Charleston Police Chief Speaks on Community Oriented Policing

by Angie Meadows

Chief Dallas Staples of the Charleston Police Department spoke to one hundred GSC faculty, staff, and students October 28 at 10 a.m. in the Ballroom. Staples decided to visit Glenville State College after being approached to do so by Mr. Tom Todd, criminal justice instructor.

Chief Staples has been with the police force for 22 years. He started out as a patrolman and worked his way up to chief of the department. Staples was also the first DARE instructor in Kanawha County. He is currently the head of the program.

Staples' topic was community policing. The police department in Charleston is experimenting with this philosophy, which Staples learned about while visiting New York.

The department was looking for a new program because of budget cuts, loss of officers and problems with the community. To implement the programs, the department had to move away from the old way of thinking: "Police are all things to all people." This way of thinking kept officers tied up doing service jobs and left them no time to do law enforcement.

Community policing involves the community and the police department.

These groups work together to identify the problem, look for a solution and act on their decided strategy.

The first step in organizing the program was to see if the 156 officers of the department all had the same perception of their duties. The result of the survey was that all the officers had different perceptions.

Before the department could start working with the community, it had to have all the officers working toward the same goal. The department adopted a goal and trained officers in implementing it. A large amount of time was spent developing communication skills, so officers could deal with the community.

A second survey was done, which involved the community. The county was broken down into four business areas and each area was asked for its perception of the officers and the service the officers provided. Answers ranged from seeing the officers but not interacting, to not seeing the officers at all.

The department started working on the problems by putting a few officers in these areas and while there, they worked with the community. The two organizations (police and community) worked on finding a solution to one of the major problems in that area. For example, in just three months, automobile break ins dropped 52 percent after the officers and community got involved.

This philosophy teaches communities that crime is not just a police officer's problem—it is a community problem. The community must also learn that other agencies are out there to help. One does not always have to call the police. This helps lower the service calls.

The Charleston department has also put younger officers out walking beats, started giving cultural diversity training, put officers on horses and sent community volunteers to school for eight weeks to learn how to answer non-law enforcement calls. These efforts are made in hopes of bettering police and community relations, and putting the philosophy to work.

Staples stated, "Departments have been following the traditional model of law enforcement for 60 years or more. Full transition to this new philosophy will take close to five or six years." All departments and communities are encouraged to get involved. This philosophy may be the answer to many of today's problems, as our country moves toward community-based corrections.

BCM students from across the state meet in Glenville.

A Commentary on A Wild Night On The Town

by Chris Utt

Where did they come from? What in the world were they doing playing leap frog on Glenville's streets at one o'clock in the morning? Strange things were about Friday, October 29th.

Each semester, Baptist Campus Ministry students from across the state gather at one campus in the north and one in the south. This semester was Glenville's turn to host the northern campuses. Strengthening the bonds between all our members is an important part of what we do, (and sometimes toilet paper is used).

Last Friday there were over 70 BCM students at Glenville from WVU, Fairmont State, Salem-Teikyo, Alderson Braudus, WVU at Parkersburg, Marshall and of course, Glenville. We started the evening with song and fellowship at First Baptist on Main Street. Later, while BCM'ers covered the gym floor of the P.E. building, three Salem-Teikyo students from the former Soviet Union experienced their first Haunted House, compliments of Alpha Psi Omega. About 30 member of BCM toured the Hall of Lost Souls. Alpha Psi did a great job with the set and the make-up.

The highlight of the evening was a video scavenger hunt. The entire crew was split into four groups, one camcorder each, then unleashed upon Glenville. There are countless witnesses on and off campus who saw large groups of young people acting very strange. Special commendations go to Glenville's finest, who resisted our pleading to get just one student behind the wheel of a police cruiser for 400 points. Thanks also goes to Grayson Samples and his roomies for allowing one group to film their bathtub—with the whole group in it! Sounds like an Oscar clip to me! We have one nameless person on tape to sell our version of Betty Ford detoxification: catch them singing "Jesus Loves Me" on tape, show it to them when they're sober and they will never drink again. Seriously, we had the chance to witness to two people how we could be so happy in such a mixed up world. Thank you, Lord.

Oh, I need to explain something to my wife: "I kissed Ella Mae Burge at Go Mart, but it was only for the points. Honest!" Thanks, Ella Mae; I won't let her hurt you.

The police were fed up with our antics by 2 a.m., when a toilet paper mummy was hopping around in front of the bank. So, we moved indoors to watch the tapes and tally points.

The day/night/day was a time of nonstop fellowship. Christians can have fun even as they seek to follow Christ.

For more information on how to get radical for Jesus visit BCM Monday night at 7 p.m. in the Verona Maple Room.

A Guest Review Of Music Fest '93

by Mack Samples

The Music Department put itself on display Thursday, October 28, 1993 for all the world to see. And, you could see them for a very modest cost. They did themselves proud.

Having been around this campus off and on for over 30 years, I have observed that all departments surge and retreat over the course of time, as do athletic teams. But the surge of the current GSC Music Department is certainly unprecedented.

