Japanese Students to Attend GSC

By Katsuko Nakato

Fifteen new Japanese students are coming to Glenville State College during the summer of 1989. Glenville State College acts in concert with two specialty colleges in Japan. The students who attend those specialty colleges studied about business in English for one year in Japan. Then they come here to improve English conversation fluently. They will be majoring in business at Glenville

State College.

They will arrive here on May 20, and their classes will start on May 21. These classes, called Intensive English Program, provide an opportunity for international students with limited English proficiency. During Intensive English Program, they will study English speaking, listening, reading, writing, and American Culture to prepare and improve to follow the

115 Years of Graduates

On Saturday, May 13th, Glenville State College will be honoring its 243 expecting graduates as they will be participating in the one hundredth and fifteenth (115) year of saluting its graduates at 11:00 a.m. in the Physical Education Building.

President William K. Simmons will be presiding at this occasion.

The program will begin as the prelude of "America The Beauty", by Dragon, is performed by the Glenville State College Concert Band, directed by John S. McKinney.

The Reverend Margaret A. Hurlbutt, Pastor of the Trinity United Methodist Church will lead the invocation.

Mr. Louis J. Costanzo, III, President of the WV Board of Regents will give the commencement address.

After the commencement address, Glenville State College's Concert Choir, directed by Richard J. O'Brien, will sing "Wondrous Love," by Parker-Shaw.

Dr. James L. Peterson, Vice President for Academic Affairs will call upon the candidates to receive their Bachelor's Degree and their Degree of Associates in Arts and in Science.

After the students receive their degrees, Dr. William K. Simmons will present the highest award for the Distinguished Pioneer. This award will be presented to The Reverend Paul J. Gilmer, Pastor of the First Baptist Church of Vandalia. He is the Executive Director of Opportunities Industrialization Center, Inc., and a member of the WV Board of Regents.

From the Editor's Desk

Well, this is my last paper as I am graduating and I would first like to thank Mrs. King for giving me the opportunity to work on the Mercury the last couple of years. I hope that my small contribution has been helpful. Thank you Mrs. King for all your help!

I also wish to thank my Associate Editor Janet Rogers and the rest of the staff who worked hard getting the paper done on Monday nights. We've put in some long hours and a lot of work, but it always paid off in the end. Thanks folks!

As my last editorial I feel that I should address an item that will affect G.S.C. and Gilmer County for years to come if it is placed here, namely the PRISON. I attended a meeting last Friday that was organized and setup by people who are against having a prison placed in Gilmer Co., but it seemed as though there were more people there for it than against. All together I have heard that there were approximately 1000 to 1600 people who attended.

There were approximately 28 speakers; some for and some against it. Some of the concerns of those against it were: (1) families of prisoners moving into the area; (2) AIDS; and (3) prison breaks to name a few.

According to information gathered by a couple of residents, Cherrie M. James and Mona Hinkle James, who talked to Ms. Nancy Morcher, Executive Director of the Madison County Chamber of Commerce in London, Ohio, their facility, which was also put in by Batman Corporation, has none of these problems. The limited visitation that is permitted to the prisoners doesn't make this worthwhile. All the prisoners are screened with a medical exam before they enter the facility and if there is any medical problem, such as AIDS, they are isolated from the rest of the prisoners and of course the prison is isolated from the community.

It was also brought up by someone Friday night that the prison would cause drugs to be brought into the county. I'm sorry to inform you that Gilmer County already has a drug problem.

The people who were pro-prison were talking of the benefits it would bring to Gilmer Co. and its school system, by providing a larger tax base; jobs; road improvements; as well as improvements for water and sewage systems, recreational facilities, business and to Glenville State College.

It was also stated that the operating budget of the Gilmer County Commission would increase a conservative estimate of 500% due to the greater taxes generated by the prison.

Most people who were for the prison were looking at the fact that Gilmer Co. doesn't have companies breaking down their doors to bring a new business into the county and that many people are leaving because there are no jobs here.

Congress still has to approve the installation of the prison and it will be a few years before it is fully operational.

The prison inmates will be flown into the county from D.C. and flown back there to be released. Consider the consequences if we don't get this prison; weigh them out and make your decision.

All of the active members will be alumni at the end of the semester. Five of the members are not nationally recognized and I feel if they are not recognized by the end of this semester they should be allowed to pledge during the Fall semester, if we are started back up. The Alumni would help regroup new members into office.

Anyone that would like to help or become a member and start the fraternity back together next year, could let one of the TeKE'S of this year know. Thank You.

The yearbooks, which are included in student fees, will be distributed in October of next semester.

