Professor Hilgenberg To Have First Book Published

by Robert Perrine

Dr. Hilgenberg published his first book, "From Enemy to Ally." The book is expected to be on the shelves soon.

University Press of America will have the new book ready in late June or early July. The original release date was May 15, but due to unusually heavy orders, the publisher found it necessary to move the date back a few weeks. University Press will also market the book. The book is about Japanese-American relations following the Second World War. It deals with the American occupation of Japan and the American policies to enlist Japan as a cold war ally after 1945.

Hilgenberg took about three years to write the book. When asked if he would write another, he said, "I would love to, but it is difficult with my heavy class load and being involved in state politics too much."

He stressed, however, that he loves to write and did not write the book for money but just for the pleasure of writing. He hopes that the book can be used in the classroom as well as for leisure reading.

Hilgenberg received his doctorate at West Virginia University in 1978. He has taught at GSC for 22 years.

His wife, Joyce, is a kindergarten teacher in Norman town and also teaches one course a year for the college.

A die-hard West Virginia Mountaineer fan, Hilgenberg also loves the beach, reading and nearly any sport.

The book should be in the GSC bookstore in July. Hilgenberg said, "I strongly encourage everyone to read the book, and I will autograph them at no additional cost."

The book is dedicated to his wife, Joyce.

State Arts and Education Secretary to Speak at GSC's 119th Commencement

Secretary for the Department of Education and the Arts Barbara Harmon-Schamberger will be the speaker for GSC's 119th commencement on Saturday, May 15. She will address graduating seniors at ceremonies in the Physical Education Building at 10:00 a.m.

Harmon-Schamberger, a graduate of Doddridge County

High School, attended West Virginia University where she earned B.A. degrees in political science and international and in history and English. She then attended Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar earning an M.L. degree in politics.

Harmon-Schamberger then attended the University of

Education Department Responds to NCATE Suggestions

by Lisa Hayes

During the recent NCATE accreditation process, the education department at Glenville State was found lacking in two areas concerning cultural diversity of students enrolled in the program as well as instructors in the department.

Students must pass seven requirements to enter teacher education, two of those being an overall grade point average of 2.5 and passing grades on all the parts of the PPST test.

The education department has promptly responded to NCATE's suggestions, and for the 1993-94 academic year, Glenville State College has agreed to offer two $1,000 minority scholarships funded by the GSC Foundation.

Unfortunately, this agreement includes only the academic year for which the award was given. The recipient may lose the sponsorship thereafter, just as the Miss GSC Pageant (usually held during GSC Week) did this year. Applicants for the scholarships are evaluated on the basis of five criteria which may be waived if the applicant has an ACT composite score of 20 or above.

The five criteria include an overall GPA of 3.0, two academic references from high school, one character reference from a community member, an essay of "Why I am Interested in Becoming a Teacher" (500 word minimum) and fulfilled requirements for full admission to a baccalaureate degree program.

In addition to the $1,000 award, each recipient will be granted a full tuition waiver for each semester of the award.

Prospective applicants should inquire at the department of education, or contact Dr. Steve Creasey, Dr. Sharon Kraus, Deanna Foxworthy, Pamela Cain, Dr. Duke Talbott or Dolores Mysliwiec.

Also, to enhance campus cultural activity, members of the English department traveled to Charleston and met with Khadijah Muhammad, chapter president of the NAACP. Creasey commented that the meeting went well. "We have the same goal," he says.

The education department will also offer a new 100 computer course for PPST test preparation.

Banquet for Panhellenic Council and Outstanding Women Held

by Sharon Gladwell

On April 28, the Panhellenic Council held a banquet for its newly installed officers and awarded those women named as outstanding woman of their organization.

Newly installed members to the Panhellenic Council are: Ellen Mullins, president; Kari McCallister, vice president; Jennifer Bennett, treasurer, and Stephanie Adams, secretary.

Recipients of the Outstanding Women Awards were chosen on basis of their "outstanding service and contributions" to the organization to which they belong.