I never thought I would see the Marching Band in Glenville of the magnitude that I saw at this program (10 trombones and 8 tubas). Wow! They certainly rocked the Fine Arts Auditorium. Let me tell you what else I saw.

I saw the best choir that has been in Glenville for many years. It reminded me of the Andrew Zeran choirs back in the sixties. Sixty-five or so good voices (I might have counted wrong) singing difficult music and singing it well. What is more important is that it looked like they were having fun. That's what music is designed for, to enjoy. A salute to Keith Haan.

The Wind Ensemble under the direction of Phil

Rossano was superb. There was evidence of long hours of practice by both the director and the musicians. You do not learn to play the kind of stuff they were playing overnight. And, you have to be a musician to play it. More evidence of good recruiting.

The Brass Ensemble, under the able tutelage of Harry Rich came through with their usual excellent performance. The touch of percussion made their part of the program even more enjoyable.

And, speaking of percussion, how do they keep coming up with the caliber of percussionists that they put on display each year? I keep thinking that they will never replace some of those who have passed on, but they always do.

While the percussion ensemble only teased us with what is to come later in the year, Mr. McKinney let us know that he had the horses to do the job.

If you missed the program, do not despair. Each of the groups will do a separate concert at some point during the year. If I were you, I would certainly make plans to attend the Christmas concert by the choir. Indications are it will be a good one.

Scratching the Surface

by Lisa Hayes

I met a kitten this weekend, out in the chill, Friday night. She was a yellow tabby with a piercing "Meow!" We found her down by the river, far from any house, and she shivered as she crawled around my neck. I'm a "cat person," and she could tell the minute she laid eyes on me. We brought her into the car, out of the cold, and after checking everyone out, she curled up on my coat, on the floor, by the heater.

I couldn't keep her, I have two cats in a household that already had two dogs. The other couple in the car had two big dogs as well. So we lifted her from the warmth by my feet and expelled her into the harsh elements of the night.

Now, it's Monday, and for the past three nights in my dreams I've seen a little yellow tabby kitty shivering in the cold drizzling darkness of the night, and I've heard it calling with a piercing "Meow!"

I went back there today, and the kitty wasn't there. I really didn't reasonably expect to see her among the trash and rubble, maybe someone else took her home. If I had seen her though, I would have placed her inside my coat and taken her home. I wish I would have done it Friday night. I hope someone else found her, and I hope the person who left her there in the first place feels as miserable as I do.

I didn't ask for the two cats I have now. One was abused and one was deserted. Now they're a big part of my life. One is spayed, the other is neutered. Are yours?

Where Does Your Activity Fee Go?

by Rick Conklin

Every semester when we pay our bill for attending college here at GSC, we pay an activity fee. Most of us are clueless as to what this fee provides us and why we must pay it.

There are a variety of activities and services this fee is allocated to, which will be discussed later. We must first look at the reason we must pay such a fee.

According to GSC Business Manager Robert Hardman this is because, "This fee is set out in state legislation." Specifically, though, the fee is designed to help pay for extra-curricular activities.

Before this year the activity fee was only charged to those students taking seven or more credit hours. Now, with the passage of Senate Bill 377, Hardman said, "The legislature now has mandated that the activity fee be pro-rated down on a per hour basis."

What this means is any student taking three hours must pay one quarter of the fee and anyone taking six hours will pay half.

Before the passage of this bill, a student taking nine hours would have to pay 100% of the fee. Now, that student is required to pay only 75% of the fee, and anyone with 12 hours or more will pay the full percentage of the fee; $196.00.

The percentage of this fee allocated to certain activities and services is decided upon by Student Congress. This percentage of allocation must first be approved by the GSC Board of Advisors and the Board of Directors of the State College System of West Virginia. The allocations of the activity fee for this year are indicated on the accompanying chart.

The total collected monies for these services and activities are used for such things as helping finance the symphony, comedians, putting the marching band on the field and helping the production of plays. They also help with the operation of Student Congress, intramurals, yearbook and The Mercury.

The I.D. cards we receive are used for many things, including student identification for a basic office call at the Gilmer County Health Clinic.

The Athletic fee allows us to attend any GSC home event at no charge, and gives financing for the athletic teams. The Student Union fee helps with the maintenance and upkeep of the Heflin Center.

By law, state funds cannot be allocated for such purposes, so student fees must finance these.

So, the next time you see a sign on one of the many bulletin boards around campus promoting a play, a musical performance, athletic event or even right now as you read this paper, remember, you're helping to pay for all of it. Get your money's worth.

Visit the Careers Office Today

by Melissa Riggelman

Have you ever been to the Careers Office in the Heflin Student Center? Do you know what this office can offer? There are few students on campus that know how much the Careers Office can help them.

Students make appointments, or just go to the Careers Office to see what it offers. The director is Brenda Peyser, who for ten years worked as a human resource consultant for many different companies. As a consultant her job was to advise companies on what positions they needed. This helped her learn information on industries, which Peyser says, "will be very helpful to students."

