Glenville Mercury Celebrates 60 years.

The Glenville Mercury celebrated its 60th birthday on November 25, 1989. For 60 years the newspaper staff has worked diligently to keep the readers updated on the latest news as well as current social and sports events at Glenville State College.

Up until the year 1929 the campus newspaper was called the Tower. It was not successful, so a contest was held to find a more suitable name for the publication. The following titles were submitted:

"The Glenville Galaxy," "The Mountain Sun," "Sympathetic Insight Into Contemporary Student Life," "Damburst," "The Weekly Washout," "Pioneer Post," and "The Glenville Mercury."

Mrs. Carmen Moss, the former Carmen Rhinehart of Virginia, a 1924 graduate of the Normal course, was the winner of the contest. She gave birth to the name The Glenville Mercury which still embodies the flag of GSC's campus newspaper.

From 1930 to 1935 The Glenville Mercury was published bi-weekly, but during the Fall semester of 1935 the paper was reinstated as a weekly publication.

Inflation has taken its toll. A 50 cent yearly subscription rate has risen to five dollars a year in 1989.

In the Spring of 1990 a formal banquet is being planned to present the college with a 35 year history of the college dating back from 1954-1989.

Student Composer Awards Competition

Frances W. Preston, President and CEO of BMI, announced today the opening of competition for the 88th annual BMI Student Composer Awards. The competition, sponsored by BMI Foundation, presents scholarships totalling $15,000 to several young composers. The deadline for the '89-90 entries will be Friday, February 9, 1990.

BMI established the awards program in 1951 in cooperation with music educators and composers. The contest is designed to encourage young composers in the creation of concert music and, through cash prizes, to aid in continuing their musical education. The awards vary from $500 to $2,500 and are divided at the discretion of the final judging panel. To date, 354 students, ranging in age from 8 to 25, have received BMI awards.

The 1989-90 competition is open to students who are citizens or permanent residents of the Western Hemisphere including North, Central and South American and Caribbean Island nations. They must be enrolled in accredited secondary schools, colleges or conservatories or are engaged in private study with recognized and established teachers anywhere in the world. Contestants must be under 26 years of age on December 31, 1989. There are no limitations as to instrumentation, stylistic consideration or length of work submitted. Students may enter no more than one composition, which need not have been composed during the year of entry. Compositions, entered under pseudonyms, are considered by a preliminary panel of judges before going to a final panel. Last year's preliminary judges were Ronald Caltabiano, Gary Schneider, and Joelle Wallach with Ulysses Kay as Consultant. The final judges were Michael Charry, Paul Dresher, Ursula Mamlok, Bernard Rands, Lalo Schifrin, Larry A. Smith, Stuart Saunders Smith, and Harry Gilbert Trythall. William Schuman and Milton Babbitt are chairman emeritus and chairman, respectively, of the final judging panel.

Seven previous winners of BMI Student Composer Awards have won the coveted Pulitzer Prize in Music. They are William Bolcom, George Crumb, Mario Davidovsky, John Harbison, Donald Martino, Joseph Schwantner and Charles Wuorinen.

BMI is the largest performing rights organization in the world, representing over 90,000 composers, writers, and publishers. More than 50 percent of the music played on American radio stations in the past year is licensed by BMI. It also has reciprocal agreements with 39 foreign performing rights licensing organizations around the world, making its music available there and representing foreign music in this country. Each year BMI sponsors a variety of workshops and seminars designed to encourage participation in all areas of music.

