To Be Honored April 17

Reale, Woodyard are Alumni Assn. Service Award Recipients

Philip A. Reale

Jack Woodyard

Philip A. Reale and Jack Woodyard of Glenville will receive the Glenville State College Alumni Association Service Awards for 1993. Reale and Woodyard will be honored at the annual Alumni Banquet, April 17, at GSC.

Philip A. Reale, a 1974 graduate of GSC, is a past member of the Alumni Council, an avid supporter of GSC athletics and is interested in the quality of education at GSC as well as throughout the state of West Virginia. It is for this support that Philip A. Reale, Esq. will be honored with the 1993

Alumni Service Award.

Reale, a lawyer, is a graduate of the WVU College of Law. He began his career as a member of the law firm D'Orazio & Reale in Grantsville. Reale was general counsel and executive vice president of WACO Oil & Gas Co., Inc. in Glenville, Governor Gaston Caperton's chief of staff and Caperton's '92 campaign manager. Presently, Reale is a partner in the firm Robinson & McElwee, attorneys at law, where he is Chairman of the government relations department.

While a student at GSC,

Reale was a member of the TKE fraternity, the GSC golf team and president of Student Congress. He continues to be a leader as chairman of the Higher Education Advocacy Team, a member of the Board of Directors, W. Va. College System, a member of the GSC Foundation, Inc. board of directors, just to name a few.

The following statement from Reale probably best sums up what his main thrust has been in life: "being able to position myself in life to work for improvements in the field of education throughout West Virginia."

Reale is married to Terry L. Smith Reale, a 1974 graduate of GSC and an instructor in the education department at GSC. The Reales reside in Glenville with their two sons, Philip A. Reale II and Patrick Anthony Reale, who are students at Glenville Elementary. Reale is the son of Patrick V. and Lenita R. ('49) Reale of Glenville.

Jacob Jack Woodyard of Glenville has been a big supporter of GSC and Pioneers sports for a long time. He is a 1940 graduate of Glenville High School where he played football, basketball and ran track and was named all-state player. He entered Glenville State Teachers College where he played football for the Pioneers until he was called to fight in World War II.

After the war ended, he worked forty years as a route man for the Glenville Post Office, which gave him the opportunity to meet many Glenville residents and college students. In 1980, Woodyard began operating the End Zone Room at Pioneer Stadium, a history museum of Pioneer sports that is partly supervised by the athletic department.

Woodyard spends most of his day working in the End Zone Room collecting memorabilia. His collection of Pioneer sports starts with the first year that sports were played at GSC in 1908.

Woodyard has won many awards during his lifetime, his most recent being the Jefferson Award and the Distinguished West Virginia Award for outstanding achievement and meritorious service.

GSC and its alumni owe a debt of gratitude to Woodyard for his dedication in collecting and displaying the information at the End Zone Room. He is always out in the public promoting GSC and talking to alumni, spurring their interest in their Alma Mater. It is for this dedication that we honor Jack Woodyard with the Honorary Alumni Service Award.

Woodyard is married to Charlotte Snider Woodyard, a 1971 GSC graduate. Charlotte is the Chief Procurement Officer at GSC. The Woodyards have one daughter, Susan Woodyard Heiner of Parkersburg, and two grandchildren.

Reale and Woodyard will receive their awards at the annual Alumni Day Banquet on Saturday, April 17. For reservations contact the Alumni Office at 462-7361, ext. 122.

GSC Bookstore Renovations to Bring Expanded Inventory

by Lisa Hayes

With the laying of the carpet last month, the construction phase of the renovation of the Campus Bookstore was completed.

Fox Construction Company began the renovations in early October of last year. After the central wall was removed and painting was completed, the Glenville State College maintenance crew, carpenters and electricians took over the remaining details and provided the polish.

Bookstore manager Debra Nagy praised the workers. "We have a great crew. The electricians and carpenters spent a lot of time [here]. Anything I asked, they could do," she said.