Those women chosen and the organization they represented at the banquet are: Marla Barker, Delta Zeta sorority; Jennifer Bennett, Panhellenic Council; Nikki Cale, women's basketball; Jackie Carter, Pickens Hall Governing Board; Tammy Dobbins, Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority; Rebecca Duely, Kappa Delta Gamma; Sharon Gladwell, The Glenville Mercury; Stephanie Graves, women's volleyball; Carla Hanna, Pioneer Programming Board; Inez Hardbarger, Student Accounting Society; Jill Harman, Student Congress; Michelle Jackson, cheerleaders; Cathy Marks, Chi Beta Phi; Angie Meadows, "Kanawhachen"; Lori Nicholas, Fellowship of Christian Athletes; Tami Niven, women's track; Tina Norman, MENC; Dottie Starcher, Phi Beta Lambda; Missy Taylor, Pioneers in Nursing; Rose Yoak, "Trillium"; and Shirley Wine, Student Education Association.

Members of both the Delta Zeta and Tri-Sigma sororities and Jennifer Nottingham, adviser to the Panhellenic Council, were invited guests at the banquet. Other guests were Dr. Al Billips, Roseann Turner, William Diehl and Terry Reale.

Don't Blame Officer Helmick

To the editor,

I recently received a parking ticket that I felt was unfair. I went and talked to Officer Helmick about the ticket. During our 20-minute discussion, I learned a few things that shifted my anger from Officer Helmick to the Campus Planning Committee.

The CPC has never included Mr. Helmick (the one who knows the parking problem firsthand) in any of its meeting to discuss the parking problem. The campus security is also understaffed at the present time. Officer Helmick has some good ideas for some help, such as getting some criminal justice majors to be in charge of enforcing and issuing parking tickets. What a good idea!

Officer Helmick is just doing his job, so don't give him a hard time about it. If you must complain, find out who is on the Campus Planning Commission, and let them know about it.

Three In One

To the editor,

Being a mother, wife and full-time student all rolled into one is not an easy job, but somebody has to do it. And if that somebody happens to be you, you are probably ready for a few tips on how to make life worth living again. Here are a few things I have discovered that have made my life easier in the last two years:

1. You must find a good baby-sitter. Qualities of a good baby-sitter are tolerance, patience and flexible hours.

2. You should fix a casserole for dinner whenever you can. Casseroles are usually easy to fix, but husbands do not know that.

3. When your house is a mess and you really do not have time to clean, invite your mother over. Why? Because as soon as she looks at your house, she will start cleaning.

4. Nine o'clock should be bedtime for the children. This is especially true if you study best in the evenings.

5. Have your husband take you out dancing occasionally. Dancing is a great way to loosen up. And remember that you have a life worth living.

Fallout Shelters: Some Assembly Required

As the United States faces the emergence of the New World Order and hopes that the threat of nuclear war is over, take a minute to think what would have happened if we had been called to rely on our existing public fallout shelters for protection.

A proper fallout shelter is designed to protect people from nuclear fallout, a roaming radioactive residue which results from a nuclear explosion. The shelter must also be equipped to sustain these people for at least a month, with food, water and medical supplies.

A shelter should be designed to fulfill the needs and sanitary requirements for people without the privilege of electricity and should have a fallout meter so the people will know when it is safe to emerge from the darkness.

Here on the GSC campus, fallout shelter signs are posted on buildings. These are the signs with the circle split into three equal pie pieces. The posted signs imply that there is a safe place, a proper shelter on the premises. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Shelter signs merely identify places which can be made into sufficient shelters for the public. Public fallout shelters across the nation are documented to have a protection factor (PF) ranging from 10 to 1000. That's a fairly large and nonspecific range. Researchers have estimated deaths from radiation sickness at two million if all public shelters have a PF of 25.

These same researchers estimated deaths from radiation sickness with current shelter conditions at 14 million. By ratio it seems that current shelter conditions range from 10 to 11, not 10 to 1000.

The only shelter in our area with a PF of 1000 might be the government shelter beneath the Greenbrier Resort in White Sulphur Springs. Most public shelters actually have a PF of only 10 to 15. Interesting, considering a typical house basement can provide a PF of 20 if the windows are covered with dirt.

More than likely, the typical house basement is more sufficiently stocked as well. Public shelters are to be stocked in the instance of an actual emergency. Right now, they are empty, but many house basements are already stocked with food. My neighbor has been canning all of her life, and her basement shelves are full of Mason jars filled with food. Throw some dirt over her windows, and she's set.