The Careers Office has programs which offer a variety of activities to help students with their plans. The office has a career library with videotapes on interviewing, books and pamphlets on resumes, cover letters, and undergraduate and graduate school catalogs. Plus, the library has job listings, internships, and career magazines. Students are welcome at any time to come in and view the library. You may check out books, watch videos, or even talk to Peyser. This is a very good program of which students should take advantage.

Peyser also works with students in career counseling. She helps them to discover what they want to do, from majors to after-graduation plans. A goal she has, "is to get students the skills they need to find jobs themselves rather than us finding jobs for them." When college students graduate, they will have to find jobs by themselves and they need to learn these skills early.

As of now, Peyser is working on using a new computer program entitled SigiPlus. In this program students list values, interests, and abilities. The computer will give suggestions, stemming from these answers, concerning what jobs would be appropriate for that student. Freshmen and Sophomores are strongly urged to use this program.

The Careers Office also organizes trips to Job Fairs all around the state. They bus students to the fairs, which are under a state wide program entitled Operation Native Talent. Employers come to these fairs and set up tables with information concerning their companies. Condition screening interviews are given to interview students. These last from 5-15 minutes; employers examine student resumes, ask questions, etc. They may not have job openings at this time, but it gives the employer your resume to put on file for future reference.

The next job fair will be February 26 at Marshall University. All interested students may sign up in the Careers Office at any time.

As stated in an informative handout on the Careers Office, "The office also offers workshops on resume preparation, confidence building, business etiquette and interviewing techniques." For seniors in the beginning of your graduating semester, they will make a file for you. This file will include your resume, letters of recommendation and academic records. The office will also forward your credentials to employers or graduate schools upon your written request.

The Careers Office has a newsletter entitled Career News, which is

published and distributed around campus. It is also sent to graduates of Glenville State College. This paper lists announcements, job listings, and more.

Peyser has many goals for her programs. She wants to get more students involved in the Careers Office and to develop new programs, and create formal internships for students in their field. One special contribution they strive to offer is serving as a liaison between faculty, administration, and students.

Peyser stated, "We have plenty of services that are free to the students. We want to help, but we can't unless the students come to us." Please stop by any time or call 462-4118 to set up an appointment and discover what the Careers Office has to offer.

GSC Week Logo Contest

Designs for the 1994 GSC Week logo will be accepted beginning Monday, November 1, 1993. The person submitting the chosen logo will receive $25.00. ## Activities and Programming Representatives Needed

NOTICE TO ALL FACULTY ADVISORS OF STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS: In an effort to improve activities and programming on and off campus, every student group is being asked to elect or appoint one member to be their Activities and Programming Representative.

The only duty this person will have is to attend the 8:30pm, Sunday, Activities and Programming meetings in the Scott Wing Weight Room/Lounge.

This person will act as a liaison between Activities and Programming and his/her respective student group. The meetings usually last 20 to 30 minutes.

Contact Sean McAndrews, Activities Director, at ext. 113/269.

Butler to Attend NAEYC Conference

by Lisa Hayes

Dr. Kathy Butler, an assistant professor of education, will be traveling to California to represent Glenville State College at the National Association for the Education of Young Children Annual Conference. This year the conference will be held in Anaheim, and Butler will fly out of Charleston, November 9 and return the 19th.

The conference includes four days of intensive sessions on subjects such as childcare, curriculum, educational reform, political policy and manipulatives. Butler was especially interested in this conference because of a session offered on emergent literacy. This session, which deals with ways children learn to read and write, is an affinity for Butler since it is also the topic of her doctoral dissertation. She has already completed two research projects on emergent literacy and is, "very excited" since this conference, "gives a broader view."

During the conference Butler will also be attending the nation's first Lab School. This program provides care and education for college student's children, regardless of age.

Although our campus doesn't have the space to provide this service, Butler feels that she can personally benefit from this session as well.

Butler, never dreaming of approval, submitted her request to attend this conference to the Professional Development Committee of Glenville State College. To her pleasure and surprise, her trip was not only approved, but two-thirds of the cost was paid by the Professional Development Fund. The remaining portion of the cost will be covered by funding from the Education Department.

Since Anaheim is only two miles from Disneyland, it is unfortunate that Butler's husband and three children can't join her. When asked if her trip would allow time to visit Disneyland, Butler quickly replied, "I'm going to make time!"

To her knowledge, Butler is the only instructor from higher education in West Virginia attending the national conference. She is thankful for the opportunity and says, "It's a very good place to network and tap into a lot of information very quickly." She will be one of several thousand people to attend.

Student Spotlight

by April Ludle

Valerie Robinson is a student who doesn't stop. Robinson is a senior, majoring in Behavioral Science, with a Criminal Justice minor. She will be graduating in December and plans to work with neglected or abused children.

When Robinson started at Glenville, she was a Nursing major. She had to take Psychology and Sociology and enjoyed them so much, she switched over to Behavioral Science.

While tackling school, she also works at Mountaineer Mart. Robinson is the manager and has worked there for four years. She became manager in May. Robinson stresses, "It's hard to work and go to school at the same time. It's also hard trying to keep my grades up."