The maintenance crew helped rewire lighting, built the new counters, and did anything else that needed to be done. Much of this work was completed over spring break.

This renovation has doubled the space available to the bookstore, which was originally built when the student body was a mere 1000 students. The extra space was greatly needed and will allow the bookstore to bring new selections, offer more new and used books side by side and increase the product mix in all areas, including art and school supplies.

Even though the bookstore renovations may seem complete there are still things to be done. The bookstore is currently carrying the same inventory as it was in January--less actually, since many books were sold at the beginning of the spring semester.

Nagy's goal is to have a finished product for the students' return in the fall. [We want] to offer everything we can to meet the needs of the growing student body." New inventory will be arriving until then, and with each order Nagy considers the input and suggestions of different divisions across campus.

In addition to the new space and the new look, the bookstore has also added a new employee, Becky Lowther, who replaced Anna Ruth Montgomery. Montgomery retired in January after working in the bookstore for over eight years.

In My Opinion . . .

A Note of Appreciation

To the editor,

The office of admissions would like to thank all those who helped on Saturday, March 27, with the annual Spring Open House. The weather was not picture perfect, but the tour guides' "sunny" attitudes more than made up for the rain.

Many thanks to President Simmons for his welcome to the prospective students. Also, thanks to the professors who represented each division, to the GSC Percussion Ensemble for a wonderful performance, to all the maintenance and custodial personnel for opening buildings, arranging tables and chairs to be put up and making sure the campus was very attractive, to the food service personnel for a great continental breakfast and brunch, and to the bookstore, library and residence halls for their help and cooperation.

A special thanks to Mack Samples for serving as M.C. on short notice and to all our student tour guides who spent their Saturday helping to promote "their" college. Everyone did a marvelous job, and we would like to thank all who had a part in making this such a success.

In Response

To the editor,

I was disquieted to read in the Mercury that, of the replies to the "Campus Kibitz" question regarding the limitation of assault weapons, five of six opposed such limitation.

The reasons given for the objection echoed the most egregiously stupid bumper stickers I have ever seen: "If guns are outlawed, only outlaws will have guns" and "Guns don't kill people, people kill people."

CAWV to Sponsor Trash Mash

It is spring cleaning time again in West Virginia.

On Saturday, April 17, the Contractor's Association of West Virginia is sponsoring the fifth annual Great West Virginia Trash Mash.

More than 30 members of the CAWV and other local companies will donate their equipment, time and labor to clean illegal dump sites throughout the state.

This is strictly a volunteer effort which makes community involvement crucial to Trash Mash's success. Be a part of improving the image of West Virginia to attract new businesses and tourism to our state.

Help the CAWV make a clean sweep across the Mountain State by nominating an illegal dump site for cleanup or volunteering your time. For information, call the CAWV in Charleston at 342-1166.

GSC Adds Course to Fall Schedule

Norman Jordan, African-American poet and playwright, will be offering an African-American literature course to GSC students next fall.

Jordan published his first poem in 1961 and since that time has been published in 35 anthologies. His plays have been staged in San Diego, Dallas, Atlanta, New York, Cleveland, Baltimore and other U.S. cities. He has a master's degree in black studies and African-American literature from Ohio State University.

The course is an introduction to major African-American authors from the colonial period to the present.

Jordan has been teaching a similar course at WVU and will drive from Morgantown on Wednesday nights to teach at Glenville.

The course will be open to all students, regardless of level. If you are interested, see your adviser about adding ENGL 399-02, Special Topics: African-American Literature (cross-listed as EDUC 399-02) to your schedule for fall of 1993.

WVU to Hold East Coast Sexual Assault Conference

West Virginia University Student Administration will host the second annual Student Conference on Campus Sexual Assault on April 16 to 18 in Morgantown. The conference will be held simultaneously at St. John's University in Collegeville, Minn.

The conference is being hosted this year at both sites to better serve the entire nation of college students. The mission is to promote national campus awareness about the issues, causes and effects of sexual violence.

