GSC Bookstore to Double Floor Space

by Melissa Riffe

The GSC bookstore is presently undergoing renovations which will increase the floor space by 50 percent. They have knocked out walls to accommodate the growing student enrollment, every section of the store will be expanded. The textbook section which will double, allowing the bookstore to offer more used books along with the new.

Debra Nagy, manager of the bookstore, commented, "We realize that the bookstore is going to be a little dusty and crowded for a few weeks with getting the additional space, but the end result will be worth it."

Nagy hopes the renovations will be completed by the end of the semester.

Mike Amory Seeks to Organize Great Books Discussion Program

Have you ever wanted to read some of the greatest literature our world has ever produced but did not know where or how to start?

Would you be interested in reading this literature and then sharing your thoughts with other students and faculty members on a bi-weekly basis?

If so, the Great Books Discussion Program may be your answer. The Great Books Program is a non-profit organization based upon the idea that people can help one another learn by reading and then discussing some of the best books that have been written during the past 2500 years. There are no teachers, no tuition, no credits. Group leaders, like the participants, are laypersons, not experts. Their role is to ask questions that encourage participants to explore the ideas in the book they have read. Leaders do not offer answers; they only ask questions. Participants are free to ask questions as well as answer them.

Great writers give us the opportunity to form our own opinions on the basis of the most profound thinking that has ever been expressed. They require us to think about what it means to live in the world and about what we are and what we hope to become.

A Great Books group consists of eighteen to twenty-five persons who usually meet every two weeks for a two-hour discussion of a selection in one of the Foundation reading series. The essential requirement for joining a group is the willingness to read each selection in advance of the discussion. No one tells participants what answers to give. The leaders encourage them to agree or disagree with what has been said by a particular author and what is said in the group. Participants are expected to back up their opinions with reasons based on their reading of the book being discussed.

Mike Amory of the Wesley Foundation hopes to organize such a group in the near future. The first meeting will be on Tuesday, November 3, at 6 p.m. in room 302 of the Administration Building. At this time he will explain the Great Books Program in detail, and interested persons will have the opportunity to purchase the reading materials directly from the Great Books Foundation which is based in Chicago, Illinois. The cost for each participant will be $16.95, plus a small charge for shipping and handling. The group will meet regularly on every other Tuesday through May to discuss the works of eleven authors including Chekhov, Aristotle, Plato, Conrad, Kant, Marx, Freud, Darwin, Shakespeare and others.

If you would like to know more about this program, come to the organizational meeting on November 2. Mike is looking forward to meeting you.

Elderhostel Program Provides Continuing Education for Seniors

by David Riffe

The Elderhostel program is an educational experience for older adults looking for something a little out of the ordinary. Elderhostel offers short-term programs hosted by institutions around the world. The basic program lasts six nights, usually starting Sunday morning and ending the next Saturday morning. The Hostels stay on college campuses and have their meals served in the cafeteria or at comparable facilities in the community.

People that are sixty years of age or over are eligible. They study college-level courses selected and taught by the institution's faculty that are set aside for the people who cannot afford tuition. Financial aid is also provided for Hostels.

On a visit to Glenville State College this past summer, the Hostels took classes in Raku Pottery techniques, Aesthetics and Design in a Clay Medium and Watercolor Painting on Location. They also studied the Civil War and a videotaping approach to Improving Your Golf Swing. The Hostels visited North Bend State Park, September 27 through October 2, taking courses which included: Relax and Listen, Astronomy, Eudora Welty: "The Eye of the Story" and Watercolor Painting.

The Elderhostel program is a continuing education non-credit program, but there are scholarships that are set aside for the people who cannot afford tuition. Financial aid is also provided for Hostels.

The first Elderhostel program was held in New Hampshire in 1975. Nine people enrolled in the course. Since then, the program has grown into a huge operation spanning the globe. Glenville State College was one of the earliest institutions to host the Elderhostels.

Dr. Talbott, the State Director of the Elderhostel program, commented, "Dr. Simmons has been a very helpful and a long-time supporter of Elderhostel in Glenville and West Virginia."

She is a member of the GSC volleyball team, freshman representative and is a Student Congress member. Her interests are playing basketball, volleyball, softball and watching GSC football games. Allen is the daughter of Roger and Linda Allen of Elizabeth. Allen's escort is Brian Lee Evans, son of Lee and Phyllis Evans of Grantsville. His is majoring in general studies.