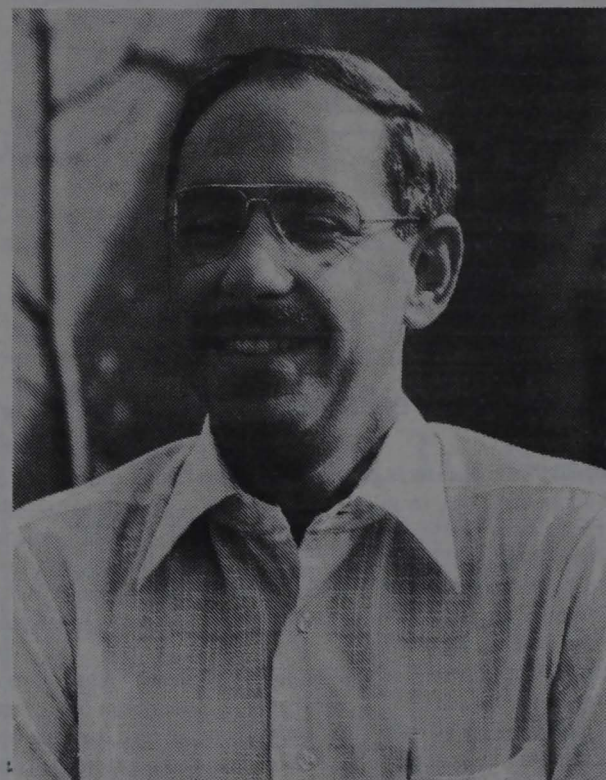

BMI Foundation, Inc., was established in 1984 to support individuals interested in furthering their musical education and to assist organizations involved in the performance of and training in music. Theodora Zavina, BMI's Senior Vice President and Special Counsel, is president of BMI Foundation.

Official rules and entry blanks for the 1989-90 competition are available from Ralph N. Jackson, Director, BMI Student Composer Awards, 320 West 57th Street, New York, NY 10019.

"Every student who writes poetry should enter this contest. Our latest $1,000 winner is a student. Students also won 24 of the other prizes," said Robert Nelson, publisher for the association. "December break should give students the chance to enter before the deadline."

Poets may enter the contest by sending up to six poems, each no more than 20 lines, name and address on each page, to American Poetry Association, Dept. CT-90, 250-A Potrero St., P.O. Box 1803, Santa Cruz, CA 95061. Entries should be

Etchison Publishes 'Maine Man'

Dr. Craig Etchison, Assistant Professor of English, will read from his new book, Maine Man, on Thursday, December 7 at 1:30 p.m. in Room 305 Administration Building as a guest of the Creative Writing class.

The book is about a "Downeaster," a Maine native whom Dr. Etchison came to know after he met him on a vacation trip to Deer Isle. It is filled with anecdotes, stories, and Maine lore, as well as family photographs and original drawings by Bruce Etchison, Dr. Etchison's father.

Published this Fall by Fithian Press, the book is on sale in the College Bookstore. Dr. Etchison will autograph copies and answer questions about his experiences in writing the book.

Faculty, students, and the general public are invited to the reading. For further information, one may call Dr. Barbara W. Tedford, instructor of the Creative Writing class, 462-7361 ext. 212.

Mrs. Linda McKown Will be Missed

Mrs. Linda Lambiotte McKown, Director of Public Relations and Alumni Affairs, died Saturday at Camden Clark Hospital in Parkersburg. She had been associated with Glenville State College for ten years, as assistant professor of speech/communications and drama director before accepting this position.

A graduate of Glenville State College and Marshall University, she formerly taught in Wood and Fayette counties. She served as faculty advisor for the Board of Regents. She was a Methodist. On campus she had served as a member of various committees, including publications.

She is survived by her husband, Edward McKown, a member of the Fine Arts Division and her mother, Mrs. Local Davis Lambiotte of Grantsville.

Services were held at Spurgeon-Ellyson Mortuary with burial in Fayetteville.

American Poetry Association's Contest Announced

December 31 is the deadline for entering the American Poetry Association's contest. Entry is free and everyone is welcome to enter. The Grand Prize is $1,000 and the first prize $500. In total 152 poets will win cash and publication prizes worth $11,000.

Education Appreciation... Where is GSC's?

Dr. Craig Etchison

I would like to pose three principal questions (along with a flock of related minor questions) to any GSC student who would care to ponder them. First, how would you respond if you went to McDonald's, ordered a Big Mac, large fries, and large Coke, paid your money, and then received a regular burger, small fries, and small coke? Would you be happy? Would you smile and say, "This is great!"? Would you tell your friends that you had lucked out?

Now let me pose my second principal question. What is your response when a class at GSC is cancelled, or a 3 hour class only meets 2 hours each week, or an instructor does nothing but read from the text during class time, or an upper level class requires nothing more than rote memorization? Are you happy when class is cancelled? Do you smile and say, "This is great!" when class is shortened every week? Do you tell your friends that you lucked out when all you are asked to do is memorize insignificant facts for multiple-choice, fill-in-the-blank test, rather than being asked to stretch your mind on cognitively difficult conceptual matters?