Art Exhibited

Everyone is invited to come by the Art Department and view the current work of the students in the sculpture class and advance drawing class. The art projects involve many different techniques in sculpture from substitution or casting to subtractive or carving. While there is work in clay, wire, and plaster from the sculpture class, the drawing class has sketches and completed drawings ranging from still-life to figure studies with the latter being the main emphasis of the class.

The exhibit is located in the show cases adjacent to the Art Department on the second floor of the Administration Building. It will be up through next Wednesday and possibly be extended into the fall term as an over the summer exhibit. So, come by and take a look; it's worth the trip.

Former Glenville State graduate Mike Euler of Elkview, West Virginia was in an automobile accident on January 24. The wreck occurred in Virginia where Mike was working as a surveyor.

He was in a coma for weeks and has since come out. He is paralyzed from the legs down and is partially deaf.

The Eulers want to thank everyone for their thoughts and prayers.

Mike has been moved to New Medico Rehab Center-Meadowlands, R.D. #1, Box 146, Route 519 South Canonsburg, P.A. 15317.

He can have visitors on weekends.

Teacher Feature: Mona McCoy

By Sally Robinson

Adjectives such as peppy and cute are frequently used by students to describe Mona McCoy, Glenville State College special education teacher. But there are other comments repeatedly heard also, and is she afraid of the effects of age in this youth oriented society? Is she getting older or better? as the Clairol ad asks.

Mrs. McCoy is a graduate of WVU with a B.S. degree in education, and of WVCOGS with a M.S. in Learning Disabilities, Behavior Disorders, and Educable Mentally Impaired. After completing grad school, she was asked to set-up education programs in West Virginia's State Hospitals. She taught special education at Lakin State Hospital and served as the Director of Special Education at Spencer State Mental Hospital. She was then asked to teach the first LD class in Charleston, where she remained for over two years. Charleston schools then had a need for a curriculum specialist and enlisted Mrs. McCoy once more. This job was "stressful" as she supervised new teachers in 17 schools as well as helped identify special education students and served as a consultant with regular education teachers.

Five years ago Mrs. McCoy's husband bought an insurance agency in Grantsville and the family moved. Mrs. McCoy taught at Pleasant Hill Elementary School in Grantsville in a self-contained special education classroom, while also serving as an adjunct professor for WVCOGS in Calhoun County supervising student teachers. She joined the teaching staff of Glenville State College for the fall term 1988 and plans to remain here, where she feels she is "effective, and can help prepare teachers for special education certification."

QUESTION: What do you believe are the strengths of the GSC program?

Mrs. McCoy: The informal atmosphere and frequent contact between students and faculty. When I was excellently supervising graduate students, I found them to have preconceived notions and to be less open to suggestions. The undergraduates here are more open to information and methods of application.

When asked how she spends her leisure time, Mrs. McCoy responded that she likes to play tennis, spend time with her family, in particular her 10 year old daughter, Meredith, and to read. Read what? Almost exclusively non-fiction. She enjoys shopping with Meredith and spends a lot of time at Hilton Head, South Carolina. Does Mona cook? "I am entirely devoid of any domestic attributes."

I asked Mrs. McCoy if she could relate an amusing

Buser's Briefs

Before mentioning my final sports tidbits of the year, I just want to thank typesetters Monica, Patti, and Amy for their patience and willingness in typing all of my stories, even when the deadline was missed. Thanks Bill and Paul for teaching me the tasks involved for a lay-out, and a special thank-you to Mrs. King who gave me the opportunity to serve as sports editor.

With the recent conclusion of the NFL draft, many rookies are signing huge contracts. Football is not the only sport that pays well. Incredibly, there are more than 100 big league baseball players this year making over one million dollars each! Additionally, there are 19 players making over two million dollars each.

What player set a big league baseball record, but then had it stopped by his father? Cal Ripken Jr. set an all-time record by playing every inning in 910 straight games, going 8,243 consecutive innings from June 5, 1982 to September 14, 1987. The streak ended when his manager pulled him from a game because he felt Ripken needed a rest. His manager who stopped the record was his father, Cal Ripken Sr.

While athletes in most sports seem to be bigger and bigger, every one of the top five money winners on the PGA tour last year is less than six feet tall. Curtis Strange is 5'11, Chip Beck, Joey Sindelar, and Ken Green are 5'10, and Tom Kite is 5'9.

Intramural Update

UBA defeated Bandits in a close championship game in the mens' game. In the womens' final, which was also close, Glenville Heat defeated Stubs to become the 1989 Intramural Champs.