The flower girl is five-year-old Marsha Leigh Benson of Glenville. She presently attends Glenville Elementary School and attended GSC's Child Learning Center. Her interests are coloring and school. She is the daughter of Neal and Renita Benson.

The crown bearer is six-year-old Derek Keith Roberts of Glenville. He attends Glenville Elementary School and likes to go fishing. He is the son of Rodney and Connie Roberts.

In My Opinion . . .

Parking--Let It Die

by David Graham

I have now been going to Glenville State College for three years. Within that three years I have made and lost many friends, laughed and cried, and tried to experience life to the fullest potential that I know how. In other words, I have lived and changed as a person. So, too, the GSC campus has grown and changed.

GSC has been experiencing a major difficulty for a long, long time--the parking problem! It's time that Glenville students (and faculty alike) accept the problem as a hardship of life, deal with it, and move on.

On my first day at GSC I was made aware of the parking problem and thanks to endless complaining (which always seems to be at its height at the beginning of each semester), I have been unable to forget it. The parking problem sneaks into my head in a myriad of ways.

The parking problem travels across campus like the Black Plague. The fastest way it does this is via the Mercury. Letters to the editor constantly supply readers with rehashed opinions on how bad the parking is. I know the parking is bad and chances are that nine out of ten people that have ever attended GSC also know that the parking is poor. Therefore, I say that it is time we move to other topics.

What strikes me funny is that the letters are so serious. I have to ask myself if the writers actually think that the problem is going to be solved because they have complained about it. I'm glad that they do voice their opinions but do they think that a handful of letters will cause President Simmons and Vice President Peterson to get a shovel and bag of gravel and build them a new parking lot?

But, let's assume that a new parking lot is to be built. Where on earth would it go? The hill is only so big. The suggestion to run a shuttle bus between the college and the football field is weak. If I'm not mistaken, that has been tried on several different occasions with little success. I'm waiting for the suggestion that the college invest in a new parking garage that would be built on top of the Science Hall. This suggestion makes as much sense as turning the front lawn of the Administration Building into a parking lot. Yes, I, too, am a commuter--from Nutter Fort. Trust me, after an hour's drive, I don't like to park practically on Main Street. But, that's life. Glenville needs to let the topic die the death it deserves and move on. Like a person, Glenville won't be able to improve if it doesn't let go and allow itself to grow and change.

Wedding In Galilee
Wednesday, October 21, at 7:00 PM
Pickens Hall Lounge

This winner of the International Critic's Award at the 1987 Cannes Film Festival was filmed in an Arab village in Israel. Directed by Michel Khleifi, it is in Hebrew and Arabic with English subtitles. This is a truly remarkable film about the Arab-Israeli conflict brought to a personal level as the village's chief elder convinces the Israeli soldiers to let him violate curfew in order to have a traditional wedding celebration for his son. They allow the violation if the Israeli officers are invited to the wedding, and the conflict plays itself out against the background of a traditional Arab wedding. There is some nudity. The discussion following will explore our understandings of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Recently Charlotte Pritt, like Ross Perot, has re-entered the election as an independent candidate. Pritt has launched a write-in campaign against her counterparts Gaston Caperton and Cleve Benedict. How do you feel her re-entry will affect the election?

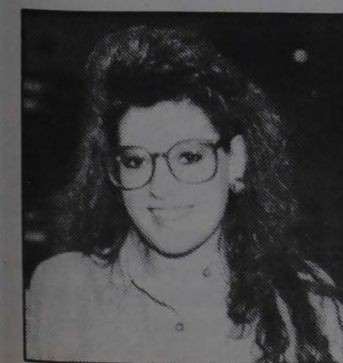

NAME: Dr. Cottrill
POSITION: Professor of Science
HOMETOWN: Normantown
ANSWER: "I don't think it will have any affect on the election. Write-in candidates have a very difficult time making any impact."

NAME: A.J. Stewart
RANK: Senior
MAJOR: Education
HOMETOWN: Glenville
ANSWER: "It will affect the election because obviously she has to have a lot of support to be a write-in candidate. I don't know if she will get enough votes to win, but it could take votes away from Gaston Caperton."

NAME: Jenifer Frame
RANK: Sophomore
MAJOR: Behavioral Science/Criminal Justice
HOMETOWN: Burnsville
ANSWER: "I think due to people's discontentment with Gaston Caperton and his policies toward education and the negative publicity toward Cleve Benedict that Pritt's re-entry into the campaign will definitely cause a split in the results mainly between her and Caperton."