People feel that Glenville was never really at a high risk if the United States had come under nuclear attack. Big cities get bombed, not small towns. Cities like Detroit and Chicago are more likely to be bombed. But, the same northwesterly winds that carry weather this way from Chicago could carry fallout from there as well.

Actually, a 15 m.p.h. wind could carry the radiation to us within a week. A week might be long enough for us to turn our shelters into real protection. It would also give us time to kill each other fighting over who would go in the shelters and who wouldn't.

But, why worry? The Cold War is over, and we are facing a New World Order. Former Vice President Dan Quayle said so when he admitted that the government shelter at the Greenbrier was no longer needed. No more need for shelters, no more need for signs.

I would like to have one of those signs to post on my house. My basement has a PF of 20, and I keep bottled water and canned vegetables there. The nuclear threat is over, but are those bombs disarmed yet? If we ever face a nuclear attack, I think I will just stay at home where there's no assembly required.

Editorial

And again, another semester has passed. It seemed to pass quickly, while at the same time it lingered on and on.

Serving as editor of the Mercury for one school year has been a remarkable pleasure. I've seen the campus grow in many aspects, and I know there are many more good things in store for the college.

One of the pleasures of this job has been "getting the scoop" and being able to print it for you, the reader. Walking around campus and seeing the paper being read is, to me, an accomplishment for the staff. The staff tried to report on "all the news that's fit to print" to capture the reader's interest.

The staff took seriously the many suggestions and responses received from the readers. All letters sent to the Mercury were read, and most were even hung on the office walls. Hearing from alumni and just knowing that they read and looked forward to our weekly paper gave us the incentive to work harder on upcoming publications.

And to the staff who had deadlines to meet as well as classes, homework and extracurricular activities, thank you for all your efforts. The lack of just one of you would make the paper almost impossible to print.

And, I cannot leave out my wonderful adviser, Judy Rich. She has been fun to work with, and she's taught me a lot. Without her, many of us would have dozed off during those late-nighters!

Though the paper has had mistakes, I guess those mistakes gave the paper personality. No one is perfect.

Again, thanks for reading our publication, and have a wonderful summer.

Olds and Coffman to Compete in NAIA Nationals

The GSC men's and women's track programs will be well represented at the NAIA National Track and Field Championships at Abbotsford, British Columbia. The meet will be held from May 10 through 22.

Shelley Coffman will represent the women's track program. She recently cleared a height of 5'6" in the high jump, which is the minimum height to qualify for the nationals.

Randall Olds will represent the men's program in the shot put. Olds had to meet a minimum requirement of 52'2". He met that in a meet earlier this season. Olds' best throw ever occurred this past weekend as he threw 53'2".

Congratulations and good luck at the nationals!

Help Makes Job Easier

by Sean Davis

As sports reporter for the Mercury, I spend a lot of time covering as many sports activities at GSC as possible. I've tried to cover everything from sports at the collegiate level to those at the intramural program. Although I covered many events, everything couldn't be printed due to deadlines and limited space for print. My apologies for those things that fell between the cracks.

There is a long list of people I need to thank: Steve Shepherd, Sue Edwards, Rich Rodriguez, Gary Nottingham, Tina Cunningham, Janet James and Mitch Mitchell. I've tried to thank all those who were vital to my efforts in covering GSC sports. If I forgot someone, my apologies to you. With all your help, it made my job much easier.

Clemons and Reale to Receive 1993 Distinguished Pioneer Award

Selected for this year's Distinguished Pioneer Award were Els Roy Clemons and Philip A. Reale. This award is bestowed on those individuals who have distinguished themselves in service to education.

Clemons retired from Glenville State College in February, 1993, after serving the campus for over 39 years as a part of the maintenance staff.

Clemons played an active role in the growth of the GSC campus. From the opening of the north entrance in the 1960s to the construction of the new Art & Music building in 1990 and his retirement this year, Clemons has given Glenville State College his hard work and dedication.

Even though he never stood in front of a classroom of students, he taught many people about the importance and value of an education.

Clemons was not only dedicated to his job but also deeply interested in and dedicated to all of the students who have walked the campus grounds. For this love and dedication, Clemons will receive the Distinguished Pioneer award on May 15 during commencement exercises.

Philip A. Reale is a 1974 graduate of Glenville State College and a graduate of the West Virginia University College of Law. Presently, Reale is a partner in the firm of Robinson &

McElwee, attorneys at law, where he is chairman of the government relations department.

