Wheeling Symphony Visits GSC September 25

by Delbert Starcher

The Wheeling Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Maestra Rachael Worby, will appear Friday, September 25, at 8:00 p.m. in the Art and Music Building Auditorium.

The Orchestra will perform Bach's Double Violin Concerto, Mozart's Sinfonia Concertante, and Dvorak's Symphony No. 7.

Ani and Ida Kavafian will be performing Bach's Double Violin Concerto. These sisters, born in Istanbul and raised in the United States, have appeared at many major concert halls such as the Kennedy Center in Washington D.C. and the Carnegie Hall in New York. They have performed with numerous orchestras including the Pittsburgh, Detroit, and Cincinnati Symphonies. They have also played at the White House on three separate occasions.

During the summer, Worby visited the GSC campus to examine the Art and Music Building Auditorium's suitability for orchestral performances. According to Dr. Gary Gillespie, chairman of the fine arts department, Worby found the auditorium to be "the best performance facility in central West Virginia." At that time Worby stated that she had been eager to bring the Wheeling Symphony Orchestra to GSC for several years and that she looked forward to performing for the students and the college community.

Admission is free to all GSC students, faculty and staff.

Hough Returns From Year Abroad

by Delbert Starcher

"It's different," replied Dr. Gerry Hough when asked what it was like living in Holland rather than the United States. Last year, Hough taught international trade at the University of Hague in Holland. As a member of the Fulbright Teacher Exchange Program, he exchanged places with Dr. Peter Tjekpema, who was sent to Glenville State College. In Holland, Hough lived in Tjekpema's house and drove his car, while Tjekpema lived in Hough's house and had the use of Hough's car. "It was a good trade," said Hough. "I had a Volkswagon and he had a BMW!"

Hough has been on the business faculty at GSC for five years. He is currently working on his law degree at West Virginia University. He does not plan to practice law but wants to use his knowledge in the business law class that he teaches. He also plans to learn Spanish and teach in South America in approximately five years.

Sirk Receives Doctorate in Geography

by John Putnam

Robert Sirk, a social science professor at GSC, recently received a Ph.D. in the field of geography at Kent State University. Sirk obtained his B.A. in physical geography from Marshall University. Prior to becoming a professor at GSC, he taught for six years in Pocahontas and Hampshire counties.

Sirk's doctoral dissertation focused on environmental systems particularly those in north-eastern Ohio. Commenting on why he decided to continue his education, Sirk said, "I had seen areas where I thought I could help. Unfortunately good ideas aren't enough. People look at credentials." Sirk would like to see GSC become an institution more involved in research and pure science. An analysis of the Little Kanawha River basin is a project Sirk would like to see the GSC Social Science Division undertake.

Sirk, an assistant professor of geography at GSC, teaches research methods and gives environmental seminar courses. He is two years into a ten-year contract. Sirk states, "I plan to stay after this time if the professional atmosphere is mutually beneficial."

Sirk, originally from Hampshire County, resides in Glenville with his wife, Debbie, and two boys, Jedidiah, three years old, and Cody, one month old.

GSC Hosts First Science and Math Upward Bound

by Sharon Gladwell

This summer Glenville State College, for its first time, participated in the Upward Bound Science and Math Institute. The funds that GSC received from the United States Department of Education enabled 39 selected high school students to participate in this six-week program which was directed by Dr. Duke Talbott and the Continuing Education Division. These students came from Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, Pennsylvania and different parts of West Virginia.

During their visit, students attended classes on campus on a daily basis. The classes, taught by Dr. Joe Evans, Mr. Ralph Bame, Mr. James Meads, Mr. Rob Cline, Dr. Sharon Kraus, Mr. Paul Peck, Dr. Mary Jo Pribble and Miss Valeria White, gave the students the chance to explore and study different areas of math and science--field biology, applied mathematics, environmental studies, radio astronomy and polymer and nuclear chemistry. The students also went on field trips that related to class studies. Trips were taken to Charleston, Cass, Greenbank, Tennessee, Pittsburgh and Cranberry Glades, where the students explored labs, planetariums and other interesting sites.

The Upward Bound students resided in the Pickens Hall dormitory during their stay. Ten mentors, GSC students and former students, were hired to give counseling, advice and help tutor. These mentors were: Allen Boyce, Tom Bunner, Rob Cline, Jay Copley, Melvin Smith, Sharon Westfall Gladwell, Crystal Law, Cathy Marks, Mandy Sauer and Valeria White.