Robinson's husband is Michael Robinson. They have been married for two years. They are expecting their first child in March.

Valerie Robinson

Mr. Robinson is a West Virginia state police officer and was recently transferred to Logan. Mrs. Robinson is very excited about this transfer, "I was born and raised in Logan County. It will be nice to go home to my family, especially now that I'm expecting my first child. It is important to me that my children are raised around family and loved ones."

Some of Robinson's hobbies are gymnastics and cheerleading. Robinson started cheerleading when she was five. She cheered in high school and at GSC from 89 to 93. The Robinsons also breed Siberian Huskies.

Great men are they who see that spiritual is stronger than material force, that thoughts rule the world.

Eugenia Price Gives Senior Recital

by April Ludle

Sunday October 31, 1993, Eugenia Price presented her senior recital. Price performed selections by A. Tcherpnin, Vivaldi, F. Geminiani, K. Stamita, G. Jacob and H. Filmore on trombone. She was accompanied on piano by Mr. John Mark Walkup. Also, Tim Price, tuba and Ben Price, trombone, joined in on two songs.

A student of Harry Rich, Price is a member of the GSC Marching Band, Concert Band, Concert Choir and Brass Ensemble.

Price was very excited about the performance. She commented, "The recital went better than what I expected. I was really excited to know, 'Duet' by K. Stamita, was the first husband-wife duet there at GSC." Also, "I'm just glad to have it over with."

Price is a 1990 graduate of Independence High School, Raleigh County. She will be graduating from GSC in May with a degree in Music Education K-12.

Wesley Foundation

by Marvin Prevost

There are so many times in our lives that we, as human beings, have to make decisions. Some of our decisions are not the correct ones, and we wish we could go back in time and change what we did wrong. These decisions consist of following our peers, substance abuse and financial matters. Sometimes we feel that we don't want to do what our peers are doing, but we don't want to be left out. We don't want to be rejected. We want to be loved by someone, and sometimes we will accept anyone who just looks our way. We have so many struggles in this life and so many heartaches. Sometimes we don't know which way to turn. We sit in our rooms alone and wish that our surroundings and our involvement in life could get better.

On the other hand, we make very good decisions such as going to college, getting married and having children, by going on bike rides when the leaves are changing in Autumn.

Baptist Campus Ministry

Hello, from BCM! This week at BCM, Bob Anderson, pastor of Trinity United Methodist of Glenville, spoke about how the scriptures were brought together to become the Bible. He will continue this discussion next week.

This past weekend GSC's BCM hosted a lock-in for Northern Regional Campus BCM's at the First Baptist Church of Glenville. Activities included devotions, singing, video scavenger hunt, swimming, playing volleyball in the gym, and much more. See story on page one.

Bible Study is held every Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Wesley Foundation. BCM is on Mondays at 7 p.m. in the Verona Maple Room--bring a friend and come join us!

Delta Zeta Sorority

by Angie Meadows

The Theta Xi chapter of Delta Zeta sorority held an informal meeting Sunday, October 28. We discussed upcoming events and talked about the success of the raffle. Katherine Burgess was the winner of the $50 gift certificate to Foodland. Congratulations goes to her and thanks to all who purchased a ticket.

The Heart sis ceremony is set for November 11 at 8:30 p.m. Just think, girls, only one more week. We hope you're excited, because you will never guess who your heart sis is.

Orders are being taken for sub sandwiches the week of November 2. The delivery date is November

There are so many wonderful experiences that you are going to face in this life. There are friends to whom you can talk, and animals with which you can see and play. Depression is just a word, and that word doesn't have to apply to your life. Jesus loves you and any situation that you may face can be overcome if that situation is bad. Make the right decision and ask Jesus into your life.

If you're confused about what faith you should live, ask Jesus to make himself known to you. What can it hurt?

Things to remember! OXFAM is coming up November 18. We will fast for lunch and whatever money you would have used for lunch, donate it to OXFAM. It's a worldwide hunger relief center. Remember chapel, Tuesday at 12:45 p.m. and lunch at noon. Movies will be shown on Thursday night in the Chapel. Bible Study is held in conjunction with BCM and Wesley Foundation. Everyone is welcome. It's very informal!

Congratulations to the new members on making such good grades on their tests. Keep up the good work.

New members, when planning the active's party remember we love you. Please be kind!

Good luck Pioneers on your game against WV Tech. Congratulations on your win against Concord.

Kari and Kacie we hope you both feel better really soon. Remember we're always thinking about you and are here if you need us.

Tau Kappa Epsilon

The Iota Omega chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon would like to congratulate its new members. They are: Eric Goddard, Brian Wolfe, Ed Jones, Tom Anderson, Guy Ingle, Randy Stover, Tracy Dobbins, Dave Taylor, Jeremy Griffet, Jeremy Rodrigues and Travis Drennen. Welcome into the brotherhood; you are now a TKE for life!

During our last regular meeting, a house committee was established. This committee will be looking into national guidelines and feasibility of buying a house for the use of the fraternity. Also, several fund raisers were discussed for the upcoming month. Ideas are still incomplete.