I suspect the answers to these questions are fairly obvious, so I now ask the most important question of all -- WHY? Why would you be incensed if McDonald's gave you less food than you had paid for, and yet turn right around and smile when you are cheated on the education you, or your parents, have paid for? Is not education of far more important value than one meal at a fast-food restaurant? And yet, the main goal for many students at GSC is to avoid doing as much academic work as possible, to get the least possible return for the money they pay, to cheat, if necessary, to avoid learning. Why is this so? Who has established this agenda at GSC? A number of instructors who have taught at other colleges and universities will tell you that this avoidance syndrome so prevalent at GSC is NOT the norm at most schools.

Now, I'm not suggesting that all students at GSC don't want to learn. The obvious exceptions are the non-traditional students who have been out in the world and are returning to school, having seen how important an education is. With this group of students as the foundation -- the exemplars -- I would like to see the GSC student body begin to build a new view of education -- to have students on campus think in terms of how much they can get out of their time here, rather than how little, to establish a new tenor on campus that makes learning of paramount importance, that makes the classroom and library as important as the Pub.

If McDonald's cheats you, the effect of that lasts a few hours, until you chow down at your next meal, but if you cheat yourself of an education while you are at GSC, the effects of that will last a life-time, putting you at a disadvantage in so many ways to those students who have used their college years to learn as much as possible in all academic disciplines. Perhaps this is some food for thought.

Lisa Lough Named Heart Queen

What do two years of service and a kind heart mean? It means a chance at being Queen for Lisa Lough, a freshman Elementary Education major from Lewis County. Lisa is the most recent entrant in the Queen of Hearts Pageant, sponsored by the American Heart Association.

If Miss Lough wins, she will represent the Heart Association for Lewis County. Lisa will attend activities, sponsored by the Heart Association, to help raise funds for the many Americans with heart disease. She was chosen because of her dedicated service to the Heart Association.

Lisa graduated from Lewis County High School in 1988. She has served with the American Heart Association for two years. Her hobbies include: reading, sewing, skiing, roller skating and singing.

American Education Week concentrated on public education in America. Glenville State College is typical of many small state college nationwide, and we have many of the same problems--budgetary constraints, over crowded classes, and high dropout rates.

The governing body of higher education in West Virginia has changed three times over the past two decades. It was first the Board of Education. Next, it became the Board of Regents, and most recently became the Board of Directors. With the change of governance there have been significant changes made, but the academic structure of the program remains basically the same. State leaders seem uncertain about higher ACT composite scores. College committees are already examining the general studies courses to determine the viability, quality, potential job marketability, and a number of majors in each academic program. As a result of the evaluation, for example, the committee may recommend more math and less science or more writing and less literature. Accrediting agencies will be evaluating Glenville State College; however, nobody knows what changes they will demand.

The changes that are going to take place are obviously affecting our school and every other college in West Virginia. The higher academic specifications could cause enrollment to decline which may affect our budget. This may also reduce the dropout rate of college students; however, some students who have potential for completing college work successfully may not be permitted to attend college because of poor or careless study habits in high school. I hope the administration will seek input from us students. We need to participate in changes of such vital importance to our future.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Marimba Review Refuted

In reply to the article concerning the Manhattan Marimba Quartet concert, I would like to say that I, personally, enjoyed the concert. I am not a music major and I was not required to attend. If the concert was so bad, why did they receive an encore? Please allow room for a variety of interests. If you don't like what you are listening to, you have every right to get up and leave. As for me, I am looking forward to the Theatre West Virginia performance in March. See you in the auditorium.

Hart's Headlines

This weekend, all the questions we have about the Heisman Award will be answered. By Saturday evening we will know who has won the most wide open race for the award in its previous history.

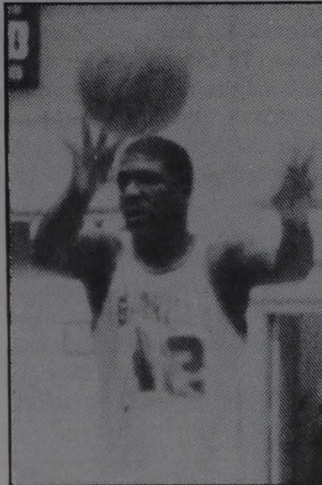

Contenders have been playing the games of their lives trying to help their Heisman Trophy cause. Anthony Thompson raised eyebrows November 11 when he rushed for an NCAA record 377 yards on 52 carries. Tony Rice did his share to improve his Heisman Trophy standings as he rushed for a career-high 141 yards on 26 carries and scored two touchdowns against Penn State. Houston's Andre Ware continues to own every major passing record with his potent run-and-shot offense.