Aptitude tests were given to the students before and after the six weeks of classes taught at GSC. Test results showed an overall remarkable improvement. Each student will work on a project in the area of his or her interest during the fall and spring, and they will return to GSC in April to give results and conclusions.

When asked his opinion of how the program went, Dr. Evans commented, "The program appeared to be highly effective. There was evidence that the participants matured substantially during the six-week period. This can be attributed to the performance of the highly qualified and committed staff. It remains our task to maintain contact with our students until they matriculate into college. Only then can we conclude that we made a positive contribution to their lives."

Property Must Be Livable

Renters Beware--Know Your Rights

by David Graham

Several weeks have passed and it's about time for dorms to start buzzing with that ever popular question, when can I get a place of my own? But before you start your quest for your private castle in Glenville, it may be wise for you to become aware of your rights and responsibilities as a renter.

One of the very first things to remember is that you should never (no matter how eager/desperate you are) take an apartment without viewing it first. If you do, you are asking for trouble, because no matter how good it sounds over the phone or in the paper, it is never as good as you might think. If at all possible, view the apartment with the landlord present so that if you do spot a problem, it can be brought to the landlord's attention before you move in. Landlords have little trouble saying they will fix things for you before you move in, but they tend to forget their promises after you're settled. So, it is very important to have the landlord make a commitment in writing before you start the moving process. However, if you do agree upon an apartment and problems arise and the landlord is reluctant to fix the problems, there is the habitability law (37-6-30) to protect you. The law states that the landlord is required to "maintain" the property and keep it livable.

Although, unfortunately, most landlords are not monitored by any local or state regulatory agency, one law that all landlords must abide by is the law that requires all apartments to have at least one smoke alarm in each bedroom. The city also has building requirements that cover trash, dangerous electrical wiring and health hazards

(i.e. rats, roaches).

If the landlord tells you that the apartment is HUD (Housing Urban Development) approved, then the landlord is probably mistaken. The apartment may have been approved in the past, but in order to keep the HUD label, the apartment needs to be reinspected every time there is a change in tenants. Just because it was HUD approved five families ago does not mean it still is.

And now, that fear that lies in the back of the mind of every college student: ejection. But to put your mind at ease, there are only three legal ways a landlord can "kick you out":

1. The renter is in arrears in the payment of the rent.
2. The renter breached a warranty or leasehold covenant.
3. The renter deliberately or negligently damaged the property or knowingly permitted another person to do so.

In order for the landlord to gain right over his apartment, he is required to give the renter a 30-day notice, unless the renter is late with rent. If the renter is late with the payment and the landlord files a civil action, then the renter will be summoned to court. The biggest mistake made by college students is that they don't appear in court and present their side of the case. When this happens, the court has no choice but to favor the landlord, but if you do show and have substantial reason why you have not paid rent (i.e. damaged house), then the court will rule in favor of the renter and the landlord will be unable to collect his rent.

The law states that the landlord may not "kick you out" if you complain about things that need to be fixed (again under the law of habitability), so don't be afraid of the landlord. The last option the landlord has is to sue to collect late rent, but that may be too much of a hassle for the landlord.

Whatever you do, don't be afraid of your landlord. Speak up. After all, you are paying rent to him, so get your money's worth.

Rob Cline Moves From Student To Faculty Status

by Stephanie Phillips

Rob Cline, a 1992 Glenville State College graduate with a teaching certificate for grades 5-12 in biology and general science, joined the GSC faculty this Fall. Cline said that when he graduated from GSC he felt extremely well prepared for his teaching degree. He thinks this speaks highly of GSC. "I am very honored to be on the faculty serving with the professors that educated me," Cline said.

Cline teaches several science courses and labs. They are designed to give incoming freshman a basic understanding of scientific principles and applications. He is also a substitute teacher in Braxton County.

When this position as lecturer arose, although Cline was offered a teaching position in Braxton County, he chose to teach at GSC. He believes that students should have a good background in science, and he is very excited to be in the teaching field.

Cline and his wife, Donna, reside in Little Birch, Braxton County. He enjoys the outdoors, and he especially likes softball.

Ohio Inmate Seeks Pen Pal

Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to introduce myself. My name is Ronald Stem, and I am incarcerated at the Warren Correctional Institution in Lebanon, Ohio. Despite my current circumstances, I am a college student in the Wilmington College program within this facility.