Our next regular meeting will be Monday, November 8 at 8 p.m. Be there!

Campus Entertainment Enthusiasts —

by Ron Frye

Students, faculty, and administration of GSC, greetings from the CEE! Members of the CEE: congratulations. As of the 29th of October we are an officially recognized campus organization. We made it folks!

We would like to thank several people for their special help and support. Our thanks go out to Vicki Tatterson, Melissa Riggleman, Laura Starcher, and the entire Tri-Sigma sorority for their helpful advice; Brian Wolf, Jeremy Griffith, and the TKE fraternity for their constant support and suggestions; Dean Billips, Sean McAndrews, Kermit Moore, and Student Congress for their patience and understanding (not to mention approving our petition!); and finally Linda Gowers, for telling us to shut up, get our butts in gear, and just do it!

The Delta Alpha chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma held its formal meeting Sunday, October 24, at 6 p.m. The final plans for our Rush Party and dance were discussed and we set a date for a retreat to Elkins in November. Plus, we finalized the dates for our trip to Walton House in the spring.

Our rush party last Monday was a great success. The "Murder Mystery" was terrific! No one had any idea what happened. It was like stepping into a clue game. The bobbing for apples was awesome. Our rushees even got into the act. How did it feel getting dunked, Amy?

The members of Tri-Sigma want to thank all of the girls for attending our Halloween rush party. They were: Kris Radcliff, Melinda Yeager, Melody Wagoner, Lisa Starcher and Amy McBrayer. We were really glad to see each of you there!

Our next rush party will be November 4, 8 p.m. in Pickens Hall on the fifth floor. We will be watching some great movies; join us!

Things to remember for the next couple of weeks are: Panhellenic meeting November 4 at 12:30 p.m. and our Sunday meeting at 6 p.m. Then Delta Alpha will be leaving for our retreat November 12-14. Make plans to go. It is a great time! Everyone have a great week! Go Sigma!!

Pioneers Roll Over Concord, 27-7

by Sean Davis

On Saturday, Coach Rich Rodriguez recorded his first win over Concord College since becoming the Pioneer Head Coach.

The Pioneers dominated both sides of the ball, beating the Mountain Lions from Concord by a final score of 27-7.

Leading the way was wide receiver Chris George, who caught 10 passes for 213 yards and hauled in two touchdown passes on 48 and 30 yard receptions. In his first nine games of the 1993 season, George has caught 104 passes for over 1,700 yards.

Pioneer Quarterback Jed Drenning continued his steady play, as he completed two touchdown passes and 22 of 41 passes for 298 yards. He also added a five yard touchdown run. Running back Shane Haddox picked up 84 yards rushing on 16 carries, and scored a touchdown on a four yard run.

The defense for the Pioneers held the Concord offense to just 157 yards of total offense. The Concord offense, a rushing-oriented offense, was held to just 119 yards on 47 carries. The passing game was shut-down as they only had 38 yards passing.

Walter Wilbon, #88, jumps for the reception.

Linebacker Shane Beatty was busy Saturday, recording 15 tackles. Rodney Fox added nine tackles, while Todd Graham had four tackles and a quarterback sack.

The game, played in a steady rain, didn't hamper the Pioneer offense, as they rolled up 433 yards of total yardage.

The Pioneers are in sole position for first place in the WVIAC, with a record of 5-1. Tied with the Pioneers coming into Saturday's game were Concord and WV Wesleyan, at 4-1. Both Concord and WV Wesleyan lost.

WV Wesleyan lost to West Liberty in overtime 19-16. So Concord & WV Wesleyan records fall to 4-2 in conference play.

The Pioneers could clinch the Conference Title, Saturday, as they travel to Montgomery, WV to take on WV Tech for a 1 p.m. kickoff.

GSC Golf Team Ranks Second in the Nation

by Sean Davis

The GSC Golf Team, who finished second in the NAIA National Tournament last June, have been picked as one of the best teams in the country.

The only rankings to be held for the fall golf season came out recently and placed the GSC squad second in the NAIA rankings. The only team picked ahead of GSC was Huntington College of Alabama. Coach Tim Carney noted, "This is a great honor for the team."

The golf team will play their final tournament of the year at the Francis-Marion Tournament to be held November 13 and 14 in South Carolina.

Lady Spikers Fall to 10-17 on the Year

by Sean Davis

The GSC Women's Volleyball team is winding its season to a close as they prepare for the WVIAC tournament to be held November 11-13 at Wheeling Jesuit College. The women's squad struggled last week losing all three matches they took part in.

The first match, held last week was at West Liberty and they lost in three straight games by scores of 7-15, 4-15, and 12-15. Hitter Nikki Hardman ended the match with seven kills and eight blocks. Setter Patsy Buckles finished with 15 assists and Kim Sees added ten digs.

On Thursday, the Lady Pioneers hosted Wheeling Jesuit College and played hard, but came up short in a four game match, losing by scores of 3-15, 6-15, 15-3, and 0-15. Hitters Tracey Fluharty and Hardman each had six kills, while Buckles ended up with 22 assists.

