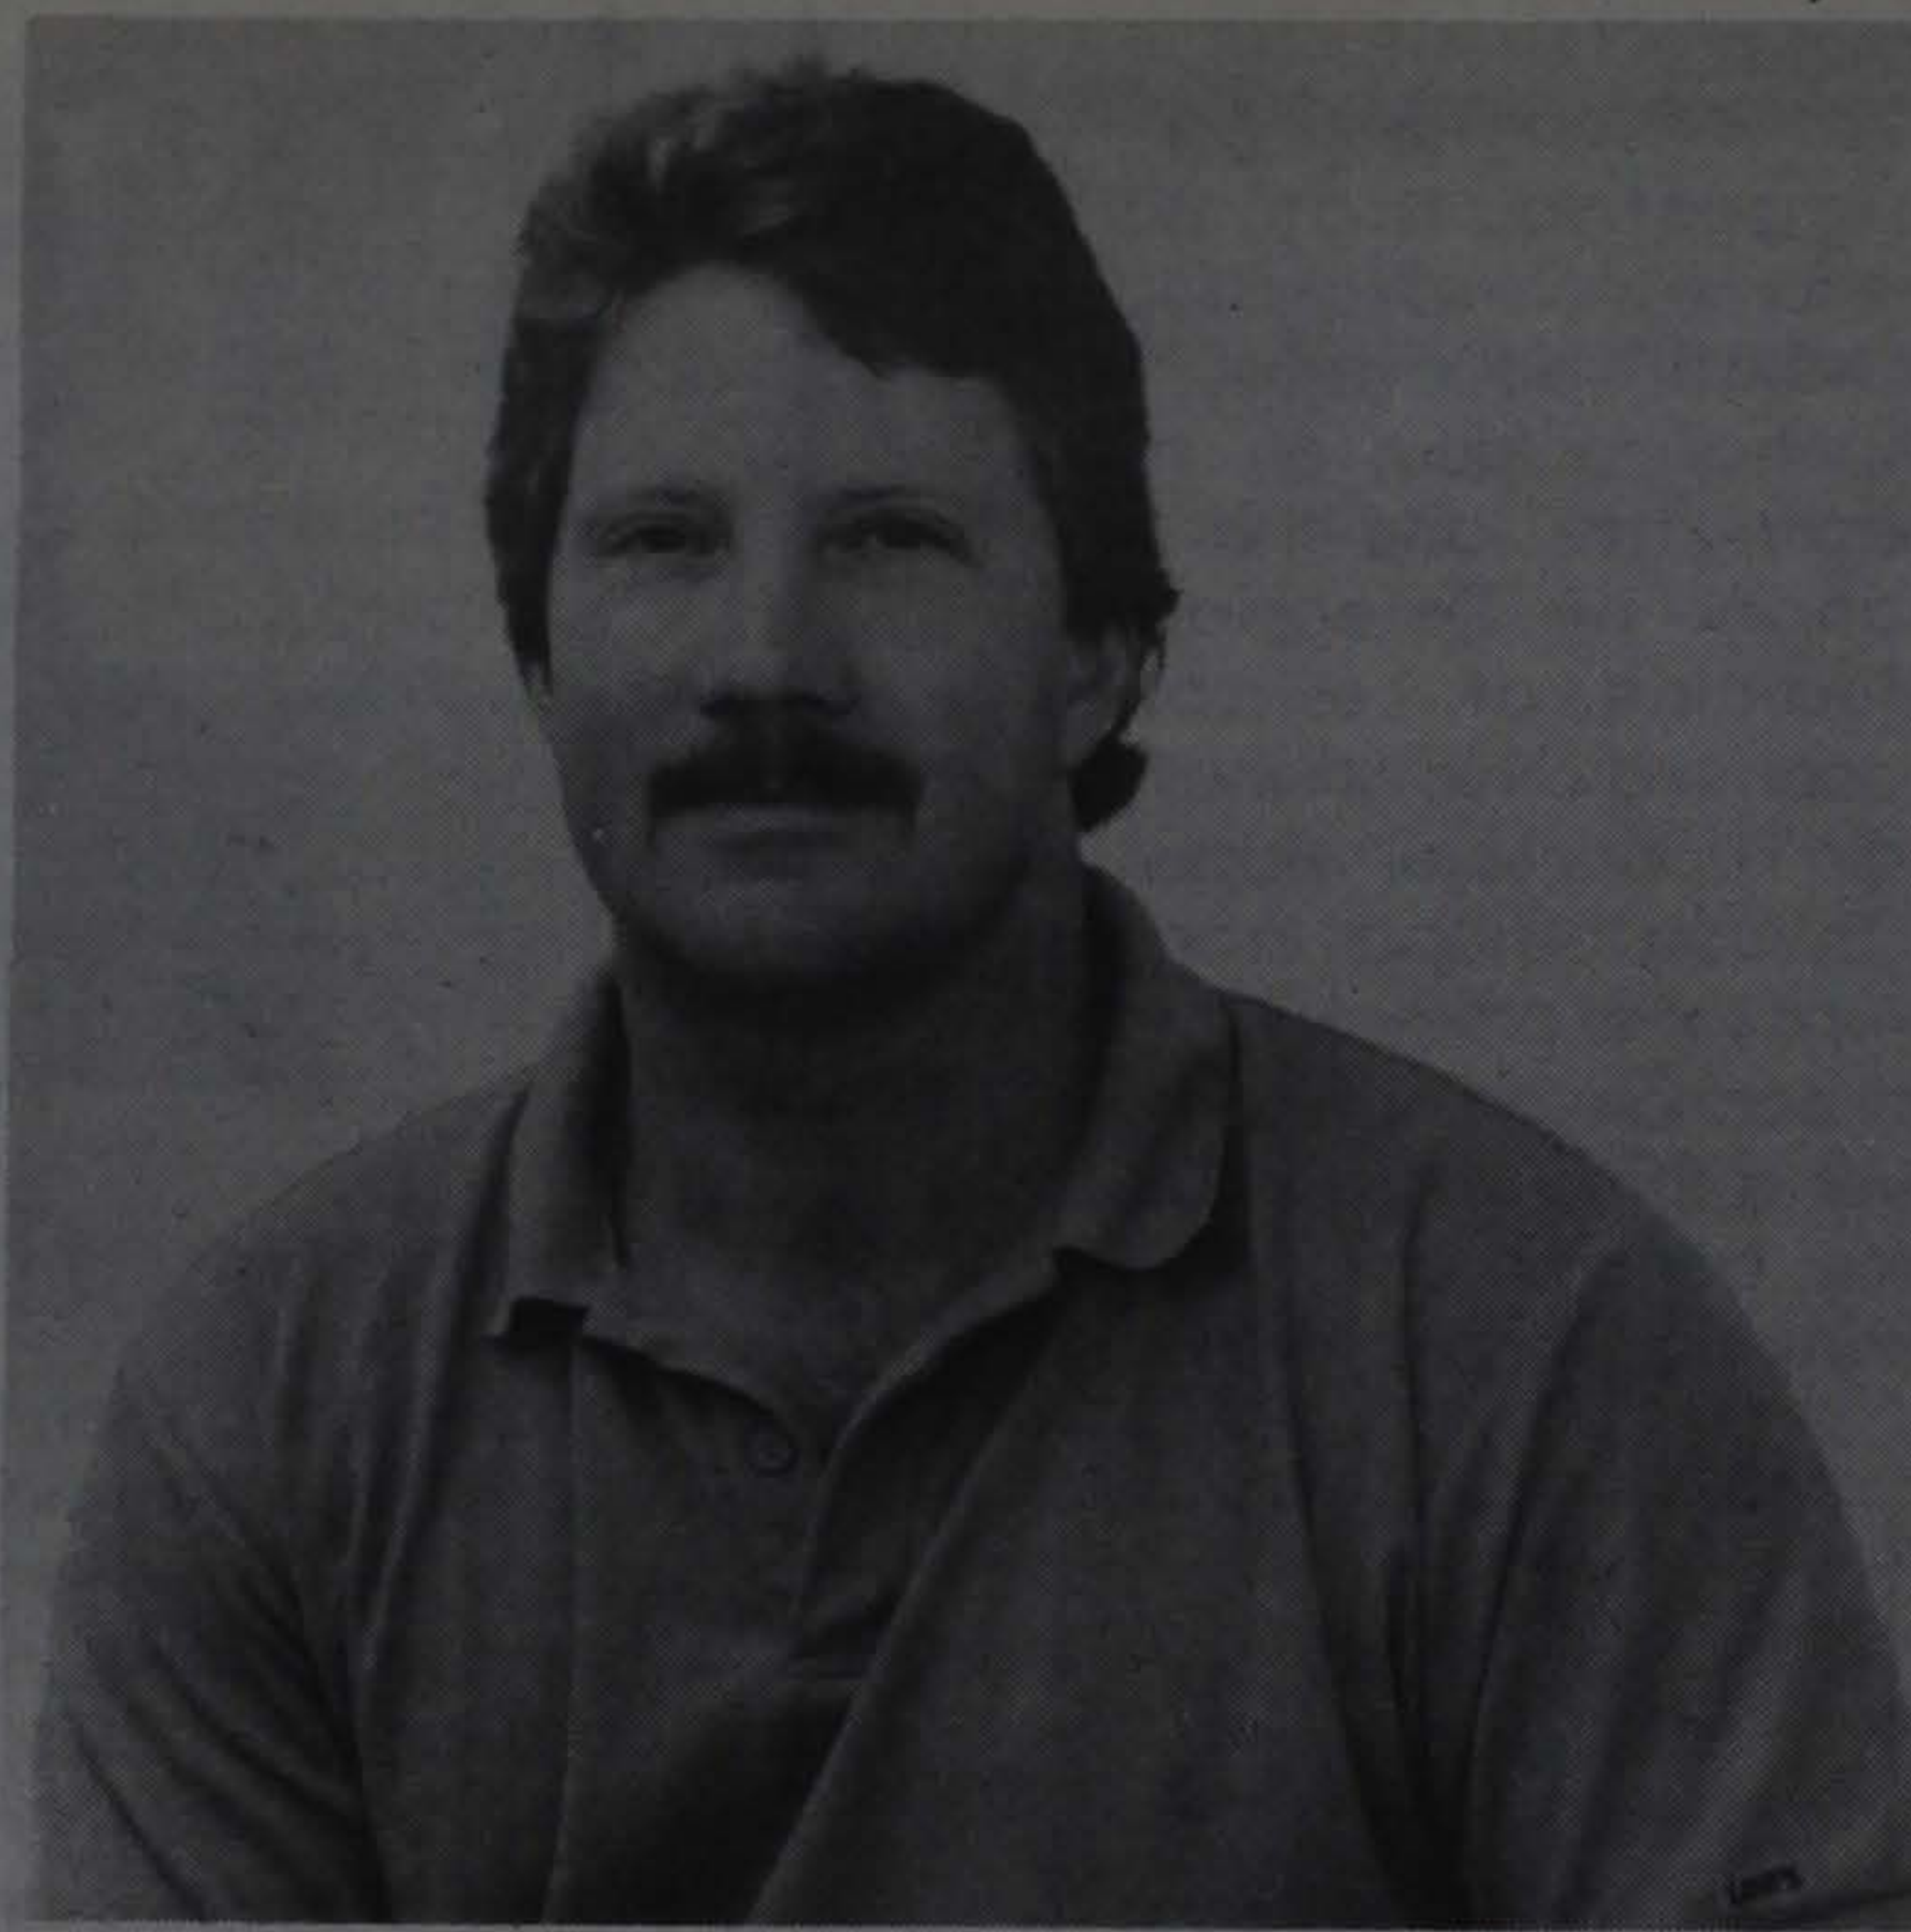

Dr. Gillespie: If I had the background, which I do not, I think I would want to conduct a symphony orchestra for one performance. That would be my greatest thrill.

Question: If you could have a conversation with any artist that ever lived, who would you choose?

Dr. Gillespie: Rembrandt, I get the feeling that he was a man of deep wisdom who possessed great compassion, a genius at understanding humanity. I could learn a great deal from him by asking questions and listening to him. You know, one of the things that I think is sad about teaching is that it is really too bad that students don't "pick the brains" of the faculty more. There is such a rich repository of information here that goes untapped. I wish students would take advantage of this resource and knowledge and ask more questions.

Question: What do you do for entertainment other than dinner parties?

Dr. Gillespie: We love to go up to the lake where we have a motor boat, take refreshments and relax, play, swim, sometimes fish a little. At least hold a pole. For some reason the fish are never interested in my bait. We spend a lot of time hiking at Cedar Creek and along some of the roads of Gilmer County.

Question: Will you always teach?

Dr. Gillespie: I think being around students keeps me young and alert. Yes, I will always teach. I suspect I'll probably fall over dead someday in Fine Arts 100.