I entered this institution in November, 1989, as a high school drop-out and since that time I have received my GED diploma and Associate of Arts degree in human services. I am currently triple majoring in psychology, sociology, and criminal justice with a G.P.A. of 3.85, 92 semester hours completed. In addition, it is my intention upon my release to pursue a masters degree in criminal justice or possibly a M.S.S.W.

I am interested in corresponding with anyone who would be willing to spare a few moments of their time with a lonely fellow college student.

In closing, I would like to thank you for your time and consideration of this matter, and I look forward to hearing from someone in the near future.

Pioneers Rip Geneva 34-15

The GSC Pioneer football team opened the fall 1992 season with an impressive offensive and defensive display as they cruised past Geneva 34-15 at Pioneer Stadium last Saturday.

On offense, the Pioneers were led through the air by junior quarterback Jed Drenning who completed 15 of 29 passes for 301 yards and five touchdowns. On the ground, Shane Haddox carried the ball 15 times for 144 yards.

On the receiving end, sophomore Chris George hauled in six catches for 134 yards and three touchdowns. Defensively the Pioneers held Geneva to 35 total yards in the first half and 155 total yards for the game.

Drenning, who has played just 11 games as a Pioneer, broke a 17-year-old record in Saturday's game with 3,498 career passing yards. Former Pioneer Chris Anderson held the mark since 1975 with a career total of 3,460 yards.

GSC-Chris George 4 yard pass from Jed Drenning (James Garcia Run).
GSC-George 35 yard pass from Drenning (kick failed).

Lady Spikers Open Season with Win

The GSC Women's Volleyball team opened the season on the road at Bluefield College, Virginia and came away with a five game match win (10-15, 15-11, 4-15, 15-6, 15-9) on Tuesday.

Head Coach Kenny Osbourne spoke of his teams opening match win, "We played pretty well on the road and for our opener." Leading the way for the lady Pioneers were Stephanie Ferrell with 13 kills, Nikki Hardman with 12 kills and setter Patsy Buckles added 17 assists.

On Saturday, the lady Pioneers traveled to Fairmont State for their annual Tournament. They opened pool play with a win against West Liberty 7-15, 15-7, 16-14. In their second match with Carlow College, the women were handed their first loss of the season 15-10, 19-21, 12-15. Osbourne commented that, "This was our best match of the year even though we lost a heartbreaker." In their third match of the day, the Lady Pioneers came back strong with 15-6, 15-10 win over West Virginia Tech to reach the semi-finals for the first time in the school's history. But were ousted from the double elimination tournament by host Fairmont 9-15, 5-15. Osbourne talked of his team and where they stood, "We're ahead in some area's and not in other's, but we've played good as a team."

The Lady Pioneers open the season at 3-2 on the year and will be in action for their first home game on September 24 against Fairmont State at 7 p.m.

1992-93 Intramural Season Gets Underway

by Jason Fisher

The intramural program is conducting a series of year-long individual fitness activities open to all faculty, staff and students. These activities include aerobics, jogging, weight training and swimming.

The aerobics class will meet Monday through Thursday from 4:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. in the mat room of the health building. Students are currently doing high impact aerobics to the high energy sounds of today's most popular music. The instructor is Cecilia Murray, who also teaches at To Your Health.

Another intramural activity that is taking place is weight lifting. It is being offered between the hours of 3:30 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Also offered is lap swimming, offered from 4:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. in the swimming pool of the Health Building. Competitive lap swimming is open to everyone. A winner will be chosen according to the greatest distance covered each semester.

For those energetic people who love the challenge of the weather and woods, jogging is available. A winner will be determined based on the most distance covered each year.

Intramural points for participation in aerobics and weight training will be one point per participant a day. One rule for aerobics is that the participant must stay the entire time. To qualify for weight lifting, the participant must spend at least thirty minutes a day lifting.

Intramurals began on Monday, September 14, and a full season schedule will be posted as soon as possible.

For more information on the year-long activities, or to enter the individual competitions of swimming or jogging, contact Coach Harold at extension 282.

Go Pioneers!

GSC Golfers Win Opening Tournament

GSC Golfers opened the fall season with a strong performance at the Washington and Lee Invitational to win the title by 17 strokes. The Pioneers were led by last years WVIAC Golfer of the year Michael Barrett at Lexington, Virginia on Friday and Saturday.

Barrett's second day total of 73-75-148 was second only to medalist Tray Petty of VMI who shot 75-71-146. The Pioneer's led after the first round by two shots over Radford, following Saturday's second round they won by 17 strokes over second place finisher George Mason.