A series of educational sessions will be held throughout the weekend and will address various topics concerning sexual violence. The topics of sexual harassment, gang rape, helping family and friends cope with sexual assault, fund-raising for campus programs, HIV/AIDS and sexually transmitted diseases among others will be discussed.

Py Bateman, founder of Alternatives to Fear, an organization committed to putting an end to sexual violence through self-defense and the power of knowledge, will be one of the keynote speakers. Bateman holds a black belt in karate and has produced a 13-week series for Viacom cable on rape prevention.

A second keynote speaker is Rus Ervin Funk, an activist educator and therapist. He is coordinator of the Men's Anti-

Rape Resource Center. He seeks to organize and educate men to stop sexual harassment, other forms of sexual violence and racism. He is the author of "Willy, Clarence, Mike and Me: A Training for Men About Rape."

Bateman and Funk will hold special seminars titled "For Women Only" and "For Men Only," respectively.

Registration fees for the conference are $25 per person on or before Saturday, April 10, and $35 after April 10. In order to take advantage of free campus lodging, all conference-goers must register before April 10. For more information, contact Frances Bennett at 293-3813.

Students Invited to Attend 'Opportunities West Virginia' Seminar

The leadership division of Woodlands Mountain Institute is hosting a free seminar for West Virginia college students interested in the non-profit and public sectors in the Mountain State. This "Opportunities West Virginia" seminar will be held April 16 to 19 at Marshall University and will feature state leaders in the fields of education, economic development, government and public health care, among others.

Students selected for participation in this seminar will get a chance to meet with these state leaders as well as receive training as to how they can best market themselves in the state and help reverse the ongoing "brain drain" of students leaving West Virginia after graduation.

A limited number of positions are available. Interested students should apply immediately by calling Woodlands Mountain Institute in Franklin at (304) 358-2401. College juniors, seniors, recent graduates and graduate students preferred.

Presenting Pioneer Basketball Cheerleaders

The GSC cheerleading squad made a strong showing at the annual WVIAC cheerleading competition last month in Charleston claiming the third-place title. Two members of the squad, Valerie Robinson and Debbie Russell, were also named to the all-conference team.

Robinson is a senior majoring in behavioral science with a minor in criminal justice. She previously cheered during her freshman year at Glenville State and resides in Gilmer County with her husband, Mike Robinson of the West Virginia State Police Glenville Detachment. Russell, from Richwood, has served on the squad for the last two years and is majoring in business management.

The remaining squad members are Metessa Browning, Lisa Cutlip, Jodi Hutchinson, Michele Jackson and the only male member, Derek Igo.

Browning, a freshman from Glen Daniel, has been cheering for nine years and is in the nursing program.

Cutlip, who is a native of Braxton County, brings four years of cheerleading experience to the squad and is also a freshman.

A native of Wirt County, Hutchinson is a freshman and cheered for Wirt County High School before attending GSC.

Jackson, from neighboring Grantsville in Calhoun County, is another freshman and has four years of high school cheerleading experience.

Derek Igo brings 12 years of gymnastic experience to the squad. He is a sophomore and a native of Williamstown.

"The cheerleaders have done extremely well and are tough fighters. We've had a lot of setbacks what with losing people, but the squad has bounced back. I'm really proud of them and hope they come back," says Monna Burkhammer, GSC cheerleading instructor.

Gals, Nubians Win Basketball Crown

The GSC intramural basketball season came to a close as playoff games determined the overall champion.

In the first game, the Gilmer Gals beat previously undefeated Glenville Heat 36-33.

Annette Caldwell led the way for the Gals with 11. Tracey Fluharty scored 12 for Heat.

In the men's division,

Nubians held off TCB to win the title 58-53.

Derrick Bellamy scored 10 for the Nubians while Kevin Blanding tallied 14 in a losing effort.

