Betty Luzader Honored

Before the staff, faculty and students at Glenville State College return home for their Christmas holiday they will be wishing farewell to one of the finest ladies on campus. Mrs. Betty Luzader, Academic Affairs Secretary, has seen many deans, faculty and students come and go at GSC.

In 1972, Betty arrived on campus in search of a job after her children had grown up. She was asked by Dr. Clarence Maze, Jr. to come to work the next day. Laughingly she asked if she could start the following Monday and has been with us since. Mrs. Luzader has enjoyed working along with the students and is delighted when they stop in before graduating to say good-bye.

She has worked as a legal secretary for the Prosecuting Attorney and on The Glenville Democrat newspaper.

Upon her retirement, Betty will enjoy reading a book that she started three months ago and the excitement of Christmas shopping.

This year for the very first time in many years, Mr. and Mrs. Luzader will enjoy the Christmas holiday with their family at home. They have two daughters, JoEllen Dennis of Vienna and Melinda "Mindy" Leasure of Middlebourne. They have six grandchildren.

Betty begins her retirement after November 30 and her husband, Jack Luzader, will soon join her after retiring in December.

Letters to the Editor

McKown Expresses Gratitude

Dear students, faculty, and staff:

I wish to thank everyone for the flowers, cards, visits, and words of sympathy and support during my wife's final illness and death. Your kindness and caring through the many years of Linda's battle with cancer helped her in her struggle more than words can say. She was grateful for your concern. Linda always loved Glenville State College, and her lasting wish was that GSC Alumni continue to support our college. She encouraged her students and associates not to settle for mediocrity, but to strive for excellence.

Sincerely,
Ed McKown

Are We Inferior or Superior?

Dear Editor:

A mother was speaking of her little girls: "A new doll for one, means a new doll for each one." By instinct, a little child just knows that "All men are created equal." That truth has a solid foundation: the instinct of a small child.

Little tots grow up into a world of superiors, inferiors. In this world, a superior may say: "Getting ahead (winning, being superior), is not just the thing, it is the whole thing." And widely practiced by superior superiors is use of the HALL OF FAME, by which superiors may remain so into coming generations.

He is a queer person who reclaims his infancy, so that with him there is no superior, no inferior. Such queer person is in harmony with ultimate Reality.

F.J. Waldrop

Students Sanction Guest Editorial

Dear Editor:

Hey, Paul! Didn't you read Dr. Eichison's guest editorial last week? We were wondering, after we read your editorial on the same page, how you would answer his question about being cheated at McDonalds.

In your editorial you commented that "higher academic specifications could cause enrollment to decline." Perhaps this is true, but would that be so bad? What is of more value, the number of students at GSC or the quality of the education received by serious students? We feel that quality instructors could more easily conduct their classes if they don't feel that the "library is as important as the Pub" and choose not to waste their minds. We are sick of classes that require us to regurgitate the views of the instructors and stifle creative thought. As Ralph Waldo Emerson said in The American Scholar, "Colleges... have their indispensable office... to teach elements. But they can only highly serve us, when they aim not to drill, but to create... Forget this, and our American colleges will recede in their public importance whilst they grow richer every year."

You also say more academic emphasis might affect GSC's budget. Our school is already one of the least expensive institutions in the state, in effect (forgive us), the McDonalds of education. If tuition were to rise

Prison Will Bring Opportunity to GSC

In the past, the College and the town of Glenville have had good ties. The possibilities of a Washington D.C. area prison locating in Gilmer County could cause relations to become closer. Changes brought about with the construction of the prison would have direct and indirect impact upon the College. President Simmons is a member of the Gilmer Industrial Development Association. He has worked to bring the prison to the area; a move that will be as beneficial to our college as it is to the county.

Some direct influences of the prison would be in our curriculum. The 8,000 prisoners will need rehabilitation programs to help them return to society. GSC will assist with the development and implementation of these programs. To meet rehabilitation needs, our curriculum will expand to include career and vocational-technical training. The College will be eligible for federal grants to finance the development of these programs as well as programs in physical conditioning and recreation, psychological counseling and therapy, nursing and health care, creative activities involving arts and crafts, dramatic expression and music. In short, whatever helps prisoners readjust to normal roles in society will be reflected in a curriculum to meet these needs. Additional faculty will be necessary, and class offerings will expand as a result.

There will be indirect influences that affect our school. The 1,423 new jobs in the public sector will probably include part-time jobs for students to help pay for their educational expenses. There will be an increase in the number of housing and eating places as well as improvement of local roads. More county residents and students will be working side by side as a result of the developments brought about by the prison.

Our College may add more service-oriented programs to the curriculum. Our budget may improve and our faculty and enrollment grow. Shops, fast food restaurants and apartment complexes may sprout up around town. The community and the College will need to cooperate to meet the needs of the prison and the expansion that it brings with it.

These records included: passing yards in a quarter (340), passing yards in a half (517), touchdown passes in a quarter (5), and most passing yards in a season (699).

Edging out Thompson by a mere

70 votes, Ware carried the south, southwest and northeast regions. Thompson led in the midwest and far west, while Harris was the top vote-getter in the mid-Atlantic region. The narrowest margin of victory was 45 points in 1985 when Bo Jackson of Auburn edged Iowa's Chuck Long.

and the quality of education increased, wouldn't we at least be getting our money's worth? Please don't misunderstand us. We love Glenville State, but we, like Dr. Etchison, would like to see a new attitude among the student body and teachers. A college that is known for its education program should provide educational leaders that are models for future teachers. We should be proud to develop such an attitude and, as you suggest, give input to the administration about these changes. Instead of being the suitcase campus, we might move up from fast food to gain our cordon bleu.

Sincerely,
Janie Clark and Charlina Adams