The first place finish out of a 15 team field marked the first tournament of five that the Pioneers will compete in. Next up for GSC will be the Cumberland College Invitational at Cumberland, Kentucky on September 28-29.

Individual Scores:

Michael Barrett	73-75-148
Colin Cassidy	73-76-149
Vance Fitzsimmons	77-73-150
Patrick Geraghty	73-78-151
Stephen Maloney	77-76-153

Freshmen Counselors Help Newcomers Settle In

Freshmen counselors recently received the challenge of preparing freshmen for their first semester of college this fall. The counselors came to campus a week early to begin learning about policies and procedures.

A part of this job required teaching incoming freshmen "the ropes" and lending a hand to freshmen moving into their dorm rooms. They also gave moral support and answered questions that ranged from "Where's Clark Hall?" to "Where's the Campus Pub?"

Prospective freshmen counselors apply in the spring and are carefully screened. This year's counselors are: Jamie Haga, Marla Barker, Jill Harman, Tom Ratliff, Andre Dekok, Jackie Carter, Lori Nicholas, Cheryl Pringle, Sondra Isenhardt, Mary Ellen Davis, Benedetti Brooks, Amy Campbell, Tammy Prine, Stephanie Graves, Ellen Mullins, Amy Boggess, Ann Smith, Angie Hoover, Keith Miller, Kenneth Wilkins, Matthew Duncan, Ross Moore, Dottie Starcher, Carla Hanna and Stephanie Ferrell.

Prospective Student Teachers

There will be a meeting of prospective student teachers for the spring 1993 semester at 3:30 p.m. on Monday, September 21, in Room 101, Clark Hall.

To be eligible for admission to student teaching, a teachers candidate must meet the following requirements:

Admission to Student Teaching

During one semester of the senior year, the student who is in Teacher Education will enroll in the Student Teaching Semester. The policies governing admission are:

1. The application for admission to student teaching must be filed with the director of field experiences (102 Clark Hall) by March 1 to participate in the following fall semester and by October 1 to participate in the following spring semester. Application forms are available from the secretary in Clark Hall or the secretary at the Nicholas County Center.

2. To be eligible for admission to student teaching, a teacher education candidate must meet the following requirements:

- Hold full admission status to a teacher education program;
- Have a minimum overall 2.5 grade point average;
- A minimum 2.5 grade point average in the specialization(s) for which the candidate seeks certification. (No grade below a "C" will be accepted toward the completion of the required hours in a specialization.);
- A minimum 2.5 grade point average in education courses. The student must have a "C" or better in each required education course;
- Passing scores on state-required Content Specialization Tests, as developed, and on all required division requirements. (Details may be obtained from the advisor or the division chairperson.);
- Maintain a clear record in the office of Student Services. This includes any behavior considered unacceptable for a teaching professional. The Admission to Teacher Education Review Panel screens the list of student teachers each semester to determine the status of the applicant for student teaching.

All forms and necessary paperwork for application for student teaching will be available and completed at the meeting. If unable to attend, please contact Mrs. Kathy Butler, director of field experiences, as soon as possible. Deadline for making application for spring student teaching is October 1.

Job Fairs to be held for College Seniors

Despite a sluggish economy, more than 60 employers have registered to attend the first Operation Native Talent job fair of the 1992-93 academic year. Operation Native Talent (ONT) is a job fair program designed to provide recruiters and employers with a cost effective way of meeting college seniors from almost all of West Virginia's colleges and universities.

The first of the two day-long job fairs will be held Friday, September 18, at the West Virginia University Coliseum in Morgantown. Hours for the job fair are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

A second job fair will be held at the Charleston Civic Center, Wednesday, February 3, 1993. Many of the same employers, as well as a few others, will be on hand at the February fair.

The fairs are open to all West Virginia college seniors and recent graduates. Students are asked to "dress for success" and bring plenty of resumes.

"The recruiters who attend the fairs will have the opportunity to meet and interview nearly 1,000 seniors from a variety of disciplines and degrees," said Robert Kent, chairperson of the ONT steering committee and career placement director for West Virginia University.

College placement officers from all of the state's colleges and universities have been participating in the planning and promotion of the fairs, Kent said. "The placement officers will publicize to their respective students the names of the employers who will be at each fair and the types of positions they will be seeking to fill."

The program, which is in its sixth year, is a partnership effort of the West Virginia Roundtable, the West Virginia Chamber of Commerce, the West Virginia Development Office and the West Virginia College Placement Association.