Men Place Second, Women Place Third in Invitational

The GSC Pioneer Invitational Track Meet was held on Friday, April 2, with the men placing second while the women finished third. The weather conditions were less than favorable as rain and snow fell all afternoon, and the temperature stayed in the 30s for the entire meet.

Both men's and women's teams were well represented, as with a school record being broken in the discus by Mel Moody.

Track Coach Steve Harold, commenting on the support of men's and women's track program, expressed his thanks to all of the students who, despite the weather, worked the Pioneer Invitational Track Meet.

"Without your efforts and assistance the meet could not have been a success," he said.

10,000 Meter Race to be Held in Lewisburg

The fifteenth annual West Virginia School of Osteopathic Medicine 10,000 Meter Classic Race will be held in Lewisburg on Saturday, May 1.

First, second and third place winners in the men's and women's categories will receive $200, $100 and $50 saving bonds, respectively. Medallions will be awarded to the three finishers with the best times in each category. All entrants will receive T-shirts. Food and beverages are included in the registration fee for runner and one guest.

Pre-registration for the WVSOM 10,000 Meter Classic is $12. Pre-registration forms must be postmarked by April 23. Registration the day of the race will be $15. All entrants should be at WVSOM between 7 a.m. and 9 a.m. for check-in before arriving at the starting line.

Entry forms are available at the WVSOM Student Activities Office. For more information, call Sharon Howard at 467-6231.

Rexroad Named Alumnus of the Year

Brigadier General Vorley Michael Rexroad, a 1938 graduate of GSC, has been selected as the 1993 Alumnus of the Year. Rexroad will be honored at the annual Alumni Banquet on Saturday, April 17.

General Rexroad was born in Clarksburg, but spent most of his formative years in Webster County and graduated from Cowen High School. He and his wife Ruth now make their home in Great Falls, Va.

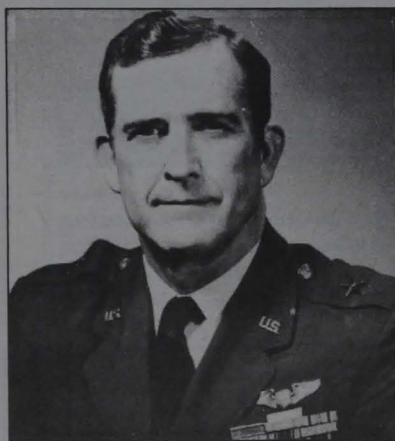

Rexroad entered Glenville during the second semester of 1934 and graduated in three and one-half years. During his college years he supported himself by working in the timber industry during the summers. While a student at Glenville he toured the state as a member of the debating team and as a reporter for the Mercury interviewed Amelia Earhart. His first job was teaching history and geography at Cowen High School. Those two subjects have remained his lifelong love.

When war came in 1941 he joined the Army Air Corps and spent two years in various cadet training programs and was designated a navigator-bombardier. He was also commissioned a second lieutenant. But, instead of being sent immediately to one of the theaters of war, Rexroad was retrained for a while at the training center as an instructor. Then, in November of 1943 he was screened and selected to become a member of the Office of Strategic Service (OSS). After completing more training he was promoted to captain and was sent to South East Asia. Rexroad credits GSC for making him successful through all of the difficult testing and training programs that he completed during these years. He was the air staff liaison officer with the British fourteenth army and coordinated OSS activity with British forces for the remainder of the war.

After the war Rexroad maintained his military commission via the reserves and pursued a career in education. He completed a master's degree in politics and public administration from the University of New Mexico. Through his research during those years, he became acquainted with some very influential people including two US senators from New Mexico.

Rexroad then went to New York University, NYC and worked on a Ph.D. and taught there on an assistantship for two years. During the spring of 1950 he accepted an assistant professorship at the University of New Mexico and was planning to return to New York to complete his thesis. But, as happened to so many people during that year, life was abruptly interrupted by the Korean War, and he found himself back on active duty. During that conflict he worked in counter intelligence in Washington and in 1953 was sent to Japan. For two years, he was in charge of debriefing air force prisoners of war once released.