On Saturday, the women's squad played host to Concord College and played well, but fell short in a five game match by scores of 15-13, 9-15, 15-8, 1-15, and 11-15. Big performances were turned in by Buckles, who finished with 43 assists, 19 digs, and three kills in the match. Hardman ended with 20 kills and 13 blocks in the five game match. Fluharty recorded 15 kills, while Kim Sees finished the match with 18 digs.

Head Coach Kenny Osborne commented on the loss to Concord College, "It was a tough match for us to lose, as they have played better and worked very hard even though we lost the match."

The Lady Pioneers are off this week and will play Fairmont State College next week for their final match of the regular season. They will fine tune their game in preparation of the WVIAC Conference Tournament.

The women's record now stands at 10-17 while holding a 2-7 mark in the WVIAC.

The Alumni House, quietly nestled across from the Wesley Foundation.

The Alumni House--A Hidden Treasure

by Craig Mills

Outside, weed eaters snarl up and down the hill. People shuffle to and from class, and commuters hopelessly search for a place to park. But, inside, it's calm. The atmosphere is friendly; the furniture, Victorian. Welcome to the GSC Alumni House.

The Alumni House is located at 213 North Court Street (that means the big house across from the Wesley Foundation). It was built in 1910 for a mere $5,000, for the family of John Arbuckle. More recently the house was owned by a gentleman named Bob Reed, who, curiously, never lived in the house, but did manage to strip and refinish the oak interior. In 1985 the house was purchased by the GSC Alumni Association for $80,000.

Inside, the house looks old; not gloomy, cobwebby old, but authentic, museum-like old. There are parlors on both sides of the entrance. Both are decorated and furnished in turn-of-the-century Victorian style. The setting is convincing. It wouldn't have been surprising to see Charles Dickens sitting on the couch, enjoying some afternoon tea.

On the second floor there are two functional bedrooms. These are occasionally used by guest speakers, performers, or even parents of prospective students. A third bedroom has been converted into an office which is occupied by Raymond Oliverio, executive vice president of the GSC Foundation.

The third floor is mostly bare (it will later be re-decorated). The tower of the third floor offers a beautiful view of the GSC Campus.

Back downstairs is the Alumni Office. There, among two desks, computers, and a shelf full of Bell Atlantic telephone books, is Thelma Samples.

Thelma Samples is the director of the Alumni Association. While a radio plays softly in the background, she explains the goals of the association: "Our main purpose is to serve as a liaison between the alumni and the college. We do this by correspondence and the Alumni News."

The News is a small but thorough publication which announces various campus activities and sports schedules, it keeps the alumni informed of each other by listing alumni accomplishments, marriages, and other news. According to Samples, the association keeps track of approximately 10,000 GSC alumni.

The association sponsors reunions (at Homecoming, members of the 1973 NAIA champion football team were honored.) They also present the Outstanding Student and Outstanding Faculty Awards each year at graduation.

Among the pamphlets and small wooden replicas of the Alumni House, Clark Hall and the Administration Building, which sell for $10 a piece (or all three for $25), two student assistants work. They are Amy Grogg and Martha Bunch. Amy says, "It's not a typical office setting--it's actually very relaxing."

And the best thing about this big house with the warm, friendly atmosphere and the elegant antique furniture is that it is for everyone. (Not just esteemed alumni and hot-shot reporters).

Students are especially encouraged to visit and tour the house (open 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Mon.-Fri.). "I tell students," Samples confides, "they should visit. Because when they graduate, this house will be theirs."

Annual WVASPA Conference Held

by Kandi Smarr

October 17, 11 Glenville State College students and four staff members headed to Martinsburg, WV, for the annual WVASPA Conference. Those attending included: Dr. Al Billips, Belinda Roach, Jerry Burkhammer, Sean McAndrews, Angie Meadows, Holly Wilkewitz, Kelly Remish, Kathy Copen, Justin Rowan, Kermit Moore, Jackie Carter, Jason Hombeck, Heather Messenger, Kandi Smarr, and Brian Kesling.

WVASPA, which stands for West Virginia Association of Student Personnel Administrators, is a conference which brings both state and private colleges together to discuss the many problems that face their campuses.

Jennifer Nottingham, President of WVASPA, stated, "Even though there are no common solutions to solving these problems, discussing them brings them one step closer."

Seventeen schools from all over the state, were represented at this year's conference. Nottingham credited the great numbers to this year's conference being moved from Cannan Valley, where it had been held for the past four years, to a different area within the state, making the conference more accessible to different colleges.

Shepherd was this year's host. Next year the conference will be held in Wheeling at Oglebey Park, October 23-25. Any student interested in attending the conference should contact Jennifer Nottingham in the Student Services Office. Nottingham also stated, "I was very pleased with the cooperation of the Glenville State College students." She would like to thank them all.

Presentation Given at GSC for National Breast Cancer Awareness Month

by Kandy Smarr

October 25, Jennifer Nottingham director of Student Life, conducted a program on Breast Cancer and how there can be a cure if detected early.

