Williams' Classic 'A Streetcar Named Desire' Opens October 14

by David Graham

On October 14, 15 and 16, GSC theater will present "A Streetcar Named Desire" by Tennessee Williams. The production was first presented on the New York stage in 1947. It proved to be Williams' second critically successful play, following "The Glass Menagerie."

The play concerns the arrival of Stella's sister Blanche into the happy home of Stella and Stanley Kowalski. Blanche reacts negatively to her surroundings, having been forced to leave the family's ancestral home, Belle Reve, because of the decline in the family's fortunes. The conflict of the high-minded Blanche and the down-to-earth Stanley can only resolve itself in tragedy, and it does.

"A Streetcar Named Desire" marks the fifteenth play Dennis Wemm has directed at GSC. When asked why the play will appeal to GSC students, he said, "Besides being branded an American classic, the play provides an interesting look at human beings." Wemm also went on to compliment the cast saying, "The cast is coming along quite well. As for cooperation, the play is running the smoothest I can remember."

The cast consists of some very familiar faces to GSC players. The principals are Grayson Samples as Stanley; Katherine Burgess, Stella; Lori Crouter, Eunice; Kristi Wheeler, Blanche; and Dave Miller, Mitch.

Other players who round out the cast are Mary Mullins, Keith Miller, Ken McWhorter, Darek Igo, Mary Resser, Angela Cox, Mike McKibben, Cliff Cody, and Joni Rittenhouse.

Pi Gamma Mu to Co-Host River Preservation Meeting

by Melissa Riffe

Dr. George Constantz, zoologist, will be the key speaker for the River Preservation meeting scheduled for Friday, October 9, in the Verona Maple Room of the Heflin Student Center. Pi Gamma Mu and Patchwork in the Glen are co-sponsoring the meeting which is scheduled to begin at 7:00 p.m. Constantz' main topic will be "The Ecological Preservation of the Cacapon River."

Constantz served as the fish ecologist at the Academy of Natural Sciences in Philadelphia and taught population ecology at the University of Philadelphia. Constantz also taught biology at Hampshire High School in Hampshire County during which time he founded Pine Cabin Run Ecological Laboratory. In 1991, Constantz resigned from his teaching job to devote full-time to the lab and river preservation. Constantz serves as a member of the state's Water Quality Advisory Committee and as scientific adviser to The Nature Conservancy of West Virginia.

Dr. Robert Sirk, Pi Gamma Mu adviser and professor at GSC, commented, "We're interested in improving water quality in the Little Kanawha. We are targeting this to recreational and tourism opportunities." Friday's program will include a brief history of the Little Kanawha River and a discussion of the river's problems, uses and preservation.

Among those invited to the meeting are representatives of the Sierra Club of West Virginia, the West Virginia Environmental Council, the local Soil Conservation Service, West Virginia Rivers Coalition, and the Corps of Engineers.

Pi Gamma Mu and Patchwork in the Glen are sponsoring this program to increase the interest in preserving and improving the Little Kanawha River as well as to help slow down erosion and reduce sediments.

Anyone with an interest in the preservation of the Little Kanawha River is encouraged to attend. For additional information, contact Dr. Robert Sirk in the Social Science Division.

Astronomy Class Visits Greenbank

by Sharon Gladwell

On Wednesday, September 30, Dr. Phillip Cottrill took the astronomy class that he teaches on an all-day field trip to the National Radio Astronomy Observatory (NRAO) in Greenbank, Pocahontas County.

There, the students viewed a slide show and were given a bus tour of NRAO. They saw the construction site of what will be the world's largest radio telescope and were given a tour of the 140-foot telescope, the largest telescope at Greenbank at the present time. While at the NRAO, the students were given two project assignments to work on using the 140-foot telescope. These projects involved tracking radio waves in the sky and finding out if the human body gives off radio waves.

"I think the students had an informative session at Greenbank, and we are fortunate to have such a facility in our state," commented Cottrill about the field trip.

Hamrick Named Media Secretary

by David Riffe

Gail Hamric has recently been named secretary of the Media Center in the R.F. Kidd Library at Glenville State College. Hamric began her new job on September 14.