While a student at Glenville State College, Reale was a member of the Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity, the GSC golf team and served as president of Student Congress. He continues to be a leader as chairman of the Higher Education Advocacy Team, a member of the board of directors of the West Virginia State College System, and a member of the board of directors of the Glenville State College Foundation, Inc.

From his continued interest in the quality of education at GSC, Reale will also receive the Distinguished Pioneer Award Saturday.

Dr. William K. Simmons, president of GSC, had this to say about this year's recipients of the Distinguished Pioneer Awards: "Roy Clemons has a great understanding of people and a great ability to work with a wide range of people which he exhibited in his years at Glenville State College. He is also a good citizen of West Virginia."

"Phil Reale, from his days as a student member of the board of regents to his current role on the board of directors of the State College System, has been an advocate of Glenville State College and to the opportunity of the citizens of West Virginia."

Simmons' Summer to be a Mix of Work and Relaxation

by Sharon Gladwell

Although GSC President William Simmons has a slipped disc, that doesn't stop him from tying up the ends of the semester and making plans for the summer.

Simmons lifted a heavy load last Friday, causing a disc in his back to slip. He says he has not been as physically active lately as he usually is, but with rest he'll be OK. He did not receive medical attention and is feeling better.

The president delivered a speech to a group of Parkersburg High School honor students yesterday as a part of their "Tribute to the Talented."

Simmons plans to spend time during the summer with college administrators preparing for the fall term, revising the faculty "Blue Book" (an annual publication) and focusing on next year's budget among other activities.

During his free time, he plans to tend to work and make repairs on his farm. Although he no longer has livestock to tend, he will devote some time to his dog, a blue tick.

Restoring gas engines for grist mills is one of Simmons' hobbies. He recently purchased a 10-horsepower Witte engine for a grist mill which he will operate at the West Virginia State Folk Festival and the Jackson's Mill 4-H camp.

Other plans include visiting antique shows in Virginia and Pennsylvania, building a walnut table and lamp and going trout fishing.

For several years now, Simmons has been working on his family history. So far, he has traced back through seven generations. He plans to further his research by traveling with his wife, Dolores, to Pendleton County and Highland County, Virginia, where his ancestors settled.

Also included in his summer plans is one goal—losing 10 to 15 pounds.

Congratulations 1993 GSC Grad!

Meeting Held To Discuss Freshman Orientation Activities

by Tim Marks

Freshman counselors for the fall semester met on Tuesday, May 11, to discuss and plan activities for freshman orientation for the fall term.

Twenty to 30 counselors are recruited each year by advertising through the Mercury and flyers hung around on campus.

Candidates for the job submit an application and a resume. Students who have shown leadership and involvement on campus are more likely to be selected.

This is the only meeting scheduled until counselors return four days before orientation next fall. The orientation meeting will begin on Sunday and will last until classes begin on Wednesday.

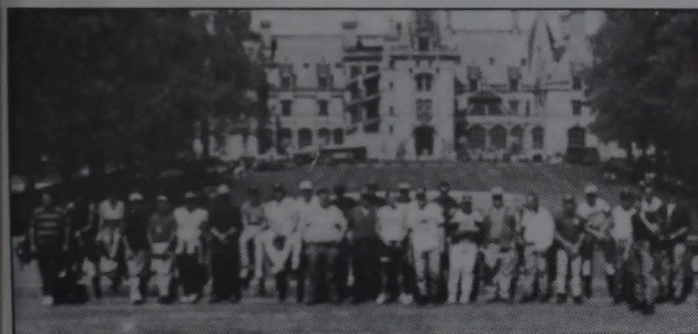

See Jennifer Nottingham for further details.

Student Congress Helps With Payments on Mini Bus

The Glenville State College Foundation, Inc. has agreed to make up the front lease payments for one of the mini buses for Glenville State College.

Various constituencies of the college who utilize the buses will reimburse the Foundation for its payments.

Taking the lead in helping to repay the Foundation was GSC Student Congress. They pre-

Forestry Students Visit Biltmore Estate in N.C.

by Sharon Gladwell

A group of GSC forestry students visited the Biltmore Estate in North Carolina two weekends ago to learn more about the history of forestry.