Blues Artist Larry McCray to Perform September 21

by Sharon Gladwell

Jazz performer Larry McCray will be performing in the auditorium of the Art and Music Building on September 21. McCray is a blues artist who plays the guitar and sings.

Born and raised in a musical household in Arkansas, McCray was influenced first by his sister who was a musician and guitar player for a band. At age 15, he began playing at parties and weddings. He later made records and then an album. The album, "Ambition," was released in Europe in 1990. It is a blend of blues, soul, hard rock and funk. Some of the songs on the album are "One More Lonely Night," "Me and My Baby" and "Country Girl."

McCray's style of music has been influenced by many artists--the Allman Brothers, B.B. King and the Steve Miller Band. Although rock music has had the most impact on his playing, his music ranges from Philly soul to Memphis stroll and is often compared to the Doobie Brothers.

If you like this type of music, or even think that you would enjoy it, please come and support McCray on Monday. A workshop will be held that afternoon at 1:30 p.m. in the recital hall of the Art and Music Building; there may be a jam session. The performance, however, is at 8:00 p.m.. The admission for GSC students is free; for the general public, $5.00; and high school students will get a reduced admission.

Movie Review

Unforgiven

by Melissa Riffe

We are used to seeing our hero, Clint Eastwood, starring in shoot-'em-up, bad-to-the-bone, hard-core action westerns such as "The Good, the Bad and the Ugly," "High Plains Drifter" and "A Fist Full of Dollars." "Unforgiven," the latest release starring Eastwood, on the other hand, throws the viewer a few unexpected twists.

When the movie begins and everyone is ready to see Eastwood sitting high in the saddle, we meet a reformed gun slinger in the mud as an unsuccessful pig farmer. We all know, of course, Clint will "break bad" at any moment and kill a few dozen horse thieves, but he doesn't, at least not until the very end. Eastwood's role leaves you with mixed emotions. All you know is that this role was not as exciting as you might have hoped if you happen to be a die-hard Clint flick lover. In the end, when Clint finally starts taking names and wasting bad guys, it suddenly becomes all worth it.

"Unforgiven" was a movie that could not fail at the box office. Eastwood's performance was complemented with a cast of characters that only gets assembled deep in the slumber of fantasizing directors.

Eastwood's "Unforgiven" is definitely worth your entertainment dollar, and although it started quite slow, it has to receive a double thumbs up.

GSC Graduate Opens Art Exhibition

by Delbert Starcher

A new art exhibition opened in the gallery of the Art and Music Building August 31 and will run until October 2. The work of Nancy Taylor shows her many serigraphs exploring space as form.

Taylor, a native of Montgomery, West Virginia, earned her Bachelor of Arts degree at Glenville State College in 1972 and went on to earn her master's degree in art education at Marshall University in 1980.

She has been employed as an art teacher in Nicholas County since 1973. She was self-employed at Earthform Studios in Gauley Bridge from 1982 to 1989. She now operates another studio in Gauley Bridge called Green Apple Studio which opened in 1987.

Over the years Taylor has received many honors for her work. In 1990, she received the National Youth Art Month Award of Merit of which there are only eight presented nationally. She received the West Virginia Juried Exhibition Award of Excellence in 1988, and in 1989, she was a co-recipient of the West Virginia "Think College" Grant.

She will be on campus for a gallery talk on September 2. Anyone interested is welcome to attend. Taylor says, "I do not agree with those who see space as a void. I work with the elements of space and time in my serigraphs, etchings and mixed media pieces; and I am intrigued by the 'positive negativity' of these elements. These elements are interconnected and in order to explore them in art, one must recognize the tremendous energy and realm of space as an element."

The following works by Taylor are for sale: Gauley Daybreak, $200; Sometimes Drift Away II, $200; Death of Naurelau, $125; Angel's Gold, $250; and Home Alone, $100.

Martina Norman and Debra Dingess

Dingess and Norman to Give Senior Recital

Debra D. Dingess and Martina D. Norman will present their senior recital Sunday, September 20, at 3:00 p.m. in the Glenville State College Fine Arts Auditorium.

Dingess, a percussion major, has studied under John McKinney for four years. Norman, a vocal major, is currently a student of Karl Paoletti. They will be performing works by composers such as J. S. Bach and Copland. This recital will fulfill a requirement for graduation.

Dingess is the daughter of Donald and Barbara Dingess of Logan. Norman is the daughter of Aubrey and Barbara Smith of Weston. Both are planning a spring graduation with a degree in music education.