Hamric is originally from Dover, Ohio. She earned her Bachelor of Arts in education (K-9) degree at Glenville State College. She taught math, health and physical education in grades 5-8 at Tanner and Sand Fork for four-and-a-half years. She was later employed at Dr. Weaver's optometrist office in Gilmer County. Her most recent employer was the United National Bank of Glenville.

As secretary of the Media Center, Hamric is responsible for several duties: keeping track of media items, supervising student workers, answering questions that patrons may have, and other secretarial duties. She enjoys her new job. "The job is very challenging, and there is no time for boredom," she said. Hamric is quite amused with the abilities of Don Phillips, director of the Media Center, and Ed Messenger, electronics technician of the Media Center, when it comes to finding out what's wrong with broken equipment and getting it repaired.

Hamric resides at Jones Cabin Run with her husband Tom and her three children Kari, 15; Katrina, 13; and Tom Jr., 11.

Summit Center Provides Counseling to GSC Employees

by: Rose Yoak

"It's not whether you have something wrong. All of us can use therapy. It's whether you want to do something about it," stated Michael R. Sieber, Employee Assistance Program (EAP) coordinator and senior psychotherapist of Summit Center for Human Development. Glenville State College, in concordance with Summit Center, is helping its full-time employees do just that through an EAP. The EAP provides opportunity for employees to receive counseling services at any of Summit's five locations: West Union, Glenville, Sutton, Weston or Clarksburg. Services cover all forms of therapy: individual, marital, family, substance abuse and group. The agreement provides 24 hour emergency consultation, free telephone consultations, confidential referrals to medical and treatment facilities, non-emergency appointments within five working days and strict confidentiality.

Summit Center services are partially covered by Public Employees Insurance Agency (PEIA) with college employees responsible for 20 percent of the fee. Full-time employees not covered under PEIA are still entitled to all services provided by Summit Center.

Gerald Slivka, assistant business director, sees the EAP as a "big stride in the right direction," and stresses that all referrals, sessions, and inquiries will be handled with utmost confidentiality. The college receives no notification, records or any other information on services provided. Slivka believes the program will result in improved job performance and work production.

Sieber, sees the EAP as a preventive measure for GSC as well as for other institutions, organizations, hospitals and businesses with which Summit Center has negotiated contracts. Sieber's concept of counseling is that motivation is the key and that the therapist's job is to help the client unlock the answers within him/herself.

Letters Parking Solutions Offered

Reprinted from The Glenville Mercury, September 21, 1979

Letters to the editor about the parking situation on the GSC campus are a yearly tradition, like homecoming and graduation. Such letters could probably be traced back to the year GSC students stopped arriving on campus by flatboat and began publication, whichever came first. However, rather than rehashing the same old complaints, I would like to offer solutions.

My economics instructor recently used the parking problem as an example of scarcity. It was suggested that by further raising the price of parking permits, less people would choose to drive to the campus, thus erasing the lack of available parking spaces. This is the simplest, most straight-forward, and possibly the most effective method. But because the method is so obvious, the GSC administration must have already considered it and rejected it for some good reason. So, what I plan to do is make some suggestions that likely have not yet been considered and may prove to be the key to the solution our administration is looking for. To accomplish this, I have gone from the "economic way of thinking" to the "trifling way of thinking."

I've often heard, "they shouldn't issue more parking permits than there are parking places." But who should the limited number of permits be given to? My solution--take them to the Glenville Auction and let each fend for himself. What an educational opportunity that would be for first time bidders.

Or, perhaps we could get rid of our football program and use the stadium for weekly demolition derbies. Rules requiring contestants to be GSC students or faculty and driving their own car should be sufficient. The beauty of this solution is that the number of available parking spaces would increase weekly.

Another solution along the same line would be to post 55 MPH Speed Limit signs in all campus parking lots. (It is understood that 55 MPH is the maximum speed; 40 MPH is the minimum speed.)