NAME: John Putnam
RANK: Sophomore
MAJOR: Pre-medical
HOMETOWN: Shock
ANSWER: "I feel that Charlotte Pritt will not have a great affect on the election because of the lack of publicity she is receiving at this time."

NAME: Charity Gay
RANK: Freshman
MAJOR: Education
HOMETOWN: Glenville
ANSWER: "I feel that it will cause Caperton and Benedict a loss of votes, and Charlotte Pritt will cause major competition among her running mates."

Editorial

by Sharon Gladwell

Summertime is a season when we wear bright and vivid colors and feel so alive. Our adrenaline rushes for picnics, gardening and family reunions. Summer is just an all-time high for fun.

In winter we put on darker colors and a coat. It takes all the iron we can pump to scrape car windshields, carry wood and sweep sidewalks. Yet, trees wear one dark color all summer. They even wear this beautiful color after the frost begins. And, as winter gets closer, the trees, unlike people, actually shed their coats. The sap goes to the roots and the tree goes into dormancy. Then, in spring, we and the trees seem to start anew, as if life really does get a second chance.

This little thought can be used in comparison with our everyday lives. Just keep your roots grounded, and when life gets rough or you're feeling blue, keep the sap down so when the storm is past you still have the courage and strength to stand tall.

Meet the GSC Cheerleaders

by Jason Fisher

As the student body gears up for Homecoming next week, we thought you might like to know those folks who put themselves on the front line of cheering.

Derik Igo, a sophomore from Williamstown, is serving his first year as a GSC cheerleader. He says what he likes about cheering is all the new people he's met. "I also enjoy trying to get the crowd excited."

Metessa Browning, a freshman from Glen Daniel, is majoring in nursing. She has been involved in cheerleading for nine years and has been a GSC cheerleader for one year. What she likes about cheerleading is "supporting the GSC Pioneers and making friends with members of the squad."

Michelle Jackson, a freshman from Grantsville, has not yet decided on her major. She has been participating in cheerleading for ten years. She said what she likes about cheerleading is that "cheerleading allows me to help support the teams and show my school spirit."

Lisa Mathes, a sophomore elementary education major, has been involved in cheerleading for eleven years and has been a GSC cheerleader for two years. She stated that her favorite part of cheerleading is "being able to support the teams in a way that I enjoy."

Debbie Russell, a senior from Richwood, is majoring in business management. She has been a GSC cheerleader for two years.

"I like cheerleading because I can actively support the GSC Pioneers," she said. "Also, I enjoy cheering for my favorite football player."

Lorrie Wilson, a sophomore from Sutton, is a marketing major. She has participated in cheerleading for ten years, including two years at GSC. When asked what she liked about cheerleading, she stated, "I like being involved in athletics and showing support for my school."

Pioneers Lose in a Shootout 49-63

The GSC Pioneer football team lost to the Indiana State Sycamores in a high scoring affair, 49-63, on Saturday at Terre Haute, Indiana, in the game which saw almost 1,200 yards of total offense and over 100 points scored by both teams.

The Pioneers' run-and-shoot offense compiled 527 yards through the air, while the Sycamores pounded out 488 yards on the ground. Third-year head coach Rich Rodriguez commented on his team's play. "Offensively, we played the best game of the year, but our defense struggled. The only real stat we look at is the win category, but we played well enough to win."

On the offensive side of the ball, Pioneer quarterback Jed Drenning had a big day by completing 35 of 52 passes for 527 yards, 6 touchdowns and was picked off 4 times. Drenning also added a rushing touchdown.

The rushing campaign was led by Shane Haddox with 78 yards on 11 carries. On the receiving end Derrick Bellamy, Kevin Blanding and Chris George each had big games. Bellamy caught two passes for 116 yards and two touchdowns. Blanding caught 12 passes for 151 yards and three touchdowns. George hauled in 10 passes for 152 yards and a touchdown. Wideout Walter Wilbon also caught a touchdown pass.

On defense, linemen Randall Olds recorded 13 tackles, 11 of which were unassisted. Linebacker Chuck Hython added 11 tackles and Jerry Pitts had 10 tackles.

The Pioneers will finish up their four-game road trip on Saturday as they travel to Buckhannon to do battle with the West Virginia Wesleyan Bobcats. Kickoff is set for 1:00 p.m.