Ed Grafton, chairperson and associate professor of the division of land resources, accompanied his History of Forestry Education class of students on the four-day camping trip.

There, they were toured the first managed 125,000-acre forestry estate in the United States.

The students observed old plantings such as white pine that have been growing for over 90 years.

They also had the opportunity to tour "The Cradle of Forestry," the site of the first forestry school in the United States, and climbed Mount Pisgah and Mount Mitchell.

Accompanying the 24 students were Don Wildermuth, instructor in forest technology, and Tom Snyder, technician for the forestry division.

GSC Art Professor's Works Accepted in 1993 American Fine Art Exposition

by Tim Marks

George Harper, associate professor of art at GSC, has been accepted by the jury of the "State of the Art '93" art exhibit—the New England Fine Art Institute's national invitational exhibition of American contemporary art.

The prestigious art show is the feature attraction of the 1993 American Fine Art Exposition at greater Boston's Northeast Trade Center and Exhibition Hall.

"State of the Art '93" is open by invitation only to artists of merit from across the United States. Up to $50,000 in awards will be awarded to participating artists.

The show will present all media and styles from traditional realism to abstract and computer art. Entries will be judged solely on their artistic merit within the context of the discipline and media they represent.

The American Fine Arts Exposition is the largest of its kind in the North Eastern United States and is expected to attract up to 40,000 people.

Artists were permitted three submissions to the jury. Of these three submissions, two of Harper's were chosen: acrylics of scenes in downtown Glenville titled "Backyard Facets" and "Rood Facets." Harper has worked in this architectural landscape style for 10 years.

Although this is his first juried show in Boston, Harper has shown work in shows in Charleston, Pittsburgh and New York. In addition to the potential monetary awards, Harper hopes this show will lead to more gallery connections and greater exposure for his work and the college.

Several GSC students visited the Gilmer County Public Schools to promote black awareness in February and to assist teachers in the classroom. The activity was directed by Jennifer Nottingham. Among those who participated are, first row, Eric Contee and Shawn Sanders; second row, Joe Hampton; and, third row, Aaron Mann and Bruce Boldley.

Chesapeake and Potomac (C&P) Telephone Manager of External Affairs Donald J. Molter presents a check for $2,000 to GSC President William K. Simmons and Director of Institutional Services, Ray Oliverio. The money will establish scholarships for students attending GSC in the fall.

Alpha Psi Omega Presents Outstanding Achievements Awards

by David Graham

Another year of GSC theater has come to an end, and Alpha Psi Omega has handed out the awards for the past year's outstanding achievements in the plays.

The theater season was kicked off with the drama "A Streetcar Named Desire." Grayson Samples won the best actor award for his portrayal of Stanley, while Kristi Wheeler received the female best acting award in the role of Blanche. The supporting awards went to David Miller for the role of Mitch and Katharine Burgess as Stella.

"Dracula," the play, about the famous blood-sucking vampire, had a tie for the best actor award between David Miller and David Rich. Lori Crouter's talents brought her the female acting award, and Katharine Burgess collected another supporting award for her role as the insane Renfield.

David Miller won the best acting award for the role of the homosexual physician in "The Heidi Chronicles." Brenda Peyser won the female acting award for her portrayal of the title role. Grayson Samples and Lori Crouter picked up the supporting awards.

The backstage awards were given to Edith Flemming for best stage manager, Mike McKibben and Allen Bearfield for best scenic design and Keith Miller for lighting.

Along with handing out awards, Alpha Psi Omega welcomed Keith Miller, Allen Bearfield, Debbie Starcher, Derek Igo and Jeff Vilcinskis as new members.

Alpha Psi Omega recently gave a performance of "Arabian Nights" to an audience of 3,500 grade school students from surrounding areas. With the money earned from "Arabian Nights," next year, instead of children's theater, Alpha Psi Omega may work on a show geared more for the high school level.

Delta Zeta

The Theta Xi Chapter of Delta Zeta would like to thank everyone who made this semester a successful one for us. We appreciate all the help and support from the TKE fraternity and faculty here at GSC.

The sisters of Delta Zeta hope that everyone had a great semester and did their best on their final exams.

Chi Beta Phi

Chi Beta Phi recently elected new officers for the 1993-94 school year. Officers' names and position are as follows: Craig Craddock, president; Beverly Mowrey, vice president; Cathy Heiney, secretary; Wes Gladwell, treasurer; and Mindy Losch, historian.