How about this one. Each instructor is provided with a chauffeur driven pick-up truck and a megaphone. Classes are conducted from the bed of the truck driving around campus with students following behind in their own vehicles. No parking needed!

Or perhaps we should drop the idea of alleviating the problem and just rename the game. Rather than buying "parking permits" you could buy "hunting permits." For spice, we could occasionally have "open hunting seasons" with no restrictions at all on where one may park. The amphitheater, the little theatre, the swimming pool, the chemistry lab, the restroom--take your pick. This, of course, would be optional, depending on administrative acceptance.

Quantum Leap

by Sharon Gladwell

Just a few days ago, I was reading through a special 1992 fall issue of Time magazine. The stories in this magazine reveal some of the predictions that have been made about what will happen within the next few decades. I would like to share a few of them with you. Some of the predictions are humorous, while others are quite serious. Nevertheless, I hope they entertain you and give you something to ponder about.

The divorce rate will rise from 1 in 2 marriages to 2 in 2 marriages. One reason for this high rate is that people will live longer and will want to explore at different stages of their life.

The number of Americans of the age 85 or older will increase. The majority of the population will be made up of the elderly, since there are more parents than there are children at the present time.

Dating will be so dangerous, due to the numerous communicable diseases, that only daredevils who do things like bungee jumping, sky surfing and eating at Denny's will go on a date.

Since the average person will be cautious about a single, risky, worthless sexual encounter, medical clinics will have to organize after-hours sessions where nervous, but lonely, people will undergo a battery of health tests.

In 15 to 20 years, DNA fingerprint will show common diseases that a newborn infant may have.

Genetic engineered foods will be produced: disease-resistant fruits, vegetables with a longer shelf life, beans with more protein and starchier potatoes.

In 2092, Catholics will have the right to divorce and will tolerate gay sex and birth control.

Action on the field at last Saturday's Pioneer victory over West Liberty.

Pioneers Hold Off Hilltoppers 28-23

The GSC football team held off a late drive to beat the Hilltoppers of West Liberty, 28-23.

On offense, Kevin Blanding led the way both on the ground and on the receiving end. Blanding rushed for 79 yards on 13 carries and 1 touchdown and caught 8 passes for 125 yards and a touchdown.

Quarterback Jed Drenning completed a 25-42 pass for 306 yards and 2 touchdowns through the air. Drenning also added a rushing touchdown on the ground.

Third-year Head Coach Rich Rodriguez said his team did not play well. "We played well for one quarter and that was the third quarter. Overall we didn't play well, but we had a couple of guys step up and make big plays."

On the defensive side of the ball, play was led by Roger Cunningham who recorded 3 quarterback sacks, while Randall Olds added 2 quarterback sacks.

Turnovers played a big part in the final outcome of the game. The Pioneers turned the ball over on their first 2 possessions of the game. One of these turnovers was a fumble on the one-yard line. The Pioneers' defense forced a fumble on the Hilltoppers' last drive in the final stages of the 4th quarter.

The Pioneers face a tough task this Saturday as they travel to North Carolina to take on Johnson C. Smith for a 1:00 p.m. kickoff. It will be homecoming for Johnson C. Smith on Saturday, so the Pioneers will face a tough team and a large, vocal crowd.

Lady Spikers End 7-Match Losing Streak

The GSC women's volleyball squad ended their 7-match losing streak as they beat Salem-Teikyo in straight games, 15-2, 18-18, 15-8, last Thursday at the Pioneer Gymnasium.

The Lady Spikers were led by Kim Sees with 13 serving aces. Nikki Hardman had 10 kills in the match, and Tracy Fluharty added 9 kills and 6 blocks. Misty Taylor also got in on the action with 12 assists.

Head Coach Kenny Osbourne spoke of his team's play against Salem-Teikyo. "We played much better defense. We served a lot better and just played better overall. It was hard losing 7 [matches] in a row, but they worked hard in practice."

The women will be on the road on October 8 to take on West Virginia Wesleyan for a match at 7:00 p.m.

There is a schedule change involving the match with Bluefield College, Virginia, that was originally set for October 17. The match has been moved to October 23 at the Pioneer Gym set to get underway at 6:30 p.m.