However, when the votes come in on Saturday, they should be for the man who is most valuable to his team. No one fits the description of valuable like West Virginia's own Major Harris. Against Syracuse on Thanksgiving Day, Harris became the first college football player in NCAA history to ever pass for 5,000 yards and rush for 2,000 yards in a career. Harris not only set this record, but he did it in a mere three collegiate seasons.

When voting for the award, voters should consider a few things. Notre Dame's Tony Rice not only does not have the stats that Harris has, but he performs with a half a dozen or more All-Americans. Indiana's Anthony Thompson runs all over the teams like Wisconsin, but where was he against Michigan and other competitive schools? Houston's Andre Ware is not only on a team on probation, but the offense he runs could make Mr. Rogers a Heisman Trophy candidate. Who couldn't pass the ball to five receivers running patterns every play?

My vote definitely goes to the Major. Harris' value is certainly unsurpassing. I just hope the voters see it my way. My vote goes as follows: 1. Major Harris, QB West Virginia; 2. Andre Ware, QB, Houston; 3. Tony Rice, QB, Notre Dame; 4. Anthony Thompson, RB, Indiana

Tech Stops Pioneers In OT

West Virginia Tech's Henry Ferguson hit a clutch three-pointer from the baseline with 25 seconds left in overtime, handing Glenville State a 75-73 loss in their 1989-90 season opener.

Glenville State's Melvin Smith led all scorers with 28 points, including two three-point goals in the final two minutes of regulation to force overtime with a 69-69 tie.

Tech's leading scorer was Michael Merritt, with 26 points. In overtime, Merritt hit a jumper with 3:01 remaining, giving Tech a 71-69 advantage. With 1:36 remaining, Smith connected on a three-pointer from the left of the top of the key, giving Glenville State a 72-71 lead. Tech's Rusty Risher was fouled with 1:22 left in overtime and tied the score 72-72 with a free throw, but missed the second attempt.

Smith later was fouled while rebounding, and made one of two free throws from the charity stripe, giving GSC a 73-72 lead with under a minute remaining. But Ferguson's game winner put the Pioneers down for good 75-73.

Glenville State had 21 turnovers, while Tech had 13, respectively. Both teams were charged with 19 fouls, with Tech's Michael Merritt fouling out.

Glenville State fell to 0-1 overall and 0-1 in the conference, while W.V. Tech improved to 3-0 overall and 1-0 in conference play.

Glenville State Scorers: Bernie Reese, 7 pts.; James Glover, 4 pts.; Matt Dawson, 2 pts.; Keith Gilliam, 7 pts.; Dwayne Williamson, 22 pts.; Melvin Smith, 28 pts.; Kevin McCulley, 1 pt.

Dent Is 59th In Nation

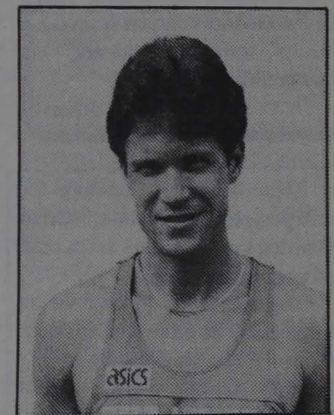

Glenville State's Bubby Dent, 329 competitors. Gardner ran a Mickey Grass, and Lori Barker-Gardner all competed in the NAIA Country note.

Now that the 1989 Cross Country Season has come to an end, the Crush Crew should be praised on a fine season. Working through nagging injuries, Coach Bowman and his men's and women's squads were always giving 100% to reach their goals.

In the men's 8K race, Glenville State's Dent placed 59th in the country with a time of 26:12. Dent's 59th place finish was the second best in Pioneer history. Second only to his own finish of 37th in 1988. Andy Jarrell was 65th in 1988, while Jay Dawkins finished 84th in 1987 for the Crush Crew. Mickey Grass, with a time of 27:35, finished 197th out of the field of near 350 men runners.

The top runners for the men's division was two-time defending champion Rick Robirds of Adams State College. Runner-up was Robirds' sidekick Dan Maas, also of Adams State.

Lori Barker-Gardner completed the women's 5K course in a time of 19:55 for a finish of 124th out of