In 1955, New Mexico's Senator Chavez, whom the general had met while working on his master's degree, became chairman of the department of defense subcommittee, senate appropriations committee. Chavez offered the general a job advising him on department of defense affairs. He spent the next twenty years in the halls of power in Washington and worked for and with many of the most influential men of that era. He worked closely with such notable men as Senator John Stennis of Mississippi, Senator Richard Russell of Georgia and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield.

General Rexroad remarks that the early training that he received "at a little school in the heart of West Virginia, in those beautiful mountains which build character, Glenville State College gave me the training and inspiration to meet the challenges of life and to never forget where I came from."

General Rexroad has been married fifty years to Ruth Cutlip Rexroad, formerly of Webster Springs. They have one son, Michael David of Highland, Md. He is a lawyer and senior assistant states attorney for the state of Maryland.

Rexroad will be honored at the annual Alumni Banquet on Saturday, April 17. For reservations call 462-7361, ext. 122.

Scholastic Art Exhibition Winners Announced

The art department hosted its Sixteenth Annual Scholastic Art Exhibition, a show for high school art students to display work, from March 22 to April 2.

George Harper, associate professor of art at GSC, directed the exhibition. Over 80 pieces of work from 15 high schools were entered this year. Some of the works included drawing, pastels, paintings in watercolor, oil and photo prints.

The works were judged and awards were presented. The show was juried by Kathryn Gillispie, and alumni of GSC and WVU. Gillispie is a resident of Elkins and is an active watercolor artist in the state and surrounding regions. She is represented in many private and public collections.

Following are the names, medium, title, school and grade of each participant:

North Bend State Park to Host Spring Nature Tour April 23 to 25

North Bend State Park will be hosting its annual Spring Nature Tour on the weekend of April 23 to 25.

The weekend activities will include a hike back in time while strolling the North Bend Rail Trail. Knowledgeable interpretive guides will lead you to many attractions which will include the mysteries of Mother Nature.

The weekend's main event will be an all-day canoe trip on the scenic Hughes River. The trip will begin in Harrisville and end in Cairo. All canoes and safety equipment will be provided. A picnic lunch will be served at the midway point at the park's Shelter #3 before the journey onward to Cairo. Participants will be taken to departure and return points by bus.

If you would like more information or to sign up for the event, please call or write: North Bend State Park, Cairo, WV 26337, (304) 643-2831 or 1-800-CALL-WVA.

West Virginia 'Safe Kids Coalition' Urges Restrictions on Use of All-Terrain Vehicles

The West Virginia "Safe Kids Coalition" is urging state lawmakers to take a serious look at the dangers of all-terrain vehicles and to pass legislation aimed at reducing the number of childhood injuries caused by the use of ATVs.

Coalition members would like to see a law restricting the use of ATVs to people 15 years of age or older. They also recommend that current state licensure and title laws be amended to include ATVs.

"There's no doubt that all terrain vehicles are a very popular form of recreational activity for many West Virginians. Whether or not children should be allowed to ride these vehicles, alone or supervised, continues, however, to be an issue," said Fred Cooley, M.D., chairman of the coalition. "These large and powerful vehicles can be very dangerous and even fatal to a child. The fact is, many children just haven't developed the necessary motor skills to properly handle the machines."

Because of the increasing number of and the seriousness of ATV injuries and the resultant deaths or disabilities, the coalition believes some method of control of the use of the vehicles must be established.

Addictive Relationships

It is not uncommon these days, when so many things are referred to as being addictive, to hear the term addictive relationship.

What exactly is an addictive relationship? It is perhaps best defined by comparing it to the prototype of addictions: alcoholism. There we see that a person is addicted to alcohol because he insists on drinking even in the face of incontrovertible evidence that he should stop. We may, therefore, say that a relationship can be considered "addictive" when a person insists on continuing it even in the face of evidence that he should let it go.