Pioneer Golfers Win Cumberland Invitational

The GSC golf team won the Cumberland College Invitational on September 28 and 29 at Corbin, Kentucky.

The Pioneers sent two six-man squads to compete in the tournament. The winning squad, which was labeled the Blue Team, shot a team score of 290. The other squad was labeled the White Team, and they finished in second place as they shot 299 for the tournament, just 9 strokes back.

The Blue squad was led by Michael Barrett's 35-36 and Patrick Geraghty's 34-71. The White Team's low man was Bill Eaton who shot a 36 for a 71 total.

The golf squad will travel to Shepherdstown on October 11 and 12 for the Rhododendron Classic.

Cross-Country Team Is Small but Determined

by Jason Fisher

The cross-country program is trying hard to stay alive. Recruitment has suffered over the past few years due to several changes of coaches.

Mitch Mitchell, the new coach, was hired only a week prior to the beginning of school, so he didn't have much of an opportunity to recruit new members for this year's team. However, there were three athletes who wanted to participate in cross-country: Richard Clark, senior; Tammy Niver, senior; and freshman Rhonda Yost. Coach Mitch Mitchell is very excited and proud to be able to work with these people. "Rhonda Yost and Tammy Niven started out slow, but both have improved tremendously," said Coach Mitchell. He added that "Richard Clark is a strong runner and has the potential to be the top runner in the conference." Coach Mitchell feels that they are really dedicated, work extremely hard, and show a lot of experience and enthusiasm.

The team had a meet on September 12 at Wesleyan and another on September 26 at Davis and Elkins College. Their hard work and determination payed off as their individual standings improved tremendously in the second meet.

The team has two important goals in mind at this point, which are to do well at their home meet, and to do well at their conference meet.

General Studies Assessment October 12 to 22

Each student enrolled in a bachelor's degree program will be required to complete an examination of the General Studies Program. Students who have completed 60 semester hours but not more than 75 semester hours will register and complete the General Studies Assessment during the time period of October 12 to 22. Students must register on a first-come, first-serve basis by contacting the Director of Assessment, Dr. Sharon Kraus, Clark Hall.

The General Studies Assessment will be administered in the Computer Lab in the Administration Building.

Multicultural Fair

for 25 and 50 cents. A demonstration soccer game will be played at Glenville Elementary on October 20 at 1:00 p.m.

A photography exhibit entitled "Southwest Detroit, Through Their Eyes" will be displayed in the Fine Arts Building from October 12 to October 22. This photography is by and about Hispanic youths in Detroit.

Humanities scholars Carlos Diaz of the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, Jude Binder of Heartwood Dance

Center, Bigbend, W. Va., and Norman Jordan and Hack Hammersmith, both of WVU, will be involved in seminars and a panel discussion on October 22, all aimed at understanding multicultural issues better and focusing on the next steps for improving multicultural education in our region.

The organizers, Deanna Foxworthy and Brenda Wilson of the Division of Education, welcome questions and comments. They can be reached at extensions 300 and 303, respectively.

Watch for a full schedule of the Multicultural Fair in next week's issue of The Glenville Mercury.

GSC Artists Win Awards in Juried Art Exhibition at State Forest Festival

The Department of Art recently won three merit awards in the The Seneca Trail Artist Guild's Juried Art Exhibition during the 56th annual Mountain State Forest Festival in Elkins. The awards came in amateur and professional divisions juried by three out-of-state professional artists/teachers. The judges were Dr. Jeanne Tasse from Marietta, Ohio, professor of art, artist and calligrapher; William M. Vrscek from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, freelance designer/artist; Valdis Garoza from Marietta, Ohio, professor of art, Marietta College, artist/printmaker.

The Art Department students who entered the exhibit were Duane Chapman and Terry Fisher. Chapman won a merit award in painting for his mixed media entry entitled ECOLOGGY, while Fisher won a merit award for his stone-carved sculpture titled WIND. Both entries were in the amateur division. Fisher also entered a sculpture of an Indian chief done in wood, and Chapman entered an etching titled FIREFLY FOREST.