Breast cancer has no discriminations; you can face it no matter your age, race, or style of life. As of 1988 breast cancer was the second highest-killer in women. In fact, breast cancer can affect one out of ten women. However, with early detection the survival rate is greatly increased.

Ten to 15 percent of all women find lumps within their breast with regularly self breast exams. While over 90 percent of lumps are benign, it is important they be diagnosed early.

A mammogram is considered the best weapon in fighting cancer, as it can often detect the smallest lump that may not be felt by women or their doctors. Breast cancer is most curable when found early.

Women ages 40 to 49 are urged to have mammograms once every two years, while women 50 and over should have one scheduled per year.

Nottingham also showed two movies on the subject, both based on the options women today now have with breast cancer.

One video featured Mrs. Gerald Ford and her daughter, who have become major educators on breast cancer. Ford was diagnosed in 1974 and has since educated millions.

If any woman should have questions on breast cancer or how to perform your own self breast exam, contact your nearest cancer society or your family doctor.

When there are good habits in a country, the business of the state dwindles.

Time For A Reality Check--A Test

by David Graham

"We've got this--what is it, Buffcoat and Beaver, or Beaver and something else they had-I haven't seen it, I don't watch it, but whatever it is, it was at 7 p.m...[MTV] puts it on now at 10:30 I think. They've pleaded guilty, and they'll do it as long as you and I have hearings."-- Sen. Ernest F. Hollings (D-S.C.)

Three people lost their lives while trying to act out a scene from the movie "The Program." Reports indicate that masses of teens are turning to violence and drugs.

Two cartoon characters are terrifying parents and law abiding citizens alike. What are we to do?

Obviously a reason for this lies in the fact that movies and TV are so "real." It is harder to make the distinction now in the 90's than it was in the 50's, for one simple reason--the change from black and white to color TV. Anytime after that I have no excuse.

Maybe today's movies and TV shows are produced and acted so much more believably, that it makes it harder to make the distinction between playland and reality.

In order to find out a way to help me make the difference between make-believe and real life, I went to the lady who is leading the fight against violence in TV, Janet Reno.

I met her down at the Derrick for lunch and this is what she gave me. What follows is a self-administered quiz that immediately tells you if you have a problem with reality.

Instructions: Honestly mark the multiple choice answer you think best answers the question or completes the statement. After completing the test, check your answer with the answer key. Tally the points and compare the total points against the score card.

Score Card

(1-17) If you scored in this area you're in bad shape. I suggest you seek immediate attention via reading at least two papers a day and watching both local and national news (However you should avoid Dan Rather. He won't help your condition).

This may be painful, but you need to accept these facts: there is no Santa Claus and we do not live in a perfect world. SO WAKE UP!

(18-34) If you scored in this area you are walking the fence and you need to come down all the way to the reality side.

You have a loose grasp on reality, but you need to tighten your grip. I suggest watching something rude and obscene to knock you over the edge.

(35-50) Congratulations! You know that life is not an MGM movie and you can't just click your ruby slippers and go home.

Please, for the sake of others less fortunate, make it a quest of yours to help bring others into the world of reality.

This "Reality-Check" is for entertainment purposes ONLY.

Shakespeare Company Coming to Glenville State

by David Graham

Shakespeare's powerful drama "The Tempest" is to be performed by the National Shakespeare Company. In "The Tempest," Shakespeare shows us the wide range of emotions a human can have.

He presents us with a world of harmony underscored by a world full of unnatural acts where brother fights brother.

The play will be performed Tuesday, November 9 at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Auditorium. The cost is $2 for GSC students and high school students and $5 for adults.

The grant money for this performance was presented by the West Virginia Arts and Humanities and the Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation.

TEST

- After watching the movie "The Program" what did you want to do next?
  - Lie in the middle of the road.
  - Get your money back.
  - Did not see the movie, but still would not lie in the middle of the road regardless.
- After watching an episode of Beavis and Butthead, which of the following would you be most likely to do?
  - Watch ten hours of PBS to cleanse yourself.
  - Watch another episode.
  - Think it's funny but deep down inside hope that it is not an accurate depiction of today's youth.
- Is Elmer Fudd a real person?
  - Yes.
  - No.
  - Don't care.
- Do you think Michael Jackson is guilty?
  - No.
  - Yes.
  - Don't care.
- Finish this statement: "Discount department stores are--"
  - full of junk."
  - full of bargains."
  - Never been in one."
- The "Rolling Stone" with the picture of Janet Jackson on the cover was...
  - Distasteful.
  - A fine work of art.
  - Haven't seen it.
- Complete this statement: "Billy Ray Cyrus is--"
  - a heart throb."
  - a no talent one hit artist."
  - the next president of the United States."
- The short-lived TV show "Cop Rock" was which of the following?
  - misunderstood because it was ahead of its time.
  - Stupid
  - Never saw the show before.
- Michael Jordan retired from professional basketball for what reason?
  - He spent too much time in a casino.
  - He knew he would never amount to anything in the world of professional basketball.
  - He wanted to spend more time with his family.
- Brenda and Dylan are going to get back together.
  - True.
  - Untrue.
  - Could care less.