While it may be difficult to pinpoint precise causes for the development of an addictive relationship, some of the factors we noted earlier may be operative.

We have seen that Lucy is really a very insecure person. She felt threatened by a younger sibling who displaced her, at least partially, as the focus of parental love and attention. To compensate for the feeling of being rejected, Lucy developed an attitude of grandiosity. These two factors--the need to be loved and believing that one is the greatest--set the stage for the development of an addictive relationship.

In Lucy's case, it was a crush on Schroeder.

Although Schroeder makes it abundantly clear to Lucy that he has no romantic interest whatever in her, Lucy simply refuses to take "no" for an answer.

The similarity of alcohol addiction is further evident in the phenomenon of rationalization. Just as an alcoholic will provide ingenious reasons as to why he needs alcohol, a person in an addictive relationship will use all possible means to convince the other person why the relationship should continue.

Lucy was rather successful in achieving dominance over her younger sibling and controlling him. She now tries to control Schroeder as well. The subject in the addictive relationship may try to ingratiate him- or herself with the other person and may not realize that such efforts can be counterproductive.

Sometimes he or she may try to appeal to the other person's conscience.

We have already seen that guilt can be a very powerful tool, and this is often used to try to maintain the relationship.

People with deep feelings for inferiority may be so starved for any sign of affirmation that they may actually interpret derogatory comments as indications of appreciation.

Certainly Schroeder doesn't intend a handful of crabgrass to be a bouquet, but given Lucy's fragile self-image, that is precisely how she interprets it, and uses it as evidence of his affection for her.

The addict may try to use authority figures to convince the other person to accept him, as did the young man who pleaded for me to intervene with his girlfriend. The addict may attempt to exploit the other person's parents, teachers, clergy or anyone else he thinks may change the other person's mind.

Lucy manifests her underlying feelings of inferiority when she glorifies a handful of crabgrass, yet, on the other hand, she continues to assert her attitude of superiority. In the addictive relationship, these conflicting attitudes can co-exist.

The similarity between addiction to alcohol or cocaine and the addiction to a person can be striking. In either case, the addicted person refuses to surrender the object of the addiction regardless of the most convincing arguments to that effect.

Alpha Psi Omega

Members of the Theta Alpha chapter of Alpha Psi Omega traveled to Arlington, Virginia, March 4 to 7 to participate in the Southeastern Theatre Conference.

Ringling Brothers/Barnum and Bailey Clown College along with a Ben Nye make-up demonstration were among the many workshops the group attended.

Several colleges and high schools were represented from the southeastern region of the United States including neighboring Braxton County High School. Braxton theatre members participated in the secondary schools competition with a performance of "Dolls."

Alpha Psi Omega, an honorary theatre fraternity, was represented by Lori Crouter, Edie Flemming, Mary Mullens, Derek Igo, Sandy Hubbard, Angela Cox, Keith Miller, Ezekiel Flowers, Matt Duncan, Bridget Metts, Dennis Wemm and Nancy Wemm.

Congratulations are extended to the following new members: Mitch Carpenter, Sandy Hubbard, David Miller, Jerry Reed, Joni Rittenhouse and Kristi Wheeler. The initiation ceremony was held last December 13.

New pledges are coming up soon. Those eligible will be receiving all the necessary information in the next few weeks.

Alpha Psi is working on a children's theatre play called "Arabian Nights," written by Dennis Wemm. Look for more details coming soon.

Biology Club

Biology Club members took their first field trip of the semester on Saturday, April 3, to Davis & Elkins College.

Dr. Philip Cottrill, professor of science at GSC and recording secretary for the West Virginia Academy of Science, club members and Gilmer County school teacher Sue Bonnett sat in on symposiums given by expert researchers and oral presentations given by students from various colleges and universities.

After receiving encouragement from the Academy, the club hopes to recruit members who will conduct research to submit to the Academy at next year's meeting.