George Harper, GSC associate professor of art, won a merit award in the professional division for an acrylic on paper titled FARMHOUSE GEOMETRY. This painting was a view of his sister's farmhouse near Walkersville in Lewis County. It was also an award winner in The Midsummer Fair sponsored this August by The Ohio Designer Craftsmen Guild in Columbus.

In addition to the Forest Festival Exhibition, Harper and Chapman have also been accepted in the Upper Ohio Valley Art Show at the Stifel Fine Arts Center in Wheeling. This Show opened last week and will run through mid-November.

Hundreds Respond To Phone-in Offer to Date Comic Strip Character Dilbert

Personal ads have taken a new turn. Cartoonist Scott Adams was deluged with calls when he included a real phone number in a mock personal ad as a part of his nationally syndicated DILBERT comic strip. The "Date a Dilbert" strip generated more than 500 calls from across North America including Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, California, Wisconsin, Texas, Arizona, Alaska and Canada. Calls for this United Feature Syndicate comic came in heavily on the day the strip ran (September 9), with more calls trickling in over the next few days.

Dilbert is a single, usually dateless, engineer who has considered going to prison as a way to improve his social life (based on his observation that women like to write to prisoners). In the strip, Dogbert (Dilbert's cynical dog) put up a billboard with the dating offer to prove his theory that good advertising can sell anything. It worked.

Those who called heard a recorded message. Besides the callers who simply laughed and hung up, many left messages and included their phone numbers. The callers were mostly in three categories--those who wanted a date with Dilbert; those who wanted to offer a sister daughter or wife for a date with Dilbert; and those who wanted a date with Dogbert. One woman suggested she and her dog go on a double date with Dilbert and Dogbert.

Both women and men left messages, but Adams wasn't surprised by the variety of responses: "Considering how difficult it is to find good dates, the people who called probably thought this could be a possible lead--'maybe Dilbert knows someone I can call for a date'."

Although Dilbert has so far declined all date offers, a selected number of callers who left phone numbers will receive copies of the new DILBERT book, Always Postpone Meetings With Time-Wasting Morons, published by Topper Books.

This phone response proves two important things: DILBERT has loyal fans nationwide, and people will try almost anything for a date.

Movie Review

The Mighty Ducks

by Melissa Riffe

"The Mighty Ducks" is probably not the typical type of film your average college student would like to see. Although you may be tempted to reject it because of a prior disappointment with "The Bad News Bears," let me say this: "The Mighty Ducks," although it bears a slight resemblance to "The Bad News Bears," is certainly in a league of its own.

"The Mighty Ducks" is a predictable comedy starring Emilio

Estevez. Estevez plays the part of a yuppie lawyer named Gordon Bombay. Bombay is a hard-lined competitor who only knows one word, WIN. Estevez' winning streak runs short when he is arrested for driving under the influence and sentenced to community service, and that is where the Ducks come in. Estevez' punishment is coaching a pee wee hockey team called the Mighty Ducks. The cast does a fine job, but this film just falls a bit short for a hard-earned entertainment dollar.

For your $6 ticket you get all the duck jokes you can handle along with a plot you can predict from the opening credits.

"The Mighty Ducks" is at best a mediocre film. I suggest if you must see it catch it on video rental in about 7 months. Or if you happen to be a Pee Wee League coach, you can take the kids, but be advised this film has some abusive language and a PG rating.

Homecoming Banner Contest Guidelines

It is time again for Homecoming and with it, the Annual Banner Contest. This contest is open to all organizations, groups or residence hall floors on campus. In order to participate, you must fill out and return a participation form to the Office of Student Services by Thursday, October 29, 1992, at 12:00 noon. This is also the deadline to have your completed banner approved in the Office of Student Services and hung up in its place. The theme for the 1992 Homecoming is "Fright Night '92." Support your school and fellow students by taking part in this year's homecoming. For further information, contact Dottie Starcher, Box 4, Pickens Hall, Glenville, WV 26351 or 462-7361, Ext. 113.