Intramural Tennis is in action this week and will try to be completed by the end of the semester. All teams are encouraged to participate.

Karate Tournament Held

Members of the Glenville karate classes, along with other karate students from around the state, participated in a tournament held Sat. April 29 at the Glenville State College Gymnasium.

Two different competitions were held- kata, which is judged on form and kumite, actual fighting.

GSC karate participants who placed in the kata competition were Doug Moeck, 3rd (tie); Dawn Harpold, 2nd; Dan Reed, 2nd; Jeffrey Jenkins, 2nd; Jennifer Lowther, 3rd; and Katrina Lowther, 2nd.

Placing in the kumite competition from Glenville were Mike Adams, 1st; Dawn Harpold, 2nd; Harry Harpold, 2nd; Dan Reed, 2nd; Debbie Starcher, 3rd; and Katrina Lowther, 2nd.

Other participants in the tournament were Karen Schoolcraft, Tom Barnes, Elaine Lowe, Mike Newell and J.R. Adams.

Vonda Underwood placed 1st in the weapons category and as a result of her outstanding performance was named Woman's Black Belt Grand Champion. She and, her husband, Don Underwood are both from Grantsville.

Ralph Sumlin, a Fairmont resident, received the honor of being the Men's Black Belt Grand Champion.

Don Underwood is the instructor of the course offered at GSC and Mike Gherke instructs the class at the Glenville Fitness Center.

If any GSC student is interested in learning the skill of karate whether it be for self-defense, to get in shape, or just for fun, a class will be offered during the 1989 Fall Semester.

Pioneer Invitational

Both Men and Women tracksters won the 10th Annual Pioneer Invitational on April 29. Two members from the men's team qualified for Nationals which will be in California on May 25-26.

Bubby Dent will be running in the 3000 steeple chase. He is currently ranked third in the nation. Mickey Grass will also go to California and run in the Marathon. Bernie Rees has an outside chance to qualify for the long jump.

For the women Donetta Parsons set a new school record, with a time of 1:01.63 in the 400 run.

The Tracksters have two meets remaining. They travel to Marshall this weekend and go to the University of Pitt. on May 13.

May 2) at Cacapon in Berkeley Springs, WV. The event included all eight WVC golf teams and WV Wesleyan. The winner advanced to the NAIA nationals to be played at Saginaw, Michigan.

Although Charleston was heavily favored entering the tournament, the Pioneers remained quite optimistic. Bob Sowards has played excellent at Cacapon in both of his trips to the Eastern Panhandle course. The former All-American had an outstanding chance of qualifying for nationals individually, even if the team did not advance.

In addition to Sowards' experience at Cacapon, Coach Carney hoped to receive topnotch play from John Buser, who had the luxury of returning to his home course.

Golfer's Third at Canaan Valley, Sowards Ties for 4th

With two new faces in the line-up, Glenville's golf team traveled to Tucker County for the Central Regional at Canaan Valley on Sunday and Monday (April 23-24).

Battling 25 mph winds, the Pioneer linksters found themselves in fourth place (324) after Sunday's round as Charleston (305), Bluefield (314), and Fairmont (322) owned the top three positions.

Individually, Bob Sowards' 76 was just three shots from the lead, while John Pack (80) and Greg Tallman (81) also turned in strong efforts for head coach Tim Carney.

In Monday's final round, GSC mounted a charge when four of its five players improved upon their first round score. Sophomores Jason Sutton and John Buser, who both were inserted into the top five prior to the tournament, cured their putting woes that plagued them on Sunday to turn in much better rounds (Sutton-79, Buser-80).

Sowards' closing round of 75 yielded a two day total of 151, which tied for fourth place individually, while Tallman's 4-over par 76 on Monday wrapped up the scoring for Glenville. With their enhanced performances, the Pioneers leaped the Falcons to capture third place. Charleston, the 17th ranked team in the nation, continued its domination of the WVC by outdistancing upstart Bluefield for the team title.

At the writing of this article, Glenville's golf team was participating in the most important tournament of the year. The WVIAC District 28 Championship was held Sunday-Tuesday (April 30-

President William K. Simmons will then introduce the platform guests. They are Mr. Mack Samples, Dean of Records and Admissions; Mr. Philip A. Reale; Mrs. Anita Harold Ashley; Dr. James L. Peterson; Mr. Louis J. Costanzo, III; and The Reverend Margaret A. Hurlbutt.

After the introduction of the platform guests, President William K. Simmons will deliver his message.

After the President's message, the audience and the graduates will stand and sing the Alma Mater and will remain standing for the Benediction given by Pastor Margaret A. Hurlbutt and the Recessional.