Music Fest '93 A Smashing Success

by April Ludle

As the music poured out, so did the excitement. The crowd at the Music Fest '93 was tremendous, and the show was out of this world.

The Chamber Choir performed first, and the Concert Choir performed second. Chamber Choir performed: "If Love Be Blind", "Hosanna in Excelsis", and "Keep Your Lamps". Concert Choir performed: "Shenandoah", "Salvation is Created" and "Christmas Cantata Movement III".

While being mesmerized by the Chamber Choir, no one noticed when the Concert Choir came walking down the aisles. The chills were so great when they were heard joining in with the Chamber Choir. Both choirs were magnificent, and their performance sure to be remembered.

Third on the program was the Woodwind Ensemble, followed by the Brass Ensemble. Woodwind Ensemble performed: "Pride Heritage", "Sarabande" and "Chessboard Suite for Double Brass Choir".

It was surprising to see such large groups. But when they played, the melodious sound brought smiles to the faces of the listeners.

The last group to perform before intermission was the Jazz Band. They performed "In The Mood" featuring Chuck Satterfield (trumpet), Anne Smith and Heather Davis (saxophones). Tribute to Miles Davis' featuring Keith Jean (trumpet), Ben Price (trombone), Gary Allen (keyboard), Tommy Chappell (trapset), and Bo McMillion (guitar).

There is no doubt about it, jazz is what they do. While listening to them, one just couldn't help but tap a foot.

After intermission, the Percussion Ensemble performed. They performed a Huey Lewis song to start off their part of the show. And to end their upbeat show, they closed with "Johnny's Mambo". Like so many times before, it was a real crowd pleaser.

Ending the evening's performance was the Marching Band. The songs performed were: "Country Roads", "Fire Bird", "Bottle Dance", "Saber Dance" and "New World Symphony".

As they played the sound just roared throughout the auditorium. What a way to bring the house down!

Music Fest '93 was a blowout by far. It will be a night never forgotten. The Music Department did an excellent job and their efforts should be commended. Thank you for a wonderful evening of great music.

Fellowship Money Available For Graduate Study

Students considering the continuation of their educational careers should look to the Department of Energy. Thousands of dollars are available for students interested in pursuing master's or doctoral degrees in such areas as fusion energy, applied health physics, radioactive waste management, and industrial hygiene.

Graduate fellowship programs sponsored by the U.S. Department of Energy and administration by the Oak Ridge Institute for Science and Education provide full payment of tuition and fees, monthly stipends, and the opportunity to gain practical experience at a DOE laboratory.

All programs require the submission of a fellowship application and completion of the Graduate Records Examination. Students must have received their undergraduate degrees in a science or engineering discipline by August 1994.

Selection is based on academic performance, recommendations, and a statement of career goals by the applicant.

Fellowship applications are being taken through Jan. 31, 1994, and awards will be announced in May 1994. For additional information, contact Sandra Johnson or Marcia DeMarcus, ORISE Fellowship Programs, Oak Ridge Institute for Science and Education, Science/Engineering Education Division, P.O. ## WANTED: Kids Who Were Christmas Seals Artists in the 1970's

American Lung Association of West Virginia Searches For Designers and Collectors in the Mountain State

In conjunction with its 1993 Christmas Seal Campaign, the American Lung Association of West Virginia is looking for state residents who had a hand in designing Christmas Seals more than 15 years ago.

According to Ginny Painter, director of communications for the American Lung Association of West Virginia, the Lung Association conducted a nationwide search to find children's art work done to grace the 1975 Christmas Seals. Now, the state affiliate of the American Lung Association is looking for West Virginia "artists" who entered the contest and made it through the final judging.

Unfortunately, Painter said, the names of the five state winners have been lost. All that remains in the archives of the American Lung Association of West Virginia are the sheets of seals showing the winning drawings.

"We thought it would be fun to try and find the winners for a kind of 'where are you now' story," she said. "We hope some proud parents will remember their children winning and will get in touch with us."

Anyone with information about West Virginia Christmas Seal artists or Christmas Seal Collectors can call Painter at 1-800-LUNG-USA.

New Zealand Brown Rice Salad

- 1 cup brown rice
- 2 New Zealand kiwifruit
- 1 New Zealand Braeburn or Fuji apple
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced celery
- 1/2 cup red pepper strips
- 1/4 cup toasted walnut pieces
- 1/4 cup thinly sliced green onions
- 2 Tablespoons chopped parsley
- 3 Tablespoons sherry vinegar
- 1 Tablespoon olive oil

Cook rice in water according to package directions. Drain and cool. Peel kiwifruit and cut into 1/4-inch thick slices. Cut slices in half to form half circles. Core and dice apple into 1/2-inch cubes. Toss together rice, kiwifruit, apple, celery, red pepper strips, walnuts, green onions and parsley in salad bowl. Mix together vinegar and oil; drizzle over salad. Toss to mix well. Cover and refrigerate 1-2 hours, to allow flavors to blend, before serving. Makes 6 servings.