Delta Zeta

The Theta Xi chapter of Delta Zeta had an informal meeting on Monday, April 5. Sorority tests were given right after the meeting.

A field representative visited with the chapter all last week. We spent a lot of time with her and received lots of ideas and suggestions.

Last weekend the Delta Zeta sorority went to Cedar Lakes in Ripley and attended Province IV State Day. We received individual and group awards.

We would like to wish Jennifer Bennett a happy 21st birthday.

TKE

The Iota Omega Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon had its regular meeting on April 4. Plans are being finalized for the Red Carnation Ball, softball tournament and retreat.

Group pictures will be taken at 8:00 p.m. on Monday, April 12; wear your letters. Money for the Red Carnation Ball should be turned in to Rob by noon on Thursday, April 15.

Tri-Sigma

The sisters of Tri-Sigma sorority traveled to Woodstock, Virginia, to our national headquarters, The Mabel Lee Walton House, this past weekend. Our hostess was Kri Gernhauser.

We attended many seminars during our retreat. The workshops included a rush seminar by Tami Dobbins with the help of Kathy Cogar and a stress-buster seminar lead by Ellen Mullens. She was assisted by Stephanie Adams. Our last workshop on Tri-Sigma's national philanthropy, The Robbie Page Memorial Fund, was lead by Sandi Jones. Also our newly appointed officers held a conference concerning their new positions in Tri-Sigma.

During the weekend we had afternoon breaks and evenings off to relax and explore the town of Woodstock. Our Delta Alpha Chapter had the privilege of meeting the Alpha Chapter from Longwood College in Virginia, the first chapter of Tri-Sigma.

Delta Alpha would like to thank many people who helped us this weekend. Thanks goes out to April Prunty and Teresa Adams, who are Sigma alumnae, for attending the retreat. Also we thank Kri for all she did for us. We are sorry for scaring you. Good luck in your future marriage.

A thank you also goes to the yearbook staff for the film you donated to capture pictures of our weekend.

While we were at our retreat, Sandi Jones was our chef. You make excellent spaghetti. Thanks. Also Heather Hoffman kept us entertained as our official storyteller for the weekend. Plus Gina Broadwater took great photos with our donated film. The Big Sises would like to thank our adopted lil' sises for all the surprises this week, and we love you all. Our paddles were great.

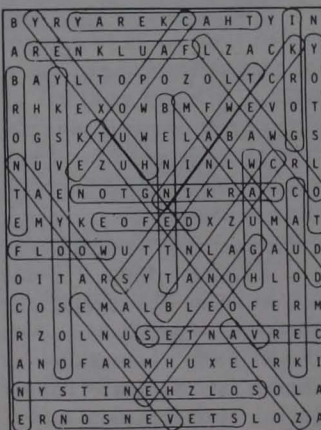

The weekend concluded with a stop at Smoke Hole Caverns to buy gifts at their little shop. Then we headed to Glenville. We wanted to tell Laura, Leslie, Lisa and Susan that we missed you very much and that we love you. Also April 5 is Sigma sister Melissa Riggelman's birthday, and April 30 is Susan Ellis's. Happy birthday, girls.

Tri Sigma would also like to congratulate two of our sisters. Tami Dobbins was nominated by our sorority as a candidate for the Outstanding Young Woman's Banquet. Jill Harman was also nominated by Student Congress for this honor. Congrats! More good news. Heather Hoffman, Kandy Smarr and Crystal Hoffman passed their written tests and are ready to be initiated. Good job.

Congratulations also to our Study Bunny for March 23 to 29, Gina Broadwater, who clocked 10 hours of library study time.

If any girls are interested in Greek life, on April 18 at 7:30 p.m. we are having a Movies-N-Munchies rush party in the fifth floor lounge of Pickens Hall. Come and join us.

Last but not least, we would like to wish everyone a safe and relaxing break.

Answer to today's puzzle.