College Farm Open to Hunters With Permits

by Sharon Gladwell

With this time of the year being the opening of hunting season, hunters are starting to fill the woods in search of game. Many Glenville newcomers are probably trying to find property to hunt on. Well, here's some good news. Glenville State College owns several acres of land that can be hunted on.

The college farm lies beyond the golf course on Sycamore Run. The property stretches from behind the rifle range to the college barn and forestry sawmill. To hunt on college property, a permit must be obtained from Captain Jerry Helmick, the campus policeman, or Roseann Turner, secretary of Student Services. The permit is free and lasts from the day the permit was obtained to May. All state laws must be followed. Hunters must have a state hunting license, must wear appropriate clothing, must not litter, and it is requested that hunters do not shoot near or toward houses.

If you are a hunter and have residence hall housing, you are not permitted to have firearms or bows in the halls. You can, however, keep them in a vehicle as long as they are in a case; or, you may check weapons in at the campus police office on the ground level of the Administration Building.

Lady Spikers End Losing Streak

Glenville State College's women's volleyball team ended their losing streak with a come from behind win against WV Tech. It took the Lady Pioneers five games to win the match after losing the opening game, 13-5, 15-6, 15-8 and 15-12.

Big efforts were turned in by Nikki Hardman who had 14 kills and 7 blocks. Tracey Loharty added 7 kills, setter Katsy Buckles recorded 25 assists.

Head Coach Kenny Osbourne talked of the team's play in the match with WV Tech. "I am very pleased with the teams play." Osbourne added Jodi Hill to the women's roster with injuries to Misty Taylor and Jessie Allen. Osbourne commented that he was happy with Hill's play and in the match had a 92% passing percentage.

The Lady Pioneers record stands at 5-16 overall and 1-4 in conference play.

Shaffer Pottery to be on Display Through October

by Delbert Starcher

Gary Shaffer of Wellsburg, West Virginia, began his exhibit of pottery in the Art Gallery of the Art and Music Building on October 14. He makes his pots in a shop set up at his own home. The prices of the pots range from $7 to $300. Shaffer says that the money he makes in one year is equitable to a teacher's salary.

Gary Shaffer graduated from Brooke High School in 1969 and then attended Glenville State College. After he earned his degree in education, he taught art classes in Wirt County for a year. After discovering that teaching was not for him, he began devoting all of his time to making pottery.

Gary Shaffer displays and sells his pottery in many different places. Some of these include the Mountain State Arts and Crafts Fair and A Fair in the Park. He is also a member of the Pittsburgh Craft Guild and the Pittsburgh Center for the Arts.

Asked if he enters his pots in competition, Gary Shaffer replied, "Yes, some of it. However, I believe that art is not a subject of competition, but for the enjoyment of looking at."

Playboy Magazine Announces 1993 Fiction Contest

Playboy magazine announces the eighth annual Playboy College Fiction contest. The entry deadline is January 1, 1993.

"Our contest continues to attract young talent from colleges and universities all over the world," says Playboy's fiction editor, Alice Turner.

The annual writing competition, open to all registered undergraduate and graduate college students, is the only collegiate fiction contest sponsored by a major national magazine.

For details on the competition, see the contest poster in the Mercury Office or contact Mark Healy at (212) 688-3030.

Daniel Lyons, a second-year graduate student at the University of Michigan, was the winner of Playboy magazine's seventh annual college fiction contest. Lyons, who is originally from Boston, received $3,000 for "The Greyhound," an irreverent caper centered around the theft of a prize-winning racing dog in Boston's Little Italy, which appears in Playboy, October 1992 edition.

Jeff Sylvester, an undergraduate at California State University at Long Beach, won the $500 second prize for his story "Elephant Ride."

Review

'A Streetcar Named Desire'

by David Graham

As Dennis Wemm pointed out in his director's note, "A Streetcar Named Desire" is an American classic. As I sit and prepare to review the play, I find that the words American classic bother me. Many people, more knowledgeable than myself, have written countless books on Williams' play, "A Streetcar Named Desire." So what can I add I wonder? Nothing. I feel that in order to give this play an honest review I should stay away from over analysis and give more "gut" review.

First impressions are as important in theater as they are in everyday life. I am a firm believer that in the first ten minutes of the play the majority of the audience makes up its mind whether or not they will like the show. Upon the opening of the curtain, I was pleased with the set for "Streetcar." The set was very efficient for the play. By that I mean that there was not a gross waste of stage space. Most importantly, I was convinced that it was an apartment in New Orleans and not a puzzle of painted flats and platforms.