Unusual Yearbook

The 1988-89 edition of the Kanawhachen may prove to be something different. With the theme centered around "Out of the Ordinary" what else can one expect?

The yearbook will consist of 24 color pages including the senior section. The cover will be in blue with blue endsheets.

As of now the yearbook staff is meeting their second deadline. The last deadline that will be met is June 15 and then the books will be ready to print. One thousand copies will be processed for $11,000.

Art Scholarship Awarded

Duane Chapman, a senior at Gilmer County High School, has been named the recipient of an art scholarship at Glenville State College.

Chapman will be enrolling at Glenville State in the four-year Art Education program, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert "Jack" Chapman of Glenville.

Chapman recently won the scholarship and a merit award at the Glenville State College Art Departments 12th annual High School Art Exhibition and Competition held April 10-14.

Democrat Index Expanded

Dr. Max Ward of Glenville has revised and expanded his subject index to the Glenville Democrat. His latest volume covers the years 1935 through 1963. Dr. Ward has been working on this project as time permits and intends to bring the indexing up to the present.

Dr. Ward, a 1940 graduate of Glenville State College, holds an MA and PhD in Developmental Botany from Harvard University. He taught at GSC from 1947 to 1969. In 1982 he retired from the National Science Foundation and returned to live in Glenville.

Dr. Ward's index will be of great interest to those concerned about state and local history. A former managing editor of The Mercury, he has a great personal interest in Gilmer County and journalism. In the 290-page Glenville Democrat Subject Index there are numerous entries for prominent citizens of Gilmer County, as well as many school, Glenville State College, and World War II entries.

This latest index to the Democrat was created using dBase III and an IBM computer. Dr. Ronnie Faulkner, former GSC Library Director, assisted with the project. Future volumes are planned. The 1935-1963 volume is available at the Robert F. Kidd Library for patron use.

incident she had experienced as a teacher. She answered, "Once I went to the Sunrise Museum in a very affluent area of Charleston with a group of students from Lakin State Hospital. While we were waiting to enter, the curator, a very persnickety lady, looked down her nose at our group and asked, "From where did you come" and one of my students screamed loudly, "OPEN THE DOOR--UNLOCK THE GATES--WE'RE THE NUTS FROM LAKIN STATE."

QUESTION: What is your fantasy?

Mrs. McCoy: To win the lottery and retire. But most people who know me say I'm too compulsive and driven to retire.

QUESTION: What do you consider your greatest accomplishment?

Mrs. McCoy: I believe I have been a fairly productive individual in the field of education. That is why I'm here, because I feel I have been effective as a teacher and can help prepare others by using what I have learned. Also, I want to be a role model for my daughter, to instill in her that she can have a career and a family.

QUESTION: Are you concerned with aging?

Mrs. McCoy: Yes, if I have to admit to one human fallacy, it would have to be a concern about age. I have been in education 17 years and there are times that I feel very good and energetic, and others that I feel life's experiences are catching up. I also admit I am concerned with my outward appearance, but it is mostly concern that there will not be time enough to do what I want to do. But like the ad says we get better in a lot of ways with age, too.

QUESTION: Do you think that students here have or give thought to what their goals should be?

Mrs. McCoy: I find there appears to be a metaphoric change between the freshmen and senior years. In the latter students tend to look at long term goals rather than short term ones, and it is reflected in the classroom. They're insightful and are projective in setting goals and are really looking and applying their accumulated knowledge.

Aside from the fact that students describe her as "peppy and cute" what else do Mrs. McCoy's students think of her? Answers to that question always elicited praise. Here is a list of what some of her students said: "I love the way she uses her own experiences to demonstrate what it will be like in the special education classroom," "I think she is a really good teacher, and we are lucky she is here," "The time passes so fast when I'm in her class. You know how in some classes you watch the time? In her class you no more get started, and the time is up. She makes it that interesting," "It's my favorite class. I really want to go, I wouldn't even think of skipping, because I'd be afraid I'd miss something great, and I would," "It's great to go to a class that's exciting, and where the teacher is good-looking, too."

regular classes. They will take the Test of English as a Foreign Language like SAT or ACT on August 5. This test is to know whether they have an ability to follow the regular classes.

Two Japanese specialty colleges have some colleges contracted in San Diego, San Francisco, St. Louis, Iowa, New Hampshire, and West Virginia. Fairmont State College, University of Charleston, and A.B. act in concert with those Japanese Colleges, also.

Students Honored with Alumni Foundation Awards

The Alumni Foundation Awards are made each year on the recommendations of faculty members in various proficiencies.