During the semester the club held five meetings, a service project and one picnic.

The picnic was held on Sunday, April 25, at the Recreation Center. Those who attended were Cathy Marks, Craig Craddock, Matt and Bev Mowrey, Charles Schmidt, Bob Rowan, Misty Arbathnot, Wes and Sharon Gladwell, Charles Tyres, Mindy Losch, Paul Peck, Michael and Stephanie Caulfield and children and Dr. Mary Jo

Tri-Sigma

The Delta Alpha chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma held a formal meeting on Sunday, May 2, at 5:00 p.m. We discussed end of the semester issues and had a party for our graduating seniors. We hope you liked your gifts.

Tri-Sigma had its spring formal on May 1 from 9 p.m. to 12 a.m. Everyone had a great time. We want to thank two TKEs for helping us, by being DJs at the dance. Thanks Howard and Carl! We also want to thank Wes Gladwell for letting us use his equipment! We really appreciate it!

Our study bunny for this week is Gina Broadwater! Great Job! Over the summer three of

We wish everyone a great and safe summer and hope to see you again in the fall.

To all the sisters of Delta Zeta, we had a great semester, and we had a lot of fun. I wish you all a great summer while we are apart. But, we will always be together through the bond of sisterhood. See ya next semester! Love ya all!

Pribble.

The club had a fundraiser by selling candy bars, making $268.

One service project conducted over the semester was purchasing office door name plates for professors Carolyn Grove and Michael Caulfield.

Cathy Marks is the recipient of the 1992-93 President's Award. She served as Chi Beta Phi president during this school year.

The club would like to express their appreciation for outgoing officers: Cathy Marks, president; Craig Craddock, vice president; Beverly Mowrey, secretary; Debbie Starcher, treasurer; and Lee Ann Carr, historian. They worked hard at fulfilling their duties.

our sisters will be turning a year older, and we want to wish them a Happy Birthday! They are Sandi Jones, Kathy Coger and Vickie Tatterson.

Tri-Sigma wants to wish everyone luck on all their finals. It's been a great year! The next year will be even better!

Any girls interested in Tri-Sigma should watch for posters in the fall explaining formal RUSH! Sigma Sigma Sigma could be meant just for you.

Everyone who can should go to graduation! Your graduating friends would love for you to be there for them! We hope everyone has a great summer, and we'll see you in the fall!

Japan Festival Day
Saturday, May 22, from 10:00 to 5:00 p.m., at the Art Museum in Charleston. Enjoy a day of family fun featuring performances, demonstrations, hands-on art activities and more...all with a Japanese flavor! Visit the "Tales of Japan" exhibition...let your imagination wander to the faraway land of Japan. You'll find pleasant company throughout the day. Join in the festivities and fun!

Spring Semester Closing of Dorms
The residence halls will be closed on Thursday, May 13, at 5:00 p.m. Only those students graduating or participating in Commencement Exercises on Saturday, May 15, are permitted to stay longer. For these students, final closure will be immediately following commencement. Dorms will be open for summer school on Sunday, June 6, at noon and on Sunday, August 22, at 9:00 a.m. for all students moving in for the fall term.

Meeting Held To Discuss Freshman Orientation Activities

by Tim Marks
Freshman counselors for the fall semester met on Tuesday, May 11, to discuss and plan activities for freshman orientation for the fall term.

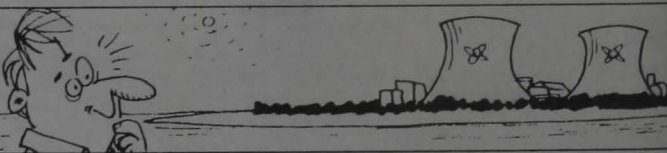

Twenty to 30 counselors are recruited each year by advertising through the Mercury and flyers hung around on campus.

Candidates for the job submit an application and a resume.

Students who have shown leadership and involvement on campus are more likely to be selected.

This is the only meeting scheduled until counselors return four days before orientation next fall. The orientation meeting will begin on Sunday and will last until classes begin on Wednesday.

See Jennifer Nottingham for further details.

Electricity from nuclear energy was generated for the first time in the world at a laboratory near Idaho Falls, Idaho in 1951.