By the third scene I was very comfortable with the characters being established. Katherine Burgess and Kristi Wheeler both have a high amount of talent. Both develop a "bond" with the audience which makes their characters very believable. The only thing that broke my concentration was "Streetcar" was that something (mainly dealing with the scene between the two of them) through gesture or some other action I was reminded of the characters created for last spring's production of "The Magnolias."

David Miller held his own on stage and I hope that he will continue to be in GSC plays. It was obvious he enjoyed playing the part.

Grayson Samples had a challenge ahead for him when he accepted the role of Stanley Kowalski. I believe Grayson should be very proud of his work on "Streetcar." I don't know how, if at all, nervous he was, but he appeared right at home on stage.

Wemm as a director and the cast as a whole successfully broke that wall that lies in the mind of the audience that tells them it's only a play. The director did a tremendous job at creating an enjoyable and believable play.

Thanks . . . and Please Vote!

The Student Advisory Council of the West Virginia State College Systems would like to thank all those who participated in our voter registration drive. A special thanks to Lorraine Rowe for being our notary of the day and Glenville State College for their help and encouragement in this endeavor. Now that you are registered, PLEASE VOTE. The General Election will be held on November 3, 1992.

We want to wish our alumni, Marla Barker, a Happy Birthday.

Good Luck, Pioneers!

Student Education Association

The Student Education Association held its regular meeting on October 13 in room 201, Clark Hall. The bake sale that had been planned for Thursday, October 15, was postponed and will be planned for another date. The Multi-Cultural Fair to be held October 22 in the GSC Amphitheatre was discussed.

The Fall SEA Conference to be held in Charleston was discussed and some planned to attend. Some ideas for National Education Week, November 16-20, were brought up. Our bulletin board for Clark Hall and the Read Aloud Program were mentioned.

For those who were unable to attend the meeting, we will be meeting again on October 20 at 12:30 in 201, Clark Hall. We will also be meeting that same day to work on our banner for homecoming. We will meet in the Child Learning Center starting at 1:00 p.m. and will work on the banner until it is finished. All members are encouraged to come and help work on the banner any time that day.

Also, anyone still interested in joining SEA may still do so. Just come to any meeting or see Brenda Wilson in Clark Hall.

Tri-Sigma

Good Luck to all our new pledges. We look forward to working with you and having you become one of us.

A reminder to all Tri-Sigas about our Retreat October 23-25. A great weekend is being planned. Also, best wishes to all the girls who will be initiated there.

We are currently selling 50/50 tickets for a drawing to be held on October 30. Each ticket costs $1.00. If you are interested in buying a ticket, contact any Tri-Sigma. Your support is greatly appreciated.

If you are interested in joining Greek Life contact any fraternity brother or sorority sister. We will be glad to talk to you.

Good Luck to the Pioneers as they take on WV Wesleyan away this weekend.

For Your Information

Wesley Foundation Terminators

There will be a meeting of the Terminators at the Wesley Foundation on Thursday evening, October 22, at 6:00. We will be planning events throughout the remainder of the semester including a float for the Homecoming parade, a Halloween overnigher, raising a "mile of pennies" for world hunger and a one-meal fast for Oxfam, a hunger organization. We will also be discussing the possibility of organizing a work team to go to Dade County, Florida, during Spring Break to help residents rebuild their homes.

The meeting is Thursday, October 22, at 6:00 p.m. at the Wesley Foundation. Be there!

Pioneers In Nursing

The Pioneers in Nursing are sponsoring a 50/50 drawing for homecoming. Tickets will be sold by nursing and pre-nursing students for $1 each. The number will be drawn on October 31 during half-time at the game. The winner need not be present and will be notified.

Programming Board

The Programming Board meetings will be held at 8:00 p.m. at the Snack Bar in Heflin Center instead of Pickens Hall.

Attention Art Majors

The Art Club is being organized. There will be a meeting of those interested on Thursday, October 22, at 2:30 p.m. in room 235 of the Fine Arts Building. If you are interested and cannot attend the meeting, see Mr. Rogers or Troy Wright.

Clip and Vote

The Glenville Mercury is sponsoring a presidential and gubernatorial mock election on Friday, October 23. Two polls will be set up on campus: one in the Heflin Center and the other in the Administration Building. Students, faculty and staff are encouraged to vote. The results will be announced in the October 28 issue of the Mercury. We encourage you to take time to vote and ask that you mark whether you are faculty/staff or students as this will give some indication how the younger voters are planning to vote.
